

KOREAN TAXI IS A WOMAN

Bearing "Jiggi" Strapped To Her Shoulders, She Transports Loads.

When an American wants to travel, he telephones for a taxicab. But in Korea the taxis are "jiggis,"—baskets of wood and bamboo. The front view of the "jiggi" gives the impression of a spreading fan, but in the rear is a platform on which the trunks or other baggage are placed. The children are piled on top of the boxes and the strange moving van bobs away.

Perhaps a boy only fifteen or sixteen years old will play the part of beast of burden, but it is generally a Korean woman who tests her strength to the breaking point as she carries a steamer trunk down the street.

The condition of women and children in foreign lands is a problem to which the new Interchurch World Movement, in which America's Protestant bodies are cooperating, has been asked to give special attention. To this end, schools and social centers are to be established at various points throughout Korea, while a central union college also is to be staffed and equipped at the expense of the churches of America.

Spring Military Tactics Open at Penn State.

The 1700 underclassmen at Penn State opened their spring military tactics on the same day that they returned from their Easter vacation, by advancing on as many new rifles which they cleaned with the aid of a bale of waste and fifty gallons of gasoline. The all-new equipment provided by the government at an expenditure of $142,000, was issued at that time, and as each rifle had been coated with protective oil and grease, the fifteen cadet companies had a busy two hours getting them in shape for use. A new rifle, gun sling, belt, bayonet, bayonet and scabbard made up the equipment issued to each man. Through a rearrangement of class schedules, the entire regiment will be able to go through military tactics in two hour periods, every Wednesday and Saturday, and for one hour on Mondays, providing for more intensive training than could be given in the past.
