VETERAN CLUB REUNION.
Held Last Saturday in Conjunction With Williams Family Picnic.

For forty-five consecutive years the members of the Centre county Veteran club have met in annual reunion and although their ranks are growing very thin and the grim reaper is taking heavier toll year after year it is a custom that will likely be continued as long as there are enough of the warriors of '61-'65 left to get together, and this year's gathering was held last Saturday in conjunction with the Williams family reunion in John Q. Miles' grove near Martha. The day was ideal for an outdoor gathering and the result was an unusually large crowd, drawn there by the double attraction of the veterans and the Williams clan. Our Girls band of Milesburg was on the ground early and were quite liberal with their music throughout the day.

At eleven o'clock Hon. John Hamilton, president of the Veteran club, called the veterans to order and Rev. Charles Carroll led in prayer. Miss Ethel Dale and Miss Deborah Lyon gave very appropriate recitations after which Rev. George Elmer Smith made the address of welcome, extending the liberty of the grounds to the old soldiers and telling them that all they could see was theirs for the day—and if they wanted anything they couldn't see they were to ask for it.

President Hamilton appointed S. B. Miller chairman of the committee on the selection of officers for the ensuing year, T. S. Snyder, chairman of the committee on place of meeting in 1920, and George M. Boal, Clement Dale and W. H. Fry a committee on resolutions. Adjournment was then made for dinner and true to his promise comrade John Q. Miles assembled all the old veterans around his festive board and gave them a picnic dinner of chicken and all the good things usually served at such gatherings throughout Bald Eagle valley.

When everybody had eaten their fill president Hamilton again called the crowd to order and the minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. The mortality roll showed that fifteen members had passed away during the year and a roll call showed sixteen present at the reunion, as follows:

- John Q. Miles, Co. I, 84th P. V.
- John Hamilton, Sergt. Maj., 1st Pa. Cav.
- S. Bathurst, Co. F, 148th P. V.
- William Eckley, Co. D, 45th P. V.
- James McClintock, Co. I, 21st P. V.
- L. H. Osman, Co. G, 148th P. V.
- J. I. Yarnell, Co. D, 45th P. V.
- W. E. Tate, Co. J, 136th P. V.
- George M. Boal, Co. D, 148th P. V.
- D. B. British, Co. G, 148th P. V.
- J. R. Fox, Co. E, 7th Pa. Cav.
- T. A. Snyder, Co. D, 1st Pa. Cav.
- W. H. Bartholomew, Co. F, 2nd Pa. Cav.
- Isiah Beck, Co. C, 22nd Pa. Cav.
- C. H. Marts, Co. C, 21st Pa. Cav.
- W. H. Fry, Co. E, 45th P. V.

A few other veterans were on the ground but failed to register. The oldest one present was 86 and the youngest 73, while the average of the sixteen was 79 years.

The committee on place of meeting next year reported in favor of Grange park, Centre Hall, the date to be fixed later.

The committee on officers reported as follows, all of whom were elected:
President—John Hamilton.

Communities desiring farmers' institute meetings during the coming winter are requested to kindly notify the chairman of county farmers' institutes, Mr. C. L. Goodling, State College, Pa., on or before September 4th, at which time the county farm bureau agent, representatives of agricultural organizations and the county chairman of institutes will decide where institutes will be held this winter.

Owing to the increased cost of operating institutes, Secretary of Agriculture Rasmussen has found it necessary to reduce the number of days on which institutes will be held in the various counties. In order to accommodate as many communities as possible, institutes this winter will be held only one day instead of two. In this way it is thought that better speakers can be secured and possibly more interest aroused in the meetings.

Big Reunion of Machine Gun Fighters.

All roads in Centre county will lead to Boalsburg tomorrow afternoon when Company A, 107th machine gun battalion (the old Boal troop) will hold its first reunion and coincident therewith a very appropriate monument to the troop will be dedicated on the old camp ground on the Major Theodore Davis Boal home farm, where a large number of the members of the troop got their initial training. Little did they think at that time that they would be precipitated into the world war, but to their credit and glory it can be said that every man did his part nobly. As evidence of this is the fact that Company A had in the neighborhood of twenty casualties within its ranks, most of whom now sleep beneath the sunny fields of France.

The dedication of the monument will take place at five o'clock in the evening, in order to allow time for those members who live in other towns to arrive at Boalsburg after coming up on the Lewisburg and Tyrone train. Chief among the prominent army men who will be present are Major General William G. Price, of Wilkes-Barre, former general in command of the National Guard of Pennsylvania and who as Brigadier General Price was in charge of the artillery of the 28th division in France until he lost a leg; and Col. David J. Davis, of Scranton, chief of staff of the 28th division under Major General Kuhn in France. Other men prominent in military and civil life are also expected.

While upwards of one hundred members of Company A are expected at this reunion it is not an exclusive soldier gathering but the public in general is urged to attend, especially those who live within a convenient distance of Boalsburg.

The gathering will be in general character an old-fashioned basket picnic and everybody is asked to take well laden baskets so that a buffet supper can be served the visiting soldiers. Major Boal has had dancing floors placed in the large headquarters building and a big tent on the ground so that all those who care to dance may do so. There will be good music for dancing as well as band concerts. The Boal museum with all its German war trophies will be thrown open for inspection to the general public.

Postoffice to be Moved Saturday Night.

The painters finished their job of painting the interior of the big room and annex in the Brockerhoff house block to be occupied by the postoffice on Wednesday and yesterday a force of men were hard at work cleaning out the room and scrubbing the floor preparatory to moving in. Everything possible will be moved across from the old location in Temple Court to the new location today and tomorrow, though business at the old stand will continue without interruption until after the close of the postoffice at eight o'clock tomorrow night when a sufficient force of men will be put to work to move the screen, distributing racks and tables to the new location, and when the mail comes in on Sunday morning it will be distributed in the new postoffice. In this way not a mail will be missed and the office will not be closed a minute more than it is usually closed.

The moving of the postoffice from Temple Court to the Brockerhoff house location will bring it within the prescribed limit of one thousand feet from the railroad station and in the future instead of the government having to provide a carrier to transfer the mails from the postoffice to the railroad, it will be up to the railroad to do it. Just who will get the job is not known at this writing.

TWO DIE OF WHITE DAMP.

Tragic Fate of James F. Stott, of Philipsburg, and R. M. Caldwell, of Clearfield.

While exploring an abandoned coal mine between Irvona and Coalport, late Friday afternoon James F. Stott, a prominent and well known business man of Philipsburg, and R. M. Caldwell, of Clearfield, owner of the mine, were overcome by white damp and died before they could be rescued from the mine.

Late Friday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Stott, their niece, Miss Sara Stott, Mr. Caldwell and George Rainer, manager of the Stott garage in Philipsburg, left that town for the express purpose of making an inspection of the abandoned mine, which Mr. Stott was considering purchasing. They reached the mine about six o'clock and the two women in the party decided they would gather huckleberries while the men inspected the mine.

Mr. Stott, having had experience as a practical miner, led the way into the mine, Caldwell following and Rainer trailing after some steps in the rear. Only a few minutes had passed when the women were startled by what they thought was a cry of some one in distress and they walked a short distance in the direction from which the cry seemed to come. Finding no one they returned toward the mine when they again heard the cry and at once hastened to the mine where they found Mr. Rainer crawling from the opening but so overcome he could not talk. Fifty feet from the mouth of the mine they saw the bodies of Mr. Stott and Mr. Caldwell lying on the ground but at that time they did not realize that the men were dead.

Mr. Rainer recovered soon after getting into the fresh air and several times tried to make his way into the mine to where Mr. Stott and Mr. Caldwell lay but every time was forced to return quickly to the open air. In the meantime a number of miners employed in that vicinity were summoned but all their efforts to reach the two men proved futile until finally one young man procured several towels and after thoroughly saturating them with water tied them over his nose and mouth and with a rope tied around his body so he could be drawn to safety, if overcome, and another rope with a hook on it he managed to make his way to the fallen men and fastening the hook in their clothing they were drawn out of the mine. It was then almost nine o'clock and both men were dead.

Mr. Rainer later stated that after entering the mine he saw Mr. Stott fall but supposed he had stumbled over something. Then he saw Caldwell drop to the ground and at the same instant he was partly overcome by the deadly white damp and fell backwards. Fortunately he was not rendered unconscious and he managed to turn over and crawl to the open air. White damp is probably the most deadly of all mine gasses and as it is practically odorless its victim has no preliminary warning of its presence. Its action is also quick and deadly.

Mr. Stott was a native of Houtzdale and was forty-nine years old. As a boy he worked in the mines and has been identified with the industry all his life, and for some time past had operated the Red Jacket mine at Loch Lomond and was president of the Clover Run Coal & Coke company in Jefferson county. In addition to his coal operations Mr. Stott was president of the Eastern Refractories company, the head office of which is in Bellefonte, with large brick operations at Orviston, Milesburg, Snow Shoe and Port Matilda, and was also vice president of the Manufacturers Coal company, an auxiliary of the Eastern Refractories company, with operations in Indiana and Cambria counties. Mr. Stott recently completed a three story brick block on the corner of Front and Spruce streets, Philipsburg, at a cost of close to a quarter million dollars. Whether his death will have any effect on the various business enterprises with which he is identified is as yet unknown.

Engrossed as he was in business affairs he still found time to devote to the social side of life and to the church. He was a member and deacon of the Church of Christ and taught the young men's bible class. His interest in international Sunday school work was so sincere that he presented a building to the bible training school for boys and girls at Lake Geneva, Wis. He was also a member of Centre County, Royal Arcanum, of Philipsburg.

He was married to Catharine Williams, of Philipsburg, who survives with two daughters, Edith and Berenice. One son, James Stott Jr., was officially reported killed in action in France in October, 1918. He also leaves his mother and six brothers and sisters. Burial was made in the Philipsburg cemetery on Monday afternoon.

R. M. Caldwell, the other victim, was forty-five years old and was employed as a fireman on the New York Central railroad. He is survived by his wife and two sisters.

Excellent Program Arranged for Get-together Meeting.

The Methodist Episcopal church and Sunday school will hold a unique meeting in the Sunday school rooms this (Friday) evening, August 29th. The superintendent, Rev. C. C. Shuey, and his corps of workers have prepared an excellent program for the occasion. There will be vocal and instrumental selections, with short addresses. The orchestra will furnish the music and light refreshments will be served. All members and friends of the church and Sunday school are cordially invited to be present.

Dope Fiend Posing as Crippled Soldier Works Sympathy Game.

A man who gave his name as Frank Lynch was brought to the Bellefonte hospital from State College where he had suddenly taken ill at an early hour on Sunday morning. The man walked with a cane and at the hospital it was discovered that he had two wooden legs. He stated that he had been in the great world war and had lost both legs at the battle of Verdun as well as being shot up in other ways. But another discovery was also made and that was that he had dope on him and this was taken from him. This angered the man and after being at the hospital just eight hours he decided to leave and telephoned the Bush house clerk W. C. Rowe went out to the hospital and brought him in to the hotel.

On Monday morning he appealed to the Red Cross for aid to get to Toronto, Can., exhibiting a letter from the president of the Red Cross Chapter at Vandergrift detailing what a hero he had been and asking Red Cross societies to extend aid to him. The sympathies of Bellefonte people were naturally aroused and among those who sought to befriend the man were Squire S. Kline Woodring and Dr. M. J. Locke. In fact so sympathetic did Bellefonte people feel toward him that they were inclined to contribute one hundred dollars, or thereabouts to send him to Toronto, and also send a man with him to Buffalo to see that he got along all right. Constable Howard Smead was delegated to look after the interests of the man until arrangements could be made to send him on his journey, but when Lynch heard that Smead was a constable he decided that discretion was the better part of valor and so quietly made his way to the railroad station and left Bellefonte for Lock Haven on the 1:26 p. m. train Monday.

In the meantime constable Smead had been doing a little detective work and discovered in some way that the man was an impostor, so securing a warrant for his arrest he and chief of police Dukeman went to Lock Haven Monday evening and locating their man in bed at the Central hotel arrested him and brought him back to Bellefonte. The man later admitted that he had lost his legs in a railroad accident at Minneapolis, Minn., eight years ago, and for some time had been traveling over the country working the sympathy racket. He also admitted having gotten about three hundred dollars from various Red Cross societies.

The man is undoubtedly a confirmed dope fiend and since he has been in the Centre county jail he has been under the care of the jail physician. In searching him the authorities found three prescriptions bearing the signature of Dr. John Keichline, of Petersburg, but whether they are genuine or not, is of course problematical. Just what will be done with him now that the authorities have him is unknown, but he will likely be turned over to the federal authorities for impersonating a crippled soldier, if they will take him.

A Rabbit Farm.

Bellefonte has a rabbit farm where rabbits are grown for market, but there are probably very few people in the town who know it. It is conducted by Oscar Zimmerman, at his home in Bush's Addition. The venture was started with no thought of commercializing it but it promises in time to prove a paying investment.

Early in 1918 Mr. Zimmerman purchased a pair of Belgian hares as an Easter offering to his son Dale. The rabbits not only thrived but multiplied and being quite prolific by the middle of summer they had a number of them. Then they bought three Flemish giants for which they paid eight dollars and they proved just as good at multiplying as the Belgian hares. The result is that notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Zimmerman has disposed of quite a number of rabbits this summer, for both breeding and table purposes, and frequently has rabbit for dinner, he now has between forty and fifty of the animals in his pens. They are very tame and can be petted and handled almost like a kitten.

The Belgian hares sell at two dollars a pair and weigh from five to eight pounds. The Flemish giants grow to as much as nine and ten pounds in weight and the price charged for them is governed entirely by size and weight. Mr. and Mrs. Zimmerman claim that the meat is as delicious and tender as spring chicken, and that they are easier to raise and more profitable than chickens.

Payne-McGinley.

A pretty little wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Sadie Satterfield, on east Bishop street, at 11:15 o'clock on Wednesday morning when Miss Hester E. McGinley, daughter of John L. McGinley, was united in marriage to John B. Payne, son of Mrs. Mary Payne. A dozen or more intimate guests were present to witness the ceremony, which was performed by Dr. W. K. McKinney, of the Presbyterian church, the beautiful ring service being used. The bride was given away by Mrs. Satterfield and the attendants were Miss Isabel Young, as maid of honor, and Will Payne, as best man. The bride was attired in a gown of white crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served by Mrs. Satterfield at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kern, where the bride has lived the past several years. Mr. and Mrs. Payne departed on the 1:26 p. m. train for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada, thence by way of the Great Lakes and Cleveland, Ohio, to Fredonia, Pa., where the bridegroom has a home already prepared for the reception of his bride. The bride is well known among the younger set of Bellefonte and during the past two or three years has filled the position of stenographer for the Abramsen Engineering company. Mr. Payne is a graduate in the short course in agriculture at State College and now holds the position of supervisor of agriculture in the state vocational school at Fredonia.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Payne were honor guests at a small party given in their honor at the home of Chaplain and Mrs. T. W. Young, on Monday evening, at which time a variety shower was given the bride. Included in the many handsome presents she later received were a silver set from the Abramsen Engineering company, and a table and desk made by the employees of that company.

Hoy-Neidigh.—John H. Hoy, of Waddle, and Miss Blanche Mary Neidigh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Neidigh, of Struble station, motored to Boalsburg last Wednesday and at the noon hour were united in marriage at the Reformed parsonage by the pastor, Rev. S. C. Stover. They were attended by Miss Edith Ralston, as bridesmaid, and Dr. W. M. Neidigh, best man. The same afternoon they departed on the Lewisburg and Tyrone train for a wedding trip to Philadelphia and Atlantic City. The bridegroom is well known throughout Buffalo Run valley as he for years has been the agent at the station for the Bellefonte Central railroad and in addition conducts a general store and coal yard. Mr. and Mrs. Hoy will be at home at Waddle on and after October first.

Haines-Kulp.—E. Sheldon Haines, manager of the Western Union telegraph office in Bellefonte, and Miss Elizabeth Kulp, of Nanticoke, were married at the home of the bride's parents on Wednesday, by Rev. D. L. MacDonald, of the Methodist church. After September first they will be at home on north Spring street.

Boy Hurt in Automobile Accident.

On Tuesday evening butcher John Eckel took his two little daughters and a girl friend of theirs for an automobile ride and started for State College. On the sharp turn at the Wasson farm this side of Lemont he was confronted by another car coming from the college and also the Emerick motor bus. The car coming from the college proved to be Edward Cowdrick with his wife, and Harrison Ross, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ross, all of Niagara Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bell, of Pleasant Gap. Mr. Cowdrick was on his side of the road and when Mr. Eckel saw him the motor bus had pulled to the other side of the road as if to pass the Cowdrick car. Mr. Eckel's impression at the instant was that if he stayed on his side of the road he would run head-on into the bus as he feared it would not be able to slow up sufficiently to drop in behind the Cowdrick car. Not knowing what else to do he took the middle of the road and attempted to pass between with the result that he side-swiped the Cowdrick car, tearing off the left fender and damaging both wheels.

One of Mr. Eckel's daughters was thrown out but fortunately escaped with a few slight contusions and bruises. The Ross boy in the Cowdrick car was not so fortunate, as he sustained a bad cut on his neck from broken glass. Fortunately, however, no arteries were severed. In the meantime, the bus attempted to pass the two cars and in doing so struck the top of the Eckel car and stripped the covering all off. The Eckel car was otherwise badly damaged. Mr. Cowdrick's car is a Chevrolet and was towed to State College where it will be put in good condition. Mr. Eckel having offered to pay the cost.

The police department of Bellefonte last Friday received a letter of inquiry from the police of Harrisburg asking for information regarding Cecil Overton, (colored) as the young man is under arrest in that city charged with the theft of approximately one thousand dollars' worth of clothing. Overton is a native of Bellefonte but has been away from the town for some months, and it is unfortunate that he has gotten mixed up in such a serious charge as above stated.

Track Work His Nemesis.

William Charles, who gave his home as Jersey City and claimed to have been a member of the 104th infantry during the recent unpleasantness, although he admitted he had never gotten across the pond, applied to the employment bureau in Altoona last Thursday for a job and told the following story:

He stated that he was discharged April 21 and being an old roadrunner applied two days later for a job. He was sent to Buffalo to work in the round house but when he got there the only work open was track work, and that was his pet aversion. The Buffalo employment agency sent him to Cleveland but he was again confronted with a track work job and the same thing happened at Toledo. Then he returned to Cleveland where he did cooking and dishwashing in a restaurant but finally made his way back to Buffalo. There he again visited the employment agency and this time was sent to Snow Shoe, this county, for more work in the round house. At Snow Shoe he didn't even find a round house but his old nemesis again turned up and he was given a job at track work, of which there seemed to be an abundance in the Snow Shoe region. He stayed with the job just long enough to get a breakfast then spent all his money on a ticket to Tyrone. From there he rode the brakebeams of a freight to Altoona and sought a job as far from a railroad track as possible. He was sent to Nant-y-Glo to work on a state road job.

Notice to Voters of Centre County.

Owing to the recent death of my wife and quite serious illness of my daughter, I will be unable to make a thorough canvass of the county in my candidacy for the nomination for Sheriff on the Republican ticket, so I am compelled to in this way bring my appeal for support to the Republican voters and will greatly appreciate any assistance rendered.
