Bellefonte, Pa., September 24, 1920.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

Roy Coldren has resigned his position in the Bellefonte postoffice and on Monday left for Tyrone, where he has secured a good job which will pay much better than work for Uncle Sam.

In the obituary of J. Thos. Harrison, in last week's issue, the name of Miss Anna From was given as Mr. Harrison's second wife, instead of Miss Anna Grove, as it should have been.

Harry Winton has resigned his job as carrier of the mail from the Bellefonte postoffice to the railroad depot, effective October 15th, and will devote most of his time to his coal business.

"Wanted, a Man." A sermon that should be heard by man, woman and child, at the Methodist church, Sunday, at 7:30 p. m. An appropriate selection entitled "Be a Man," will be sung by the male quartet.

No mail was carried by planes last Sunday, and all Sunday service has been annulled for the present. Airplanes with mail, however, were sent through on Monday and will so continue until further notice.

Howard Dry, of Tyrone, has leased the basement room in the Bush Arcade, along south Water street, and will install therein a sanitary fish and oyster market just as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made.

On September first Lunge C. Wian rounded out twenty years service as manager of the Atlantic Refining company supply station in Bellefonte, and from the way he looks now he is good for twenty years more.

A lot of very useful household articles will be sold by Mrs. R. G. H. Hayes at her home on north Allegheny street, next Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock. They are all good and if you are not there when auctioneer Siney Hoy gets busy you will miss a chance.

Now that ex-sheriff W. E. Hurley has been appointed superintendent of state highways for Centre county he can point with pride to that stretch of highway he built from State College to the Huntingdon county line as a monument of his efficiency in road building.

Bishop street from Allegheny to Spring, was thrown open to traffic last Saturday and now, after being closed in all summer the business men and people living along that section of street have at last the comfort of knowing that they have a thoroughfare well worth waiting for.

Prof. H. A. Surface, the one time "bugologist" at The Pennsylvania State College, later State Zoologist and last year head of the continuation school at Carlisle, has moved to Selingsgrove where he has accepted the chair of biology in the Susquehanna University. He now plans to develop the subject of botany and biology in their relations to man and woman.

The public hall at Millheim was not able to accommodate much over half the crowd that turned out on Wednesday evening to hear William Jennings Bryan lecture. The great Commoner did not discuss politics but adhered strictly to the subject of his lecture, "Where are the Nine?" Of course his applications were made in the interest of true Americanism and good citizenship, and the lecture seemed to be appreciated by all who heard it.

On Saturday afternoon an automobile collision occurred on High street, at the intersection of Water street, between the cars of H. W. Macker and Dr. W. U. Irwin. Mr. Macker was on his way up High street from the depot and Dr. Irwin came in north Water street on his way to the Bellefonte hospital, the cars coming together at the intersection of the streets. The doctor's car got the worst of the bargain, as it had to be towed to a garage for repairs.

Borough manager J. D. Seibert and James I. McClure came within an ace of meeting in personal combat last Saturday morning, over the latter's pavement rights along his property on Spring and Logan streets. And the affair progressed to that stage where Mr. Seibert had Mr. McClure arrested for making threats. But justice of the peace Woodring could find no evidence of threats having been made at a hearing held before him and Mr. McClure was discharged.

Popular motion picture actors and actresses always draw big crowds. This was proven on Saturday evening when a well-known screen favorite was shown at the Scenic. The crowd clamoring for admission blocked the pavement in front of Petrikin hall so that pedestrians were compelled to go out in the street to get around it. Of course manager T. Clayton Brown realizes this fact and that is the main reason why he is always looking for the best pictures he can get to give his patrons.

Many persons, especially farmers, should be interested in the sale of the equipment of the McQuiston carriage shops in this place on October 2nd. Farmers still have horses and wagons and the practical passing of the crossroads blacksmith and wheel-right shops has forced most of them to do their own repairing and shoeing. A fine line of tools for these purposes is to be sold at the McQuiston sale and persons having any use for such articles will have a chance to buy them cheap.

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT.

Jack White, of Huntingdon, Victim of Bad Wreck Friday Night.

John White, sales agent for the Vuille agency of the Cadillac automobile, of Huntingdon, was so badly injured in a smash-up down at the Red Roost last Friday night that he died at the Bellefonte hospital about eleven o'clock on Saturday morning without regaining consciousness, and George A. Barrett, who was struck by the automobile, is in the Bellefonte hospital badly though not fatally injured.

"Jack" White, as he was familiarly known by his friends, came to Bellefonte on Friday, accompanied by E. A. Rose, of Johnstown, in a rebuilt Cadillac runabout for which he was hunting a purchaser. The men had been out to Snow Shoe for the afternoon, having left that place after dark and were on their way to Bellefonte from Milesburg when the accident happened, which was about ten o'clock in the evening. Mr. Barrett and Mrs. Samuel Gordon, and the latter's young son, had walked down the state road from Bellefonte and were just opposite the school house at Red Roost when they saw the car coming. Mrs. Gordon states that they had stepped to the side of the road purposely to get out of the way of the car which was being driven at a very high speed, but as it neared them it suddenly veered to the left and before they could move the car swept past and Barrett had disappeared from her side. Almost in the same breath there was a terrific crash and car and occupants lay in a crumpled mass in the roadway. Mrs. Gordon was so frightened she stumbled to the school house and leaned against the building for support.

Mrs. Tressler, who lives next door to the school house heard the crash and at once ran out, being the first person on the scene, but it was only a minute or two until quite a crowd gathered. White was found lying in the road unconscious but Mr. Rose, while somewhat dazed, escaped with only slight injuries. Barrett could not be found anywhere, and it was not until an hour later that he was found unconscious in a gutter alongside the road seventy feet from where the accident happened.

Owing to the fact that Mr. White, who drove the car, is dead it is difficult to tell the exact cause of the accident. White had always been regarded as a safe driver but how he came to be on the wrong side of the road, and even to the side of the road when he struck Mr. Barrett is a question that will never be explained. It is just possible he saw the road up over the hill and thinking that was the road he swung to the left to take it. Then when he struck Mr. Barrett that gentleman, instead of being knocked to one side was thrown up on the fender and hood of the machine. The driver then swung to the right to get on the state highway but not quick enough to avoid striking the big telephone pole that stands in the triangle of the three roads. The car struck the pole at the front door and the impact was so terrific that the side of the car was crushed in and the machine badly wrecked. As the car struck the pole the force of the impact was so great that White was thrown against the pole, causing a deep laceration of the scalp, but no fracture of the bone. This was the only visible injury but it is likely that his death was caused by concussion of the brain and shock.

The injured man was hurried to the Bellefonte hospital where everything possible was done for him but he never regained consciousness.

At the time of the accident search was made for Mr. Barrett but he could not be found and some inclined to the belief that he had not been hurt but had gone back to his work as fireman at the pike kilns of the American Lime & Stone company. It was fully an hour later when Mrs. Tressler and a Miss McMullen walked up to the wreck and heard some person moaning. They were very much frightened and promptly ran to the nearest houses and summoned help. A search then revealed Mr. Barrett lying in a deep ditch to the left of the road. He had evidently been carried on the front of the car about a hundred feet until the auto struck the telephone pole, then hurled a distance of seventy feet to where he was found in the ditch. And strange as it may seem not a bone in his body was broken though he was cut and bruised and is suffering from shock. He was brought to the hospital by the Emerick motor bus.

Mr. White, who was thirty-eight years old, was married and has two small children. His wife was brought to Bellefonte Saturday morning before he died but he was unconscious so did not know her. An auto hearse from Huntingdon came to Bellefonte Saturday afternoon and took the remains to that place for burial.

Notice to Women.

Any woman in Centre county who has not been registered and wants to vote at the November election should promptly apply to file registration as assessor to place her name upon the list, then hunt up the tax collector in her district and pay the fifteen cents tax on or before October 2nd. This latter is imperative, otherwise she will not be permitted to vote.

The regular September term of court will convene in Bellefonte next week. In the neighborhood of twenty Commonwealth cases are open on the docket, but it is possible that a number of them will be disposed of without going to trial.

Lost.—Between Bellefonte and Curtin, pair of glasses in case. Finder please return to this office. 38-1t*

The Clinton county farmer's picnic scheduled for Labor day was postponed on account of rain. It has been decided to hold this picnic on Thursday, September 30th, at Agar's park, near Mill Hall. There will be livestock exhibits, judging contests, poultry culling demonstrations and various other features on the program. Everybody is invited to take their basket and spend the day.

The congregation of St. Paul's A. M. E. church have this week been celebrating the sixty-second anniversary of the establishment of the church in this place. The services began last Sunday and will continue over the coming Sunday, which in reality will be the big day of the celebration. There will be preaching services both morning and evening with the young people's services in the afternoon. Both dinner and supper will be served at the church and the congregation will thus make a full day of it.

The attention of farmers and dairymen in Centre county is hereby called to the new advertisement of the Western Maryland Dairy in this issue of the "Watchman" and in this connection we might add that the company's new milk station in this place is fast nearing completion. One portion of the plant is up and already under roof and the entire building will be completed in the next two or three weeks. The matter of installing the machinery will not be a big job, so that the company will soon be in the market for milk.

Residents of Bellefonte were considerably startled about seven o'clock on Wednesday evening by a terrific explosion which literally shook the houses, and naturally everybody wondered what it was. Yesterday it was learned that the responsible party was J. Mitchell Cunningham. For some time past he has been courting a desire to get rid of an old stone stable on his property and he finally conceived the idea of blowing it down. The attempt was made on Wednesday evening and while the explosion made plenty of noise its demolishing force was not as great as desired.

The top of the Methodist church steeple was pulled down a few minutes after four o'clock on Monday afternoon and so carefully had contractor Edward Hepburn planned everything that the twenty-five foot section fell sidewise into the gutter and did practically no damage whatever. An interesting incident in connection with the taking down of the steeple is that the iron top of it was put up forty-four years ago by W. T. Twitmore and one of the Tates, and on Monday Mr. Twitmore helped to pull it down. Now that the top of the steeple is down the dismantling of the balance of it will be a simple matter.

A number of foreign born citizens have enrolled as students in the Americanization course of citizenship now being conducted every Monday and Wednesday evenings at the Bellefonte High school. Last winter from twenty to thirty men and women attended the Americanization course and there is no doubt but that all of them were greatly benefitted thereby. The principal studies taught are reading, writing, arithmetic, spelling and American history. This course offers a rare opportunity to all foreign born citizens and every one who can possibly do so should take advantage of the opportunity and attend it.

As it looks now Bellefonte will have one less hotel at this time next week. H. S. Ray, who will retire from the management of the well known Brockerhoff house next Thursday is offering all the equipment of the big hotel at private sale and what is unsold will be moved out of the house next Thursday and stored. Up to the present time no one has been secured to take charge of the hotel, and it is quite possible no special effort in this direction will be made before next spring at least. With coal as high as it is the heating of the hotel during the winter season means an expense of twenty dollars a day, or thereabouts, so that the overhead expense of keeping it open would be quite large. Thus it is almost a certainty that next Friday morning will find the hotel tightly locked and the date of its reopening as a public hostelry is entirely problematical. It might here be added that it is the first time in the history of Bellefonte that one of its hotels has thus been closed to public patronage.

"Humoresque" at State College.

In conformity with the progressive policy of the management of the Pastime theatre, State College, they are to present "Humoresque" Thursday and Friday of next week. This production broke all former records in New York city in a continuous run of ten weeks at the Criterion theatre, and is now doing the same in Philadelphia at the Metropolitan opera house. These theatres showed at advanced prices but it will be shown at State College at 30 cents for adults and children 15 cents and tax. The photoplay is real life faithfully portrayed. It has an immense appeal to the heart, equalled by few works of literature and fewer stage productions. It is a story that cries to hide its laughter and laughs to hide its tears. It is the one outstanding picture of the year, and all who witness it will agree with this statement.

We are Receiving Many Letters from Subscribers.

Since starting the campaign to raise enough money on our subscription list to pay for a car load of paper we have received many responses. Not as many, of course, as we would like to have but yet sufficient to quite encourage the hope that our readers will not fail us in this extremity.

While many of those who have responded have been too busy to do more than enclose a check or money order others have found time to write most encouraging little notes. While we have no thought of criticism for those who have not had the time to do more than answer our appeal in a purely business way, for we know that other people are just as busy as we are ourselves, we can't resist expressing our gratitude for the kindly expressions of appreciation of our work that so many of our readers have sent in.

We are all human, and whether it be the real thing or only flattery we just can't help being cheered up a bit when some one tells us that the "Watchman" is really a worth while newspaper. We know of no work, outside of that of a country physician, that is more of a grind. When everything about us is going awry and lead-gray skies are overhanging we have to try to record the joys of the other fellow as happily as possible. Just as when the sun is shining gloriously in our office and we would see nothing but blue skies everywhere we are called upon to record the inexpressible sorrows that are ever coming to others. These things go on forever in a newspaper office and worse than ever in a country office, where it must all be done by two or three individuals. The present edition is not try from the press before thoughts of next week's issue begin to haunt us.

It is not a sob chorus that we are trying to sing because we don't have to remain in the newspaper business. We are here because we like it, because we honestly think we are rendering the community a service. So you can understand now why we are cheered up a bit by a word now and then.

On Wednesday a letter came from an old, old friend, the venerable Jacob Solt, of Frederick, Md., who is now seventy-six years old and has read the "Watchman" continuously since he was twelve. "It would go very hard with me to do without the dear old paper" he writes and we want to tell you all that his use of that word "dear" carries a lot of meaning to us.

Then our friend Logan Long, who is now working up at Port Matilda, writes in that "anyone who can't get a dollar and a half's worth of news out of one week's issue of the "Watchman" must be blind." We have a fear that Log is handing us a little bull, but be that as it may it was mighty fine of him to think of us at all.

And a friend out at Woodlawn, Pa., tells us that "we enjoy your very valuable paper immensely" and then he takes a slam at our versatile correspondent at Pleasant Gap because that worthy scribe gets his interest all worked up on doings at the Gap and then lets the Gap fall clear off the map for a few weeks.

And so they have been. Chuck full of good wishes, friendly criticism and the stuff we care for least and need most—money. We are grateful for every one of them and hope the writers will understand the utter impossibility to give them the personal acknowledgment they deserve.

John T. Harris Again Promoted.

John Tonner Harris, whom we Bellefonters will always claim as one of "our boys," has again won a merited promotion in the organization of the Bell Telephone company, having been appointed division superintendent of traffic of the Pittsburgh division, which includes the Pittsburgh central district, the Pittsburgh suburban district and the Western Pennsylvania district. Shortly after his graduation at State College, or in 1898, Mr. Harris entered the employ of the Bell Telephone company in Bellefonte as an installer of phones. He early showed an adaptability to the work with the result that he was made manager of the office at Philipsburg. In 1901 he was given charge of the Altoona territory where he remained until 1907 when he was transferred to the traffic department at Harrisburg, having successfully filled the positions of traffic superintendent, division traffic manager and division superintendent of traffic. His transfer to a larger field not only carries with it greater responsibilities and a nice increase in salary but is evidence of the confidence placed in him by the Bell management. The "Watchman" wishes him continued success in his new field of labor.

Vacation of College Township Roads Recommended.

The board of road and bridge viewers was in session on Monday hearing testimony for and against applications to vacate two pieces of road in College township, one from the Oak Hall station to the farm of Oscar Rishel, and the other from Centre Furnace to the Big Hollow road on the line of College and Ferguson townships, and an application to vacate a piece of road in Boggs township from Curtin along the north side of the Bald Eagle creek to the old Barnhart farm. After hearing the testimony of many interested persons the board decided to recommend the vacating of the College township roads while the Boggs township road was held over until the December term of court.

He came east a month or more ago and will visit in Centre county several weeks longer. He is a grower of citrus fruit, near Los Angeles, and specializes in lemons; having eight acres of them under cultivation. A fair idea of farming, as they call it out there, can be had from Mr. Barnhart's statement that many farmers own only one acre and when that is developed to a profitable lemon grove the returns are sufficient to insure a very comfortable living.

Capt. W. H. Fry, of Pine Grove Mills, took his departure Monday for Indianapolis, Ind., to attend the annual encampment of the National G. A. R., which will be held in that city this week.
