TRAVELING TO THE ORIENT.

Mrs. R. S. Brouse Writes of Her Trip to the Sunny Climes.

Readers of the "Watchman" will recall the fact that Mrs. R. S. Brouse, of Bellefonte, left here about the middle of July for Japan to attend the eighth World's Sunday school convention to be held in Tokyo the second week in October. Going from here to Seattle, Wash., she made the voyage on the Japanese steamer Fushimi Maru and in letters home tells of her trip as follows:

We set sail on the last day of July and Sunday was a lovely, sunny day, but quite cold. Our first day out we saw five whales spouting and naturally it was an interesting sight to me. The first five days of our trip was west, northwesterly then we turned to west, southwest. The weather was so cold that many people took the blankets from their beds and used them as steamer rugs. In our party are a Mr. and Mrs. Owens, of Lewisburg, (Mr. Owens being an instructor in chemistry at Bucknell), a man from Bedford, and myself being the only Pennsylvanians. My roommates on board ship were a Mrs. Hankinson and a Miss Brown. The Fushimi is a fine ship with everything possible in the way of comfort and convenience. The tables in the main dining salon were arranged for five people each. My messmates were Mr. and Mrs. Owens, Mr. Wallace, of Bedford, and Mrs. Lajose, of Chicago.

On our first Sunday out we had church services. Mrs. Evans, a Congregational minister, read the Scripture lesson and led in prayer while the sermon was preached by Rev. Olmstead, a Free Methodist. His sermon was wonderful, and he didn't talk from manuscript, or even use notes of reference. Later we learned that he was on his way to China where he is to be a bishop among the missionaries. A number of missionaries were on the boat but they traveled second class, so that we did not see much of them.

On board the boat were a Prof. and Mrs. Smith, of Chicago, who will be in charge of the music at the convention at Tokyo, and the pageants in the different cities we will visit. He has a chorus of one thousand voices practicing in Tokyo for the convention. Our first night on the ship I was awakened by hearing Mrs. Hankinson scream "a rat, a rat!" I switched on the light and a moister rat jumped from her bed. We rang for the steward and though everyone made a diligent search the rat could not be found. But we left the light burn all night. I had a basket of fruit on the table and the rat had been helping himself.

Just here I want to say that anybody sailing on a Japanese boat don't need take anything extra to eat along. I never saw so much fruit and everything else to eat as we had on board that boat.

There were one hundred and thirty-three Sunday school people in the party, all bound for the convention. Quite a number were seasick but fortunately I stood the voyage very well. But if anybody ever tells you that the Pacific is calm, don't believe it. There were days when it was awful rough, the waves breaking over the upper decks. For five days we had rain and snow and not a bit of sunshine, then the clouds broke away and the weather became delightful.

We had lectures, band concerts and moving pictures on board to help pass the time, and one night Prof. Horio, a Japanese, gave a lecture on Japan and its customs. One of our diversions on ship was taking lessons in the Japanese language from a Mrs. Glenn. Of course, we only tried to learn the most ordinary and oftenest used words, so we can make ourselves understood among the natives.

The first week at sea we lost one entire day. We jumped from Friday to Sunday as we crossed the 180th meridian. Just why this is I am yet at a loss to understand.

On August 10th Prof. Smith gave a circus on board the boat. He has trunks of costumes that he brought along for the pageants and he had some of the "kitties" on board dressed as kittens, monkeys, etc. There are quite a number of children on board but they are kept down on the lower deck. They have their own dining room, etc., so we see very little of them. I went down one day to see them eat and they looked awfully cute. There are three heights of tables in the room. Low tables and low chairs for the wee ones, and higher tables and chairs for the older ones.

Many of the passengers on our boat have been around the world several times. One old Japanese gentleman, a tea importer, said that this was his seventieth trip from Japan to New York. He sang some Japanese songs for us and the orchestra played Jap music. Their music was always high class, never any jazz or ragtime.

We had our laundry done on board and the prices were very cheap. My week's laundry was 48 sen, or 24 cents in our money. Every day we had fire drill on board when the men would all fly to the life boats and pumps.

Fifteen hundred miles from Yokohama we got our first wireless news after leaving the radius of the United States, and among other things the captain was informed that we were right in the path of a typhoon. The course of the ship was immediately changed and although we went one hundred and fifty miles out of our way we got the tail end of the typhoon, and I was very thankful that we got only the tail. It was a new experience for me. The dining chairs were clamped to the floor and boxes were put on the tables to hold the dishes. One man was thrown out of bed while a number of people got bad falls. Many people became sick and the doctor was so sick he could not look after the others. The victrola in the ladies salon was thrown over and broken, and dishes were swept from tables as if they were paper. The waves came up over the portholes like black mountains but our ship finally got through all right. The next day the weather was as calm as it had been rough before and everybody appeared arrayed in white. The remainder of our voyage was without incident.

Lutheran Synod Will Be Held in Bellefonte Next Week.

The Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Central Pennsylvania will meet in its sixty-seventh annual session in St. John's Lutheran church, Bellefonte, beginning Monday evening of next week and closing Thursday evening. About thirty-five ministers and as many lay delegates will be in attendance at this meeting.

At 7:30 Monday evening Dr. T. C. Houtz, president of the Synod, will preach the opening sermon after which the Holy Communion will be administered.

Tuesday evening will be Brotherhood night, and the address will be delivered by Hon. Albert W. Johnson, of Lewisburg, president judge of Union and Snyder counties. Judge Johnson is a splendid speaker and will have a stirring message especially appealing to the laymen.

Wednesday evening Rev. A. R. Longanecker, of Loysville, Pa., will speak on the subject of "The Enlarged Work of the United Lutheran Church."

The closing session Monday evening will consist of a sermon by Rev. J. C. Reighard, of Marysville, and the licensure and ordination service.

Morning sessions of the Synod will begin each day at 8:30 and the afternoon meetings at 2. Visitors are welcome to attend any or all of these meetings, and may feel free to drop in at any time of the day or evening.

Working to Prevent Forest Fires.

Forester T. Roy Morton, of Petersburg, who is in charge of the Logan state forest in Huntingdon and western Centre counties, is making extensive preparations to protect his territory from fire this fall. This week forest rangers Robert Bailey and Robert Reitz are re-brushing and clearing the roads and trails on the Bear Meadows' division, and forest ranger G. E. Ross is clearing the trails and fire lanes on the Greenwood division. In his forest, Forester Morton has many miles of fire trails that make the forest more accessible and enables the forest officers to fight forest fires to advantage. After the trails were cleared of brush, Forester Morton made bare a strip of soil two feet wide in the center of the trail. Flames that reach the bare soil strip die out, usually, because the litter of leaves and brush has been removed from their path.

Answers to Last Health Lesson.

Question 1—What are the early signs of scarlet fever?
Answer—Headache, fever, rapid pulse, sore throat, rash.

Question 2—How is the disease spread?
Answer—By coughing, laughing or talking in the face of one susceptible and by objects handled by patients.

Question 3—How may the spread be prevented?
Answer—By early recognition and quarantine.

The subject of the next lesson is "Vaccination." This discovery of Jenner has made small pox, once universally dreaded, a rare disease. In line with Pennsylvania's policy of prevention all school children of the State are required to present a certificate of successful vaccination before they can enter school.

Ex-sheriff D. W. Woodring is quite ill at his home on east Howard street as the result of an attack of the grip.

PIPER.—Jesse Brooks Piper, a well known resident of Huntingdon county, died at his home at Alexandria at 3:30 o'clock last Thursday afternoon of neuralgia of the heart, following a brief illness. He was at work on Wednesday and while in the act of cranking an automobile he was seized with an intense pain in the arm and chest. Thursday morning he was not so well and grew worse rapidly until the end.

Deceased was a son of Peter and Isabelle Piper and was born in Alexandria on April 3rd, 1864, hence was in his fifty-seventh year. As a young man he learned the carriage making trade, an occupation he followed all his life in his home town with the exception of twelve years spent in Pine Grove Mills. While living in the latter place he married Miss Alice Barr and to them were born two daughters, now Mrs. Fred Howland, of New York State, and Mrs. Daniel Isenberg, of Frankstown. His first wife died in 1901 and in 1912 he married Miss Louise McCoy, of Warriorsmark, who survives. He also leaves two brothers, one sister, William and Joseph Piper, and Mrs. C. H. Spiker, all living near Alexandria.

Mr. Piper was a member of the Reformed church and an elder in the same. He was also superintendent of the Sunday school and teacher of the bible class. He was a member of the I. O. O. F. and served two terms as district deputy grand master of Huntingdon county. He served as school director and at the time of his death was a justice of the peace in Alexandria.

Funeral services were held at his late home at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon by his pastor, Rev. William Stewart, and burial in the cemetery at Alexandria was in charge of the Odd Fellows, six of his lodge members acting as pall bearers.

Members of the family wish, through the columns of the "Watchman," to thank all those who so kindly assisted in the time of their bereavement.

SHIPLEY.—B. W. Shipley, one of the best known residents of Bald Eagle valley, died at his home at Unionville last Saturday night as the result of a stroke of paralysis sustained five weeks ago. He was born in England on July 20th, 1832, hence had reached the advanced age of 88 years, 2 months and 6 days. When but four years old he came with his parents to this country and located in Clinton county but some twenty years later they moved to Unionville where he lived ever since.

In 1859 he was united in marriage to Miss Agnes Johnson who survives with the following children: Alexander, of Altoona; Mrs. Elizabeth Potter, of Unionville; George, of Port Matilda; Mrs. Agnes Shadle, of Altoona; Miss Susan, a trained nurse located at Quantico, Va., and Miss Mary, at home. The funeral was held at two o'clock yesterday afternoon, burial being made in the Dix Run cemetery.

BARRETT.—George Barrett, the man who was hit by the automobile driven by John S. White, two weeks ago which resulted in the latter's death, died at the Bellefonte hospital on Tuesday evening. At first it was thought that his injuries were not very serious but he only had spells of consciousness during the ten days succeeding the accident and his death finally resulted.

He was a son of Andrew and Rachel Barrett and was born at Milesburg fifty-five years ago. He was in the employ of the American Lime and Stone company as a kiln fireman at the time of the accident. His wife, who prior to her marriage was Miss Mary Moyer, died a little over a year ago but surviving him are two sons, William and James, of Bellefonte. He also leaves four brothers and one sister. Burial will be made in the Union cemetery this (Friday) afternoon.

GALBRAITH.—James Buchanan Galbraith, an old-time resident of Harris township passed away at the home of Henry Reitz, on Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, death being due to general debility. He was a son of Rev. Galbraith, a pioneer settler in Harris township, and was the last of his father's family, his one known relative being Frank Galbraith, of Bellefonte. He was a veteran of the Civil war, having served in the 153rd regiment, Pennsylvania volunteers. Until two years ago he lived on the old Galbraith homestead in Galbraith gap, but when that property was purchased by Col. Boal he moved into Boalsburg and had since made his home in that place. Funeral services were held at the Reitz home on Sunday morning by Rev. Brown, of the Lutheran church, after which burial was made in the Boalsburg cemetery.

MOYER.—John Henry Moyer, a well known farmer of Potter township, was found dead in an out house at his home near Colyer on Wednesday morning of last week, death being caused by leakage of the heart and dropsy, with which he had been afflicted for some time. He was about sixty-four years old and had followed farming all his life. His wife died four years ago but surviving him are three children, Mrs. Fred Brown, of Colyer; Mrs. Arthur Cummings, of Rebersburg, and Cyrus, at home. He was a member of the Reformed church and Rev. R. R. Jones had charge of the funeral services which were held on Saturday, burial being made at Tylersville.

MULLEN.—Margery Lois Mullen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Mullen, of State College, and a granddaughter of Mrs. S. S. Grieb, of the same place, died on Monday of last week following a brief illness. The Mullens moved to State College just about three weeks ago from Versailles, Wis., and the death of their little daughter is a sad blow to the parents. Burial on Thursday morning was made in the Pine Hall cemetery.

Disabled Service Men Have New Chance for Vocational Training.

Several applications for vocational training have been received by Dr. J. Ben Hill, of the State College Chapter of the Red Cross, since his announcement recently that disabled service men are now being considered for such training on a much larger scale than previously. Many restrictions have been lifted by the federal board for vocational training, making it possible for many men whose application for training were previously set aside to have their cases reopened. Handicap classifications have been eliminated and applications are now placed in but two classes, those who have a vocational handicap and are eligible for section II training, or those who have no vocational handicap and are not eligible for such training.

Men who are refused training because of their disabilities and were classed as minor or negligible, may now be considered. They may have their cases reopened, and there are great chances that they will be able to receive such training as will permit them to follow an occupation where their disability will be of no great hindrance. Dr. Hill is anxious to get in touch with all disabled service men in this vicinity who feel that they need or desire vocational training. Expenses are borne by the federal board, and the new ruling should make it possible for many more Centre county men to avail themselves of the greater opportunity. Dr. Hill may be reached at the botany building, Pennsylvania State College, State College.

Demands for Nurse's Services Increasing.

Greater demands than ever are being made upon the services of Mrs. Maude C. Jones, the visiting public health nurse of the State College Chapter of the Red Cross. During the past two weeks an unusually large number of requests for home calls have been made, particularly for all night service. In many instances it is unnecessary for the Red Cross nurse to remain with a patient all night, and she is not allowed to do so except in emergency cases where the patient must have constant attention. There are too many other demands made upon the time of the nurse for her thinking of remaining all night with a patient when there is really no need for her doing so.

Mrs. Jones is at present covering an unusually large territory for a public health nurse, and her work takes her to a large part of Centre county. She is giving particular attention to the health of school children, and the efficiency of her work is showing up in the great interest taken by boys and girls in personal cleanliness, proper eating, and the little things that will tend to make the coming generation better prepared for the battle of life.

Performing Bear Attacks Woman.

Mrs. Frances Marcella, of Osceola Mills, is in the Cottage State hospital, Philipsburg, in a very serious condition as the result of a vicious attack by a performing bear on Tuesday morning. The bear was used in roller skating exhibitions at Osceola Mills and was housed in an old stable near the rink. Early Tuesday morning the animal broke out of the stable and entered the Marcella home. Mrs. Marcella was alone in the room at the time and with an angry roar the bear attacked her, clawing and snarling until the woman's husband hurried to her rescue and drove the animal off with an axe. The woman received a number of fearful gashes from the bear's claws, some of them laying the flesh open to the bone.

Penn State Alumni to Return.

Believing that there is "always room for one more," members of Penn State fraternities and clubs are already making extensive preparations for the availing of former students and alumni expected on October 9th for the first annual "Alumni Home Coming Day." Even though rooming facilities are crowded to capacity, the students are placing the alumni first, and will care for all who come for the big occasion. The big feature of the day will be the State-Dartmouth football game.

Paul, the American magician, who is coming to the Garman theatre October 4th and 5th, has one of the most unique and varied entertainments that has ever been here. He will give some exceptionally clever feats of illusions, some of which are really remarkable; next Edwards, the United States marine ventriloquist, will show how he entertained thousands of doughboys in the war with his skill and talent, and the entertainment will conclude with a really clever spiritualistic demonstration. Whether one believes in spiritualism or not, all will agree, after seeing the show, that they have been mystified and pleased. An effort has been made to avoid the beaten path in all of these features, although some of the old tricks are thrown in for good measure. Don't fail to see them.

Do not forget the sale of the McQuistien shop equipment to be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, in the shop building.

September Term of Court.

At the convening of the regular session of September court on Monday morning H. A. McClellan, of Potter township, was appointed foreman of the grand jury.

The first case taken up was that of Frank Middleton vs. Dr. W. R. Heaton, of Philipsburg, an action in trespass. After hearing the plaintiff's testimony the court granted a compulsory non-suit.

The first Commonwealth case was one against Joseph Shumski, charged with involuntary manslaughter; prosecutor, Joseph Knapper. The testimony showed that the defendant had fired a shot in Mine No. 26 at Snow Shoe without giving proper warning and as a result one man was killed. The defendant first plead not guilty but later changed his plea to guilty and sentence was suspended upon the payment of costs.

Commonwealth vs. G. W. Woodring, Dennis Reese and Warren Steele, supervisors of Worth township, indicted for maintaining a nuisance in their neglect to keep the public roads in good condition. The defendants contended that they had done the best they could to keep the road in shape and had already started repairs when information was made against them. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty and directed the defendants to pay two-thirds of the cost and the county one-third.

Commonwealth vs. William Lyon, of Lyontown, assault and battery; prosecutor Howard Smead. The indictment charged the defendant with having struck the son of the prosecutor with a whip, injuring his eye. Mr. Lyon in his own defense stated that the boy persisted in climbing onto his buggy after he had repeatedly warned him to stay off. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty but directed the defendant to pay one-third the costs and the county two-thirds. Two civil cases were settled and six continued.

Union County Fair.

The Union county Agricultural society will hold its annual meet this year at Lewisburg, Pa., October 12, 13, 14 and 15. Great preparations have been made for the entertainment of large crowds and good bands have been secured to furnish music on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The races this year will be up to the usual standard, and due to the fact that the association offers all four hundred and five hundred dollar purses every class should be well filled. Already entries are being received and lovers of good horse racing can rest assured that there will be plenty of it during the big days of the fair.

Old patrons of the Brockerhoff house were confronted with locked doors when they attempted to enter that well known hotel yesterday morning. While landlord H. S. Ray has disposed of some of his equipment it is only a small part of the house furnishings and what arrangements he has made to take care of the balance is not known. But the fact that the hotel was closed yesterday looks as if it will be closed to the public for good, and when it will again be opened as a hotel, if ever, depends largely on future circumstances.

The editor of the "Watchman" had hopes this week of publishing a full report of the Woman's Home Missionary society convention held in the Presbyterian church Wednesday and Thursday, but our "reporter" failed to materialize with the report in time for this issue. The convention, however, was largely attended and the pageant staged by the Bellefonte society on Wednesday evening was marvelously good. A detailed report of the convention will be published next week.

After a few days of very nice, summer-like weather the fall equinox was ushered in yesterday with a cold, torrential rain.

The W. C. T. U. women in session at Boalsburg yesterday did not have a very dry time of it, anyway.

Notice to Women.

Next Saturday will be the last day for paying the poll tax. I urge every woman who understands the necessity of voting, to take definite steps in the next few days to find out if the woman she meets, and the women who live near her, have paid their fifteen cents to the tax collector.—(in Bellefonte to J. Kennedy Johnston).

There will be classes during the week before election to instruct women how to mark the ballot.

ELIZABETH B. BEACH, Chairman Centre Co. League of Women Voters.

Marriage Licenses.

Merrill A. Moyer, of Pleasant Gap, and Lulu G. Hazel, of Bellefonte.

Harold W. Nelson, of Lock Haven, and Blanche B. Buff, of Wilkes-Barre.

George S. Denithorne, of Pittsburg, and Janet McCurdy Scott, of Bellefonte.

John Blazosky, of Philipsburg, and Alverda F. Cowher, of Port Matilda.

Ortan McClellan Chapman, of Flemington, and Helen Dunkle, of Mingo-ville.

William K. Rote, of Bellefonte, and Marjorie M. King, of Bellefonte.

James Murphy and Nellie Gunther, both of Philipsburg.

James E. Solt, the well known cobbler on Logan street, will sell off his household goods and in the near future will make his home with his daughter, Mrs. Dale Musser and husband.

As soon as the Centre Social club vacates the rooms it now occupies over the Beatty Motor company show room Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCullough will move into the same.

The Charles McClellan family moved yesterday from east High street to the Pontius home on Curtin street, Mrs. Pontius remaining as a member of her niece's family.

The United Brethren conference in session at Johnstown last week, returned Rev. George E. Smith to the pastorate of the Bellefonte church.
