

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

The school children are now enjoying their Thanksgiving vacation of two days.

At the Episcopal fair last week four hundred dollars were realized; at the Methodist food sale Saturday, forty dollars, and at the Reformed food sale Wednesday, one hundred and twelve.

Manager Edwin F. Garman has three good shows booked for the opera house in the near future. They are Billy DeRue's minstrels, Denman Thompson's "Old Homestead" and "Buster Brown."

On Monday aviator Walter H. Stevens made a non-stop flight from Cleveland to New York in three hours and fifty-six minutes. He used a new Martin plane, carried 840 pounds of mail and two passengers.

Frederick Blanchard, formerly of this place, but now with the Universal Portland Cement company, of Chicago, has been made chairman of the National banking and currency committee of the National association of Credit Men.

The Bellefonte Academy football team played a wonderful game last Saturday and easily defeated the strong Dickinson Seminary nine, the score being 40 to 0. At no stage of the game was the Academy's goal line seriously threatened.

Clarence Gross, the eighteen year old youth of State College, who was arrested several weeks ago for passing a forged check for $48.00 on the First National bank of Tyrone, plead guilty before Judge Baldrige in the Blair county court at Hollidaysburg on Monday and was sentenced to serve four months in jail.

Christmas is now less than a month away and the shops all have their holiday offerings on the shelves, so that there is no excuse in delaying your Christmas shopping until the last few days of the season. One blessed thing this year is you will not have to worry about what to get for that boy of yours "over there," and how to get it to him.

Mrs. Ives L. Harvey and Mrs. John I. Olewine will be hostesses Tuesday night for the December meeting of the Bellefonte Chapter of the D. A. R., entertaining at Mrs. Harvey's home on North Allegheny street. From two until five this afternoon Mrs. Olewine will have as guests the State College Alumnae club, of which she is a member.

A burning ash box in the rear of the Brandman building on Allegheny street, last Thursday afternoon, caused a little excitement in that locality, particularly because the fire had burned a hole through the end of the building as big as a man's hat, when discovered. A few buckets of water ended the fire, but had it occurred at night this story would probably have been different.

Prothonotary-elect Roy Wilkinson has arranged to have Prothonotary D. R. Foreman remain with him a few months after he is sworn into office the first Monday in January to show him the run of the office. Although no definite time has been set Mr. Foreman will likely be there most of the time until after the May term of court. Just what he will engage in after that will depend on circumstances.

Manager T. Clayton Brown has put up a very artistic board at the scenic on which announcement is made of pictures for the entire week. This gives his patrons an opportunity to see just what the pictures will be in advance and thus enables them to arrange their time to attend what they think they will like. While Mr. Brown makes a feature of big specials as soon as he can get them, his regular programs are all worth going to see.

Many a family went without their customary turkey on their Thanksgiving dinner table yesterday, not because the turkeys were not to be had or that they didn't have the money to pay for them, but simply because they would not pay the exorbitant and unreasonable price demanded. If everybody would refuse to pay big prices for the luxuries of life it would have a lot to do with bringing the prices of the actual necessities within reason.

Real country sausage, made out of all pork, was sold in Bellefonte yesterday at 25 cents the pound. And that recalls the fact that only about a week ago a certain farmer living not many miles from Bellefonte had a hog for sale and the best price he was offered by Bellefonte butchers was $25.00. He killed the animal at home, brought it to Bellefonte and sold the meat to private parties at about three-fourths the price charged by local meat markets, and the hog thus netted him almost fifty dollars.

Mr. and Mrs. John N. Lane and family have been living all week in anticipation of a luscious turkey dinner which they expected to eat yesterday from a thirteen pound, milk-fed turkey that their son was sending from Baltimore. The turkey was started from the Monumental city by parcel post, but up to noontime yesterday the bird had failed to arrive and the only missing now is that when it does come it may be a little too well seasoned for any use. Sending dressed turkeys by parcel post may be all right for short distances, but it is rather uncertain with a long way to go.

TAFT AT STATE COLLEGE.

The Ex-President Talked in Favor of the League of Nations.

State College and Centre county were honored last Saturday by a visit from the only living ex-President of the United States, William Howard Taft, who lectured at the College that evening on the all-engrossing topic, the League of Nations. A large number of Bellefonte people motored to the College to see the ex-President and hear him talk and not one of the number regretted having taken the trip. Mr. Taft is not as heavy as he was when he filled the presidential chair and really looked younger than most of his auditors expected to see, but he is possessed of such a pleasing personality and charm of manner that he naturally attracts his audience from the moment he appears upon the platform.

He talked for one hour and three quarters and his discourse throughout was couched in such simple, plain English, that any school boy could understand him. Mr. Taft is for the adoption of the League of Nations as written, and he made that very plain in his talk, but if the Senate insists on adopting the League with reservations he advises that course in preference to complete rejection. In his talk Mr. Taft said:

"Europe needs and wants American products, but now their money cannot buy them. What is needed is some immediate action and a definite understanding as to peace terms," he said. "I feel that the people have become tired of waiting and there are too many developments that are being delayed through inability to get back to a true peace basis for them to allow this matter to drag much longer."

"You have heard some talk to the effect that the League of Nations may be held over to be used as a Presidential campaign issue. I sincerely trust that this will not happen. There should be action before that time and the supporters of the League will do their best to get it. Such a delay would be most undesirable."

"It is an established fact that the majority of the Senate now stand back of the league pact. I trust that it will receive immediate consideration when the new session opens. The Senators now at their homes will find the people restless and chafing under the delay. They will see that the best interests of the country are being handicapped. French, English and German money exchange rates are now lower than ever and they cannot hope to patronize American markets." Mr. Taft concluded by declaring that he stood for the adoption of the League of Nations with or without reservations because either way, he said, it would be the greatest boon to mankind ever known.

Mr. Taft motored to the College from Tyrone on Saturday afternoon and was greeted by the entire student body and the cadet band. He was received and entertained by Dr. Sparks, who returned to the College especially for the occasion and who introduced the speaker to his large audience in the auditorium in the evening. At the conclusion of his lecture the Acacia club of State College entertained the distinguished visitor and later he motored to Lewistown to catch a midnight train east. The appearance of Mr. Taft at the College was part of a plan of the Phi Kappa Phi honorary society to do some constructive work in its name.

Some of Those Who Are Ill.

Mrs. Harriet T. Kurtz, who has been ill in Florida during the greater part of the past year, has been taken to the hospital in Daytona, where her condition is but little improved.

Jacob Gross has been obliged to give up his business for the present, owing to his health, never having recovered entirely from his severe attack of influenza last winter.

The condition of William W. Waddle, proprietor of the Brant house, which was considered serious during the week, is slightly improved.

Mrs. William O'Brien is ill with diphtheria, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Gamble, on Linn street.

Word was received in Bellefonte the latter part of last week that Wilbur Malin was quite seriously ill at the Cresson sanitarium, where he has been the past two months or longer for the benefit of his health. While he had quite a serious time for a few days he is now much improved and in no immediate danger.

Real Estate Changes.

The former home of Mrs. E. H. Harper, on east Bishop street, Bellefonte, has been sold through the Bellefonte office of the McVey Real Estate company to Miss Marie Doll, of this place. The property is a very desirable one and Miss Doll is to be congratulated upon securing such a nice home.

The same company has sold the Sensor farm located a mile north of Unionville to Mrs. Walter Esterline, of Juniata, Pa. The McVey company has offices in Altoona, Johnstown and Mt. Union, and it was due to the increasing demand for farms in Centre county through the home office in Altoona that the Bellefonte branch was established.

The wedding of Miss Kate Lundy and Harry Eaton, both of Iowa, will take place in their home town, Lyons, Saturday, November 29th. Miss Lundy is well known to many in Bellefonte, having frequently visited here with Mr. and Mrs. James Harris.

The State College agricultural experiment station recently received seventy-five head of feeders from Chicago which they will use this winter in experimental feeding.

Borough manager James D. Seibert requests Bellefonte property owners and householders to clean up and burn the dead leaves on their premises. If the leaves would stay on the premises it wouldn't matter but they blow out on the street, litter up the thoroughfares, scare horses and are a nuisance generally. Mr. Seibert makes this request in all kindness and hopes it will be heeded by every person who likes to see clean and nice-looking streets.

While it may not have been a "Persian kitty of pedigree fame," yet Elizabeth Larimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Larimer, of Thomas street, is almost heart broken over the loss of her kitten, a gray and white spotted one, which was either stolen or strayed away a few days ago, and anyone knowing the whereabouts of the kitty will greatly relieve the distress of the little girl if they will leave her know. The kitten, by the way, answers to the name of "Mickey."

Miss Ruth Gearhart, teacher of the Marengo school, in Ferguson township, was the defendant in a hearing before Squire Woodring last Saturday on the charge of having unlawfully punished one of her pupils, Paul Barto, son of Mrs. Maggie Barto. After hearing the evidence Squire Woodring dismissed the case on the grounds that the teacher had only done her duty, and expressed regret at being unable to put the costs on the plaintiff in the action. The costs, however, were put on the county.

The special train which conveyed the Penn State football team, the cadet band and admiring students to Pittsburgh on Wednesday for the big State-Pitt game yesterday was made up of two Pullmans and five coaches, and while it was comfortably filled it wasn't crowded. The train was run as first section of the Lehigh-Pennsylvania train. Of course a number of students went to the Smoky city on regular trains and it was reported from State College that a few started to hike it, hoping to get a lift on the way so they would reach there in time for the game.

Shortly before eight o'clock on Wednesday morning the burner on an oil stove in the kitchen of the Pearl sisters' apartments in Crider's Exchange exploded while the ladies were in the act of preparing their breakfast. In the hope of smothering the flames one of the women threw a rug over them but the rug caught fire and a call for help was at once made. An alarm was immediately turned in and the first two men on the scene grabbed one of the fire extinguishers hanging in the hall of the Exchange and succeeded in extinguishing the flames. Both fire companies were on hand in a few minutes and had lines of hose strung to the third floor of the building but it wasn't necessary to turn on the water.

Work on the state road between Bellefonte and Pleasant Gap has been stopped until next spring, much to the regret of the traveling public in general. But it was no fault of the contractors, the Gaylord International Engineering and Construction company, that the road was not more nearly completed, but because of the unusual amount of wet weather that has prevailed this fall. As it is, the road has been concreted to a point at the Stewart home beyond Axe Mann. A portion of the road along about the D. M. Kline farm will be banked and rolled and the entire road to Pleasant Gap put in condition for travel during the winter. This will do away with the detours until work is resumed next spring.

There were just six justices of the peace elected at the election on November 4th and under the law men who have been elected to this office must notify the Prothonotary of the county within thirty days after the election, otherwise the office will be declared vacant and the Governor will make an appointment. December 4th will be the last day on which such notices can be filed with the Prothonotary. Of course it is only natural to suppose that the six men who were elected will all lift their commissions, else they would not have been candidates, but according to one of the justices in Bellefonte the office has not been nearly so remunerative since the first of last July as it was prior to that date. In fact he avers that his receipts have been cut almost in half.

It certainly was not fair and warmer on Monday, as predicted by the weather bureau, but the large audience that saw "Fair and Warmer" at Garman's Monday evening had no thought of the weather outside. In their presentation of this very laughable and pleasing comedy Spaeth & Co. have made a decided hit and made no mistake when they selected Ruth Allen to play the leading part. The story twines around a neglected husband and a forgotten wife who, to get even with their thoughtless life partners, decide to engage in a little mild flirtation of their own, only to find that it is much easier to get mixed up in such an affair than it is to get out, and their endeavors to extricate themselves create many complex and amusing situations. "Fair and Warmer" is the kind of a play that affords many a good laugh and though it was given to a good house on Monday night a return date in Bellefonte would warrant capacity business.

Barber—Dale—The wedding of Rev. Louis V. Barber, pastor of the Lemont charge of the Presbyterian church, and Miss Mary Dale, third daughter of Mrs. Cornelius Dale, of College township, attracted a large crowd to the Presbyterian church at Lemont on Wednesday afternoon to witness the happy event. The church was artistically decorated with ferns and fall flowers. The ceremony, which took place at 2:15 o'clock, was performed by Dr. W. K. McKinney, of Bellefonte, assisted by Rev. Samuel Martin, of State College.

The bride, who wore a gown of white crepe de chine with a tulle veil, was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. E. P. Lingle, of Pittsburg. She was attended by her sister, Miss Cornelia Dale, as maid of honor, who wore a gown of white crepe de chine trimmed with lace, and a black lace hat. Rev. Ernest Janvier, of Philadelphia, was best man and the ushers, Harold Bottorf and Walter Lingle, nephews of the bride, and Hutchinson Mitchell. The wedding march was played by Mrs. R. Russell Blair, accompanied on the violin by Mrs. Louis Schaad, both of Bellefonte. A reception in the church followed the ceremony.

The bride is a member of one of College township's oldest families and is well known and admired in that community. She is a niece of the late Dr. J. Y. Dale and also of the late Joseph Furey, for a number of years local editor of the "Democratic Watchman." She has been a great church worker and has been organist in the Lemont church a number of years. The bridegroom is a young divine of great promise. He has filled the Lemont charge the past several years but recently resigned to accept a call to the Mill Hill and Beech Creek charge, to which place he expects to go about the middle of December.

Among the guests present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Lingle, of Pittsburg; Mrs. Grace Furey McMurtrie, of Altoona; Mrs. Abram Weber and daughter, Miss Edith, and Mrs. Walter Jenkins, of Howard; Mrs. J. Y. Dale, Mrs. David Dale and daughter Anne, Miss Elizabeth Longwell, Mr. and Mrs. R. Russell Blair and Mrs. Louis Schaad, of Bellefonte.

Deer Season Will Open Next Monday.

Next Monday, December first, will mark the opening of the deer season and there is no gaining the fact that no other kind of game in Pennsylvania brings to the heart of man the call to the wild as a chase after these fleet-footed denizens of the forest. Deer hunting nowadays is a real sport in which the wits of man are pitted against the cunning of one of the most wily beasts in the forest. And it is a safe guess that by the time this issue of the "Watchman" reaches its readers scores of hunting parties will be on their way into the mountains to go into camp at their favorite spot so as to be on hand bright and early Monday morning when the season opens. Just what luck will attend the hunters this year remains to be seen. Last year a few hunting parties got their limit during the first week of the season and were obliged to return home, but the majority of the hunters stayed in the woods the full two weeks.

Last year in the neighborhood of one hundred and forty bucks were killed within the boundaries of Centre county, and one would naturally think such slaughter of male deer cannot go on forever and the game remain plentiful. But deer migrate and bucks come into Pennsylvania from the Adirondacks in New York and the Blue Ridge mountains in West Virginia. Then, with does as plentiful as they are in the mountains, the natural increase will mean a good many bucks yearly. But why speculate on where they come from. As long as they are to be found in the mountains the hunters are satisfied and happy, and according to reports from woodsmen they are quite plentiful this year.

Another Garage for Bellefonte.

Bellefonte now has five or six large garages as well as a number of small ones, but another is to be added to the list in the near future. This week a number of Bellefonte gentlemen organized the Krader Motor company and purchased from Gehret & Lambert the Curtin building on the corner of Allegheny and Howard streets as the location for a garage and salesroom. Application for a charter will be made within a few days. The men interested in the new enterprise are M. R. Krader, Frank Crawford, Charles F. Mensch, W. D. Zerby, Harry Clevestine, as well as others whose names have not been made public.

The Curtin building at present is occupied by Mrs. S. A. Bell, Miss Alice Tate and the vulcanizing plant of John L. Stine. Just as soon as these tenants can secure other quarters work will be begun in remodeling the building for garage purposes. The preliminary plans provide for one big show window in the entire front of the building. The front portion will be used exclusively as a show room. The rear portion and an extension to be added thereto will be used for garage purposes. The second story of the building will be made over into two apartments for living purposes. It is hoped to get a portion of the work, at least, done this winter. The new company will deal in automobiles and accessories, trucks and tractors, and do a general garage business.

Just forty tickets were sold at the Bellefonte depot last Saturday night for the Pennsylvania's excursion to Washington.

Hon. Willis Bierley, of Rebersburg, but who is now temporarily located in Harrisburg while engaged in his work of compiling law books, was a Bellefonte visitor in the early part of the week, coming here to look up the titles to some property interests.
