Governor Cox's Home Goes Democratic Too.

Dayton, Ohio, the home of ex-Governor Cox, also played an important part in the Democratic landslide of November 8th, electing the first Democratic mayor since 1912. Under the Dayton charter, the candidate for commissioner receiving the highest vote becomes mayor. Frank Hale, straight Democrat, and the only candidate nominated as such, led his nearest competitor by 5,000 votes. Thus the homes of the two Presidential candidates in the last election, Dayton and Marion, are now under Democratic local government.
Many smaller towns in various sections, heretofore Republican, went Democratic at the late election, the returns from which were not published in the metropolitan press.

An educational report issued by Columbia university shows that 8,000,000 children or one-half of the school population of the United States are being educated in small one or two room buildings of the "deserted" type. Of this number about 1,500,000 have some work to do so that the average daily attendance is only about 65 per cent. of the enrollment, compared to the average city attendance of 80 per cent. The report also shows that the average city school year has 187 days while in rural districts it is only 137 days. As one result of this condition illiteracy is twice as great in the country as in the city.—Ex.

TOTALLY BLIND, NEGRO BUILDS RURAL LINE.

From hod carrier to telephone line owner in six years is the record of a blind negro of Muskogee, Okla.
He is Zora E. Q. Tinsley, who became blind when unslaked lime spattered in his eyes twelve years ago.
Going to Muskogee from Texas in 1915, says the New York Sun, Tinsley set about finding something to do—to keep himself from brooding over his troubles. He saw the need of rural residents for telephone service.
Rigging up a telephone line would hardly be thought a suitable occupation for a blind man, but this fact didn't daunt Tinsley, who went to the manager of the Muskogee Exchange, Lyons, though skeptical of the success of the enterprise leased the negro five old instruments and a six-tuple relay switchboard. Tinsley already had contracts for three subscribers and he had little trouble getting three more.
Then, still without capital, he went after some wire. He bought 300 pounds for $9.30 and had it charged.
He borrowed a team, went into the woods and cut his own poles. He put them up himself, seldom employing any help.
When he got connections with the city lines and his own telephone in working order, more subscribers came thick and fast. He worked hard and accommodated them all.
Now his system covers most of the territory immediately west of Muskogee. It has forty-five miles of service and forty-nine subscribers, who pay from $2.50 to $3.50 a month for the service.
He is still reaching into new territory and hopes to double his number of subscribers shortly. His investment now probably is $1,500. Whites and negroes alike are his customers. He still does all his own line work, repairs the instruments and makes installations.
