Republicans Scared of Wilson.

From the Philadelphia Record.

President Wilson has beaten the Republicans twice, and they are evidently in a panic lest he should make it three times. It is fear that inspires their talk about the third term. They know what it means to fight him at the polls, and 1912 and 1916 warn them of their fate if he should be a candidate again. He has the best issue that he ever ran on. The peace treaty and the League of Nations are the dominating issue; the Republicans have made it such, though if they had had common sense they would have ratified the treaty and made the Presidential campaign on some other issue. Now their talk about the deep dark plot to spring the President on the San Francisco convention shows how scared they are.

——It may be assumed that money talked too much before the Chicago convention.

Billy and Nanny May Be Profitably Employed in Clearing Away the Impeding Underbrush.

The monkey cotton picker was never an entire success. The monkey could pick the cotton, but it cost more to provide human direction to guide his efforts than the negro cotton pickers asked for the whole job, picking, directing and all. But the Angora goat as a clearer of land requires no direction. Just string a few strands of barbed wire around the land to be cleared so that Mr. and Mrs. Goat and the kids shall not clear the land that is not to be cleared and they will do the job without even a casual suggestion from the land owenr.

The success which has attended the raising of Angora goats in the rugged Ozark country of southwestern Missouri has suggested to specialists of the department of agriculture that it might be equally profitable to place such herds on many other wild tracts, particularly those which have been cut over, because these goats are proving of great help in clearing away underbrush. Growing mohair and producing kids, the Angoras in the Ozarks are also trimming down the brush, manuring the hills and preparing the way for grass, cattle and sheep.

According to reports secured by a representative of the state college of agriculture in Missouri, the Angoras required to clear an acre of land varies from two to five, depending on the density and size of the brush.

Coal Sense

Our idea of the Coal Market is that while it may not go higher it will surely not be any lower for a long time to come. Therefor it would be wise for you to lay in your winter coal supply now and forestall the danger of a rise in price when the regular fall demand sets in. Besides, you can get it free from ice and snow and now we will have time to screen it and deliver to you in the best condition.

Considering the uncertainties of the coal market the coal in your cellar is worth more than the money that would pay for it is in your bank.

If you want coal let us know your needs and we will do our best for you.
