

Did Your Potatoes Blight?

During the past summer the Centre county Farm Bureau has conducted potato spraying demonstrations for control of late blight on eleven farms throughout the county. On each farm a check plot of four rows was left unsprayed. On Monday, October 11th, at 1:30 p. m. a demonstration meeting will be held at Lloyd White's farm, located three miles east of Pleasant Gap, on the road from Pleasant Gap to Zion. At this time the potatoes on the unsprayed and sprayed plots will be dug up, thus checking up on the efficiency of spraying. A similar meeting will be held at Milo Campbell's farm located four miles east of Pennsylvania Furnace on the Baileyville road.

Late blight and consequent rot can be controlled by efficient and timely spraying. If you are interested in improving the potato crop for yourself and for Centre county you cannot afford to miss these demonstration meetings.

MIRAGE IN NEVADA DESERT

Traveler Relates How Two Coyotes Shared His Astonishment at Strange Sight Witnessed.

One morning in a Nevada desert I sat watching a moving mirage show its scenes—picture after picture. Occasionally one to right or left in front of or behind the preceding one. Some were retained in place much longer than others; they were brought closer and shown or re-shown farther back. One scene was of two covered wagons with three or four loose horses. They moved along two dim wheel tracks, round an arroyo and across two or three typical sand drifts. I stared at the scene in astonishment. They stopped as though to camp by the mirage lake. A camp fire appeared. I rubbed my face; I was awake. I saw objects moving about the wagon and the fire.

Two coyotes came trotting along near me. They saw the camp and after a few steps of looking with head to one side they stopped in front of me to watch it. I rose up better to watch them. They had either not seen me or had forgotten my presence in their eager concentration on the camp scene. Another loose horse, as though left behind, came lagging up. The coyotes watched this moving horse; they were seeing what I was seeing. Smoke rose above the camp fire by the wagon, then the picture melted and only the bare desert shimmered before us.—Enos A. Mills, in Saturday Evening Post.

BRING GOOD AND BAD LUCK

Belief in Power of Various Flowers is Strongly Held in Eastern and Western Lands.

It is good luck to eat the first mayflower you see in the spring. If it is a crocus, let it alone; in Austria they say it draws away one's strength. Nor must you dig up a cuckoo flower or tempt luck by moving a wild daisy into the garden. In Egypt the anemone is one of the lucky flowers of spring; wrap the first one in red cloth and, if not disturbed, it will cure disease. On the French coast it is useless to try to catch fish unless the waters are first strewn with flowers by the fishermen's wives and daughters. In Devonshire (England) they regard it as unlucky to plant a bed of lilies in the course of twelve months. The Turk sees misfortune in so light a thing as the fall of a rose petal and will sometimes guard against such dropping by carefully picking the flowers before they fall apart. In Samoa the head of a corpse is wreathed in flowers to aid the soul to gain admission into paradise.

Cook vegetables as soon after gathering as possible.
