

ALL ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

Sunday evening's hard rain was badly needed, but it came too late to save certain garden crops.

A little daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Walker last Thursday morning, has been named Mary Catherine.

A little daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Swartz, at Tusseyville, on August 27th. It is their first child, notwithstanding the fact that they have been married fourteen years.

Following the continued extremely critical condition of Mr. Daggett all during the week, the announcement yesterday morning of a slight rally was very pleasing to his hosts of friends.

Lot owners in the Treziulny cemetery in Boggs township are requested to cut the weeds and grass and clean up their lots. Other portions of the cemetery have been cleaned up by those in charge and lots should be made to correspond.

A fire on the roof of the Mrs. R. S. Brouse home on Thomas street at noon on Wednesday called out the fire department, but the flames were extinguished before the firemen arrived. The fire started from sparks from the flue, and a small hole was burned in the roof.

"Oh, Oh, Cindy," is a musical production of the revue type. The libretto, music and costumes are the property of the John B. Rogers Producing company. The leading talent in Bellefonte will take part in its production here Wednesday, September 21st. Proceeds for fire equipment.

The Millheim Business Men's association, which by the way, is a real live wire organization, visited Bellefonte on Monday evening on their way home from a run to Tyrone and had dinner at the Brockerhoff house. Reservations had been made for seventy-five and just seventy-two were in the crowd.

According to a statement issued by registrar A. H. Espenshade just 1105 new students have been granted admission to State College this year, and over one thousand boys and girls qualified for entrance had to be rejected because of inadequate accommodations. Ninety women are among the new students admitted.

Mr. J. Herbert and his troupe of colored minstrels, gave one of the best performances in the opera house on Monday evening of any minstrel troupe appearing in Bellefonte in recent years. It was a clean-cut, fun-making entertainment, and while the house was not as large as it should have been, all present enjoyed it.

Rev. R. M. Campbell, of Graysville, on Sunday notified his congregation that he will retire from the active ministry in two weeks. Rev. Campbell is now in his eightieth year and has been preaching for fifty-three years. He has been on the Graysville charge nineteen years and evidently feels that he has done his work and is entitled to retire.

Labor day, the Granger's picnic and teachers' institute are things of the past, but the scenic is still doing business at the old stand. With big programs of up-to-date motion pictures every evening in the week Bellefonte people will have the advantage of good, clean entertainment. Watch the weekly programs published in each issue of the "Watchman."

The State College Times last week got out a special edition commemorating the twenty-fifth anniversary of that town as a borough. State College was chartered August 25th, 1896, and at that time had but 300 population while the attendance at the College numbered 300 students. Today the borough has a population of 3,000 while the attendance at the College is also about 3000.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Decker, of Bellefonte, announce the marriage of their daughter, Helen Sears Decker, to John F. Smith Jr., at Cumberland, Md., on September 6th. The bride was one of the graduates at the Bellefonte High school in June and is well known in Bellefonte's younger set. The bridegroom is the youngest son of former registrar of Centre county, J. Frank Smith, and served in the navy during the world war.

One of the season's society events of Punxsutawney will be the wedding of Miss Ellen Swartz, of that place, and Dr. Ira Pratt, of Coatesville, which will take place at the home of the bride, Thursday, September 15th. Miss Swartz is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Swartz and was a member of the class of 1921, Swarthmore College. In her short vacation periods spent at home she has always been one of the most popular members of the younger set. They will make their home at Coatesville.

An illustrated lecture with lantern slides will be given in St. John's parish house this (Friday) evening at 7:30 o'clock on the subject of the great cathedral which the Episcopal church is slowly erecting on the beautiful Mt. St. Alban, in the city of Washington. When completed this will be one of the most beautiful shrines of Christendom. The lecture is simply to interest the public generally in this religious and artistic enterprise, so there will be no collection and no appeal for funds. The lecturer will be Miss Sarah Van Gundy, a teacher in the cathedral school for girls, in Washington.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE LARGELY ATTENDED.

Interesting Questions Discussed by Various Instructors.

There were comparatively few absentees among the three hundred or more school teachers in Centre county at the opening session of the seventy-fifth annual teachers' institute in the court house on Monday afternoon. The institute was opened with music conducted by Prof. Griffiths, after which Rev. George E. Smith led in prayer. Superintendent David O. Etters addressed the institute briefly, urging the teachers to be punctual in attendance and give their entire attention to the instructors. He then introduced as the initial speaker Prof. P. M. Harbold.

Prof. Harbold began his discussion of the recent progress and growth in American education with the statement that Centre county was the originator of the county institute. He stated that the American high school is this year celebrating its one hundredth anniversary, having been started in Boston in 1821, being the outcome of the Latin grammar school and the old-time academies. Philadelphia was the second city to establish high schools, then New York, Baltimore, Charleston, Cincinnati, and Hartford. The greatest growth in the high schools came in the period from 1890 to 1918 when the increase was 452 per cent. The largest high school in the country is in Los Angeles, Cal. The liberality of the high school courses is quite noteworthy. Philadelphia has made wonderful strides of late, having at this time about one thousand high schools. Such schools afford the largest opportunity for community service and should receive our heartfelt support.

After a brief song service Dr. D. A. Anderson, of State College, was introduced. He spoke on teacher's qualifications and stated that the teachers are meeting all requirements. Elementary education is for all. Reading is a basic study and can not be neglected. It is not only an essential but the chief tool. The main end in elementary education is achieved if the child acquires a taste for reading good literature. Teaching to read implies imparting the ability and creating the desire to read. Knowledge is of two kinds, by personal contact, and by information through the experience of others. In the beginning reading is chiefly technique. The next step is when the child becomes interested in what he reads. The methods must be adapted to the many conditions which arise. There are two kinds of reading, oral and silent. Oral teaching technique. Silent should be given much time and attention, as ninety-five per cent. of reading in later life is silent.

TUESDAY MORNING SESSION. Following the song and prayer service on Tuesday morning Dr. Harbold spoke on better English. The indifference of the Pennsylvania German to language sense is felt in our schools. Do not give books too early, as the child must then conquer the written words as well as the sense of language. Dr. Anderson in his period stated that any one who desires to become a leader must master English. The teaching profession is the formative force. Society has decreed that the teacher must be better equipped and trained than the doctor and lawyer. It is not so important what the pupil will do as what he or she will be. Teaching brings the highest recompense of any profession. To get best results teacher training is necessary. Physical and moral fitness are essentials. High ideals, attendance at educational institutes and institutions, any means whereby one may improve for the work.

After a brief song service Supt. J. Y. Shambach was introduced and spoke on compulsory attendance. He said that schools are for the children. Get pupil, parents and teacher into the right frame of mind so that the "Golden Rule" may be the common motto. He explained the law in regard to regular and punctual attendance. Begin legal proceedings promptly. Do it firmly and courteously, and if this is done there will not be so many cases to consider.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON. Speaking on improvement in service at the afternoon session Dr. Anderson said the present is a meritorious time. Teacher's efficiency ought to be rated. This should be done in part by the teachers. Prof. Griffiths entertained the institute with two beautiful vocal solos, after which Dr. Harbold discussed written English and stated that a great majority of pupils dislike written English, principally because the teachers dislike it. Welcome every opportunity to write. He cited instances of expert writers who practiced writing the English language until they became efficient. English is one of the hardest branches to teach. Watch the individual pupil to ascertain the time when he is ready to break forth into the study and understanding of English.

Supt. Shambach explained the new school register and monthly report cards. WEDNESDAY MORNING. Following the song service and prayer Supt. Etters introduced Dr. W. D. Lewis, who talked on English composition. The art of composition is the effort to produce a desired reaction. The aim: Expression in speech and expression in writing. The content: What are we talking about? The method: By interchange of ideas. The aim of education is to teach people to do better the desirable things. Dr. Anderson discussed the educational forces in rural life. If we wish to be broad rather than narrow rural life gives us this opportunity in the variety of experiences. The most important thing a teacher can do is to let the boy and girl know that his life reaches out to theirs.

Speaking along the same line Dr. Harbold told the institute to teach children, not the subjects to save time. Combine subjects wherever possible. Combine interest with education to get the best results.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON. Continuing his talk on the rural schools Dr. Anderson contrasted the "little red school house" of years ago, with its poor system of heating, lighting and ventilation, to the present day rural schools. He stated that schools should be the centres of a richer community life and the teacher a leader in the community.

At the song service Mrs. Morris Krader favored the institute with two appropriate solos, after which Dr. Harbold spoke on materials in teaching. He told the teachers to get information from the community life that will interest the children and use it in examples, etc. Lack of space prevents us giving a detailed report of yesterday's exercises, but they were just as interesting and beneficial as the talks of previous days. The institute will close with this morning's session and the teachers will have two days in which to assimilate the many good things they heard before starting work on their school term.

Public Health Education Features for the Autumn.

Miss Eleanor Weston, who, in her role of "San Tan," the health clown, has delighted and instructed hundreds of the school children of Pennsylvania during the last two years, gave her last performance, Thursday morning, before the teachers' institute, to demonstrate the unique methods now being used to induce children to play the health game. While San Tan's retirement will cause a wail of regret from the little folks who looked forward so eagerly to the hours of merriment she gave them in school, her understudy will, no doubt, soon win their favor and the health fairy bring them fascinating, new fairy-tales. Some of the proposed health features to be carried out this autumn are:

Health trailers, from the State Health Department, which will be shown every month at the scenic. One of the best was the "Fly," shown Wednesday night, October 3rd, in the opera house, there will be a Public Health night of free movies given by the Red Cross and Tuberculosis committee. At this time will be shown films depicting the activities of the Red Cross and of the Tuberculosis society. During the week of October 17th to 24th there will be in the schools, lantern slides from the State Health Department on flies and typhoid. November 1st to 8th, will be devoted to tuberculosis with lantern-slide views of Cresson, Mont Alto and Hamburg.

December 12th to 17th, the schools will have slides on first aid and school hygiene.

Big Assembly of Sunday School Workers at Altoona.

There is unusual state-wide interest in the coming annual assembly of Sunday school workers to be held in Altoona, October 12th, 13th and 14th. Every county will send its quota. Delegates are appointed irrespective of their denominational affiliation, for all Protestant Evangelical denominations will participate.

The program contains such names as Margaret Slattery, Boston, Mass.; Wayne B. Wheeler, Washington, D. C.; Lyell M. Rader, Chicago, Ill.; Charles Stelzle, New York, and many others of national repute.

Centre county should be well represented at this important gathering. All pastors, superintendents, teachers, and adult students desiring to attend should write for credential cards to Darius Waite, corresponding secretary for the Centre county Sunday school association.

A credential card will guarantee admission and a seat at all sessions.

Tate-Myers-Samuel Hess Tate and Miss Mabel Myers, both of State College, journeyed to Boalsburg last Wednesday evening where they were married at the Reform parsonage by Rev. S. C. Stover. They were attended by A. L. Burwell and Miss Ruth Swabb. Immediately following the ceremony the young couple left by automobile for a wedding trip to the western part of the State and upon their return will locate on Barnard street, State College. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Myers and the bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Tate. Their many friends extend congratulations.

John Cort and his all-American chorus of singers and dancers will present the wonderfully clever musical comedy, "Listen Lester," at the Garman opera house next Monday evening, September 10th. The scene is laid at Palm Beach and the scenic settings are rich and correct in detail. Mr. Cort selects his chorus on merit and the girls can sing and dance most bewitchingly. A dozen new and catchy songs, comic situations and laughable climaxes feature the performance. "Listen Lester" will appeal to all theatre goers, both old and young alike. Don't forget the date, next Monday evening.

Annual Reunion of Centre County Veteran Club.

The 48th annual reunion of the Centre county Veteran club was held at Grange park on Wednesday. The I. O. O. F. band, of Bellefonte, furnished music for the gathering. Owing to the death of the president, the late John Hamilton, vice president Henry Meyer presided. Rev. J. Max Kirkpatrick invoked the divine blessing and Rev. Roy Corman delivered the address of welcome. The chair then appointed the following committees: On Officers-T. A. Snyder, John Noll, W. H. Bartholomew.

Place of Meeting-J. W. Sunday, W. E. Tate, C. H. Martz. Resolutions-Clement Dale Esq., chairman. The old soldiers then adjourned for dinner, which was the big feature of the gathering. On re-assembling in the afternoon the committee on the election of officers reported as follows: President, S. B. Miller; first vice president, Henry Meyer; second vice president, D. B. Brisbin; secretary, W. H. Fry, all of whom were elected.

The committee on place of meeting reported in favor of Grange park, on Wednesday of the annual picnic week. The committee on resolutions also made its report. Short and interesting talks were made by J. L. Holmes, of State College; J. Kennedy Johnston Esq., of Bellefonte; chaplain T. W. Young, of the western penitentiary; Hon. John A. McSparran, Master of the State Grange, and Clement Dale Esq., of Bellefonte, while Miss Edith Dale gave several splendid patriotic recitations. Mrs. R. M. Beach of Bellefonte, made a brief speech in favor of Miss Simmons, of State College, for delegate to the constitutional convention.

The Grange Encampment.

Reports from Grange park, Centre Hall, indicate that the forty-eighth annual encampment and fair of the Grangers of Centre county is on a par with former years. All the tents in the ground are filled with campers, and some applications had to be turned down. The stock exhibit is fair while the display of various lines of farm machinery is as large, if not larger, than in former years.

One of the biggest surprises on the grounds is the fruit exhibit. Reports have been current all summer that there is scarcely any fruit in Centre county, but the exhibit at Grange park is one of the finest ever seen there. This is especially true of apples, evidence that the crop is not an entire failure. Owing to an unusual demand for space in the columns of the "Watchman" this week we are compelled to forego any extended report of the big gathering. But this does not mean that it is losing interest with the public. The attendance has been up to former years, the crowd yesterday being unusually large. The program for the week was identical with that published in this paper last week. The picnic will close today with a public sale of stock, implements and various things. Any one interested in this sale should attend.

Logans Clear Eight Hundred Dollars.

The very threatening weather on Monday doubtless kept many people away from the old-time picnic of the Logan fire company held at Hecla park, but notwithstanding the weather a fair crowd was in attendance, especially in the afternoon. With baseball, various other sports, dancing, etc., the crowd was well entertained during the day and far into the night. The total receipts of the picnic amounted to about $1,500, and after paying all expenses the firemen were $800 to the good. The committee in charge desires the "Watchman" to extend thanks to the people of Bellefonte for so cheerfully and liberally contributing supplies for the picnic.

A just and impartial enforcement of the laws can be secured by your voting for J. Kennedy Johnston, for the office of Burgess, at the coming primaries. 66-34-3t

Altoona Young Man Drowned at Ingleby.

Byron F. Krumrine, a young newspaper reporter whose home was in Altoona, was drowned on Sunday afternoon while swimming in Penn's creek at Ingleby. The young man went to Paddy mountain on Friday to spend two days with a party of friends in camp there. Sunday afternoon he left the camp for Altoona but reaching Ingleby he decided to take a swim in Penn's creek before proceeding on his way. He went into the water alone and a short time later campers along the stream heard cries for help. They hurried to the place where Krumrine had been seen going into the creek but he was not in sight. Fearing the worst they began a diligent search and his body was found a half hour later. All efforts to resuscitate him failed. Undertaker S. A. Campbell, of Millheim, took charge of the remains and sent them to Altoona on Monday.

Byron Foust Krumrine was a son of E. C. Krumrine and was born in Harrisburg almost twenty-six years ago. When eleven years old the family moved to Altoona and it was in that city he got his preliminary education. While attending school he worked in the mail room of the Altoona Tribune and later became a reporter on the Altoona Times. In 1916 he entered State College but when the United States entered the world war he enlisted for service and was given a lieutenant's commission. He was later made an instructor and was detailed at various camps in this country. After the signing of the armistice he returned to Altoona and became a reporter on the Altoona Tribune. Last January he severed his connection with that paper and went to Harrisburg as a reporter on the Patriot. Last week he resigned that position to go to Philadelphia as a reporter on the Evening Ledger and was taking a few days vacation when he met his untimely death. His father and one sister survive.

In Society.

At the first fall meeting of the Y. W. C. A. held at the home of Mrs. Robert M. Beach, Tuesday, only a short part of the evening was devoted to business, the remainder of the time being given over to the social part, for which arrangement had been made by the members, for a surprise shower for Miss Eleanor Weston. A heaping clothes basket of valuable and useful gifts were presented to Miss Weston, for her new home at State College, where she will live after her marriage in October, to Phil J. Haley, of Pittsburgh, who is an instructor in forestry at Penn State.

Thursday of last week, Miss Bess Hart entertained at her home on Spring street, with five tables of five hundred.

Friday evening Mrs. R. W. Funk was hostess at a five hundred party, two tables being in play.

Wednesday evening of this week, Miss Helene Williams gave a card party at her apartments in the Bener house, on High street.
