

IN THE NEGLIGEEES

Interesting Wearables for Fall and Winter Wear.

Newest Garment May Be Substituted for the Evening Dress Or Opera Coats.

Rumors of the attractive things now being manufactured for autumn and winter behind closed doors, and which will be brought out as surprises later on when the cool weather is here and every woman is feeling the need of adding to and replenishing her wardrobe, are not confined to suits and dresses. Interesting things are being done in the realm of negligees.

Negligees as they are made today might be placed in two general classifications—one of the dressing gown type, the other on the order of a dress. Those of the latter sort, during the days when a wave of extravagance swept the whole world, became extremely elaborate and were considered as belonging among the luxuries.

Makers of such clothes showed themselves versatile and extremely clever when, with the passing of the spending debauch, they made this type of dress to fall more than one need and simplified it. Now for many occasions a negligee may take the place of a dress—especially an evening dress.

The beautiful negligees that resemble so closely handsome evening dresses or opera coats being made for the new season are lovelier than ever, but among them is seen a goodly showing of dressing gowns and kimonos in which beauty has been blended with utility.

There was a time when we felt that the good old-fashioned dressing gown made for comfort had receded into the distance. We may have sighed occasionally for its comfort on a cool autumn or winter morning, but remembrance of its plainness and unbecomingness soled us for its loss.

Extremely attractive challis have been chosen for autumn models, and to make them even more pleasing soft silk linings of contrasting colors have been added.

FASHIONS IN WINTER FURS

Wide Diversity Shown in Styles of Peltry to Have Milady's Favor for Coming Season.

A passing glance at the fur garments displayed shows a wide diversity in style. There is no set fashion even in silhouette. One wrap may have close-fitting capes that form the long straight lines, while the next garment may be developed in wide, outstanding circular effects. There are many charming models and those built on the lines of a cape are popular. It is quite certain that there will be no difficulty in expressing individuality in the furs we wear next winter.

It is apparent that black fur garments will be especially favored. Handsome models in caracul, baby lamb, Hudson seal and astrakhan are plentiful. Next to black the gray furs will be in demand, so there are charming models in mole and squirrel. Of course, the beautiful mink coats and wraps will continue to be worn for evening functions.

A new fur which is a mixture of chinchilla and opossum is shown in trimmings and is also used in wraps in combination with fur fabrics. In neckpieces the animal skins seem to be the first choice. The pointed fox and fisher are being shown in large quantities, and there are handsome models in sitka and white fox.

FOR MEDIUM SIZED WOMEN

This chic little black velvet hat is not designed for tall women. Huge bows of black velvet, lined with white silk, constitute the trimming.

Feather Fans Are Large.
The popular style for evening wear is the large feathered fan. They are on the market in quantities, and are made up of unusually large drooping feathers of bunches of six or seven. There is a tendency toward solid color effects, such as all greens and all purples.

Armistice Day Speeches to be Heard Across Continent.

The largest audience that ever listened to one voice will hear the address of President Harding over the body of the unknown American soldier at Arlington national cemetery on Armistice day, for in addition to the distinguished gathering in front of him, there will be throngs in New York, Chicago and San Francisco who will be able to hear every word.

This is to be accomplished by means of Bell loud speakers connected with a transcontinental telephone circuit. Not only will the President be able to hear President Harding and the representatives of the allied governments, including Marshal Foch, but the music of the "Star Spangled Banner," played by the Marine band, also will be carried across the continent.

The engineers of the American Telephone and Telegraph company are arranging the mechanical details of the event, and the American Legion will have charge of the other features of the program. The occasion will be of dignity and solemnity, and it will make the funeral of the unknown American soldier the most impressive ever held.

Arlington, on the banks of the Potomac river overlooking Washington, was the home of Gen. Robert E. Lee before he commanded the Confederate armies and the scene there will be without parallel. Loud speaking horns will be concealed about the amphitheater so that the President's voice will carry half a mile, in addition to being transmitted to the cities on the long distance circuit. The program will make it possible for the east, the middle west, and the far west to have a part in honoring the unknown dead. President Harding will speak for the nation, and in a sense he will be heard by the nation.

In New York the audience will be assembled in Madison Square Garden and in addition loud speaking apparatus will be put on the roof of that building so that the President's speech may be heard by the crowd that gathers in Madison Square after the building is full.

In Chicago the Auditorium Theatre will be used and in San Francisco the local Auditorium, one of the largest on the Pacific Coast, will be pressed into service. In the two latter cities, as in New York, arrangements will be made for an overflow audience out of the doors to hear the speakers in Washington.

First Lesson.

A little Scotch laddie, wee Willie Macgregor, returned home after his first day in school.

When his father came back from work that evening he asked the young scholar what he had learned.

"I learned to say, 'Yes, ma'am,' and 'No, sir,' to me mither and feyther," replied the boy.

"Did you indeed!" said the father.

"Aye!" responded Willie.—Pearson's Weekly.

His Important Question.

He called on her twice a week for six months, but had not proposed.

"Ethel," he said, as they were taking a moonlight stroll one evening,

SELF-RELIANCE GOES BANKRUPT

Thin Blood Saps Energy. Gude's Pepto-Mangan Rebuilds the Blood.

Wrestling with a weakened condition of the blood is a desperate struggle. Thin, watery blood deprives the body of energy and causes a played-out feeling not unlike utter exhaustion. A man with weak blood has not the full use of his powers. He lacks decision, and vacillates until he loses self-confidence.

Some men, and women too, go faltering along for months scarcely realizing that they need Gude's Pepto-Mangan, the blood-builder. But when they have taken it for a while, what a difference there is in the feelings! The old-time vigor and health return. The new rich blood gets to work, building, fortifying, lifting the spirit up to its normal standard. Physicians have prescribed Gude's Pepto-Mangan for years as a blood-builder. Druggists sell it in liquid and tablet form. Look for the name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package.—Adv. 66-41

SPECIMEN BALLOT:

To vote a straight party ticket, mark a cross (X) in the square, in the FIRST COLUMN, opposite the name of the party of your choice.

A cross mark in the square opposite the name of any candidate indicates a vote for that candidate.

To vote for a person whose name is not on the Ballot, write or paste his name in the blank space provided for that purpose.

To vote for an individual candidate of another party after making a mark in the party square, mark a cross (X) opposite his name.

For an office where more than one candidate is to be elected, the voter, after marking in the party square, may divide his vote by marking a cross (X) to the right of each candidate for whom he desires to vote.

For such office votes shall not be counted for candidates not individually marked.
