

Nominee for County Auditor Thanks Voters.

To the Voters of Centre County: Permit me to express to you my deep appreciation for the splendid vote cast for me at the primary election. I wish it were possible for me to take you all by the hand and personally extend my thanks. I trust that you will kindly remember me on November 4th, when you vote. I assure you that I will prove to the people that I am capable for the office to which I aspire and that although I am a man of small stature, I will prove that I have within me a big heart. Let us, as Democrats, not forget our duty to the party, and let us feel that it is our duty to get busy and GET OUT THE VOTE.

Again thanking you, I beg to remain,

Very respectfully,
HERBERT H. STOVER,
Nominee for County Auditor.

—“Heart of Humanity,” Oct. 2 and 3—Scenic theatre. 38-1t

CENTRE HALL.

Mrs. Roger Bayard left for her new home in Tyrone on Wednesday.
Mrs. Sara Stover went to Altoona, where she will spend some time with her children.
Mrs. Elizabeth Christine, of Elysburg, is spending several weeks at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Moore.

Misses Belle Meeker and Adaline McClenahan went to Baltimore on Wednesday, where they will enter a business college.

Oscar Emerick, of Freeport, Ill., and his sister-in-law, Mrs. C. E. Emerick, of Harrisburg, are guests of the Luther Emerick family.

Prof. W. A. Krise, who has been an invalid for several years past had the misfortune to upset his wheel chair on Sunday, fracturing and dislocating his hip.

Miss Mamie Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Brooks, and Hugh Ralston, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Ralston, of near Linden Hall, were married at the bride's home, about four miles west of this place, on Wednesday morning.

Robert McClenahan, the small son of Mr. and Mrs. William McClenahan, while running across the street one evening last week, after dark, ran into one of the iron rods joining the hitching posts in front of Emery's store and fractured his nose.

Hadn't Seemed to Work.

An oddish man in rusty-brown clothes and with a rusty-brown beard met up with a pin. It was shining sharply bright on a flagging, and he stopped to pick it up.

He had stiff joints and his fingers were in that state informally known as bungly. So he had trouble picking up the pin.

A young man paused to offer his services, but the old one refused. He just grunted and grumbled until at last victory came his way. Then he straightened up his rickety joints and put a hand on his back.

“I'm not as young as I used to be,” he admitted, as gently as his joints would allow. “But you know the old saying:

“See a pin and let it lay, you'll have bad luck all the day. See a pin and pick it up and you are sure to have good luck.”

“So I never pass one by.” And yet he didn't look as lucky as a man ought to be who had made a life habit of picking up pins.—Washington Star.

Flax in the War.

With the restoration of industry on a peace-time basis, cotton once again, according to recent authoritative statements, forges ahead of linen in the world's favor. The exigencies of the recent conflict raised flax to the position as leader among fabrics, a rank which it had held for centuries but had lost almost simultaneously with the advent of the cotton gin. With a realization of the importance of cotton in the making of munitions, there came a speedy reversion to linen for the more commonplace usages—waistcoats, sails for ships, even “wings” for airplanes having lately consisted of material woven from the sun-hued fiber. But flax has reached the end of its days of monopoly. King Cotton now rises to the fore in ordinary pursuits, and linen once again becomes the aristocrat in this field of supply.

High Minded.

The teacher was impressing upon her scholars the need of saying their prayers. To illustrate the lesson she showed the class a picture of an Arab, with head between his hands, and looking upward. “Now, Billy Cubbs,” she said to a boy who had not been paying close attention to her words, “what is that man doing?” “Er—er—please, teacher, he's a—lookin' for—er—planes.”—Blighly.
