TRAVELING IN THE ORIENT.

Mrs. R. S. Brouse Depicts Her Experiences in the Far East.

Tokyo, Japan, Oct. 1.

We left Hong Kong on September 23rd on the Empress of Asia for Manila. The boat is over five hundred feet long, eight stories high and has four decks. It has a capacity of 1900 passengers and carries a crew of 580, which literally made it a floating town. In another way it is like a city, as it was impossible to become acquainted with any great number. But the service was excellent, and it seemed that the most we had to do was eat. Tea and toast were served in our cabin at 6:30; first sitting for breakfast at 8:30 and the second at 9 o'clock; bouillion at 11; tiffin (luncheon) at 1 p. m.; afternoon tea at four and dinner from 7:30 to 8 o'clock. At Nagasaki the vessel coaled. Owing to the size of the Empress we were compelled to lay out about ten miles and the coal was carried out in boats and baskets by men, women and children and in this way 4800 tons of coal were taken on board in ten hours.

We were at first refused a landing at Nagasaki, owing to the prevalence of cholera in portions of the city but after considerable wireless communication we were informed that the members of Tour 11 could land. We went ashore at 10:30 a. m. and were met by some missionaries who took us around the city in autos and in the evening we were given a reception at the college. The mayor and all the city officials were there in all their glory, as well as the wives of the officials. Most of the latter cannot speak or understand a word of English and it was necessary to converse through an interpreter. They were all very nice and gave each one of us a tortoise shell ornament and a pack of post cards of views of the city.

Nagasaki is a very busy place. It has many iron furnaces and ship building plants. The boat I came over on and the one I will return on were built there. From Nagasaki we went to Beppo then to Oetio, where we were met by more officials and taken around the city. It was a nice, cool day, the first we had for some time, and we certainly enjoyed it.

There has been considerable sickness in our party. One of the girls in Tour 11 was left in the hospital at Kobe. I have been in perfect health on the entire trip, not being troubled with even a headache.

Landing in Manila a few of us were taken in hand by several missionaries and taken to their homes for lunch, and we certainly enjoyed the home cooking. Manila is a beautiful city, and our party had beautiful rooms at the Manila hotel.

During our stay of four days in Hong Kong our party was divided and sent to four different hotels. I stayed at the Peak hotel, 1438 feet up the mountain side. A funicular railway runs up the mountain, seemingly straight up, and it takes fifteen minutes to make the trip. Most of the residences are built along roads leading from the railway. Some of the stone walls are two hundred feet high and one is led to wonder how they got the stone up those awful hills, and then marvel at the fact that they were all carried up by coolies.

The first news we received at Hong Kong was of a rebellion at Canton, and that it would be unsafe for us to go there. Naturally we all felt very much disappointed but on Monday a missionary came to Hong Kong and said we could make the trip by boat, as the railroad had been torn up. After signing a paper relieving Cook's agency of all liability for our safety a number of us decided to go and chartering a steamer left at eight o'clock in the evening, reaching Canton the next morning at 6:30. We sailed under the English flag and had a comfortable trip.

Canton once seen will never be forgotten. Its streets are so narrow they can't even get through with a sedan chair. A person can walk in the middle, stretch out their arms and touch the wall on both sides. I was glad we did not have to eat there, as there is not an English or American hotel in Canton. Crossing the river at Canton we went to Shimeen where there is a good hotel. At Canton we visited the various industries, such as the pearl workers, king fishers, jewelry works, saw them make silk as they have made it for thousands of years. All the work is done by hand, not a bit of machinery being used. We returned to Hong Kong Wednesday; the next day went to Macao, a Portuguese city in a different direction. We saw them make opium and a church over 750 years old. The old wall around the city has been torn down and a new highway built in its place. As the wall was forty feet thick the highway is naturally of that width and it looks odd to see such a wide roadway in that place.

The convention will open in a few days and as soon as it is over it will be homeward bound for all of us, so that it won't be long now until we will be home again.

A Salad Hint.—Sprinkle a little sugar or a little salt over apples which are to be used in salad, and they will remain white instead of turning brown. In this way the salad may be mixed some time before it is to be used.

BROUGHT MEMORIES OF HOME

How Visitor to London Zoological Gardens Held Converse With Lonely Tibetan Yak.

The shaggy old Tibetan yak at the "zoo" died some while ago and a new yak occupied his shed and inclosure.

Yesterday a visitor stood watching the yak munching at a truss of hay in his manger. He called the yak and it took no notice. Then, having read Hooker's "Himalayan Journals," he remembered the calls of the Tibetan maidens when they bring the yaks home at sunset.

The visitor uttered the call. The yak dropped a mouthful of hay, gave a deep grunt, and came shambling to the bars of its stable. The visitor patted and fondled it, and grunted yak language and it licked his hand, and when he left the yak house it ran out of its shed and followed him around its large barred inclosure.

He returned later and found the yak still restless. It had deserted its meal; it paced the inclosure and made plaintive noises. The visitor gave the Tibetan girl's call again, and again the yak ran to him. "Good heavens!" cried a stranger, "how do you tame 'zoo' animals like that?" He was told the secret.

"Poor old yak, poor old fellow," said the stranger. "How can we guess what chords you have touched—that memories of snow and ice, and praying wheels and idols, of Tibetan girls with turquoise ornaments in their braided hair? Look how troubled the old yak is—it isn't fair to give home-sickness to prisoners at the zoo!"—London Daily Mail.

EXPLAINS ACTION OF NODDING

Indication of "Yes" and "No" a Trait Common in Humans and the Lower Animals.

Before a child learns to say "yes" or "no," he instinctively nods his head—a haughty, condescending up-and-down—to show that he approves, or a vigorous shaking from side to side when the imperious will has been crossed. Later on, as he seems to show a preference for this way of expressing himself, it is often necessary to remind him that he can speak.

Many of us may sympathize with the man who said to Darwin, "Your ancestors may have been apes," but it cannot be denied that we have many things in common with the other species. Watch a young animal ready to receive food. With eager eyes and mouth open it makes quick, forward movements of the head. When the food is not acceptable a tightly clenched jaw and sideward motion of the head serve to keep the mother animal from forcing food upon it.

So after all these centuries man's mind is still relaxed when he nods "yes," but there is a strong tendency to clench his teeth and even close his eyes when he shakes "no."—Exchange.

He Saw Very Well.

I had employed a piano tuner for several years who was blind, writes a correspondent. One day he brought another man when he came to tune the piano, asking my permission to teach him some things about piano tuning. I left them in the parlor by themselves and when they had finished, I was dressing to go out.

Knowing they were blind and rather than keep them waiting, I went in to pay the tuner in rather scant attire. I remarked to the stranger, "It is nice for you blind people that there is work like this for you to do."

"Oh, madam," he replied, "I'm not blind; in fact, I see very well."

I nearly died and fled from the room.

From a One-Armed Man.

The triumph over the disability of a lost limb is not only exemplified in the case of the one-legged cricketer. "There is no need to be downhearted about a lost leg or arm," writes a correspondent. "I have lost my left arm and can do practically everything that a man with two arms can."

"I can tie my tie as neatly and quickly as I ever did, lace my boots, ride a horse and bicycle, drive a horse and trap, drive a motor, play billiards (using a block of weighted wood with three grooves in it as a rest), golf, hockey, tennis and swim quite easily."—London Chronicle.

Practical Sympathy.

James Shaffer of Unlontown, Pa., struck a foreigner who made disloyal remarks and was fined $10, but the money was paid by ten members of the local Christian church, who on their way home happened to stop in the burgess' office. Each of the men planked $1 down on the desk of the official and the case was ended.

The Difference.

Her Mother—It's the custom that allows a woman to propose to a man instead of putting herself to the trouble of making the man propose.

GO HEAL THE SICK

This Man is Leading Sick People Back to Health.

His Fight Against Old Age, Weakness and Disease.

Fifteen years ago H. H. Von Schlick of 210 Third avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa., was unknown. Today millions of happy people bless and praise him as a benefactor. They are grateful for new health and freedom from sickness and disease.

Mr. Von Schlick is now in the winter of life. He has ruddy cheeks, bright sparkling eyes and the snap and vigor of youth. Twenty years ago he was down and out, physically.

Then Von Schlick met Boris Marokoff, an old Bulgarian friend, who gave him a Herb Tea. Von Schlick recovered his health. He was a new man in mind and body.

This Bulgarian Blood Tea was a great medicinal discovery for healing the sick. Von Schlick obtained the secret formula and process for making this Bulgarian Blood Tea. The roots, barks, leaves, herbs, berries, fields, valleys and swamps and come from Europe, Asia and Africa.

The wonderful power in this Herb Tea regenerates the system, cleanses and tones the blood, cleanses the liver, flushes and purifies the kidneys, sweetens the bowels and stomach and gives back the snap and vigor that only a healthy person can have.

For years Von Schlick made this Tea and gave it to sick people. It helped very one. The fame of this medicine began to travel; people came to him for it and he gave it free—gave until it hurt.

Mr. Von Schlick was a poor man and was unable to supply the general demand as the herbs were very costly, being imported from distant lands. Then people told him to make it for the whole world to use and today he believes he is doing more good for suffering humanity with Bulgarian Blood Tea than any other medicine in the world.

Bulgarian Blood Tea today is used the world over and prides the millions of sufferers fighting disease and warding off old age weaknesses. They include happy girls budding into womanhood or women crossing precarious thresholds of life. All praise and recommend it. Men regain their strength and vitality, the blood becomes rich and pure and the snap and sparkle of good health returns to those who were in despair. Just ask your druggist or grocer today for a trial package of Bulgarian Blood Tea and you will never regret the time you spent in reading this item.

Matrimonial Oddities.

In bygone days in India women were sometimes allowed to choose their own husband. One of their old fairy tales tells of a fair princess, who, after a tournament, placed a garland around the neck of a knight who had won her heart.

Among the Eskimos of the east coast of Greenland a man captures the girl he wants, but from that time on the usual order of things is reversed. He has to exercise the greatest vigilance to prevent her from eloping with any other man whom she may prefer, as this seems to be her privilege. In the northern New Hebrides a bride who is unhappy seeks the earliest opportunity of running away from her husband and seeking a home with some man she likes better. If her parents cannot induce her to return to the injured husband they usually send him a pig to soothe his wounded feelings. —National Geographic Society Bulletin.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

Why Have Catarrh?

So Disagreeable to Yourself and All About You.

Catarrh is generally conceded to be a constitutional disease. Therefore it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla which reaches every part of the system by thoroughly purifying and enriching the blood. The medicine removes the cause of the trouble, which if not checked may lead to more serious disease.

In 46 years of use and test Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved many cases as told by voluntary letters of commendation. Why not get a bottle today and give it a trial? It combines economy and efficiency. Keep Hood's Pills on hand as a family cathartic.
