-The Bellefonte public schools opened on Tuesday with a full complement of teachers and 258 pupils in the High school and 554 in the grades. The atendance shows a falling off in the High school of fifteen pupils and an increase in the grades of nineteen, making the total attendance this year four more than last. While the attendance in the High school is below that of last year, the falling off is in resident pupils, as the out of town attendance is about as large as last year.

Of course the dissolution does not mean that the firm will go out of business, as Mr. Gehret will continue the work in the future.

-After a prolonged siege with pleurisy and pneumonia and the general after effects of both diseases G. Fred Musser has recovered to that extent that he is able to be out and around, looking a little thin, it must be admitted, but with an appetite equal to most anything and enough grit and determination left to forswear business yet awhile and conserve all his energies and strength in recovering his former robust health. Of course Fred's friends are all glad to see him so well along the road to permanent recovery.

-In another column of this issue is published the schedule of prices now prevailing in the Bush House restaurant. The proprietor offers to Bellefonte people who are temporarily inconvenienced in their own homes the service of his splendid hotel and especially directs attention to the plate luncheon at 65cts. Comparing the prices on the Bush House card with those of a number of hotels of the same class recently visited by the writer we are justified in saying that food is served cheaper here than at many other Pennsylvania towns.
