Bellefonte, Pa., May 28, 1920.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

—The Altoona High school baseball team will play the Academy on Hughes field tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. Go out and see the game, it will be worth it.

—The next annual picnic of the Centre county association of Philadelphia will be held on June 19th at Belmont mansion, Fairmount park, Philadelphia. All Centre countians are welcome.

—Why did Judas betray Jesus? Was Judas always bad? Why did Jesus select him for a disciple? To be answered at the Methodist church on Sunday evening. Fine musical numbers.

—All the banking institutions of Bellefonte have ordered electric burglar alarm systems which will give them the best protection possible against night attacks and daylight hold-ups.

—The Brooks-Doll Post of the American Legion will hold a dance in the armory next Monday night, from 9 to 2 o'clock. Good music. Admission, 75 cents per person. The public is invited.

—The Rhoda Royal show will arrive in Bellefonte on Sunday morning, unload and pitch its tents on the green near the Pennsylvania Match company's plant in readiness for two exhibitions on Monday.

—There are quite a number of people in Bellefonte, and they are not all kiddies, either, whose nerves are just tingling to go to Altoona next Tuesday for the big Ringling and Barnum and Bailey show.

—The J. L. Montgomery estate has freed over the interest of Col. W. Fred Reynolds in the Bellefonte Fuel and Supply company and will have full control of the same in the future. Gordon Montgomery will be in charge and will be ably assisted by George Waite.

—Rev. H. A. McKelvey, for years pastor of the United Brethren church at Port Matilda but who for the past two years has been located at Logan Centre, Indiana, has retired from the ministry and will locate on a small farm near Tyrone where he will go into the bee and chicken raising business.

—Memorial services will be held at Pleasant Gap on Monday evening at six o'clock. The meeting is called for the Methodist church and after the services there the crowd will proceed to the Lutheran church where some thirty or more old soldiers are buried. Rev. Brown, of the Lutheran church, will deliver the address.

—Now that all the amateur shows have been given at the opera house Bellefonte people will have to depend upon the scenic for their evening's amusement. And they are fortunate, indeed, in having such a good motion picture show as the scenic to go to. There they can see all the latest and up-to-date pictures. Get in the swim and be a regular.

—J. Herbert Ward, formerly of Pino Grove Mills, but now in the musical instrument business in Philadelphia, writes that his famous old dog "Dan" has departed this life. We apply "famous" to Dan because he was the only dog we ever saw actually play a drum and he did it fairly well and certainly enthusiastically. Naturally Herb feels badly about his loss.

—The Bellefonte Academy minstrels gave three splendid performances in the opera house last week and the young men who took part are deserving of a lot of credit. Lack of space prevents a more detailed account. After all expenses are paid there will be about $450 to divide between Troop L and the fund for the new skating pond, or $225 to each, as the result of the minstrels.

—Fourteen thousand trout about an inch and a half in length arrived in Bellefonte on the 4:25 train on Tuesday evening and were taken by local fishermen to Fishing creek where they were released. The trout were from a United States fish hatchery in Maryland and were brought to Bellefonte in a specially equipped car of the U. S. Fisheries Department. There were twenty-eight cans of five hundred trout each.

—A reinforced concrete mill ought to be a most durable structure and no doubt will be, considering the time it takes to erect one. At least that is the opinion of those who have been watching the progress of the new mill being built by C. Y. Wagner just south of Bellefonte. The concrete for the first story has been completed but it takes longer to put in the steel rods for reinforcing the concrete and the forms than it does to pour the concrete and at the rate the workmen are now progressing it will be several weeks yet before the walls are completed and ready for the roof.

—The State Game Commission has secured a number of rindneck pheasant eggs from the Centre game preserve at Port Matilda which they have distributed among sportsmen in other counties who will see that they are hatched and when the birds are old enough to take care of themselves liberated for stocking purposes. The rindneck pheasant is quite hardy and somewhat larger than the native pheasant, and if bird hunters exercise the proper care during the open season and allow them to live there is no reason why they should not become quite plentiful in Centre county mountains.

THE AMMERMAN ESTATE.

Wagon Loads of Vintena Among the Personal Property.

The passing away of Miss Mary Ammerman last Tuesday leaves the estate in a somewhat muddled condition, and the biggest muddle at the present time seems to be what will become of the several wagon loads of Vintena in storage there. Vintena, by the way is about ninety per cent. pure port wine, the other ten per cent. being a little nux vomica and a decoction of harmless herbs mixed with it to give it the name of a patent medicine.

Going back about fifteen years or more a number of men in Bellefonte organized the Penn Chemical company for the manufacture of Vintena, a "guaranteed" tonic for all ills. While the formula was of course copyrighted and not generally known it is no secret that the basic properties of Vintena were port wine, which was purchased in Cincinnati and shipped to Bellefonte in barrels. A considerable quantity of the "patent medicine" was manufactured but the sales did not boom to any great extent. The company had its plant in the rear of the Ammerman building on Bishop street and along about 1907 they got a little behind in rent and the landladies locked up their place of business. In 1908 the company brought action against the Ammerman sisters for damages and secured a judgment for $465.66. The Superior court sustained the action and the judgment was finally paid, which naturally left the Ammerman sisters in possession of all the property of the Penn Chemical company, which included the Vintena.

In 1913 both Nancy Ammerman and Mary Ammerman executed wills in which they left their share in the property to each other in event of death. Nancy was the first to pass away and now Miss Mary has gone to her reward. The nearest heirs are cousins, and of these there are now in Bellefonte Mrs. Thomas Noll and daughter, Mrs. William Lambert, of Pitscairn, and Mrs. Borden, of Portage. R. Scott Ammerman Esq., of Danville, is a relative far removed, but he is not now figuring in the estate.

As no late will of Miss Mary Ammerman has been found disposing of the estate Mrs. Thomas Noll, through her attorney, W. D. Zerby, has filed an application for letters of administration, but objections have been filed to the granting of same by other distant relatives and until this complication is unraveled by the court no move can legally be made towards the settlement of the estate or the disposition of any personal property.

The estate consists of the real estate on Bishop street, which is the old dwelling and a store room, with considerable space between. In addition, is the personal property, which includes primarily the household goods, and in addition the Vintena. Just now the vintena and what will become of it is causing more or less speculation among the general public. The heirs who are at present in Bellefonte, it is reported, undertook to dispose of it several nights ago by pouring it in the sewer, but after they had emptied some of the stuff they concluded it would be too big a job, then conceived the idea of hiring a truck and having it hauled down street and dumped into Spring creek. But this was not done and now it looks as if the vintena will remain locked up until an administrator is appointed and the stuff disposed of in some legal way.

Just how this will finally be done in these times of total prohibition remains to be seen. According to the best data obtainable there are several wagon loads of it, all bottled and packed in cartons in the old cellar. It is principally port wine, and if it was as good in 1908 as some of the members of the old Penn Chemical company claimed it was it ought to be much better now with twelve years more of age added to it. And with all kinds of wine at a premium now the intrinsic value of the stuff is no doubt considerable. There is hardly any doubt but that it comprises the biggest bulk of port wine stored in any place in Bellefonte and if the Penn Chemical company was still in existence and had good title to it, they would have no trouble in getting rid of it.

Dr. Edwin Erle Sparks, president of The Pennsylvania State College, will deliver the commencement address and a general invitation is extended the public to attend.

Dress, who escaped from the new western penitentiary at Rockview in 1917 and only recently returned from California and voluntarily surrendered to the authorities, and as soon as the Governor signs the pardon and the necessary formalities have been observed Dress will be released and be at liberty to return to the young English wife he left in California.

—The lower part of town had a little unusual excitement on Monday evening when policeman Elmer Yeager undertook the arrest of James Parks on the charge of carrying concealed deadly weapons. Parks has not been long out of the penitentiary where he was sent for burglary and of late the fact came to the ears of the police that he carried a gun in his hip pocket. Learning that he was up in the neighborhood of the old pump house policeman Yeager went up there about eight o'clock Monday evening and placed him under arrest. He started down toward the depot with his prisoner and had not gone far when the latter bumped him over backwards then ran. The policeman gave chase firing his revolver in the air and Parks ran across the race above the Lauderbach-Zerby store and had at the Beatty garage. Securing the assistance of several men Yeager covered every avenue of escape and finally caught Parks at the garage. He was then handcuffed and taken to jail.

Improved Road to Laurel Run.

Trout fishermen from Centre and Mifflin counties who want to reach the waters of Laurel run, will find the road along the stream in better condition this spring. During the last few weeks forester W. E. Montgomery, of Milroy, has had considerable work done to improve the road.

Forester Montgomery has notified the Pennsylvania Department of Forestry that $150 was contributed for the road improvement by the members of the Altoona camp, located near the Sawdust spring. It is expected that several other camps in that locality will also make contributions. The State Department of Forestry has agreed to appropriate an amount equal to the sum raised by the various camps.

The Laurel run road leaves the Lewistown to Bellefonte state highway at the "Short Turn," extending westward through the valley between Spruce mountain and Slate ridge on the south and Long mountain on the north.

How to Cleanse the Teeth.

Mrs. John Walker, of McCalmont and company, donated, this week seventy-five pounds of lime to the health crusade work in the public schools. The lime was used to teach the grade pupils how to make lime water for a mouth wash, each pupil being given half a cupful of lime with the following directions from the U. S. Bureau of Education:

"For cleansing the teeth, a good tooth brush with bristles that do not easily break or pull out should be used. The teeth should be brushed, not only up and down and across, but also by a rotary or circular motion from the gums of one jaw over the teeth to the gums of the other, and so round and round. In addition to the tooth brush, dental floss, (waxed silk thread) should be used every day or two to remove the decaying food from between the teeth, where decay most often takes place.

"The best mouth wash is lime water which may be used beneficially once a day to rinse the mouth. To make lime water, place one-half cup full of finely powdered unslaked lime in a quart bottle of water. Allow to stand twenty-four hours and pour off the clear liquid into bottle to use for mouth wash. This powder may be used for successive solutions until entirely dissolved."

Col. Spangler to Leave for California June 9th.

Col. J. L. Spangler, who on last Tuesday was elected a delegate from the Twenty-first congressional district to the Democratic national convention, will not be able to wait for the special train which will convey the eastern delegates across the continent to attend the convention which will convene at San Francisco on June 28th. Instead he and Mrs. Spangler will leave Bellefonte on June 9th and go to the Golden State where the Colonel has been summoned to reconcile the difference between the oil operators and their twenty thousand employees.

The fact will be recalled that a year ago Col. Spangler, as a member of the labor arbitration commission appointed by President Wilson spent six weeks in California arbitrating the wage question between the oil operators and their employees. One of the points made in the settlement of the demands at that time was that if the employees kept the agreement faithfully until the date of its expiration on June 30th, 1920, they were to be paid a bonus of twenty-five cents a day for every day they have worked during the year. The total, naturally foots up to in the neighborhood of $800,000.

As a union the employees have faithfully kept the agreement but individually some forty workmen have not kept faith, and now the operators are hedging on this fact to keep from paying the bonus to the big majority. It is to adjust this question that Col. Spangler has been summoned to California at this time and will meet representatives of the operators and workmen in San Francisco on June 14th. In addition to adjusting the bonus question the wage question for the ensuing year will also be fixed.

Of course it just happens that this is a very opportune time for the Colonel to go west. He can give his services to the settlement of the above question and also be on hand in plenty of time for the opening of the national convention, and it is just possible might be able to secure tickets to the convention for any of his friends who desire to attend.

Walizer—Harter. The congregation which gathered for worship at the Reformed church at Jacksonville on Sunday morning was treated to a delightful surprise when they were made witnesses to the marriage of Glenn Hugh Walizer, of Salona, and Miss Mary Martha Harter, daughter of County Commissioner and Mrs. George M. Harter, of Marion township. Notwithstanding the fact that thirty or more invitations were issued for the wedding the fact was adroitly kept from becoming public and very few of the congregation had even an inkling of the approaching ceremony when they went into the church.

After the singing of a hymn and prior to the regular service Mr. Walizer and Miss Harter, attended by Victor Harter, a brother of the bride, and Miss Mary Hockenberry, of Montandon, a cousin of the bride, went forward to the altar and the officiating minister, Rev. R. F. Gass, promptly pronounced the words that made them man and wife.

At the conclusion of the morning service the members of the two families and intimate friends of the two young people, about fifty in number, journeyed to the Harter home where a delicious wedding dinner was served to all. On Monday morning Mr. and Mrs. Walizer left on a ten days' wedding trip to eastern cities at the expiration of which they will take up their residence in Lock Haven. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Walizer of Salona, and holds a good position in the paper mill at Lock Haven. The "Watchman" extends congratulations.

He Threw the Bull, All Right.

"Throwing the bull" is on old saw that is frequently used in ways more expressive than elegant, and the convict who made his escape from the western penitentiary on Monday evidently had his own ideas about throwing the bull. The man in question was D. M. Farren, an American and a farmer, sent up from Venango county for two years and six months for false pretense. His work at the penitentiary of late had been to take care of the big blooded bull kept on the farms. As the animal was more or less cantankerous Farren took him out to pasture at the end of a rope and pole. He took him out on Monday as usual and finally managed to get out of sight when he tied the bull to a tree and left for parts unknown, and that is the way he threw the bull. Farren is a man about 48 years of age, five feet eight inches tall and weighs 194 pounds. When he took his departure he had on white trousers, striped shirt, a cap and gum boots.
