Watch next week's paper for full particulars.

The Bellefonte school board has equipped the manual training department at the high school with a lathe, joiner and trimmer, each one operated by its own individual motor. The board also purchased a quantity of tools and has established a manual training department at the brick school building to the great delight of the boys who are pupils there.

The Lutheran church has set February 12th as the day for the dedication of the new manual Moller pipe organ just installed. The program, to be announced later, will likely include several prominent visiting clergymen, an organ recital, and varied musical numbers. Mr. George A. Now that the new year is well under way everybody will naturally plan for some amusement in the evenings, and there is no place in Bellefonte where both amusement and entertainment can be had under such comfortable and pleasant conditions as at the Scenic watching the motion pictures. Movie fans realize that manager Brown is doing his best to give the people of Bellefonte and vicinity the very best pictures that can be procured and this is the reason the Scenic is always well patronized.

During Wednesday's hard snow storm Mrs. Sadie Brown, wife of George Brown, of Oak Hall, attempted to take her own life by drowning. She has been in poor health for some time and this was probably the cause of her rash act. She left her home and deliberately walked to the breast of the dam where the channel is free of ice and walked into the water. She was in up to her armpits when discovered by Waldo Homan and Ross Louder, who waded in and rescued her. Mrs. Brown is about twenty-five years old and has two little children.

At the conclusion of the degree work a banquet will be served in the temple.

The Presbyterian Brotherhood began to function at a meeting and supper in the Presbyterian chapel on Monday evening. Some sixty or more gentlemen were present to partake of the good things served by the ladies of the church. Music was also a feature. Following the repeat questions of interest to the welfare of the church were discussed, such as why more men do not attend Sunday school and the weekly prayer meetings to a new pastor, etc. The most important action taken, however, was that in the event of the selection of a new pastor by the church session it was deemed advisable to pay a larger salary than the church has heretofore been paying the Brotherhood assume the obligation of making up the difference, either by securing increased pledges from members of the church or subscription among the Brotherhood.

FARM BUREAU vs. GRANGE.

Efforts to Make Farm Bureau a Free Organization Voted Down.

A special meeting of the Centre county Farm Bureau was held in the court house last Saturday to take action on a resolution presented at the annual meeting of the Bureau on the 24th of December providing for a paid membership in the organization. The object of the resolution had a twofold purpose. First, to supply funds to augment the appropriation of the County Commissioners so that the county agent will not be handicapped in giving more effective service. It appears that the county appropriation, though liberal, is not deemed sufficient for the wide scope of work being performed by the Farm Bureau. And secondly, the lack of funds for the publishing of an annual report of the work of the Bureau, a very important thing, and which has not been done the past two years because of lack of funds. The officers of the Bureau feel that the county agent's report should be published and placed in the hands of every farmer in Centre county. There are other equally important phases of the work that ought to be done but which cannot be performed with the limited finances. Some three hundred or more farmers attended the meeting and it was evident from the first that their presence was prompted by other motives than financial help to the Farm Bureau. One of the first points brought out at the meeting was the fact that a paid membership would make the Centre county organization eligible to membership in a State federation of farm bureaus should such an organization be formed. The full advantages of such an organization were explained in detail to the farmers. Although the meeting was designed primarily for Centre county farmers Mr. Brinkman, secretary of the State Grange, was present and was given an opportunity to speak. It at once developed that the State Grange is opposed to the organization of a State federation of farm bureaus. Mr. Brinkman's talk dealt largely upon the merits of the Grange as a farmer's organization, stating that it was well represented all over the State, and is equipped to do for the farmers all that is necessary, hence the folly of another state-wide farmers organization. From the personnel of the crowd and the presence of the secretary of the State Grange it was quite apparent that the members of that organization had come prepared to back against making the Farm Bureau a paid organization, and the result was the resolution was overwhelmingly defeated.

As a considerable number of those present were farmers who have heretofore taken only a passive interest in the work of the Farm Bureau, the president made a strong plea for support of the county agent and his work. It was quite evident from the remarks of all the speakers that all those present were enthusiastic over the present form of Farm Bureau organization and the work that has been done in Centre county. The officers of the Bureau also feel that the agricultural interests of the county should centre around the county agent and his work.

Killed by the Kick of a Horse. James Klinger, of Potter township, died at the Bellefonte hospital at 8:15 o'clock last Saturday as the result of a kick on the head by a horse on Friday afternoon. Just how the accident happened will never be known. The young man, who lives at the home of his parents in Potter township, started to lead a horse to water. Some minutes later he appeared at the home of William Lingle, almost a half mile away, riding the animal. He collapsed and almost fell from the horse and persons who went to his assistance made the discovery that he had been kicked on the back of the head by the horse but he was not able to tell a coherent story as to how the accident happened.

A physician was quickly summoned who advised taking him to the Bellefonte hospital, which was done. At the hospital it was found that he had suffered a bad fracture of the skull at the base of the brain and although everything possible was done for him he passed away on Saturday morning. James Klinger was a son of Daniel and Anna Klinger and was thirty years old on the fourth of this month. He was unmarried and in addition to his parents is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Robert Klinger, of Bellefonte; Herbert, at home; Mrs. Charles Crust, of Centre Hall; Blanche and Bessie, at home. Funeral services were held at his late home at 2 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon by Rev. Drumm, of the Lutheran church, after which the remains were taken to the Shiloh cemetery for burial.

Penn State to Graduate Large Mid-year Class. A group of sixty-five members of the Senior class at The Pennsylvania State College will complete their studies next week, and following final examinations will be graduated at special exercises on Tuesday, January 31st. Ever since the war activities caused hundreds of Penn State students to drop their studies, they have been returning whenever possible to finish their work and earn a degree. Others have found that they could complete courses in less than the usual four years, these reasons accounting for the large number to be graduated at mid-year.

Reduced Rates to State Farm Products Show.

Centre county farmers who may attend the State farm products show will be given reduced rates by all trunk line railroads, which includes all railroads through Centre county. These rates are available to all persons expecting to attend any of the agricultural meetings held at Harrisburg during the week of January 23rd to January 27th, inclusive. It will be necessary to obtain a certificate from county agent Robinson at the Farm Bureau office in Bellefonte, which must be presented when the tickets are purchased. This commission from the railroad will be of great assistance to the many Centre county people who attend this show each year.

"Facts Americans Should Know."

Above is the subject of a sermon given by the pastor of the Methodist church during the week of prayer. Numerous requests for a repetition of this sermon have been made and in compliance therewith it will be repeated in the Methodist church the coming Sunday evening at 7:30. What two outstanding facts threaten the moral and spiritual life of America? How long since Chicago was a village of one hundred population? How long since New York city had only one hundred thousand? In how many places under the Stars and Stripes is incense being burned to foreign gods? How many newspapers are printed in America and sent through our mails by the I. W. W.'s? These are but a few of the facts considered and questions answered in this sermon. From present indications every seat in the Methodist church will be taken on Sunday evening. The ushers will be at the doors promptly at seven o'clock. The public is cordially invited.

Big Game Preserve in Rush Township.

According to an announcement made last Friday by Secretary Gordon, of the State Game Commission, a big game preserve will be established by the State in Rush township, south and east of Philipsburg. Options have been taken on about eight thousand acres of forest lands, and at a meeting of the Game Commission in Philadelphia on Friday it was decided to exercise the options. The territory includes lands of the Sharer estate, the Woodring and Kelly families and the E. J. Pruner estate. Within the tract of eight thousand acres about two thousand acres will be enclosed with a wire as a game refuge. Within this enclosure all kinds of game will be protected against hunters. Gamekeepers will be employed to see that the State's rights are maintained and the game protected against illegal hunters. Titles to the land will likely be transferred to the State in the near future and the laying out of the preserve will take place early in the spring.

Russia from the Inside.

Count Ilya Tolstoy, son of Leo Tolstoy, the great Russian author and reformer, will speak in the auditorium, State College, on Saturday, January 14th, at 8 p. m. He is traveling in the interests of the Russian relief committee and the proceeds from the lecture will go to that cause. The admission will be by ticket, which will cost 25 cents. Count Tolstoy will speak on "Russia from the Inside," and will give a faithful interpretation of the trouble in his native land, based on personal experiences. He has recently come from Russia and feels able to give a judgment deduced from his investigations of Bolshevik and Soviet rule and his knowledge of the Russian people. An eminent lecturer and writer himself, he is able to express himself forcibly and to bring a message well worth while to his audience. His lectures have been well received in all sections of the country and his coming to State College will no doubt be a profitable occasion for those who will hear him. His visit to the College was arranged for by the program committee of the honor society of Phi Kappa Phi.

"Wilson Hour" at Noon on Monday.

All over the country a "Wilson Hour" will be observed next Monday, January 16th. The ceremony will mark the beginning of a campaign to raise a fund of at least $1,000,000.00 with which to endow awards for distinguished public service under the direction of what is to be called the Woodrow Wilson Foundation. During the hour that intervenes from noon until 1 o'clock contributions to the fund will be received not sought. This is a movement to honor Woodrow Wilson only by giving his name to a great public recognition of the service of men who shall follow in the trail he has blazed toward permanent world peace. In other words the fund is to endow awards that will be made from time to time to those who have striven to great heights of humanitarian endeavor. It is not a beneficence to Woodrow Wilson. It is a great ideal which his name, of all living Americans, seems most wholly to express.

If you feel that you would like to contribute to the fund—remember that you are not being even requested to do it—Mr. Charles McCurdy, Mr. John M. Shugert and Mr. Nelson E. Robb, at the First National, the Centre County or the Bellefonte Trust Co., will receive your contribution during the hour announced, on Monday and forward it to the Foundation committee in New York.

Logan Firemen Hosts at Firemen's Banquet.

The members of the Logan fire company were hosts at the seventeenth annual banquet of the Firemen's Relief association held at the Logan building on east Howard street on Tuesday evening. The annual meeting of the association was held prior to the banquet and at 9:30 o'clock the doors into the main room were thrown open, Lewis Hill's orchestra struck up a lively tune and the march to foodland was on. The seven or eight large tables were quickly filled and the firemen and a few invited guests fell to with as much avidity as they usually display in fighting fires. The menu was quite elaborate, running all the way from oysters to coffee and cigars, and it was really remarkable how most of them got away with every course.

A banquet without some talking would be a tame affair and when the proper time arrived M. R. Johnson, president of the Relief association, called for order and in a few well chosen remarks told that these banquets have been an annual affair since 1906 and how they resulted in fostering a kindred spirit among the members of both companies. He also declared that both companies had good reason to jubilate a little more than usual at this time because of the fact that borough council had supplied them with the very best and up-to-date fire fighting equipment obtainable. Mr. Johnson said he knew that all the firemen appreciated the action of council and he could safely pledge that it would be the aim of each company to take the best possible care of the new pumps and to render to the town the most efficient service.

Other speakers called on and who responded with brief talks were Charles R. Kurtz, Thaddeus Hamilton, James C. Furst, Roy Wilkinson, representatives of the White Motor company, Darius Waite, the new councilman from the West ward, and Burgess W. Harrison Walker. It was midnight or later before the affair came to an end.

Just here it might be stated that both of the new pumps were given the underwriter's test last Thursday and passed by a good margin. They will likely be officially accepted by council at the regular meeting next Monday evening and turned over to the fire companies.

Home of William Katz Badly Damaged by Fire and Water.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Katz, on High street, was badly damaged as the result of a fire early Monday morning, the greatest damage, however, being caused by the water thrown on the building to extinguish the flames. The fire started on the roof in the rear of the main building and is believed to have been caused by a spark from the furnace chimney in Petrikin hall. The entire rear portion of the roof is burned off but the flames were confined to the roof and the attic rooms. The fire afforded an opportunity for a tryout of one of the new pumps, the Logan company responding with the machine designed for it. The Undines also had one plug stream on and did efficient service. The new pump started with one stream but finally put on two. Its performance was up to every claim made for it, as both streams could have been thrown clear over the house.

While the fire itself did not do so much damage, the house was water-soaked from the top to the bottom and will have to be entirely overhauled. While it is impossible to estimate the damage it is undoubtedly considerable, but is covered by insurance.

Dr. Sparks Receives Appointment.

Bishop William F. McDowell, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the general committee on the Limitation of Armament, has appointed Dr. Edwin E. Sparks, of State College, as its representative in this community and to make speaking engagements for the public discussion of disarmament, America's position in world relations growing out of the international conference, and practical means for the preservation of a world peace. The committee has passed resolutions favoring the administration's stand to consider future problems in international relationship and, further an expression of public opinion in favor of an International Economic Conference, to be invited by the United States of America, following the present conference.

Any organization, civic, commercial, religious, fraternal, etc., may be provided with a speaker by communicating with Dr. Sparks. It is hoped that every such meeting will pass resolutions regarding "an organic and continuing relationship of nations" and future conferences for the peaceful discussion of world problems.

Lewis Hill had a narrow escape from being overcome by carbon monoxide gas in his garage on Sunday. He was testing out his car with the doors closed when he suddenly became faint and dizzy. He attempted to sit down on the running board of his car but fell and struck his head on the side of the car. The slight injury was just enough to awake him to the danger and he managed to stagger out into the open where the fresh air soon revived him, but he felt the effects of the gas for some hours afterwards. This is another warning to auto owners who keep their cars in a small garage, not to test out the motor with all doors and windows closed.

Among the throng of "Watchman" office visitors on Monday was J. Wesley Biddle, of Buffalo Run, who informed us that he was going to the College to make his home with his son and family, and this fact calls to mind the many changes that have taken place in that valley during the past two decades. Some of the old families that were cotemporary with the early history of Centre county and whose very names signified a residence in the Buffalo Run valley, have disappeared entirely. The older generation has passed on and their descendants have gone out into the world to battle for a living elsewhere. Free for a Few Minutes Only.

A prisoner by the name of McDonald, from Fayette county, was given his discharge papers at the Rockview institution on Tuesday morning, and just as he stepped from the deputy warden's office deputy sheriff Wilson, of Fayette county, confronted him. The man gasped "My God, Wilson, what do you want?" And Wilson answered "you."

McDonald was convicted in Fayette county for defrauding foreigners out of their hard earned savings, reaping a harvest of money estimated at from $200,000 upwards. He organized, or purported to organize, a fake coal company and sold the stock to the foreigners on the promise of giving to each purchaser an acre of ground with a nice, new bungalow erected thereon. The scheme was a good one and took like wild fire with the foreign element. Large quantities of the stock was sold and when McDonald failed to make good he was arrested, tried, convicted and sent to the penitentiary. He is a man of good breeding and more than the ordinary intelligence, hence made a model prisoner. The first part of his sentence was served at Pittsburgh but he was finally sent to Rockview.

Evidently he had forgotten the fact that another indictment was hanging over him as he could not hide his relief and pleasure when given his discharge. And because of this fact the shock of being confronted by deputy sheriff Wilson with a warrant for his re-arrest was all the greater.

Deputy Wilson is authority for the fact that there is little sympathy for McDonald in Fayette county, and it would not be surprising if he is convicted again that he will be sent to the work house instead of the penitentiary, which as a prison is by far the most to be dreaded of the two institutions.
