Five hundred people or more wanted every evening to attend the Scenic and get the benefit of the best line of motion pictures being shown anywhere. Every picture you miss will be as much your loss as it will be the scenic management, and that is the reason of this invitation to attend. The scenic offers the only regular amusement to be had in Bellefonte and every evening's program is a good one. It is just the place to spend these long winter evenings.

Prof. J. S. F. Ruthrauff, of Phillipsburg, who some time ago resigned as superintendent of the Phillipsburg schools to become secretary of the Phillipsburg Chamber of Commerce, has just turned down an offer from Jonas E. Wagner to become principal of the High school at Beaver, Pa., at a salary of $2,100 per annum, and now has an offer to become housemaster at Girard College, Philadelphia. Though at last reports he was hesitating over the offer it is generally believed that he will accept and leave for Philadelphia so as to begin his duties next week.

Miss Sarah Packard, of the Home Economics Extension Service of The Pennsylvania State College, will talk on "Diet for the School Child," Friday evening, February sixth, at a quarter before eight in the High school auditorium. There will be no admission and the public is cordially invited to come and learn.

Governor Sprout last week appointed Hon. A. G. Morris, of Bellefonte, a member of the board of managers of the Huntingdon reformatory in place of George H. Stewart, of Shippensburg, resigned. Mr. Morris served on the board from May, 1896, to May, 1916, when Governor Brumbaugh failed to re-appoint him for political reasons. During the last three and a half years of his twenty years' service Mr. Morris was president of the board and he always manifested a great interest in the success and welfare of the institution. His return to the board will be gladly welcomed by the other members as well as the officials in charge of the reformatory.

Centre county friends of Miss Laura Waite, a sister of Darius and J. S. Waite, of Bellefonte, will surely sympathize with her in the big loss she sustained in the destruction by fire early in the week of one of the dormitories of Piedmont College, at Demorest, Ga., where she is an instructor in domestic science. The dormitory burned was one occupied by the teachers and a number of students, and the fire spread so rapidly that all of the occupants had little opportunity to save anything. One student lost her life when she rushed into the burning building in an effort to save some of her possessions. The only things Miss Waite was able to save were the clothes she wore and a few small trinkets she managed to get hold of in her hurried exit from the burning building. Her entire wardrobe except the clothes she wore, books and personal belongings, valued at almost one thousand dollars, were reduced to ashes, and so far as known she had no insurance on her belongings.

Big Silk Mill Almost Sure for Bellefonte.

Option Taken on Crider Lumber Yard as Site for a Quarter of a Million Dollar Plant. Large Lot of Bonds Already Taken and Only Question Now is Labor.

Residents of Bellefonte and vicinity are now face to face with an opportunity of securing a big silk mill for the town which will cost equipped from $275,000 to $300,000 and give steady, high-class, well paid employment to one hundred and twenty-five young men and women. There are only two little "ifs" in connection therewith. One of them is "if" the people in Bellefonte and vicinity will take $75,000 worth of first mortgage, six per cent. bonds as evidence of their interest in the project, and the other "if" the company back of the project can be given assurance of securing the labor they will require to operate their plant. The first "if" is growing smaller every day, as at the time this article was written on Tuesday afternoon $33,000 worth of the bonds had already been subscribed with from $8,000 to $10,000 of prospects in sight, so that the men who are handling this part of the project are very confident of success. As to the second "if" covering the labor question, that is to be worked out by means of application blanks to be published in the Bellefonte papers.

The above are the facts in the case, now as to details. A few weeks ago the Bellefonte Trust company received a communication from J. H. and C. K. Eagle, Inc., owners and operators of silk mills at Shamokin, Mechanicsburg and Gettysburg. The Shamokin plant is the parent factory and at the present time employs about 2,700 operatives. As to J. H. and C. K. Eagle, Inc., they are rated in Bradstreet as "Triple A," which is exceptionally high financially. In fact they are one of the three largest silk mill operators in this country.

Some days after receiving the communication, Nelson E. Robb, treasurer of the Bellefonte Trust Co., turned the same over to Robert F. Hunter, of the Bellefonte Board of Trade, and he in turn called a meeting of the newly organized Bellefonte Business Men's association and the matter was discussed from every angle with the result that it was considered worthy of investigation. The result was the Eagle corporation was invited to submit a proposition and on the strength of that invitation W. U. Jury, consulting and construction engineer of the company came to Bellefonte and at a meeting of members of the Board of Trade and the Business Men's association stated that what they required was a suitable site for the location of a mill, and the ground would have to be large enough on which to erect a double unit plant; that the citizens of the town and community take $75,000 in first mortgage bonds mostly as evidence of their interest in the project and that they work out so far as possible the question of an adequate labor supply.

The men interested in the proposition got busy at once and a thirty day option was secured from G. M. Gamble for the Crider lumber yard, which is ample in size for a very extensive plant. When the option was secured the company was notified and Messrs. Thomas B. Hill, John Van-Orden, Joseph H. Jones and Robert Marshall, of the board of managers, and engineer W. U. Jury came to Bellefonte and approved of the site selected. Mr. Lark, attorney for the company, was in Bellefonte on Wednesday when preliminary papers of agreement were signed.

The company is not asking Bellefonte people to take any stock in the mill, in fact there will not be any for sale. And the $75,000 worth of bonds are asked more as a matter of good faith on the part of the people of this community than because of the money being needed by the company. As evidence of this is the fact that they estimate the cost of the location and first building at $100,000. In this building will be placed from $175,000 to $200,000 worth of machinery before it is ready to operate. The company will install the machinery and the bonds taken by the people of Bellefonte will be secured by a first mortgage on the entire plant. The bonds will be dated May 1st, 1920, and will bear interest at six per cent., payable semi-annually. The bonds run for seventeen years but the company reserves the right to retire the same yearly at the rate of one-seventeenth of the aggregate amount.

All plants are built in units and the first unit of the Bellefonte plant will be a building 137x168 feet, one story high. It will be built of steel, concrete and brick and made as near fireproof as it is possible to build it, even to the roof. It will be well lighted with numerous large windows on every side and by immense skylights in the roof. Rest rooms, dressing rooms and lavatories will be provided and the building throughout be entirely sanitary. All the machinery will be driven by electricity.

To operate the first unit of the plant the labor of 125 to 130 young men and women will be required, preferably between the ages of sixteen and thirty. One-third of the operatives desired are women, which would be from forty to fifty. The mill is operated continuously from midnight Sunday until midnight Saturday and young women are employed only on the day shift of eight hours, which is from eight o'clock in the morning until four in the afternoon. Young men are employed on the other shifts.

The minimum wages paid to beginners are ten dollars a week to young women and fifteen dollars a week to young men. When operatives become skilled, however, the women are able to make from sixteen to eighteen dollars a week and the young men from twenty to twenty-five. And the company much prefers paying for skilled help. In fact any young man or woman who fails to take an interest in the work and show progress in the handling of the machines is not the kind of a person to find favor in the eyes of the company. The company has always aimed to make their mills not only a healthy and congenial place of labor but insist on a high moral standard. Swearing and obscene language are not tolerated by either employee or foreman.

It is the desire of the company, if every proposition is satisfactorily met in Bellefonte, to begin work on the plant early in April so that it can be ready for operation by the first of July. And for this reason it is very important that the question of labor is settled as early as possible. Therefore, the Bellefonte men who have the matter in charge ask all young men and women who would like a job in the new plant to fill out the coupon found in today's and successive issues of the "Watchman" and mail to the address given thereon. In doing so you in no way bind yourself to work there unless you so desire and the company needs you. It is only in this way that the true situation of the amount of labor in the neighborhood can be obtained.

Following is a list of the purchasers of bonds up to yesterday noon, the aggregate amount being over $40,000:

Potter-Hoy Co. Adding Big Line of China and Glassware.

The Potter-Hoy Hardware company will in the near future add a most complete line of china and glassware to their already big stock of hardware. Work is already under way making the necessary changes in the company's big store room on High street to accommodate the new line. The heavier lines of hardware will be moved from the store room into the basement and the other lines consolidated so as to make room for the china and glass department in the rear of the main store room, next the offices. This department will be retail only, as the company will not carry a stock for wholesale. The stock has already been selected and ordered and will be here just as soon as the necessary shelving and counters can be cleared on which to display it properly. Inasmuch as the line to be carried will be quite extensive, both in china and glassware, the public will have ample opportunity to make pleasing selections when anything in these lines is desired.

In speaking of the cold weather last week "Waxy" Straub stated that it was so cold at his place up along the mountain last week that it froze the leg off of a wooden chair. Any person who doubts this statement can get full particulars by asking the gentleman in question.

BIG MILK STATION. A Good Probability for Bellefonte in the Near Future.

Over one hundred farmers attended a meeting held in the grand jury room in the court house on Wednesday afternoon in the interest of the erection of a big milk station in Bellefonte. The meeting was called by Mr. J. A. Collins, of New York city, country manager of the Western Maryland Dairy, with head offices at 1117-1125 Linden Ave., Baltimore, Md.

The purpose of the meeting was to interest the farmers especially in the establishment of a station in Bellefonte. Mr. Collins, in an exhaustive talk started by saying that his company had no stock to sell or anything of that kind; that their main interest at the present is to find out if the farmers will back them up in their project to the extent of increasing their dairy herds and consequently their milk supply. If they will do so, Mr. Collins assured his audience, the company he represents will back him up to the extent of making this county one of the leaders in the State for the shipment of sweet milk. He further stated that the Western Maryland Dairy will pay the price set by the Dairyman's League.

Another good meeting was held at Julian on Wednesday evening, which was addressed by Mr. Collins and Mr. J. H. Port, assistant milk agent of the Maryland Dairy for Pennsylvania.

In connection with the above project it might be stated that an option has been secured on a site for the condensary in Bellefonte but the question of the plant being erected is in a good part up to the farmers. If they are interested to the extent of increasing their dairy herds in order to furnish a good supply of milk, the station will be built without a question.

The lot on which the option has been taken is on north Thomas street directly in front of Gamble's mill. It is proposed to erect a large receiving station there where dairy men can deliver milk. A car will leave Bellefonte each day. It will merely be a receiving station, not a condensary or butter or cheese plant. It is said that it will improve rather than decrease the milk supply in Bellefonte for the projectors have given assurance that at all times they will be ready to supply local milk men with ample supplies to satisfy their customers.

Nittany Valley Farm Sold.

The farm of E. C. Strohm, located a mile from Zion and which is one of the most productive in Nittany valley, has been sold through the Bellefonte office of the McVey Real Estate company to George A. McClellan, of Altoona. Mr. McClellan spent a good part of his life in Altoona but a few years ago moved to Columbus, Ohio. About four months ago he returned to Altoona and went to work for the Pennsylvania railroad company. It is his intention to hold onto his job in the Mountain city and put his son in charge of the farm. As the sale included the farm stock and implements Mr. McClellan will have everything in shape to go to work when the transfer of the property is made in the spring. The farm contains 110 acres, most of which is under cultivation.

Eleven Carloads of Cars Reached Bellefonte on Sunday.

Eleven carloads of Maxwell cars and trucks came to Bellefonte over the Pennsylvania railroad on Sunday, being consigned to the Krader Motor company, recently organized and chartered with a capitalization of $75,000. The consignment included twenty-seven passenger cars and six trucks, and were a small part of a train load of seventy-six railroad cars that came through from Michigan to Johnstown, the central distributing point for this district. Owing to the unusual scarcity of box cars all kinds of cars were used in the transportation of the automobiles, from the flat car to the ordinary coal car. But all the autos were protected from the elements by tarpaulin covers.
