From all appearances Bellefonte is to have a new place of amusement in the shape of a roller skating rink on the Island above the Watchman office. The rink is now being erected. It is a portable affair that can be moved from town to town and the length of its stay in Bellefonte will depend entirely upon the flow of patronage the place receives.

In the baseball game between Bellefonte and Huntingdon last Thursday afternoon the score stood 3 to 3 in the eighth inning. Then something happened. "Hooker" Hampton walked up and slammed a homer out into the tall grass and could have rounded the bags four or five times before the Huntingdon fielders found the ball. There was no more scoring and Bellefonte won 4 to 3.

Now that the Chautauqua is a thing of the past the scenic looms big as the one place of entertainment in Bellefonte, every evening during the week. Good programs of motion pictures are shown at the scenic. Every picture is new, up-to-date and the best that can be obtained. If you are not a regular attendant you should become one, and thus you will see all the good pictures shown.

During the severe thunder storm which passed over this section about two o'clock last Saturday morning lightning struck the house of Charles Martin, on South Allegheny street, and knocked a hole in the roof, the bolt continuing down through the house and doing some damage, but fortunately it was a cold stroke and the building was not set on fire. Neither were any of the occupants injured.

The Bellefonte Business Men's association have invited the Lock Haven business men to join in the picnic which will be held at Hecla park on Thursday, August 19th. Reserve this day and spend it with the business men at Hecla.

Mrs. Sallie Hayes has sold her handsome home on north Allegheny street to Mr. and Mrs. John S. Walker. Aside from the fact that the sale has been closed no arrangements have yet been made as to when Mr. and Mrs. Walker will be given possession. It is very probable, however, that the change will take place on or about the first of October and as soon as the Walkers move into their new house Mr. and Mrs. Daggett and family will move from the Bush house into the home on Linn street vacated by the Walkers, which is owned by Mr. Daggett.

A Drink With a Clout in It.

The secret is out at last. For some time back many Bellefonters have been wondering as to the cause of certain stages of hilarity among some of the foreign-born residents of this vicinity, but according to the testimony of several of them in 'Squire John Keichline's court on Monday evening the drink is one of their own concoction and it evidently has a clout in it as well as a kick.

The case was one of assault and battery, Charles Sweeter, an Austrian, being the prosecutor and Wash Marshago, also an Austrian, being the defendant; the latter being represented by J. K. Johnston, Esq. The prosecutor testified that the defendant had a pair of steel knuckles and a gun and that he hit him on the nose and face. In his own behalf the defendant testified that Sweeter had not only choked him but slapped him on the face and made his nose bleed. Witnesses on both sides testified that the two men were intoxicated and it was merely a drunken fight.

At this juncture Justice Keichline asked the men where they got their whiskey, or beer, or whatever it was that made them drunk, and they stated that they made it out of elderberry blossoms, cherries, raspberries and hops, so there's the combination.

After hearing all the evidence Justice Keichline sentenced the defendant to pay the costs of prosecution and ordered him to stand committed to the county jail for a period equal to one day for each dollar of the costs but right there the prosecutor interfered and averring that he did not want the man to go to jail paid the costs and the defendant was discharged.

Machine Gun Troop to be Mustered Out of Service.

The new Troop L will be officially mustered into the service of the State as a unit of the new National Guard next Monday evening and two weeks later will be mustered into the federal service. Coincident with the mustering in of the troop next Monday evening the machine gun troop will be mustered out of service and the officers and men given their discharge.

Most of the number, however, have already been sworn in as members of new Troop L.

The machine gun troop was organized as a unit of the provisional National Guard after the old National Guard troops had been called for service in the world war and was officially mustered into service on April 25th, 1918. During their two years or more of service they had been equipped with machine gun trucks and all the most modern machine guns. This outfit, camp equipment, etc., has already been turned over to the machine gun company located at Boalsburg and commanded by Capt. Pierre Boal. And now the mustering out next Monday will mean the passing into history of the Bellefonte machine gun troop, but the mustering in of new Troop L will also mean that Bellefonte will continue to have a unit in the National Guard of the State. In due time a number of horses will be furnished the troop and these will be kept here and maintained at the expense of the State.

Chautauqua Guaranteed for Next Year.

The Bellefonte Chautauqua came to a close on Monday evening and the same night the big tent was torn down and all the equipment moved from the school house grounds and packed in the car, ready for transportation to the next town on Tuesday morning. A sufficient number of guarantors were enrolled to assure the return of the Chautauqua next year, and in this connection it was officially announced that the guarantors had been secured without any exertion on the part of the Chautauqua people, owing no doubt to the fact that every ticket was sold this year and the guarantors were not obliged to make up any deficit.

The closing attraction of the Chautauqua was a lecture by Lieut. Belvin W. Maynard, "The Flying Parson," and while many of the audience enjoyed his talk, he cannot be dignified as being in the class of "stellar attractions." As an introductory he told the story of his flight to the Pacific and back in an aeroplane but he told nothing that hasn't already been printed over and over. His lecture in the main was devoted to women and the ballot and while he made some interesting points he did not say anything especially new. But a good many in the audience enjoyed his talk and seemed perfectly satisfied that he was worth hearing.

Be a Booster for Bellefonte.

The business men of Bellefonte through their recently organized association have already done much to advertise the town and have gotten good results. And now the association has sprung another stunt which should prove a good booster. At considerable trouble and expense they have secured thousands of stickers in sheets, each one containing a trite saying showing the advantages of the town and community. These stickers have been distributed among the merchants of the town and they willingly give them out to any one who will use them on letters, packages, etc. Don't be afraid to ask for them.

According to the Altoona papers Luther Irvin Shoemaker and Miss Harriet Linn Foster, both of Bellefonte, were married at Holidaysburg on Wednesday of last week by Rev. Stanley Kemp.

Gospel tent meetings will be held on the school grounds at Oak Hall during the week of July 31st to August 8th, inclusive. Revs. J. E. Wolfe, D. W. Dubendorf and Adlena Bahrent will be in charge. Services each week evening at eight o'clock and three services on Sunday—at 10 o'clock a. m., 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. The full gospel will be preached and the public is cordially invited.

As evidence of the fact that contractor Grover Conrad is determined to get the new milk station here up as soon as possible, he has a gang of men working on the foundation as late in the evening as possible, thus taking advantage of every hour of daylight to rush the work. In this connection it might also be said that Mr. J. A. Collins, the enthusiastic country representative of the Western Maryland Dairy, who has charge of the work of establishing the milk plant in this place, has already started work on establishing milk routes as feeders for his plant.

Building a reinforced concrete mill is no little job, as Messrs. C. Y. Wagner and R. B. Spangler have probably discovered ere this. To be more explicit, it was quite early in the spring when these gentlemen broke ground for their new mill along the state road just south of Bellefonte, and in the intervening time they have finally gotten the walls to the top of the fourth story and will soon be ready to put on the roof. But at that there is a large amount of work yet to do before the mill will be in shape for the installation of the machinery. But when it is finally completed it will be one of the most substantial and up-to-date mills in the country.

Russell G. Strickler, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Strickler, of Bellefonte, is meeting with deserved recognition as an employee of the Pennsylvania railroad company in Tyrone. Mr. Strickler has been in charge of the statistical office at the Fourteenth street building in Tyrone and was to have been removed to the new office building on Tenth street, but the car record office and the statistical office were combined and Mr. Strickler placed in charge at his old location. It will naturally be very gratifying to Russell's many friends in Bellefonte to learn that his courteous manner and efficient service have won for him the responsible position to which he has been advanced.

The first concert of the Belgian Veterans band, at Chautauqua, was quite a pleasing surprise to most of us. There wasn't an Oskovsky or a Seize on the program and as a result we had a delightful afternoon listening to the music that had something more to it than an exhibition of technique. The same hard-headed sense that has taken the Belgian people back to their looms and glass tanks and steel mills, while other war-torn nations of Europe are hysterically crying: "We are maimed beyond recovery" and doing nothing, seems to be a possession of the director of this splendid organization for he played a program that the audience actually enjoyed and not one that appealed only to the critic.

On Monday William Thompson put off a blast in the old furnace stone quarry, now owned by the American Lime and Stone company, which played havoc in that neighborhood. The shot was placed in what is called a loose bottom hole and when the explosion of the hole instead of shattering the rock. The result was the concussion was so heavy that many of the windows were broken in the Collins row of houses recently purchased by the company, while flying stones knocked holes in nearby buildings. One big stone flew across the road and crashed down through the roof of the old fair-ground gate house, the Conroy property recently purchased by Mr. and Mrs. William Crawford, not stopping until it landed on the lower floor. Fortunately not a soul was injured but the damage done will foot up a few hundred dollars.

There is one boy alive and well in Bellefonte who probably owes his life to the skill of an unknown man in handling his automobile. The child is a Gallagher boy and he had the narrow escape on Tuesday morning he probably ever will have. An unknown man drove down town in an automobile and turned the corner to go out Water street. The boy had come in Water street, pulling a little wagon and just as the driver of the machine turned the corner the boy jumped from the pavement and started across the street right in front of the machine. Had the man been going fast he could not have helped but hit the boy but with rare presence of mind he swung his wheel sharply around and ran his machine up on the pavement in imminent danger of plunging through the railing and down over the high wall into Spring creek, and thus missed the boy, but he broke the rear end of his little wagon. When the stranger saw the boy was safe he drove on and his identity was not learned.

A Generous Gift from the K. K. K. to the Free Dental Fund for Children.

Last week, posters appeared in various conspicuous places announcing that an entertainment, in the form of a Japanese cabaret, would be given in Dr. Rogers yard, Monday evening, the nineteenth, by the "K. K. K." a secret society having the following officers: Betty Ray, president; Molly Shugert, vice president; Mary Katz, secretary; Virginia Hiller, treasurer. Other members of this mysterious society are Betty Zerby, Evelyn and Mary Rogers. The entertainment consisted of songs, dances and recitations with refreshments of watermelon, punch and other goodies. As a result of their enterprise the children had twelve dollars in their treasury which they generously turned over to the dental fund for school children. It is pleasing to know that children, who have never known the agony of toothache because blessed with parents well able to provide them the best of every sort of care, should want to help these less fortunate and we wish this same happy thought might come to others—adults as well as children. Can anything be more distressing than toothache without any means of relief? Agonizing enough is it when we have money to pay for dental care but how much worse to have to just endure it! Pleas for all sorts of charities are constantly before the public but surely no worthier one can be imagined than to give a child relief not only from toothache, but from the more serious diseases that are now known to follow abscessed teeth. A small sum of money was realized from the concert given recently in the Presbyterian chapel but as it would cost, at the very least, five hundred dollars to establish a dental clinic, it was decided to use this money at once to have the teeth of as many children as possible put in order. Parents of these children are asked to pay whatever they can and the remainder is paid from the fund earned by the Tuberculosis committee of the Woman's club. Any contribution to this fund will be delightedly received by Helene Williams, treasurer, or Elizabeth B. Meek.

Immediately following the ceremony they motored to the Carl Osman home at State College where a delicious wedding dinner was served and reception held. The following day they left on a wedding trip to Chicago and other western points, expecting to be at home to their friends in Cleveland on and after August first. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Smith, of Pine Grove Mills, and is a most excellent young woman.
