William Fredericks, who was stricken with paralysis while working for the borough six weeks or more ago, is so little improved that there is practically no hope of his ever recovering to that extent that he will be able to work again. For years Mr. Fredericks had supervised all the work in the water department and was a valuable man for the borough.

Hard P. Harris, district attorney James C. Furst, Charles M. McCurdy and Dr. J. J. Kilpatrick spent a portion of last week over in Decker valley on the hunt of small game. They met with poor success but Messrs. Harris and Furst had the satisfaction of seeing a large buck which stood within fifty feet of them for five minutes or longer. Mr. Harris avers that the buck was fat and sleek and would probably weigh close to two hundred pounds, but the deer killing season was still three weeks away.

STATE COLLEGE MAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

Thomas D. Gray, with Load of Students, Drove Through Bridge Into Creek with Fatal Results.

On his way from Lewistown to State College with a load of college students returning from the State-Navy game, early Monday morning, Thomas D. Gray, a well known resident of State College, drove his car through the bridge spanning Kishacoquillas creek and down into the creek, a fall of eight feet. Gray was caught under the car, sustaining a broken neck and crushed chest, resulting in instant death.

W. Stewart Taylor, of Dauphin county, a student, sustained two cuts on left leg, cuts on nose and badly bruised chest.

Andrew Musser, of Dauphin county, escaped with minor injuries.

Miss Amelia Schuler, of McConnellsburg, sustained a broken left arm above the wrist and bad body bruises.

The other students were J. Frederick Merz, of Philadelphia; Kerzy Bevor, of Washington, Pa.; Donald Huber, of Philadelphia, and Ellridge Nathan, of Erie, who suffered minor injuries and were able to swim ashore out of the six feet of water and also render assistance to the others.

Mr. Gray, driving a seven passenger Paige car, left State College at two o'clock Monday morning and drove to Lewistown to meet the train arriving there from the east about five o'clock. Immediately upon the train's arrival he loaded up with the seven students above named. Musser and Taylor were on the front seat with Mr. Gray. Huber, Miss Schuler and Merz occupied the rear seat and Ellridge and Bevor were on the folding seats.

Mr. Gray was driving along at a moderate rate of speed as he approached the Kishacoquillas bridge. The road at that place has an abrupt curve approximating ninety degrees and whether Mr. Gray had forgotten the curve, mistaken his location or was unable to see it is not known, in any event he failed to make the turn and drove into the bridge, the machine plunging into the creek a distance of eight feet. The machine fell to the left and Gray was caught beneath it in six feet of water. Other cars were on the road and it was only a question of a few minutes until Gray's body was taken from the water and taken to the undertaker at Lewistown. The injured students were given medical attention at the Lewistown hospital and all able to do so continued their trip to State College in other cars.

Thomas D. Gray was a son of G. W. F. and Harriet Feister Gray and was born at Fillmore fifty-eight years ago. When he grew to manhood he engaged in farming at Fairbrook and while living there was married to Miss Anna Bowersox, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bowersox. A number of years ago he moved from Centre to Columbia county and occupied a farm near Bloomsburg, but two years ago he sold out and moved to State College.

He is survived by his wife and four children, Ralph W., of Williamsport; Carl, of Berwick; Franklin, a Senior at State College, and Edith, at home. He also leaves one brother and four sisters, namely: Zane B. Gray, of Williamsport; Mrs. Euphemia Hartsock, of Stormstown; Mrs. Grant Hoover, of Williamsport; Mrs. Frank Crosthwaite and Mrs. Isaac Ray, of State College.

He was a life-long member of the Methodist church and his pastor had charge of the funeral services which were held at 2:30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, at his late home at State College, burial being made in the Pine Hill cemetery.

Cheap Grain and High Priced Eggs.

The methods and principles of feeding laying hens were clearly brought out at meetings last week held at thirteen farms in different sections of Centre county. County agent J. N. Robinson had arranged these meetings in order that the farmers could learn how to feed so that the best results could be obtained.

Mr. H. D. Monroe, poultry specialist from The Pennsylvania State College, showed in what proportion a farmer could mix his own grains in order to derive the greatest value for them. With the price of grain so low, a farmer must do everything possible to break even on the grain crop. The high price of eggs and poultry products opens up one way in which some of the grain may be disposed of at a fair price by feeding to the poultry if it is correctly done.

A bulletin on feeding laying hens is available at the Farm Bureau office for the benefit of those who were not able to attend one of the meetings.

The Bellefonte Chautauqua.

Because of the delay in obtaining the required number of guarantors for the 1922 Chautauqua, there was no opportunity of easily calling together the members for the election of new officers, and therefore, Rev. Malcolm DePue Maynard and Cecil Walker have very kindly consented to hold over for 1922 their former offices as chairman and treasurer. Walter Cohen has consented to be vice chairman and Nevin Cole, secretary. This committee, with the ticket selling chairman, will attend to the business of putting over the 1922 Chautauqua, and will not call together the general body of guarantors, except by request.

The Penn State football team conquered the victorious Navy eleven on Franklin field, Philadelphia, Saturday, by the score of 13 to 7. The game was played in a hard rain and the field was literally a sea of mud. State's next game will be with Pitt, on Thanksgiving, then the trip to the Pacific coast for the after season game with the University of Washington at Seattle.

The first real snow storm of the season occurred on Saturday and Sunday. Snow fell most of the day and while it melted in the lowlands about as fast as it fell the mountain tops were covered, in some places to a depth of six inches. The weather has continued cold all week and those farmers who still have corn in the fields are likely to get cold fingers before it is all husked and housed.

A deal has practically been consummated for the sale of five hundred acres of coal land in the vicinity of Karthaus to the Portage Smokeless Coal company. The tract includes the present holdings of Thomas Bowman and J. L. McMonigal and lands they hold under option which include the McCloskey, Yothers, Potter, Gilliland and Heckendorn tracts. The consideration has not yet been made public.

Included in the awards announced by the State Highway Department on Wednesday under the township award act for the improvement of highways and bridges by townships, Gregg township, Centre county, was awarded $626.03, for the road eastward from the Gentzell property; $316.01, for the road from Spring Mills north, and $305.07, for the road from Handboard hill south, a total of $1047.11.

Sheriff Dukeman now has seventeen regular boarders in the Centre county jail, the greatest number of prisoners enrolled there in some years. The number was twelve up to last Thursday but that afternoon the five Bellefonte sentenced to serve a jail term by the federal court at Scranton for stealing the whiskey from the Bellefonte postoffice were brought here and entered as regular boarders. They are Robert Montgomery, who was given a year's sentence; Joseph Garis, John Morrison, Orrie Morrison and John Showalter, all of whom are due for a six month's stay.

Sunday was a bad day for automobilists crossing Nittany mountain. The road was covered with about two inches of snow and drivers who attempted to cross without chains on the rear wheels of their machines were either stuck on the heavy grades or slipping from one side of the road to the other. One man from Burnham, in a big Cole machine, went down over the mountain about thirty feet shortly after starting down the other side. The car stayed right side up and after Charles Bilger pulled the machine back onto the road the man cranked up and went his way, only he drove a little more carefully.

Mr. and Mrs. John O. Stover, of State College, feasted on wild turkey last Sunday, the bird, a twelve pounder, having been furnished by John W. Miller, an old-time hunter and a sure shot, whether it is wild turkey, rabbits or deer. Of course the feast included all the extra fixings, such as cranberry sauce, various vegetables, ice cream, cake, etc. Naturally Mr. Miller was the guest of honor and included in those invited to help enjoy the feast were Mrs. Alice Miller, Mr. and Mrs. McMahon and son Edwin, and aunt Mary Brungard, of Zion. The afternoon was spent in a social way generally, with plenty of choice music, and everybody had an enjoyable time.

John D. Decker, jury commissioner of Centre county, expects to close the deal this week for the sale of his old homestead in Decker valley to a hunting party from Greensburg and Jeannette. The price, it is reported, is $5000. The Decker homestead is located in the heart of Decker valley and is in one of the best game sections in the Seven mountains. In fact deer are almost as plentiful in that locality as sheep, and the purchasers want the property not only as headquarters during the hunting season but as an attractive place to spend a portion of the time during the hot summer months. It is understood that Mr. Decker will be permitted to retain his home there as long as he lives.

Members of the old Union church at Phillipsburg celebrated the 101st anniversary of its organization last Saturday evening and among the speakers was Mr. T. R. Hamilton, of Bellefonte. Mr. Hamilton, by the way, is in his eighty-sixth year, and he told his audience of how he made a trip to Phillipsburg by driving over the mountains when he was sixteen years old, almost seventy years ago. He frequently saw and talked to Hardman Phillips, the founder of the town, and remembers the old screw factory, Phillipsburg's first industry. Some years later he went to Phillipsburg and worked on the first saw mill located there. On leaving there he took a consignment of lumber sawed at the mill to Nebraska, hauling it over there to Pittsburgh by train, then down the Ohio and up the Mississippi river. Mr. Hamilton's talk was much enjoyed by the people of Phillipsburg.

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATED IN BELLEFONTE.

Services in Court House in Morning and Parade in the Afternoon.

Armistice day last Friday was duly observed in Bellefonte. All stores and business places were closed the entire day. Public services were held in the court house at 11:15 o'clock, which were attended by a fair-sized audience. Rev. M. DePue Maynard, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, was the speaker. His talk throughout was not only appropriate to the occasion but replete with beautiful sentiments. He asked his audience to forget where they were and picture themselves in Washington following that unknown soldier to his last resting place in Arlington cemetery. A soldier, no one knowing from whence he came or how he met his death, save that it was with his face to the front and in the defense of his country. He pleaded for loyalty not only to the Stars and Stripes but loyalty to the young men who carried them to Europe and brought them back unsullied, and loyalty to the church as the great inspiration to all mankind. The speaker so timed his talk as to close his peroration just as the town clock struck the second stroke of twelve and for a period of two minutes the audience stood with bowed heads in silent prayer. The service closed with prayer by Dr. Schmidt and the benediction by Rev. Maynard.

The parade arranged by the American Legion for two o'clock in the afternoon was curtailed in size by a steady down-pour of rain, but was held, nevertheless. It included the Odd Fellows band, Brooks-Doll Post American Legion, members of the Red Cross, Catholic Daughters of America, Wetzler's band of Milesburg, the Undine and Logan fire companies. At the conclusion of the parade Wetzler's band braved the rain and gave a brief concert in the Diamond.

At 2:30 o'clock the Yeagertown football team met the American Legion team on Hughes field, and notwithstanding the rain and muddy field played each other to a standstill, neither team being able to score.

A big dance was held by the American Legion in the armory at night in connection with their carnival, which drew a large crowd. While the American Legion boys have not been able to figure up the net results of their dance and carnival because of the fact that all their bills have not yet been received, they estimate their profits at upwards of eight hundred dollars out of gross receipts of $2137.32.

Italian, Principal in Shooting Affray, Caught in Wilkes-Barre.

There is an old saw that "murder will out," and invariably the murderer meets up with justice in some way. While in this instance the crime fortunately is not that of murder, yet it might have been and Tony Popello, the principal in the shooting affair that happened at Milesburg over two years ago, has finally been caught, up in Wilkes-Barre, and sheriff Harry Dukeman went to that city Wednesday night to bring him back to Centre county to answer to the charge of aggravated assault on the person of Willis Showers, of Bellefonte.

Popello, who lived near Bellefonte and worked in the limestone quarries, was one of the young Italians called for service in the world war by the Centre county board. For a year or more prior to being called he had been enamored with a young woman of Milesburg and, it is alleged, had given her money and costly presents. But after he had gone to the training camp the young woman accepted the attentions of Willis Showers. Popello eventually returned home and on the evening of October 8th, 1919, he met Showers and the girl near the latter's home in Milesburg. Without any warning he drew a gun and fired five shots at Showers. His aim was poor, however, as not one of the shots did any particular harm. One went through the lobe of Showers' left ear, one cut him over the right thumb, one hit the left lapel of his coat, another went through his left trouser leg, while the fifth shot flew wild.

Popello at once took to his heels and made his escape. Ever since Harry Dukeman has been sheriff he has kept up a hunt for Popello and finally located him in Wilkes-Barre. On his request the authorities there placed him under arrest and the sheriff will bring him back here for trial.

Special Train to Pittsburgh for State-Pitt Game.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company will run a special train to Pittsburgh next Thursday for the accommodation of all State College students and the public generally desiring to attend the State-Pitt football game Thanksgiving afternoon. The train will start from Lemont, leaving there about seven o'clock a. m. It will leave Bellefonte at 7:35 a. m., and is scheduled to arrive in Pittsburgh about 12:30. The return train will leave Pittsburgh at 11:30 p. m., and will arrive at Bellefonte about four o'clock Friday morning. The tentative fare for the round trip will be about $6.32, probably a few cents more or less. This train will enable any one desiring to do so to go to Pittsburgh, see the big game and take in a theatre before starting home.

Only one more week until Thanksgiving. Verily Christmas will be here before we realize it.

Prisoners Steal Booze Stored in Centre County Jail.

Even the Centre county jail is not a safe place in which to store booze, a fact demonstrated on Sunday night when the prisoners, who had the run of the corridors until 9:30 o'clock, stole some of the liquor stored in one of the cells and after drinking it refilled the bottles with coffee they had surreptitiously saved from their meals and replaced the bottles in the case.

The theft was discovered when the sheriff went into the jail at 9:30 o'clock to lock the prisoners in their cells. His attention was at once attracted by the smell of whiskey and though he searched every man he failed to find any of the stuff. Then he investigated the cell where the booze was stored and discovered that some of the prisoners, with a piece of base board torn from the floor to which was tied a hook made from a brace torn from one of the beds, had managed to draw a case of whiskey to the barred door, through which they got the bottles. Five quart bottles were found which had been emptied and filled with diluted coffee. The booze was the same that had been removed from the postoffice cellar to the jail for safe keeping.
