PINE GROVE MENTION.

Jack Frost made himself felt hereabouts several mornings this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Markle, of Altoona, are visiting friends in town this week.

Paul Goss spent the early part of the week at his parental home in Tyrone.

Mrs. Sue Peters is spending the week at the C. H. Meyers home on the Branch.

Some of our farmers are cutting corn and some are well along with their seeding.

J. S. Miller and wife, of Pleasant Gap, were Sunday visitors among old neighbors in the Glades.

Will Wartz is becoming a regular John Wanamaker in his mercantile business at Shingletown.

Miss Ray Shultz, of Wilkes-Barre, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Sarah L. Murphy, on Water street.

Highway engineer Stackpole and superintendent Hurley were in town for a short time on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zettle, of Dale's Summit, were callers with friends in town on Thursday.

Curtis H. Meyers and family, of the Branch, were callers with relatives in town on Sunday afternoon.

Howard Barr, the tandy salesman for Musser & McClintock, of Tyrone, was here taking orders on Friday.

Rev. A. M. Luton and wife are spending their summer vacation with relatives in Altoona and Pittsburgh.

Rev. J. Max Kirkpatrick is entertaining his sister from Philadelphia at the Presbyterian manse at Centre Hall.

Mrs. Sarah L. Murphy will offer her house and lot and all personal goods at public sale tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

Miss Mabel C. Goss, a typist in the Tyrone Times office, spent her two week's vacation among relatives in this section.

Will Grove, one of the Pennsylvanians most trusted engineers, accompanied by his son Charles, spent Sunday with relatives in town.

Mrs. Emma Meek is having her barn roof painted and new spouting put on the building. S. E. Ward is in charge of the job.

Mrs. Samuel Frank has returned from a month's visit with friends in New York State and talks in glowing terms of her trip.

H. N. Markle, G. W. Koch and L. D. Musser are having concrete walks put down in front of their properties on south Water street.

Bert Allen and Mr. Keller, of Centre Hall, are busy as nailers putting up lightning rods on buildings in Spruce Creek valley.

Ernest Johnson, an oil truck driver, spent Sunday here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Johnson, going from here to Danville.

Miss Ruth Watt, of Lancaster, with her sister Mary, of Pittsburgh, are spending their vacation at their parental home on west Main street.

Dr. Glass and wife, of Uniontown, and the Woomer family, of Graysville, are spending the week camping along the foothills of old Tussey mountain.

Miss Emma Johnson has returned from her sojourn in Ohio and accepted a position as one of the "hello girls" in the Bell exchange at State College.

Banker and chicken fancier C. D. Bartholomew, of Centre Hall, spent Monday afternoon in town looking up a little insurance business as a side line.

A new iron fence, of the Ward pattern, is being put up at the old Major J. I. Ross farm, now tenanted by E. Shoemaker. Joe Johnson is doing the work.

Rev. J. S. Hammac and wife closed the Methodist parsonage and are spending the pastor's vacation with friends in the western part of the State.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Gibson, of Latrobe, have been visiting relatives here and in Stonevalley. Before her marriage Mrs. Gibson was Miss Lucy Thomas.

F. W. Swabb and two daughters motored to Aaronsburg and spent the Sabbath with old neighbors. On the return trip they had all kinds of motor trouble.

Charles Henry Meyers and family, of Fairbrook, motored to Centre Hall on Sunday and were pleasantly entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Detrow.

Mrs. Sophie Erb Motters, of Lykens, Pa., has been visiting the home of her youth in the Glades. She is eighty-eight years of age and hearty and jolly as ever.

Mrs. Ida Mc. Goheen, of Tyrone, with her two sons, made her sister, Miss Mary McWilliams, a visit on Sunday and was pleased to find her somewhat improved in health.

Jesse Borest, of Petersburg, spent some time here the early part of the week calling on old acquaintances and getting a slant on our town as a good place to engage in the mercantile business.

The Highway Department is improving the state road in the vicinity of Pine Hall by taking out a dangerous reverse curve. The work is nearing completion and the road will be open for traffic in a week or ten days.

Joe Shoemaker and John M. Moore took a flitting to Philadelphia by motor truck the early part of the week and on Thursday left with another flitting for West Virginia. On this trip they expect to be on the road five days.

We are sorry to note the illness of our old friend and neighbor, William Stamm, who had his left leg broken in a fall while walking through his yard. He is now in the Altoona hospital and getting along as well as can be expected.

Col. and Mrs. W. W. Bell, of Charleston, W. Va., who spent part of the summer at the Fairbrook Country club, left for their home on Monday, taking with them Sarah Sasserma, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sasserma.

James Markle, of State College, started work last week on the job of crushing sixty tons of limestone on the Dr. Andrews farm but after crushing twenty tons threw up the job because the stone are too hard for his machinery.

The Louck Bros. have closed a deal with E. M. Watt for the purchase of his store room which they will convert into a garage. George A. Dunlap has purchased the Watt residence and will convert it into an up-to-date store room later on.

Mr. J. C. Buchwalter and two sons, Howard and Henry, motored up from Lancaster and joined Mrs. Buchwalter, who has been in this locality several weeks, visiting friends here and at State College. They will all return home on Saturday.

Miss Gladys Gibboney, one of the expert clerks in the First National bank at State College, spent the latter end of the week picnicking and visiting her parents at Salsburg, stopping a short time in town on her return trip to the College.

Mr. and Mrs. Wils Logan, of Enosville, spent last week at the O. P. Bloom home near Baileyville. Mr. Logan is a Civil war veteran and quite sprightly for one of his mature years, but unfortunately his wife does not enjoy such good health.

Squire Richard Gregory died at his home at Shavers Creek last week after a long illness with cancer, aged 64 years. He was well known through this section from his frequent trips here buying stock. Burial was made at Mooresville on Sunday.

The annual gathering of the Mc-Bath family was held at Stevens park, Tyrone, last Saturday. Quite a number of the family from other counties joined in the gathering. Everybody had such a good time that they all voted to have another reunion at the same place the third Saturday in August of 1922.

Baumgardner & Moore bought a number of cattle in the valley last week and on Saturday drove them over Tussey mountain into Stonevalley. On the way over a young cow broke ranks and got away in the mountain. Several days later she made her appearance at the old Bailey farm where she will be cared for until the owner calls for her.

The J. H. Bailey farm home near Meek's church was the scene of a happy get-together meeting on Sunday of the Bailey family. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bailey, of Springfield, Ill., were guests of honor, while others included Dr. Frank Bailey and lady friend, of Milton, and Dr. J. B. Krebs and wife, of Northumberland. Quite an elaborate dinner was served by the hostess, Mrs. J. H. Bailey. On Monday the guests from a distance above named were entertained at the W. H. Glenn home in town, all of them leaving the same afternoon for their respective homes.

Over three thousand people attended the big Baileyville picnic on Saturday. Several States were represented in the large crowd. Of course the big dinner was a feature and nobody went hungry. The program included three ball games. The Templeton nine defeated Dungarvin 6 to 1, then Dungarvin knocked out the Tadpoles 5 to 0 and State College beat Pemberton 5 to 1. The day was ideal until about towards five o'clock when a sudden dashing rain drenched many of the picnickers to the skin and put an end to the festivities. Dr. Frank Bailey and lady friend, of Milton; Dr. J. B. Krebs and wife, of Northumberland; J. C. Cole, of Pittsburgh; Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bailey, of Springfield, Ill.; J. M. Watt and Joe Heberling, of Tyrone; Peter Keichline, of Bellefonte; J. D. Nearhood and Bill McNitt, of Reedsville, were old familiar faces on the picnic grounds. But how we missed our old friend, Sam Iryin, who was invariably among the crowd. He is extremely ill but his many friends hope for his early recovery. Your correspondent is under obligations to Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Frank for an abundant and delicious dinner and we are candid to confess we stowed away our full share of it.

LEMONT.
