Harding "Proverbs."

By "P. H. W." in "Labor."
Harding is now my shepherd; and I am in want.

He maketh me to lie down on the park benches; he leadeth me beside the free soup houses.

He restoreth my doubt in the Republican party; he leadeth me in the paths of destruction for his party's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of starvation, I do fear evil, for thou art against me, thy policies and the profiteers they frighten me.

Thou preparest a reduction in wages before me in the presence of mine enemies; thou anointest my income with taxes; my expenses runneth over my income.

Surely, poverty and unemployment will follow me all the days of this normalcy administration, and I will dwell in a rented house forever.

CENTRE HALL.

Rev. Kirkpatrick is conducting a series of meetings in the Presbyterian church.

Clyde A. Smith and his wife, both of whom have been on the sick list, are again able to be around.

Quite a number of our people attended the Democratic banquet and get-together meeting in Bellefonte on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. H. F. Bitner, of Lewisburg, and Miss Mollie Hoffer, of State College, were here to attend the funeral of Mrs. P. H. Meyer.

Wednesday evening was the night of the P. O. S. of A. banquet, and a large crowd gathered in Grange Arcadia to enjoy the evening.

The burglar alarm installed by the Pennsylvanier Banking company is now in "working order." The interior of the bank has also been put in "apple-pie" order.

Mrs. Earl Lambert and baby reached our city one day last week, having come from Mrs. Lambert's southern home, for a stay with grandpa and grandma Lambert.

Rev. W. R. Picken returned from the Methodist hospital in Philadelphia one day last week. For the time being he and Mrs. Picken are located at Penn's Cave with their daughter, Mrs. R. P. Campbell.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Meyer, on Wednesday morning, was largely attended. Among those present from a distance were her sister, Mrs. Geo. Crawford, from Mercer, Pa., and her son, Robert Meyer, from Altoona. A brother of Mrs. Meyer, Foster Fetterolf, of Selingsgrove, was also here.

Testing Air in Old Mine.

Raising and lowering a bucket several times, to bring into a long-disused mine fresh air from the surface, is common practice. Methane may be expected in abandoned shafts or pits driven in coal measures or carbonaceous slates, or where a heavily timbered shaft is partly filled with water. If methane is suspected, it is best to lower nothing but a miner's safety lamp. If the light is not extinguished, the descent can be considered reasonably safe. When no safety lamp is available, and it is necessary to test with an open light, care should be taken to immediately withdraw all persons in close proximity to the shaft or pit as there may be an explosion.

Generally, there is no physiological warning of oxygen deficiency in the air. The first decided feeling is one of extreme weakness accompanied by dizziness, better described as partial paralysis, and the victim collapses practically without warning. To guard against this danger, a man should not enter old workings without having a rope tied around his body and at least two men on the top. The rope should be kept taut. Then if a distress signal is given, the explorer will not only be prevented from falling, but can be quickly pulled to fresh air and his life saved.

OPTIMISM IS THE SECRET OF SUCCESS. WITH SOME IT IS A GIFT.

Of course you know that the pessimist can only see the hole in a doughnut and the optimist sees the ring around the hole.

It is claimed by scientists that have examined many subjects that eighty-seven per cent. of all pessimists suffer from hyperopia, myopia or astigmatism. You may have eye strain and not know it. Better come into my office and let me show you the ring.
