Gang That Stole Whiskey from Postoffice Cellar Revealed by Auto

Accident.

R. B. Montgomery, John and Orin Morrison, Joseph C. Garis and John Showalter, with Charles Brown as a government witness were taken planned and went to Nigh Bank. We to Sunbury on Wednesday morning by federal officers Rudisill and Smith to ery, Red (Thomas) Derstine and Edanswer before the federal court to the charges of robbing the postoffice cellar of whiskey and boot-legging. The revelation came through an automobile accident on the back road to Roopsburg at an early hour on Saturday morning when Joe Hockenberry and John Speece were run over by a Ford car and injured sufficiently to be taken to the Bellefonte hospital. Fortunately neither one is as badly hurt as at first reported and both will likely be around in a few days.

All the men mixed up in the accifair but by Saturday evening the state police had secured sufficient evidence to justify the arrest of John and Orie Morrison and Joe Garis, who were promptly placed in jail. On Sunday the three men made a confession sheriff Harry Dukeman and James C. Furst, which led to the arrest on Mon-Brown. Garis met Orin about 1 p. m., and they talked with Montgomery and asked if we could have the car to take a ride and he said 'Yes.' We took the car and we planned to go out to the ore mines again. He, Montgomery, said he would go get the car and meet us at the top of Bishop street. We met as there saw Bob Long, Henry Montgomward Baney, but did not see them take any liquor. We went to the barn and found the liquor all gone. Montgomery then blamed us for having removed the liquor when we had the car for a ride. This we had not done. We then accused him of telling his son Henry and the other men where the liquor had been put, and that they had taken it away. R. B.
