

Buy W. S. S.

So few reports were received by W. Harrison Walker from the various chairmen in Group 3, war savings division, that he has no knowledge of the pro rata of stamps sold during the week of October 18th.

Many people seem to think that the sale of war savings stamps and certificates is primarily to get money for the government. While in a way that is true, yet another vital purpose of the movement is to encourage thrift and saving among the people at large.

To invest the money they save out of their incomes in a security which pays a reasonable rate of interest and is absolutely safe, like thrift stamps, war savings stamps and other government securities.

To use the rest of their incomes so as to make every cent they spend buy something they really need or want, and which has a full cent's value.

To use what they buy with as much care as if it were money itself.

These are the fundamental principles on which Mr. Walker is conducting his campaign for the sale of war savings stamps and certificates, and the very fact that investments can be made in any sum from twenty-five cents to a dollar should make them appeal to the people at large.

Still in the Ring.

In the salesroom of the Denk-Thompson company, Ford dealer in Detroit, is Ford touring car number 604, looking wonderfully youthful and sturdy despite its sixteen years of daily service.

Engines are no longer wound up from the side, steering wheels no longer stick straight up into the air; and then too, tight horse power and five gallon gas tanks aren't quite sufficient for the modern motorist.

And so with this Model "F" Ford. What stories it might tell of following worn, rutted wagon roads, over strange country perhaps, running through creeks where bridges had not been built, making its owners happy.

It is not known who the original purchaser of this dependable old Ford was, or where he lived, whether in New York or California, Michigan or Florida.

Painted Flowers.

Recent experiments have proved it practicable to make a rosebush yield roses of any color desired.

It must, however, be a bush that would normally bear white roses. Then it is merely a question of watering the soil with a very dilute solution of one chemical or another.

Potash will cause the bush to produce green roses; alum will give them a lilac hue, and muriatic acid will turn them red.

The same method, with like results, can be applied to white hydrangeas and other white flowers.

An Oversupply.

The help problem bothers them in the Orient also, but in a different way. A gentleman who had returned from India remarked, "The worst thing about the place is the nuisance of numerous servants."

"Yes. The first one brought it to me; the second filled it; the third lit it."

"And the fourth?" "Oh, he smoked it. I never could abide tobacco in any form, you know."

STATE COLLEGE TO HAVE EXCEPTIONAL MUSICAL COURSE.

Department of Music Arranges for Series of Three Stellar Recitals.

A series of musical recitals, to be held in the Schwab Auditorium at State College during the coming season, have been arranged for under the auspices of the Department of Music, with Mr. Evan J. Morris, '19, as manager.

The first of these recitals will be given on Friday, November fourteenth, by Miss Florence Hinkle, soprano, who has appeared frequently at the Metropolitan opera house and is soloist with the symphony orchestras of Boston, New York, Chicago, and Philadelphia.

SECOND RECITAL DECEMBER 4th. The second recital will be on Thursday, December 4th, by Miss Sophie Breslau, contralto, who has already been declared by New York critics as "among the greatest contraltos of this generation."

THIRD RECITAL FEBRUARY 28th. The third recital will be on Friday, February 28th, by the Zoellner String Quartette, which in musical circles has been declared to be on a par with such a famous quartette as the "Kneisel" which appeared at State College about two years ago.

MISS SOPHIE BRESLAU.

New York Symphony, Boston Symphony, Chicago Symphony and Philadelphia Symphony. At the Sunday night concert in the Metropolitan opera house, her name on the bill is sufficient to draw a house.

THIRD RECITAL FEBRUARY 28th. The third recital will be on Friday, February 28th, by the Zoellner String Quartette, which in musical circles has been declared to be on a par with such a famous quartette as the "Kneisel" which appeared at State College about two years ago.

Within the past few years, the Zoellner String Quartette has leaped into the position of one of the first ensemble organizations now before the public. The season just finished finds them more strongly entrenched than ever before, for they have added many new successes to those already achieved.

The Philadelphia Ledger of last Sunday a week mentions that Miss Hinkle, Miss Breslau and the Zoellner String Quartette have all been booked for the Artists' Course under the Department of Music there this season.

It seems to us that no such opportunity has ever before been offered the lovers of real music in Centre county. And if they hope to take advantage of these recitals a season ticket costing only $3.00 can be secured at the "Varsity Store," State College. The price is amazingly low for these artists in the cities command as much as all three will at State College.

A Whale's Worth $15,000.

A full-grown bowhead whale is today worth $15,000 merely for the whalebone it carries in its mouth.

This is the species that furnishes the bulk of the commercial supply of whalebone, which is now worth $7.50 a pound. It is a denizen of Arctic seas.

The bowhead, like other whalebone whales, has no teeth. Instead its jaws are furnished with a series of long, tapering slabs of a horny substance fringed with hair. Of these slabs, which are the whalebone of commerce, there may be as many as 600.

The biggest of them are ten or twelve feet long and they are inserted in the gum of the upper jaw, from which they hang. They serve as a sieve to strain out the whale's food. Swimming along it takes huge mouthfuls of squids and other pelagic small fry. Then the huge trap is closed, and the slabs entering and fitting into grooves in the lower jaw, the water is expelled.

Why the Dog Stands First.

In the early days, centuries and centuries ago, man lived mostly by the chase, as today the last surviving savage tribes still live. The raising of herds, the tilling of the soil, the manufacture of goods, all were unknown.

Wild animals, hunted in the forests with stone weapons and pointed sticks, furnished almost the only resource. Their flesh gave food, their skins provided clothing. To catch the game, a fleet-footed auxiliary in the chase was necessary; to keep these dangerous animals in a proper state of awe, a courageous defender was needed by man. This auxiliary, this defender, and, best of all, this friend, devoted even to death, was the dog; a gift from heaven to help man in his pitiful beginnings.

Thanks to the dog, the herd gave abundance—milk and its products, flesh for food, and warm wool for clothing. Then, relieved from the terrible anxiety concerning daily provisions, man took it into his head to dig in the earth and make it produce grain. Agriculture sprang into being, and with it, little by little, civilization. By the very force of circumstances, therefore, man in all countries is at first a hunter, later he becomes a herdsman, and ends by being an agriculturist. The dog is absolutely necessary to him, first for hunting, then for watching and defending the herd.

Furnace going full blast —only using one room!

Coal costs too much to waste these days.

Then why feed the furnace, just to keep one room comfortable?

It's entirely unnecessary. A Perfection Oil Heater will give ample heat for any room and you can carry it with you from place to place.

PERFECTION OIL HEATERS

No mussing with coal or wood, no waiting for the fire to "burn up"; a Perfection lights at the touch of a match and gives off full heat at once.

Smokeless, odorless and absolutely safe. You can't turn the wick too high.

This handy heater will save you at least a ton of coal this fall and help keep fuel bills down all winter long.

Rayo Lamps Don't strain your eyes with a lamp that is too weak or too glaring. Rayo Lamps are just right. Their mellow light rests the eyes.

See the various models at your dealer's today — you'll be surprised how inexpensive they are.

ATLANTIC Rayolight Oil costs no more than ordinary kerosene and one gallon will burn for ten hours in your Perfection Oil Heater. Best for Rayo Lamps, too.
