FINEGAN OUTLINES TEACHERS' SALARY BILL
Minimum Pay Proposed for Each Class of Teachers Throughout the State to Raise Qualifications.

Pennsylvania's proposed new teachers' salary law, which would repeal the Woodruff act of 1919 and establish a new salary scale for all teachers in the public school system, was introduced in the House of Representatives Monday night by chairman Lee Smith, of the House Educational committee. The bill is the result of months of study of the teachers' salary situation in Pennsylvania and elsewhere and provides for all districts.

Dr. Thomas E. Finegan, state superintendent of Public Instruction, who has borne the leading part in the preparation of the schedule and been in consultation with educators and school officials all over the State, has outlined the main feature as follows:
"First. The repeal of the Woodruff salary law of 1919."
The 2nd, 3rd and 4th sections of the bill are not published here because they effect only the salaries of teachers in the first, second and third class. As all Centre county schools are in the fourth class our directors, teachers and others are not particularly interested in the sections deleted.

"Fifth. In school districts of the fourth class the minimum salary for elementary teachers is $100 a month; for high school teachers, $130.
"Sixth. In all cases the salaries prescribed in the law are minimum, and the board of school directors of each district has the authority to increase such salaries.
"Seventh. The payment of all these salaries is contingent upon proper professional qualifications, and those teachers who do not possess these qualifications shall not receive the salaries prescribed, but no teacher is to be employed at a salary of less than $75 a month.

TEACHING STANDARD TO BE RAISED.
"Eight. After September 1, 1927, those persons who enter the teaching service must show graduation from a State normal school or equivalent education and training. All teachers in the service holding any form of permanent certificate are entitled to the salaries prescribed. All teachers holding other certificates are permitted to continue to teach in the schools and, upon attaining the advanced qualifications, will be entitled to receive the salaries prescribed.
"Ninth. Provision is made for summer sessions in all of the State normal schools and in the colleges and universities of the State. Provision is also made for extension and correspondence courses. Those teachers who do not meet the advanced qualifications will be permitted to continue to teach upon satisfactory completion of the course given in the summer sessions or the work given in extension and correspondence courses.

"Tenth. In other words, the bill in general provides that all teachers of experience and sound qualifications are to be continued in the service and receive at least the salaries prescribed. Experience and qualifications are recognized in determining such salaries.
"Eleventh. The qualifications prescribed are minimum and it is within the authority of a board of school directors in any district to increase such qualifications.
"Twelfth. Six years is allowed in which to put into effect the program for improving the qualifications of teachers. Provision is made for the issuance of emergency certificates by county and district superintendents to meet any shortage of teachers that may exist."

Penn State Passes Enrollment Record.
Final enrollment figures for resident instruction of students at the Pennsylvania State College were announced recently by the registrar, A. H. Espenshade, the total for 1920-'21 being 4,575, the largest ever recorded at the college. This is an increase of 259 over last year's enrollment, when 4,316 was a record figure. Of this number, 2,834 are in four-year courses, 80 specialists, 223 two year agriculturists, 110 winter course agriculturists and 1340 in the summer session for school teachers. In addition to these, 6,700 are enrolled as students in the engineering extension classes in manufacturing centers, and about half that number in correspondence courses.

Another Appeal for European Relief.
Unfortunately there seems to be some misunderstanding throughout Centre county in regard to the European relief campaign, and some persons have it confused with the Near East relief work. The European relief is headed by Herbert Hoover and its object is to feed 3,500,000 starving children throughout central Europe, while the Near East relief is an entirely separate organization for the purpose of furnishing food and clothing to the destitute people in Armenia and sections of the Near East. Both are worthy and commendable works of charity, but each a distinct and separate organization functioning in different areas across the sea.

During the past week many have responded to the letters sent out from headquarters and have very kindly and patriotically remitted their contributions, which splendid spirit of response seems to indicate that old Centre county will again go victoriously "over the top." However, some have not replied to the appeal sent to them, and chairman W. Harrison Walker is anxious that all stamped envelopes be returned by the end of this week with remittance or with some explanation. If any persons have already sent their contribution through some other channel, then kindly inform chairman Walker so that Centre county will get proper credit.

Churches and Sunday schools are urged to take up special offerings on Sunday in behalf of this great work of charity, in which three and one-half million hungry children are to be cared for until next harvest.
Please do not confuse the European relief campaign with the Near East, Armenian or Chinese charities.

A regular meeting of the Centre county civic association will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms in Petrikin hall next Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Up to the present time contributions from the public schools of Centre county will feed for a year nine Armenian children and one for six months.

Checkers Played by Nile.
Checkers is one of the oldest games played today. Sixteen hundred years before Christ was born the Egyptians were playing a game along the Nile that was essentially our game of checkers or draughts, as the British prefer to call it. The ancient Greeks had the game with but slight variations, and through all the intervening centuries it has interested and entertained people. Some now prefer chess, another very old game, claiming that there is more mental work involved; but the game of checkers, simple as it is, presents a demand for the use of mental powers quite equal to those of the average person.

That the rules of the game have become very well established is indicated by the fact that Joshua Sturges' "Guide to the Game of Draughts," which was first published in 1800, is still the standard authority on all points of dispute in the game of checkers as played today.

Women's Hair Price Increases.
The price given by hairdressers for women's hair has increased enormously during the last 12 months. While some women in America and Britain sell their hair, the real trade in this commodity is done in continental countries. Peasant girls in France, Belgium and Italy sell their hair at regular periods to dealers. This hair is mostly of the fair and black variety, while most golden hair is obtained from Scandinavians.

Variability.
"Do you regard poker as a gentleman's game?"
"So far as that goes," replied Cactus Joe. "It's like every other game from politics to penny ante. Whether it's a gentleman's game or not depends entirely on who happens to be playin' it."
