

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

David G. Meek has resigned as cashier of the State bank at Beech Creek and accepted a position in the First National bank at State College. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Decker gave a dinner party of ten at the Brockerhoff house on Sunday in honor of their daughter Helen and her husband, John Smith, the guests being young friends of the bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Magee, of Philadelphia, widow of the late R. M. Magee, former resident of Bellefonte, was taken critically ill on Wednesday while sojourning at Atlantic City, according to word received in Bellefonte. "The Lies of Russellism," subject of the pastor's address at the Methodist church, Bellefonte, Sunday, at 7:30. A timely and important address. Should be heard by Bible teachers, parents and all. Invite your friends. Rev. John W. Long, pastor of the Methodist church at State College, was on Wednesday unanimously elected president of Dickinson Seminary, at Williamsport, to fill the place made vacant by the recent death of Dr. B. C. Conner. Miss Helen Robb, of State College, has leased the house on Bishop street now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Massey and will occupy the same with her mother when they come to Bellefonte the latter part of October. The Masseys will move into their new home on Pine street, which is fast nearing completion. Dr. Edwin E. Sparks, until recently president of The Pennsylvania State College, who spent the summer touring through the west and at Ephraim, Wis., returned to Penn State this week to assume his duties as lecturer in American history. Upon his request, he will give special attention to Freshman history classes. Go to the Scenic and enjoy the motion pictures. You will find them worth seeing every evening in the week. Big programs, running from two to two and a half hours. Latest productions of the best film makers. The Scenic is the only place in Bellefonte where you are always sure of being splendidly entertained. Try it. While in town on Monday, Mr. James J. Morgan informed us that he has reopened the old Gonzallus mine on his farm one mile west of Snow Shoe and is taking out splendid coal for house use. It is very lumpy and guaranteed to be clean. He sells it at the mine at $3.00 a ton and trucks can be loaded in a very few minutes as always cars are held in reserve for truck loading. Two highwaymen jumped off of a freight train at Vail on Monday, just at the noon hour, broke into the Weaver store, robbed the cash drawer and loading up with goods of various kinds made their escape without being detected. Mr. Weaver was in Tyrone at the time and his wife, who was in charge of the store, had locked the door and was at home eating dinner when the robbery occurred. The fame of the Bellefonte Academy swimming pool has spread across the continent. After completing his course at the Academy last June one of the students went to California and entered the Leland Stanford University to take up a special course. Perusing a San Francisco paper last week he came across an item announcing the fact that "the largest concrete swimming pool in the country had just been thrown open to the public by the Bellefonte Academy, at Bellefonte, Pa. The Union county fair will be held at Lewisburg on October 25-28 inclusive. The management promises something interesting for every member of the family. The buildings have all been improved and with good weather the track will be in splendid condition. Space has already been reserved for exhibits and this part of the fair promises to be bigger and better than ever. The fact that the Union county fair will be the last for the season in this section ought to insure a big string of horses. Make your arrangements to attend. Announcement was made last Saturday of the engagement of Adolph Fauble and Miss Mary McGovern, both of Bellefonte, the wedding to take place shortly after the new year. Mr. Fauble is proprietor of the Fauble stores in the Brockerhoff house block and one of the most successful business men of the town. Miss McGovern is connected with the John F. Gray & Son insurance office and is an expert business woman. Both Mr. Fauble and Miss McGovern have been busy this week receiving the congratulations of their many friends. The I. O. O. F. band of Bellefonte gave its last weekly concert in Bellefonte on Wednesday evening and the customary large crowd turned out to hear it. This concert practically ends the season for this band and the demand for its services during the summer is evidence of its popularity as a musical organization. It has played in most every section of the county on this side of the mountain and had many requests for dates that could not be accepted because they conflicted with other arrangements. Bellefonte has every reason to be proud of the I. O. O. F. band and it is to be hoped that it will be kept intact until another summer comes along and the public will again have a chance to enjoy its delightful concerts.

STOLEN WHISKEY CAUSES GREAT EXCITEMENT.

Liquor Discovered by School Boys Carried Away by Men, Women and Children.

If a gold mine were suddenly discovered on the streets of Bellefonte it would not create more excitement than was created Tuesday noon when two school boys found a large quantity of liquor concealed in the fire-boxes and ash pits of the boilers at the old steam heating plant on Lamb street. Men and women forgot the Volstead act and made a rush for the cache of whiskey carrying it away by the dozen bottles and by the armful. One woman, it is said, gathered up her skirt in order to carry away a good load of the spirituous swag. One man is reported to have gotten twenty-five bottles, while the average was anywhere from four to ten bottles. Along about four o'clock on Tuesday morning persons living in the neighborhood of the old steam heating plant heard a truck drive up to the building and stop. In a few minutes they heard the tinkle of glass and naturally concluded that some mischief was in the air. Tuesday forenoon one or two women who had heard the noise early in the morning went to the old plant but failed to find anything. They told their neighbors, however, of what they had heard during the night and at noontime a young son of John Dubbs Jr., and one of Albert Schad's boys went to the plant to make a hunt. They were unsuccessful until they opened the heavy iron doors of a fire-box when they were astonished to see the bottles rolling out at their feet. Each boy grabbed two bottles and ran out on the street to tell of their find. Other school children flocked to the scene and following close on their heels were men and women, each one intent on getting as much of the liquor as possible. In less time than it takes to write it the old plant was cleaned out. In fact when officers arrived upon the scene only three bottles could be found. The whiskey was Golden Wedding, Overholt and white label Humbolt, and suspicion at once pointed to the deposit of confiscated liquors in the postoffice cellar. An investigation disclosed the fact that the cellar had been robbed during the night and some twenty cases, or upwards of three hundred bottles of whiskey stolen. It was identical with the booze found at the old steam heating plant. The robbers had made their entrance through a broken window in the side of the old wine cellar in the rear of Beizer's meat market. The fact that they broke open the cases and got away with such a large quantity of liquor is evidence that a number of persons were engaged in the robbery, and naturally suspicion points to local people. As soon as officers got on the scene at the old steam heating plant they got busy and succeeded in getting the names of most every one who had carried away any of the booze, with the result that they went after them and compelled the return of the liquor, so that most of it has been recovered. One incident is told of three young men who got away with a load each, carried it some distance and hid it in an old barn while they went back for more. But when they got there all the whiskey was gone. They then went to the old barn to divide their swag and were dumfounded to discover that somebody else had stolen it from them. Anent the robbing of the postoffice cellar, this has not been the first time it has happened. In fact practically all the bottled goods has been carried away and all that remains is the liquor in barrels, and some of it may have turned to water by this time. But water or no water postmaster P. H. Gherrity has shouldered the responsibility of taking care of the stuff as long as he intends doing, and not only refused to take back the stolen whiskey but notified district attorney James C. Furst to remove the barrel goods and Wednesday evening trucks were called into service and everything in the nature of strong drink remaining in the postoffice cellar was removed to the county jail. After it had been dumped in sheriff Dukeman's stronghold it was discovered that the cell doors are all too narrow to admit a barrel and as the sheriff had no other place of safety in which to store it he threw up his hands. Yesterday a district officer came to town and after a conference with district attorney Furst it was decided to take all of the booze to Sunbury and store it in the federal building there. A small amount of it was purchased by the Bellefonte hospital. While the "Watchman" is opposed to the proposed convention for the drafting of a new constitution at this time, and urges voters generally to vote against it at the primaries next Tuesday, there is, of course, a possibility that it may carry in the State at large. Should such a thing occur it is of vital importance that the Democratic party, which is the minority party in Pennsylvania, be represented in the convention which will decide the points at issue in the new constitution. Each Congressional district will be entitled to three delegates, and each voter is entitled to vote for two. There are three candidates on the Republican ticket and only one on the Democratic, Mr. Scollins, of Clearfield county. Hence, vote for Mr. Scollins and assure his nomination and election, if the referendum vote decides in favor of a constitutional convention.

Edward Brooks' Body Brought Home. Funeral on Sunday.

The body of Edward B. Brooks, killed in action in France on September 22nd, 1918, was brought home on Tuesday and will be buried on Sunday. It will be a military funeral and all members of the American Legion are requested to meet at the Post rooms in the "Watchman" office block at one o'clock sharp on Sunday afternoon. From there they will proceed to the Brooks home at Pleasant Gap and come with the body to the Lutheran church in Bellefonte where funeral services will be held at two o'clock by Rev. W. P. Ard. Burial will be made in the Advent cemetery in Boggs township. Edward B. Brooks was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Orlin Brooks and was one of the original members of Troop L. In France, however, he served as a wagoner in the supply company of the 108th field artillery. Both he and Charles Doll were killed by the same exploding shell, and it was in honor of their memory that the American Legion named their organization the Brooks-Doll Post.

"Oh, Oh, Cindy!"

There are moments of rest in "Oh, Oh, Cindy" the production which is to be staged by local amateurs at Garman's under the sponsorship of the auxiliary board, for the firemen, Tuesday evening, September 20th. An excellently staged, swiftly moving, smooth running performance, of one of the best and smartest of the season's musical shows is certain to be presented by the local people. The play is a medley of color, music and artistry. One starts at a rehearsal of a modern show on a metropolitan stage and in the twinkling of an eye is whisked to Fairyland, to the South Sea Islands and back again to Fairyland. The magic of a thousand sorcerers brings the mystery of the Orient, with its melody, its beauty, its mysticism, to the local stage. It is a wonderful presentation, and is certain to far surpass anything of its kind ever before presented in Bellefonte. A capacity house is expected and there is every evidence that there will be a sell-out. Seats will be on sale at Mott's drug store starting Saturday at 9 a. m. Make your reservations early and witness the very best amateur production ever staged in Bellefonte.

An Interesting Case from Ferguson Township.

A rather interesting case was heard before justice of the peace S. Kline Woodring, on Tuesday morning, being an action brought by Elias Shogmaker and E. M. Watt to recover certain sums of money from the Ferguson township school district, on an implied contract, for the transportation of children to the nearest high school. Four years ago the Ferguson township high school at Pine Grove Mills was abandoned and under the school code any school district which is without a high school is obligated to pay tuition, etc., of any students of the district attending high school in another district. At the time of closing the high school at Pine Grove Mills the school board of the township agreed to pay the tuition of all students attending other high schools, designating the State College high school for pupils nearest that point and the Warriorsmark high school for pupils nearest that place. The board paid the tuition but refused to pay for the transportation of pupils and the actions brought by Mr. Shogmaker and Mr. Watt were to make a test case of the school district's liability for such transportation. Quite a number of witnesses were heard on both sides after which the justice reserved his decision until tomorrow, as the case is the first of the kind brought in this State.

Former State College Student in Serious Trouble.

William Walter Dudley, a former student at The Pennsylvania State College, is in the hands of the police authorities of New York city awaiting requisition papers to bring him back to Centre county to answer to a serious charge preferred by a fourteen year old girl of State College. When the charge was preferred the case was put in the hands of district attorney James C. Furst and he finally located Dudley in New York city. A state policeman was sent to New York last week to bring the young man back to Centre county. He had little trouble in locating him, as Dudley was holding down a good position in the research department of the General Electric company. When told that he was wanted, and the nature of the charge, the young man was willing to come back but the authorities there refused to turn him over to the state policeman without requisition papers. The result is that an application will have to be made to Governor Sprout for requisition papers which will then have to be sent to the Governor of New York for his consideration and signature before any further action can be taken. In the meantime William Walter Dudley will remain in the custody of the New York authorities until all the legal formalities have been complied with. As his offense is extraditable the Centre county authorities have no doubt but that they will eventually get their man, but the action of the New York authorities in refusing to give him up without requisition papers adds a lot of needless expense to the case.

Prominent Speakers at W. C. T. U. County Convention.

Next week, Thursday and Friday, September 22nd and 23rd, the Centre county Woman's Christian Temperance Union will hold its 36th annual convention in the Presbyterian church, State College. The program promises a very live meeting, featuring Miss Amanda Landis, vice president of Pennsylvania State W. C. T. U.; Dr. Thomas, president Pennsylvania State College, and Dr. John Wesley Hill, LL. D., of New York city. Miss Landis and Dr. Thomas need no introduction to a Centre county audience. Miss Landis, a sister of state superintendent Landis of the Sunday schools, who delighted her hearers at a recent county Sunday school convention, will be present both days and give the main address Thursday evening. Dr. Thomas, who has already won an enviable reputation with our people by his excellent addresses, will speak at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. On Friday evening, at 8:15 o'clock, Dr. John Wesley Hill, LL. D., of New York city, platform and Chautauqua lecturer, will be the speaker. Rarely do we have the opportunity of listening to one of such unusual distinction. We find in "Who's Who" 1920-21, that Dr. Hill, born in Ohio in 1863, is an alumnus of two universities and the Boston Theological Seminary, and though a Methodist minister he has filled many prominent pulpits of the country, such as Methodist Temple, New York city; Jaynes church, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Grace church, Harrisburg, and others, that he made his first appearance campaigning with James G. Blaine. He also took active part in the McKinley campaign, was representative to the Republican National convention, 1908, and again in 1912. He is, therefore, a civic, industrial and patriotic speaker, as well. One summer he supplied the Presbyterian pulpit in Marlboro, London, England. He founded the Fowler Memorial church in Helena, Montana, filled charges in Washington State and Utah, was Chancellor of Lincoln Memorial University, Tennessee, for which university he in 1918-19 raised an endowment fund of one million dollars. Was chaplain of Pennsylvania Senate and is now Grand Chaplain of the Masons in New York State.

Probably his most noted achievements have been of more recent years for in 1914 he organized the World Court League in the United States. In 1911 he visited the Orient and established the Asiatic Branch of the International Peace Forum of which he was president for Japan and China. He is now a member of Federal Prohibition Commissioner Haynes' flying squadron of live-wire lecturers for the enforcement of the 18th Amendment. The W. C. T. U. is to be congratulated upon securing this unique and interesting as well as very distinguished man to speak at its convention, and there should be a record breaking attendance from all over the county.

Our old friend Daniel Peters, of Mill Hill, was in town between trains Monday. He came up on the Lehigh and had to drop off here to wait for the 4:44 as he was on his way to his boyhood home at Unionville for a short visit with his brother William and with his brother-in-law, Shed Parsons.

Mrs. John Rote, of Axe Mann, was a caller at this office on Saturday. Mrs. Rote said that before the new road was completed they could rarely sit on their front porch and it was impossible to keep the home dusted but now it's very different.

H. T. McDowell, of Howard, was a Bellefonte visitor on Tuesday. In other years Harry has not been so much of a stranger in Bellefonte as he has been thus far in 1921. When he moved to Howard from his farm in Little Nittany valley he thought he had retired, but scarcity of competent farm help decreed otherwise and this season he has been working just as hard as he did when he was a regular hand. In fact it has set so hard on him that he is ready to sell his farm and if any one wants a fine place with plenty of wood-land and a splendid spring of water the McDowell farm below Jacksonville can be bought right.

A just and impartial enforcement of the laws can be secured by your voting for J. Kennedy Johnston, for the office of burgess, at the coming primaries. 66-34-3t
