Free for Farms.

More than 6,000 tons of picric acid, one of the highest known explosives accumulated for war purposes and made useless by the armistice, will be distributed to farmers for agricultural purposes.

The question of what to do with 12,000,000 pounds of picric acid puzzled the government officers for some time and the War Department had almost decided to tow the explosive out to sea and dump it overboard in the interest of the public safety when it was decided to institute a series of experiments in an effort to find some safe commercial use for it.

The experiment disclosed many ways in which picric acid could be used safely and profitably on farms, such as in blasting out stumps and rocks and breaking up land. It was accordingly decided to distribute the explosive, practically free of charge, to farmers.
