—Watch your $20 bills closely, as a counterfeit federal reserve note of that denomination is reported to be in circulation. It is reported to be a rather poor counterfeit at that, but might pass a cursory examination of any man eager to get hold of a twenty, and that denomination looks pretty big these days.

On Tuesday a portion of the goods were found in a room in the Central hotel which had been occupied by a man who registered as "G. Henry, Bellefonte." The man evidently is an impostor as no such individual is known here.

—The attention of our readers is called to the scenic and opera house motion picture advertisement in another column. Keep the dates in mind so you don't miss any of the good ones.

BIG DOIN'S AT STATE COLLEGE.

Dr. John M. Thomas Will be Inaugurated President of State College Today.

From many angles today will be the most pretentious, ceremoniously, that The Pennsylvania State College has ever experienced, for the formal inauguration of Dr. John M. Thomas, as president of the institution, has been made the occasion of a function weighted with significance. Many men of national and state reputation have already gathered there and with them will be the accredited representatives of one hundred and thirty-six colleges and universities and delegates from forty learned societies in this country.

Preliminary to the inaugural ceremonies of today educational conferences were held throughout yesterday. They opened with the address of welcome by Judge H. Walton Mitchell, president of the board of trustees. Then followed the address of Dr. Samuel Capen, director of the American Council of Education, of Washington, D. C.

In the evening Governor William C. Sproul and Charles M. Schwab were the speakers in the auditorium.

During the day conferences were held on agriculture, education, mining, metallurgy and chemics, engineering and industry, industrial chemistry, and education for women. At all of these there were addresses and discussions by men and women whose names are high lights in the research and educational centres of the country.

All of this but tended to create atmosphere for the solemn event of today at State. Early this morning the entire student body will parade in review before the distinguished visitors. All delegates and other guests wearing academic costume will assemble and lead the processional to the auditorium, followed by federal and state officials and alumni. Governor Sproul, Justice Von-Moschisker, of the Supreme court, Lieut. Governor Beidleman, Hon. Aaron Hess and Gen. William Price, will be in the line representing the Commonwealth.

Following the inaugural ceremonies a dinner will be served in the armory and then an inspection of the College grounds and buildings and this evening the students will celebrate on their own. They have given up their usual Thanksgiving vacation period for this event and are likely to make their sacrifice of the Pitt trip the reason for an unusual celebration.

Among the universities, colleges and seminaries represented at the ceremony are Harvard by Francis Rawley; St. John's by Prof. J. B. White; Yale by Dean Wilbur Lucius Cross; University of Havana by Rector Jose Comal longa y Mena; University of Pennsylvania by acting provost Penniman; Columbia and Barnard College by Dean Hawkes; Pennsylvania College by President Granville; Oberlin by Prof. Honess; University of Delaware by President Hullahen; Maricetta by President Carson; Union Theological Seminary by Prof. Frame; University of Michigan by Prof. A. E. White; University of Missouri by Prof. Chandler; Notre Dame by Rev. Fitzgerald; Villa Nova by Rev. Sheedy; Bucknell by Dean Phillips; University of Wisconsin by Dean Louis E. Reber; Geneva by President Johnson; University of Iowa by Prof. Anderson; University of California by Dr. Barrows; Vassar by Dean Ellen McCaleb; Massachusetts Institute of Tech. by Prof. Warren; Kansas State University by Dr. Marlett; Swarthmore by Pres. Aydelotte; Cornell by James Gilbert White; Lehigh by vice president Emery; University of Minnesota by Prof. Tomhave; Syracuse by William B. Miller; University of Maryland by director Harry Patterson; University of Ohio by Prof. Nixon; Amherst by Dean Olds; Lafayette by President MacCracken; Wesleyan by Prof. Espenshade; Brown by Prof. Randall; Rutgers by President Blair; Dartmouth by Prof. Emery; Dickinson by President Morgan; University of Pittsburgh by chancellor Bowman; Franklin and Marshall by President Appel; Middleburg by Prof. Wright.

A Family Orchestra Enlivens Big P. O. S. of A. Meeting.

Washington Camp No. 887, P. O. S. of A. got a big turn out to its special meeting in the Harris building, last Friday night. The Rev. Smith, J. K. Johnston Esq., and Dr. Clarence Williams were the orators of the evening and we wouldn't for the world destroy any possible delusion they may have as to their drawing powers, but we happen to know that "Eats" was on the card notice sent out and we also happen to know that in times of peace an appeal to the stomach of the average man is far more powerful than one to his patriotism.

Seventy-five of the members were present to the feast of oratory, food and music; the latter having been supplied by the Garbrick family orchestra, of Zion. Seldom do we hear of a five piece orchestra all in one family but Mr. and Mrs. Harry Garbrick have one. Mrs. Garbrick presides at the piano, Mr. Garbrick plays a trombone, their son the clarinet and two daughters play violins, and as they all play well the music of this little family orchestra is pleasing indeed.

The Penn State football team

defeated North Carolina last Saturday by the score of 35 to 0. Prior to the big game the State Freshmen defeated the Bellefonte Academy 13 to 0.

Next Monday, October 17th, is the date set for the trial of the men who stole the booze out of the Bellefonte postoffice, in the federal court at Scranton, Pa. Since the uncovering of the big robbery several weeks ago the illicit booze business in Bellefonte is apparently at ebb tide, the supply having been removed outside the bounds of temptation of any who may have felt inclined to help themselves to some of it. And while there have been no further disclosures implicating any one in the robbery aside from those placed under arrest at the time, there are still underground rumors afloat that some startling revelations may be made during the trial at Scranton.

—Delicious sandwiches — Bon Mot. 66-40

—Announcement was made this week that the manager of the Penn State football team has completed arrangements to take the team to the Pacific coast for a game with the University of Washington eleven on Saturday, December 3rd. State's schedule from now to the close of the regular season will be a hard one and the trip to the Pacific coast will mean that the men will not be able to break training after the game with Pitt on Thanksgiving day. They will have ten days in which to prepare for their contest with the western kickers, but half of that time will have to be spent on the train on the trip out. It will be a big trip for the students who make it and will likely be an inducement to all the players to make good in the regular games.

—The American Legion boys messed themselves in their club rooms in the "Watchman" building Tuesday night and as they were thoughtful enough to send a plate of the cats down to this office we know it was the kind of a mess most any one would have enjoyed being in. Just forty members were present at the feed and the business meeting which preceded it. In this connection it might be added that the Brooks—Doll Post now has a membership of one hundred and fifty, five new members having been taken in on Tuesday evening, and is in a flourishing condition. It represents the very best of the young manhood of Bellefonte and vicinity who served during the world war, but there are many others who ought to be within the fold and should join at the earliest opportunity.

—Chicken and pork sandwiches— Bon Mot. 66-40

—A greater degree of permanency is being established every day at the Bellefonte aviation field, which also means that the force at work there will be more comfortably housed during the coming winter than at any time since the establishment of the field in Bellefonte as a station on the aerial mail route between New York and the Pacific coast. Sliding doors are now being put on the two large steel hangars which will keep out the snow and wintry blasts. A large machine shop is also being partitioned off in one of the hangars, and as this will be built of heavy lumber and lined throughout with wainscotting and beaver board it will be a comfortable place to work in even in the coldest weather. Of course hangars and machine shop will be heated and kept comfortable at all times.

—Bellefonte friends of Thomas F. Connerly, of Tyrone, will be interested in learning that he is rapidly improving from injuries sustained at State College two weeks ago when he fell a distance of fifteen feet onto a concrete floor and fractured the bones of both legs just above the ankle. Mr. Connerly was inspecting a boiler in one of the college buildings when he accidentally came in contact with a live electric wire carrying 110 volt. He managed to jerk loose from the wire but in so doing lost his balance and fell to the floor, alighting on his feet with such force that the bones of his legs were fractured. He was promptly taken to the Glenn sanatorium where he is getting along splendidly. Mr. Connerly married Miss Louise Armor, of Bellefonte, and frequently comes to Bellefonte on business and pleasure.

—"Not To-night, Josephine."

Few theatrical offerings of recent seasons will furnish as good an entertainment as "Not To-night, Josephine," the new French musical farce comedy. The play is far above the average musical comedies, inasmuch as it has a great plot, one that is both funny and intelligent. The plot centres around a bride and groom, a distracted wife, and a beautiful cabaret singer. Who would think that a flimsy, ruffy piece of feminine lingerie could very nearly wreck the love dream of a bride and groom on their wedding day? That is just what happens in the new musical comedy "Not To-night, Josephine," which will be presented at the opera house for one night only, Tuesday, October 18th. There is a combination of delightful dance numbers, catchy songs, genuine humor, that is bound to win public approval for this smart musical comedy. A carefully selected cast of talented singers, dancers and comedians has been engaged, together with a magnificent scenic production. Order your seats early. Seat sale at Mott Drug Company Saturday morning. Prices, 50, 75 cents and $1.00, $1.50.

'RAH FOR HALLOWE'N.

"Harvest Queen" Contest Becoming Very Exciting.

The voting contest for the Harvest Queen who will ride in the golden chariot in Bellefonte's big Hallowe'en parade is waxing hotter and hotter among the half dozen young ladies who are central figures in the contest. All the tail enders dropped out of sight during the past week and efforts are now being concentrated on the leaders. Up to the present time all the young ladies sparring for the honor of being the Harvest Queen in Bellefonte, which leads us to wonder why the girls in other places don't get busy and try to capture the honor. The queen doesn't necessarily have to come from Bellefonte and young women everywhere have the same opportunity to establish a little kingdom of their own as any girl in Bellefonte. All they need do is to get the votes and votes cost but a penny each.

As it looks now the Hallowe'en carnival is going to be one of the biggest things ever pulled off in Bellefonte. At a meeting of the executive committee held at the Elk's home on Tuesday evening the reports of all sub-committees showed considerable enthusiasm on the part of the public in general. Capt. W. H. Brown, of the parade committee, has already booked four bands and a half for the parade. These are the L. O. O. F. band, of Bellefonte; Wetzler's band, of Milesburg; the State College and Howard bands, while the half of a band will come from Millheim. It is billed as a half a band because it is only about one-half of what the people down there expect to have when they become fully organized, but the dozen or so members forming the nucleus of the organization will come to Bellefonte in an old band wagon and do what they can to make the affair a success.

The committee on decorations has made arrangements for the illumination of Bishop street between Spring and Allegheny into a regular "white way" for the block dancing after the parade. High street in front of the Elks will also be illuminated. The committee on prizes had expected to have the list ready for publication this week, but the merchants and others are responding so generously with offerings of articles of value that the committee has been unable to complete the list. But it will be ready for publication next week.

Capt. Brown, who will have the parade in charge, requests all those intending to put floats in the parade to notify him in advance as to the number and character of the floats so that he can assign them their proper place in the parade. This is very important, as it will save all delay and mix-up on Hallowe'en night. Organized bodies of men and women should also report to Capt. Brown in advance so as to be assigned their proper place in the line.

The contest for the Harvest Queen has already developed greater interest than was anticipated and at Tuesday evening's meeting of the executive committee it was decided that in addition to the prize of forty dollars in gold to be awarded the Queen, the next four highest in the contest will be awarded ten dollars in gold each and will be furnished costumes to ride in the chariot as ladies in waiting to the Queen. The chariot and all costumes will be furnished free by the Elks.

The vote to date on the Harvest Queen is as follows:

Kathryn Bent	6170
Grace Sasserman	5205
Ruth Teaman	4935
Marion Bauer	4885
Peggy Haines	3550
Katherine Wian	320
Celia Moerschbacher	125

Nice Fish Being Shipped from the Bellefonte Hatchery.

The fish hatchery has been located at Pleasant Gap so long that we give it very little thought now-a-days. And only a few years ago most of us were desperately interested in having it located in this community. It is the old case of the commonplace. Yet the hatchery goes on nurturing millions of fish for distribution in the streams of the State each year. The work is carried on without blare of trumpets, but so efficiently that each season the hatchery here does a little more to maintain the streams than it did in the previous one.

Billy Haws, the manager, is a difficult, non-communicative sort of person who has the old fashioned idea that he is paid for getting results and not for merely putting in the time. We have seen some of the trout he is sending out now and how he has made them grow to the size they have attained is a mystery to us. Certainly he has done his share toward keeping the fellow who hasn't found out on the 15th of April, 1922, that the Legislature of 1921 put the six inch limit back, out of the clutches of the fish wardens. Many of the trout he is sending out now are already long enough to be taken and the others are so well started that they ought to be well over the limit by next spring.

—J. M. Keichline, when he was tax collector paid the running expenses of the borough, reduced the borough debt fifty thousand dollars and reduced the millage to 22 mills. Why not vote for him at the election, November 8th, 1921? 39-4t

—Dr. J. J. Kilpatrick has been out of his office all of this week, as he is in Philadelphia taking a special course in advanced dentistry. 40-1t
