TO CONTROL SPIRITS OF EVIL

Chinese Have Distinct Object in Erecting Pagodas, and Country Is Garlanded With Them.

Chinese pagodas are the work of the Buddhist church almost exclusive— ly. The most beautiful specimens are Kelley, tract in Worth township; in the Yangtse valley, where pagodas $1100. are the most numerous. Every important Chinese and Manchurian city is garlanded with them. From the walls $2900. of Pekin a dozen pagodas and towers may be counted within the city, and with a good glass a half-dozen may be seen rising from the surrounding Chinese have appropriated the pagoda as a counterpoise to evil, and use it subject to their rules of geomancy. At a city in Tung, in the Pekin plain, a region in past years visited by earthquakes, there is a prominent pagoda, which at one time had 1,000 bronze bells suspended from its cornices, most of which are still in place. The people have this story of its construction: A water owl lives underground at this place, and when he shakes his tail it causes earthquakes. Geomancers located the end of his tail, and the pagoda was built on it to hold it down. However, they could not locate his head, and thus he is still able to wink his eyes, which causes tremblings of the earth. When his eyelids have been accurately located a second pagoda will be built. Pagodas range in height from 20 to over 200 feet, and are of various shapes, such as round, square, hexagonal, etc. They always have an odd number of stories, ranging usually from seven to nine, and sometimes with eleven, or even thirteen.

ORGAN WAS ONCE UNDER BAN

Scottish Presbytery, Less Than a Century Ago, Declared Its Playing Contrary to Law.

The organ, as an addition to the musical service in the Presbyterian church, was under a ban less than a hundred years ago, according to a writer in the Manchester Guardian, re- be equaled, for $1.93. Then we have a doucalling the first organ made by James Watt. It was a small chamber organ, in form like a harmonium, which he, built for his own use. When he moved to Birmingham the organ was left behind and came into the possession of the minister and session of St. Andrew's church, Glasgow, of which Watt had been a member. The instrument was used for weekly choir practices, but was shrouded under a green you to freshen up your home after the baize cover on Sundays, as though in long, cold winter. We have some beautidisgrace. In 1806 permission to use it ful scrim in the darker shades for over was refused by the city council. Then one Sunday afternoon, by pre-arrangement, the church attempted to use the organ without the council's consent. An organist from a neighboring Episcopal church was called in. He played or light percales, figured and striped, at the organ while the last psalm was $1.75 and $1.98. Then we have a rubbersung. There was so much excitement | ized apron to save the dress. This comes clared it was contrary to law and the constitution of the established church, and it was prohibited in all churches first organ peaceably.

Mother

Whistler, the famous painter, who so wonderfully portrayed the subject

"Mother" was once asked how he obtained such marvelous color effects, he smilingly replied, "I mix a little brains with my paint."

We believe that running a shop is one of the fine arts, and that no man has a right to serve the public, the MOTHER of all business enterprises, who is not willing to mix a good deal of brains with his buying, and more of it with his selling.

We therefore buy nothing but the most attractive, most reliable and most serviceable.

We don't sell a thing unless it fits perfectly, looks attractive and is in keeping with the buyers' type.

We guarantee everything that leaves our shop, and gladly refund money for any purchase made that isn't satisfactory in every respect.

Above all, we are reliable, and a child can buy from us with the same sense of safety as a grown-
