What of the Postoffice?

The appearance of two postoffice inspectors in Bellefonte Wednesday morning attracted no unusual attention at first, but when it became known that they were here to investigate and examine applicants for the position of postmaster in this place many an ear was cocked.

During the day the revelation was made that in addition to John L. Knisely, H. W. Irwin and G. W. Rees, there are others who would like to run the P. O. for Mr. Willie Hays. Among them might be numbered William S. Chambers, Morton Smith and "Pat" Hartswick, all present employees in the office, and surprising as it may seem we are informed that Geo. T. Bush filled out a questionnaire when it was announced that the appointment would be made after a competitive examination.

In 1867 he was united in marriage at Glen Hope to Miss Catherine Bortor, of State College, and she survives with the following children: Miss Nannie, at home; Mrs. Creighton G. Oyler had charge of the funeral services which were held at 2:30 o'clock on Monday afternoon, burial being made in the Philipsburg cemetery.

Walker and was born in Clinton county on May 29th, 1892, hence was in her thirtieth year. She was married to Willis Markle in March, 1916, and he survives with a five days old baby. She also leaves two half-brothers and three half-sisters, all living in Clinton county. Funeral services were held in the Methodist church at Pleasant Gap on Tuesday afternoon by Revs. M. C. The telephone line and forest fire observation tower operated by the State forestry department on Big Poe mountain was struck by lightning recently and considerably damaged. Four poles a short distance east of the tower were demolished and a pole which was thrown fifty feet into the underbrush. The lightning terrors were torn out, the telephone tannin from the wall of the observer's cabin, the interior of which looked as if a cyclone had gone through it.

John Ammerman now holds the record for the biggest trout caught in Spring creek this season, landing one on Saturday that measured 24 inches and weighed 5 1/2 pounds. The trout was caught on a minnow right opposite Bezer's garage and Mr. Ammerman was almost half an hour in landing him, the big fish thrashing back and forth across the stream, as well as up and down until thoroughly exhausted before he gave up.

KINKEAD.—Robert Stewart Kinkead, a well known resident of Philipsburg, died last Friday afternoon following an illness of three years. In 1918 he suffered a stroke of paralysis and later arterio-sclerosis developed. Last December he became much worse and ever since had been confined to bed. His death occurred within twenty-four hours after the funeral of his younger brother, David Kinkead, who died at Jersey Shore early last week.

Deceased was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Kinkead and was born at Glen Hope, Clearfield county, on June 4th, 1844, hence was 77 years and 20 days old. When he was eighteen years of age he enlisted for service in the Civil war in Company G, 200th Pennsylvania infantry and served throughout the war. He took active part in the engagement at Fort Stedman and the siege and capture of Petersburg. He was discharged in 1865. After the war he located in Philipsburg and engaged in the lumbering business. While at work on a saw mill he got one of his arms in the saw and so badly mangled that a portion of it had to be amputated. During the past twenty years he had been employed by the Wittenberg Coal company. During his fifty-four years' residence in Philipsburg Mr. Kinkead had served as tax collector and also ward assessor. He was a member of the Methodist church, the John W. Geary Post G. A. R., and the Red Men. In politics he was a staunch Democrat and for many years a reader and staunch friend of the "Watchman."

In 1867 he was united in marriage at Glen Hope to Miss Catherine Bortor, of State College, and she survives with the following children: Miss Nannie, at home; Mrs. Creighton G. Forester Morton, of Petersburg, expects to have a large supply of young black walnut trees for free distribution next spring to any one who will plant and care for them. Last fall he planted ninety bushels of walnuts in the forestry department nursery operated at Greenwood Furnace and the young seedlings are now a foot high.

Two weeks have passed since the finding of the body of George M. Marks, in his home at Hannah Furnace, and so far no progress has been made in solving the mystery of his death. If he was murdered, as the verdict of the coroner's jury which examined the body would indicate, the murderer, whoever he was, covered his tracks so completely that not the faintest trace has been discovered. This leads some people to the belief that the old soldier died a natural death.

The contractors on the state highway in Boggs township completed the pouring of the concrete up to the bridge over the Bald Eagle creek at Milesburg, Saturday. Early this week plank was laid over enough of the concrete near the bridge to permit of traffic being opened up by way of the brick works, thus doing away for the present of the long detour around by Curtin. Inasmuch as the concrete will have to lay twenty-one days before it can be thrown open for use it will be two weeks yet before the road is opened through.

The Fourth of July, next Monday, promises to be a quiet day in Bellefonte. No celebration of any kind will be held here and of course the stores and all places of business will be closed. Quite a number of Bellefonters are planning to attend the big picnic at the driving park in Snow Shoe where an elaborate program of sports will be pulled off. The people up at Port Matilda have also planned for a big time, while a picnic will be held at Hecla park. These three places are all within easy access by motor and will probably draw large crowds, even if the weather should continue as hot as it is now.

The "Watchman's" Pine Grove Mills correspondent exploits the fact that Fred Resides, of State College, killed a rattlesnake in Shingletown gap six feet long, six inches in circumference and carrying fifteen rattles and a button. Just before going to press a prominent resident of State College called this office and gave us the same snake story only now the snake has twenty-three rattles and a button but has shrunk to not quite five feet in length. Now we are going to leave it up to our readers to find out just how long and how thick the snake actually was and how many rattles it had. It will be just as easy to find the correct answer as it was to solve the problem, "How old was Ann?"

Mail express eastward on the Pennsylvania railroad drew into the station at Cresson, on the Pittsburgh division, on Tuesday afternoon just as one of those hard wind and rain storms reached that place. While the passengers were making a dash from the station platform to the seclusion of the train there was an unusual swirl of wind and the crowd was struck with consternation to behold the air filled with greenbacks. Forgetful of the rain or train everybody made a dash for the money, a number of passengers jumping out of the car windows to join in the chase. Where the money came from is a mystery, according to the Altoona Tribune, but whoever lost it probably will be out the entire amount as none of the chasers would admit how much they got, or that they got any at all, and the train continued on its way after everybody had gotten aboard.

During the months of July and August citizens' military training camps will be held at twelve different places in the United States under the direct supervision of the United States government. Pennsylvania is included in the Third corps area, the training camp for which will be located at Camp Meade, Md. These camps are designed for young men who wish to take a month's outing and at the same time acquire some useful training. The entire expense will be borne by the government. Camp Meade will be open August 1st to 30th inclusive, and those desiring to take advantage of the offer for a month's military training in the Military Training Camps Association, Room 1300 Commercial Trust building, Philadelphia, and they will receive in return a formal application blank with full instructions and explanatory literature. This is an opportunity that every young man so inclined should not hesitate to take advantage of.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with rhododendron and mountain greens, while a large number of guests were present to witness the happy event. While the guests were gathering and just before the appearance of the bridal party Miss Carrie Belle Emerick, of Centre Hall, sang that very appropriate song, "Because," by Guy d'Hardelot. The wedding, march by Reginald de Koven, was played by Miss Ruth Smith, of Centre Hall, and during the ceremony the young lady played very softly the selections "Canzone Amoroosa" and "Romance in A."

The officiating minister was the pastor, Rev. J. Max Kirkpatrick, who used the beautiful ring service. The bride was gowned in white satin with a veil of white tulle and carried a large bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor, Miss Carrie Sweetwood, wore a gown of pink and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. There were six bridesmaids, Misses Elizabeth Sweetwood and Ethel Rowe, of Centre Hall, who wore gowns of corn colored organdie; Miss Rebecca Sellers, of Hollidaysburg, and Miss Esther Gilbert, of Wyoming, Pa., who wore apple green organdie, and Misses M. Delinda Potter and Margaret Emery, of Centre Hall, whose gowns were of orchid organdie. All the bridesmaids carried bouquets of pink roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents and later Mr. and Mrs. Bramhall left for a week's wedding trip through the New England States. After July 15th they will be at home at 127 N. 14th street, East Orange, New Jersey.

Father Downes and the young couple were attended by Miss Gertrude Crawford, as bridesmaid, and William G. Carroll as best man. A pre-nuptial dinner was served the bridal party previous to the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents and immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hogentogler left on a wedding trip to Harrisburg and other eastern points.

The bride has for some time past been one of the efficient clerks in the Hazel & Co. store and has a wide circle of friends in Bellefonte. The bridegroom is connected with the district office of the State Highway Department in Bellefonte and is an industrious and enterprising young man. They will make their home with the bride's parents for the present.

Musser, of Spring township, and Miss Maxine Montgomery, of Montour Falls, New York, were married at the home of the bride's mother in Montour Falls at four o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. Only a few relatives and intimate friends were present at the wedding, the number including the bridegroom's parents, who went to Montour Falls on Tuesday and returned yesterday. The bride for several years past has been a teacher of domestic science and is an accomplished young woman. Mr. Musser is a graduate of State College, class of 1918, and is now engaged in vocational teaching at Linesville, Pa. Immediately following the wedding ceremony on Wednesday the young couple went by motor to Linesville, where they will occupy their new home which Mr. Musser had in complete order for the reception of his bride.

They were attended by Miss Hoy and Mr. Williams. The bride wore a gown of white satin with a corsage bouquet of sweet peas, while the bridesmaid wore a gown of pink organdie. The bridegroom is at present employed on the reconstruction work of the Bellefonte Academy, and the happy couple will at once go to housekeeping on Bishop street.

Another Centre County Soldier's Body Brought Home.

The body of James Roy Hull, one of Centre county's contingent of brave boys who lost their lives in France, arrived in Bellefonte last Thursday and was taken to the Smeltzer home at Fillmore where funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon. Rev. W. P. Ard officiated and the Brooks-Doll Post American Legion attended in a body. The dead soldier was a member of the Bellefonte Lodge of Odd Fellows and at the grave both the I. O. O. F. and American Legion service were used.

Private Hull was called for service in May, 1918, and after training three months at Columbus barracks in Ohio was sent overseas. He was almost immediately sent to the front with replacement troops and took part in the last hour of fighting before the armistice became effective on the morning of November 10th.

Rev. Robert E. Johnson, of Philadelphia, who because of his activities as prohibition enforcement officer gained the sobriquet of "The Raiding Parson," died in a Philadelphia hospital last Friday as the result of a general breakdown in health occasioned by his strenuous work in enforcing the Volstead act throughout the State. It was Rev. Johnson and his "flying squadron," it will be recalled, who raided two Bellefonte hotels last fall and made the first seizure of liquor confiscated in Bellefonte and which started the deposit in the cellar of the postoffice.

Harnish & Miles, who the past year have been operating the Hamilton planing mill on Howard street, and who recently joined Col. W. Fred Reynolds in the purchase of the plant of the Bellefonte Lumber company, have been busy this week moving their machinery from the Hamilton mill to the plant out by the spring. The official change in ownership and management will take place today. With their increased equipment the new company will be in a position to turn out more work and fill orders more promptly than the old company was able to do.

Lower Fort.

On Monday of this week a delegation of Daughters of the American Revolution, including Mrs. Sparks, State Regent; Mrs. Lyon, Mrs. Valentine, Mrs. J. C. Furst, Miss Sparks and Miss Overton, went to Millheim on a very interesting historical mission.

Just recently, what is known as the "Lower Fort" has been unearthed and Col. Henry W. Shoemaker and the Bellefonte Chapter D. A. R. immediately proceeded to plan to mark the spot where the brave defenders fought for life and property.

The marker will be placed in the graveyard adjoining Wolf's Chapel, where the bodies of these early settlers lie, marked only by the simplest, crudest stones picked from the soil nearby, and by nature's contribution of three pine monarchs which stand as protectors of this sacred spot.

Col. Shoemaker is a man of note because of his broad views, his historical knowledge and his open purse; and his guests feel that the day spent with him was one of valuable importance.

After selecting the site of the marker the party drove to Stover's farm, which is the true location of the Fort, and drank from the old spring.

The ceremonies connected with the dedication of this marker, will take place on Constitution day, Saturday, September 17th. An appropriate program will be presented and the privilege of entering the quaint old chapel will be given those in attendance.

Mr. Ellericks, of the State Department of Forestry, was with Col. Shoemaker. He took pictures of the chapel, trees, etc., and of the barn with its famous beams, aged at least one hundred years. He will take pictures of the Old Fort marker at Centre Hall, which the Daughters marked some years ago.

As a delightful ending to a perfect day, Col. Shoemaker presented to each one of the party copies of two of his publications, "The Pennsylvania Mountaineer of the Alpine Club of 1919," and "The Black Bear of Pennsylvania."

If any of the readers of the "Watchman" possess information not found in Linn's History of Clinton and Centre counties, on this and other historic spots, will communicate with us, such attention will be appreciated.

Salmon for Susquehanna.

The stocking of the Susquehanna river with Columbia river salmon or royal chinook, is being followed by more shipments of these game youngsters from the United States Bureau of Fisheries at Washington. It is the intention of the bureau to plant at least 100,000 fish in this river in the next four years in quarterly installments and watch the experiment. Those who have been engaged in fishing on the Columbia river, and are assisting in the release of the little fellows, tell some wonderful stories of the activities of the matured fish and discrediting the idea that the newcomers will suffer destruction from the fish-eating tribes that infest the river.

The chinook matures in from two to three years, reaching 25 to 30 pounds in weight in that time, and going on to as much as 80 pounds. The fish is migratory and winters in the ocean, always returning to its first home in the spring and sticking around until the snow falls.
