

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

The regular term of December court will convene next Monday.

The ladies of the Milesburg Presbyterian church will hold a Christmas bazaar and food sale Friday and Saturday, December 10th and 11th, in the Harshberger building on Market street.

Among a big batch of postmasters appointed in Pennsylvania on Wednesday appear the names of William H. Artz, for postmaster at Port Matilda, this county, and Robert S. Stover at Millheim.

The truth about Jonah. His modern successors. A vital, gripping message for modern times. Men trying to run away from God. Take a friend and hear this message at the Methodist church Sunday, at 7:30 p. m. Courteous ushers.

Governor Sproul on Wednesday appointed Attorney General William Irwin Schaeffer to a seat on the Supreme court bench as successor to the late Justice John Stewart, and named George E. Alter, of Allegheny county, as Attorney General to succeed Mr. Schaeffer.

W. L. Smith, mail pilot, was compelled to make a forced landing about noon on Tuesday on his trip to Bellefonte from Cleveland, coming down about two and a half miles northwest of Snow Shoe, and badly wrecking his ship. Fortunately he escaped without being injured.

The Centre Electric company has filed a new tariff of rates with the Public Service Commission for the borough of Howard and adjacent territory, effective January 1st, 1921, whereby the charge for lighting purposes is increased one cent a kilowatt hour and the charge for power service is increased ten per cent.

The Penn State varsity male quartet left on Wednesday for New York city, where they provided entertainment at the annual meeting of the college alumni association last night. Today they will sail for Panama Canal Zone, where the government has arranged for their appearance during the week preceding Christmas. This is the third year that a Penn State quartet has made this trip.

Unless present plans miscarry the new iron bridge being erected by the Pennsylvania railroad across spring creek south of the depot in this place, will be put in position on Sunday, December 19th. The bridge will be completed all but putting on the rails, and will be moved into place in sections. The work will be done on Sunday and the bridge be in shape for traffic by Monday morning, the 20th.

Centre county friends of Rev. Dr. W. K. Foster will be interested in learning that he has tendered his resignation as pastor of the Grace Memorial Presbyterian church at Jenkintown to accept the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church at Montrose, Susquehanna county, the change to take place on December 29th. Dr. Foster has been in charge of the church in Jenkintown the past fifteen years.

Christmas will soon be here and naturally much thought is being given to the holiday shopping, but don't allow this task to take up all your time. Take your evenings off and visit the scene. An hour or two at the motion pictures will be just the relaxation and entertainment necessary to make you forget the worries of shopping and put you in trim for the next day's work. Big pictures are being shown every night.

The basket ball season for the Bellefonte Academy boys will open at the armory tomorrow (Saturday) evening at 8:20 o'clock with the Big Five of Altoona. The Academy quintette, under the excellent coaching of Prof. Steck, of the High school, promises to be the best team that has represented that institution since the days of the Lechrie boys. Basket ball fans are sure to witness an exciting game in this opening contest. Admission, 25 cents. Go and give the players the encouragement of your presence.

A letter was received recently by Witmer Smith from his son Clyde, mailed from Capetown, where the boy was on a land leave from the U. S. freight and mail vessel, the "Gaffney," on which he is serving. Leaving the States in September, they went directly to South Africa; from there the vessel will go to Spain, then to England, and back to America, reaching here in July. The boy is but sixteen years old, and the wanderlust is so strong on him that there is a probability that he will see the world before returning to Centre county permanently.

Two Junker planes arrived in Bellefonte on Sunday on their way to Alberta, province of Manitoba, Canada. They were driven by two Canadian pilots but were in charge of "Slim" Lewis, so well known in Bellefonte. The planes were just out of the Larsen plant on Long Island and are to be used by a firm in commercial flying at Alberta. When the planes took off on Monday to continue their trip the oil supply in one of them froze up and the pilot was compelled to come to earth, landing close to deputy warden Healy's home on the penitentiary grounds. The plane was overhauled and both flyers expect to leave Bellefonte to-day for their destination in the northwest.

NEWS OF THE DEER SLAYERS.

Tons of Venison Bagged by Thousands of Hunters in Centre County Woodlands.

Imagine, if you can a herd of one hundred and fifty deer, all male, ranging from the spike buck to the monarch of the forest sporting a pair of antlers with eight prongs, and you will have a fair idea of the size of the first week's bag of venison in Centre county woodlands. While the above number is only an estimate, based on actual figures received from hunting parties so far heard from, it is believed that detailed reports will show an even greater number, and by the end of the season the kill will probably exceed that of last year when over two hundred bucks were brought to earth, as ten hunting parties at least have come home with their limit of six deer. Computed in pounds and hundred-weights the deer so far killed will aggregate anywhere from twelve to fifteen tons of cleaned venison.

Of course no hunting season is without its thrilling situations and remarkable stories, and one of these is the experience of John Davy and his son William, of Bellefonte. Last year they drove to the Seven mountains, killed their deer and were back home for supper. Last Thursday they decided to try the trick again. Motoring over to the same locality they started through the woods and were within fifty steps of where they killed the deer last year when they espied a big four pronged buck. Mr. Davy at the first shot knocked the buck down but fearing the shot might not prove fatal drew up to shoot again when the pin dropped from the hammer of his gun and before he could replace it the deer jumped up and got away.

Dean R. L. Watts, of State College, went over to Petersburg last Friday to join a hunting party and found the members all in the dumps. The day before the season opened they had spotted forty-eight deer and had visions of a bountiful bag, but up to the Dean's arrival had not gotten a thing. After listening to their story the Dean started out to explore a little stream running past the camp and had not gone over several hundred yards when he sighted a three pronged buck. He killed the animal on the second shot.

On the day before the opening of the season two Bellefonters went down Fishing creek gunning for small game. They saw abundant signs of deer and meeting up with W. P. Seig and his hunting party of friends from Cleveland and Detroit told them where to go on the opening day to get a deer. The gentlemen accepted the advice, went there and shot an eight pronged buck, the largest reported killed this season.

The McMullen, McNitt and Yarnell hunting party returned home on Tuesday evening from a week's camp in Little Sugar valley without any game. They saw a number of deer but got no good shots. In fact on one of their hunts they saw a herd of eight or ten deer, and though they recognized two bucks they were so surrounded by the does that they were afraid to shoot, which led one of the party to exclaim that the darn bucks were hiding behind the hides of the female of the species.

Simon Dugan, who lives on the old Williams farm at Pleasant Gap, saw a good sized bear on Saturday which had come down off the mountain and was eating grapes off of a wild grape vine. The same day two boys saw two deer on the side of the mountain just above Whiterock.

Up in the neighborhood of Pine Grove Mills the kill reported so far is as follows:

- The Sunday—Rossman crowd are home with their limit, 6.
The Pine Grove club 1.
The Hollidaysburg club 2.
The Indiana party 1.

The Woodward party 5.
The Wolf gang 1.
The Lingle crowd 1.
The Poe Junction party 3.
Day hunters in that section 6.
Phillipsburg hunters on the Allegheny mountains have so far gotten 5 deer and 1 bear.
The McKees Rocks party 2.

- Potters Mills Regulars 2.
The Yeagertown club 3.
Pittsburgh hunters 1.
The Sweetwood party 2.
The Palmyra club 3.
The Bear Meadows club 1 deer and 1 bear.
The Leech party 5.
The Bucktails 2.
The Cadman party from Fredericktown 4.
The Greensburg party 3.
The Wildcat club 3.
The Miller gang 1.
Down in the lower end of the county the Stover party have 5.
The day hunters 6.
Penn Hall hunters 1.
The Rote—Wingart party 3.
Hazleton hunters 3.
The Millheim party 1 deer and 1 bear.
The Rebersburg hunters 4.
The Eisenhuth party 1.
The above makes a total of 183 deer and four bear, by actual returns. Three doe shot in mistake for bucks have been found on the mountain between Potters Mills and Pine Grove, and one hunter caught who killed one of them. He promptly paid his fine of $100.

Don't miss the greatest thrilling human interest love play of Anita Stewart, "In Old Kentucky," opera house December 10 and 11. Full of laughs and tears, with its many intense scenes of that great play. Don't miss it. 49-11

Business Men to Enter Protest.

At a regular meeting of the Associated Business Men of Bellefonte on Wednesday evening it was unanimously decided to make an official protest to the Public Service Commission against the raise in rates for electric service by the State-Centre Electric company, as well as the quality of service rendered.

The committee having in charge the silk mill bond proposition reported that a few people who have subscribed for bonds have not yet made good and the association decided that the delinquents be notified if the bonds are not promptly lifted legal action will be brought to enforce the pledges made. This action is deemed necessary at this time because of the fact that the J. H. and C. K. Eagle company have now on hand sufficient machinery for the equipment of a second unit to one of their mills, and Bellefonte can get this unit by making good on the first proposition. Otherwise it is likely to go to either Mechanicsburg or Gettysburg.

It is just possible that some of the slowness in lifting the bonds is due to apprehension as to the future success of the plant already erected here, owing to the present unsettled condition of the silk market, but this phase of the matter should not be considered. The silk situation will become stabilized some day, and when this occurs all the mills in the country will again be put in operation and Bellefonte will then be in a position to reap the benefits of a large and staple industry.

Thrilling Lecture by Dr. Leonard.

Dr. Charles Leonard, of Williamsport, thrilled his audience Tuesday night in the Lutheran church with his masterful lecture on "The Founders of Our Nation." His address dealt primarily with our Pilgrim Fathers and depicted in a very excellent manner their deep convictions of religion, liberty, and regard for law, which convictions caused them to cast their lot upon the bleak and barren shores of the new world three hundred years ago.

Woven into the lecture were some of the speaker's own personal experiences at the battle front during the late war. In the latter part of his address Dr. Leonard emphasized the need of immediate action in dealing with our foreign population and the necessity of Americanizing the immigrant strata of our national life. He pointed out the urgency of teaching the foreigner something about the high ideals and purposes that caused our Pilgrim sires to lay broad and deep the foundations of this the greatest nation under heaven, and make it very clear to them that America after all is a country of equal opportunity for all.

In this day of anarchy and Bolshevik terrors some such stabilizing force is greatly needed, and the speaker expressed his belief that if the radical element could be shown the sacrifices and struggles, the great visions and godly principles of our Pilgrim ancestors that much of our present day unrest could be eliminated. His address from start to finish was ringing with true Americanism and was a polished literary effort, eloquently delivered.

The new burglar alarm of the First National bank of Bellefonte was inadvertently given a try out on Saturday night about ten o'clock and it quickly attracted a crowd of five hundred people, or thereabouts. The alarm is set to go in commission at ten o'clock but everything must be just right in the bank. In closing up on Saturday something had been overlooked in connection with the combination on the vault and at ten o'clock the burglar alarm went off. Paul Jones, watchman in the bank, was unable to stop it and the alarm kept ringing until Lewis Schad entered the bank and made the proper adjustment.

Mrs. James K. Barnhart gave a party one evening last week for her eleven year old daughter, Eleanor C. Barnhart, at which twenty-one associates of the young hostess were entertained.

Miss Rebecca Rhoads' Home Ravaged by Fire.

The beautiful and comfortable home of Miss Rebecca Naomi Rhoads, on east Linn street, was so badly damaged by fire on Monday morning that it is a question if it can be repaired. The fire broke out in the cellar in the neighborhood of seven o'clock. In fact Miss Rhoads and the Weston family were awakened by the smoke and were compelled to get out of the house with just the clothing they were able to grab up in their hurried departure. An alarm was promptly sent in and both fire companies responded as quickly as possible, but by the time they arrived on the scene the fire had eaten up the west side of the frame structure almost to the roof and was not long in breaking out.

At that time it looked as if the entire house was doomed and Academy students and others set to with a will and were successful in carrying out everything on the first and second floor. Though handicapped by the bursting of two sections of hose the firemen were able to confine the flames to the roof and attic, but the entire house was badly soaked with water. The west side of the roof and attic were entirely destroyed and the east side of the roof is also badly burned. Considerable valuable stuff was stored on the attic and it was impossible to get any of it out. While comparatively little of this stuff was burned it was all water soaked. The firemen poured water on the burning building until eleven o'clock in the morning before the fire was completely extinguished.

Just how the fire originated is not definitely known. On Sunday evening a fire was built in a fireplace in the western part of the house and it is stated that before retiring that evening some of the members of the household smelled smoke, as from burning boards, but were unable to locate any fire. It is just possible there was some defect in the fireplace and that the fire had been smouldering all night, as it was almost directly beneath the fireplace where the fire broke out in the cellar in the morning.

Miss Rhoads had $6000 insurance on the house and $1400 on her furniture, but the most of the latter was saved, though likely somewhat damaged in the hurry of getting it out of the burning house. While considering plans for rebuilding she will occupy the small house on the northwest corner of the grounds which she last summer converted into a community house for soldiers, sailors and marines. Dr. Weston and family, who made their home with Miss Rhoads, carried no insurance but practically all their furniture and belongings were saved.

Miss Rhoads is especially gratified with the spirit of helpfulness manifested by many during the conflagration. She thinks it wonderful that so much of her furniture and personal effects was saved and feels greatly indebted to those who helped.

Auto Plunged into Juniata River, Girls Make Thrilling Escape.

Misses Ottilie Hughes, Pearl Evey, Eleanor McGinley and David Pugh, a student at the Bellefonte Academy, had a thrilling escape from the icy waters of the Juniata river last Thursday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding was bumped over the bank by another machine which got away before anyone could get a sight of the tags on the machine.

The party of young people, with Mr. Pugh driving the machine, had gone to Tyrone to take Mr. James R. Hughes there to catch a train for Pittsburgh. The young people then decided to go to Birmingham to see one or two school friends. They were motoring down the Juniata valley and at a rather narrow place in the road another car going at a pretty fast clip, bumped into the rear of their car and shoved it over the bank into the Juniata river. The occupants of the car aver that it turned over once if not twice before it landed in the river. Fortunately all the young people were thrown clear of the car, but the water was so deep that some of them were in up to their necks. Miss McGinley was just able to keep her head out of water and Mr. Pugh supported her with one arm while assisting the other two young ladies out. He then helped her out on the bank and in taking stock of themselves the very gratifying fact was ascertained that none of the young people were seriously hurt. But they were almost a mile from the nearest house and wet to the skin they were compelled to walk that distance. They were later taken to the Birmingham Seminary where they were put up for the night.

They all returned home on Friday and aside from the damage to their clothing, none of them are the worse for their adventure. The car, however, was pretty badly wrecked. It was pulled out of the river and trucked home and is now being put in repair at a local garage.

Football schedule making among the colleges is now going on for the fall of 1921. Just what State's schedule will be is probably undetermined as yet, but it is scarcely to be hoped that it will prove as attractive, so far as home games are concerned as was the one closed on Thanksgiving day. There is a very great possibility that she will not meet Penn next fall. A game may be scheduled with Harvard and if plans now being followed work out the Annapolis cadets will be the stellar attraction of the season on Beaver field.

NEWS PURELY PERSONAL.

Joseph K. Rhoads was here Tuesday for a business consultation with his sister, Miss Rebecca, following the burning of the Rhoads family home, Monday.

Joseph Massey, of Hyde City, spent Sunday here with Mrs. Massey, as has been his custom since leaving Bellefonte a month ago. Mr. Massey was with the Titan Metal company until the first of November, leaving here at that time to accept the position of master mechanic at the Hyde City plant. According to their present plans, Mrs. Massey will spend much of the winter with her husband in Clearfield county.

Harry Auman, of Gleasonton, Clifton county, passed through Bellefonte last Friday on his way home from visiting relatives down Pennsylvally, his old home. While in town he spent a few minutes in the "Watchman" office and put his name down as a regular subscriber. Mr. Auman has a good job in the tannery at Gleasonton, where he has been employed a number of years, and where he expects to stay indefinitely, as he is not one of the kind who is always dissatisfied with his job and looking for something different.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rhoads are visiting friends in the vicinity of Pittsburgh for a week. They went out yesterday. Mr. Rhoads, who is an officer in the new western penitentiary, has earned a vacation of fifteen days but when ten unruly prisoners were to be taken back to Pittsburgh yesterday he couldn't resist having a hand in guarding them, so with officer Campbell and two officers who came on from Pittsburgh to join the party, they left with the eleven convicts who elected to go "the long way" on the morning train. Mrs. Rhoads didn't care to be identified with such a crowd, we suppose, so she departed on the 3:10 and after joining Clarence in Pittsburgh they will go to Manor, a suburb, to visit his brother William, and then to Swisshale to visit her brother, Homer Brown.

Gilbert A. Beaver, of Yorktown Heights, N. Y., is a guest of his mother, Mrs. James A. Beaver.

Goodhart—McWilliams.—The home of W. E. McWilliams at Rock Springs, was the scene of a pretty little wedding last Thursday afternoon when his daughter, Miss Sarah Anna McWilliams, was united in marriage to Frank Goodhart, furniture dealer and undertaker of Centre Hall. Only the immediate members of the two families were present to witness the ceremony, which took place at 3:30 o'clock and which was performed by Dr. R. M. Campbell, of the Presbyterian church. Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Goodhart left on a wedding trip to eastern cities before taking up their residence in Centre Hall.

The bride, who has been a great church worker all her life, is one of the best known young women of Spruce Creek valley. Mr. Goodhart, who is a son of Mrs. William Goodhart, has been in business in Centre Hall for a number of years and is regarded as one of that town's most substantial citizens. He recently purchased a home in Centre Hall, where he and his wife will reside.

Thompson—Holter.—Lot C. Thompson, of Port Matilda, and Mrs. Julia A. Holter, of Bellefonte, were united in marriage at seven o'clock on Wednesday evening at the bride's home on Pine street, by Rev. Alexander Scott, of the Methodist church. Only a few close friends and relatives were present to witness the ceremony. The bride is the widow of the late Bower C. Holter and is a very worthy woman. The bridegroom is a successful farmer of Bald Eagle valley. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will make their home in Bellefonte during the winter, at least.

Corn, Potato and Apple Show.

Have you selected your exhibits for the corn, potato and apple show to be held in Bellefonte December 23rd? If not, better do so the first day that the weather is too bad to work outside. A first premium of $5.00 and a second premium of $2.00 will be given for the best exhibits each of corn, potatoes and apples. Each farmer should have an exhibit of one or more of these classes. The winning exhibits in the show will be sent to the State farm product show at Harrisburg in January.

The annual meeting of the Centre county Farm Bureau will be held on the same day at the court house. At this time a report of such work done in 1920 will be given, also plans for the season of 1921. This is your opportunity to get an idea of the work that is being done by the Farm Bureau, and to offer suggestions as to methods by which it may serve you more efficiently. The day's program, including some interesting talks, will be announced next week. Send your exhibits to the Farm Bureau office two or three days before the show. Plan now to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cohen, of Spring street, entertained yesterday afternoon in celebration of the birth of a second son in their family eight days ago. Guests present for the ceremony numbered seventy-five or more and came from New York, Huntingdon, Lock Haven, Clearfield and other places.
