TOURING THROUGH EUROPE.

Mrs. Callaway Writes Interesting Incidents of Her Trip.

On Board the Ship. Dear Home People:

Well my days are much busier than I had conceived. A good deal of my work seems to be hearing complaints and getting them corrected at the office.

In the afternoon we drove to Bethlehem to the church of the Nativity, from where we could see the River Jordan and the Dead Sea, in the distance.

The country is generally barren, save for olive trees and the fields full of poppies, which they call lillies. The floors of the rooms are of stone and the beds coarse iron; queer washstands with a mirror above and always a cross on the wall.

Our landing at Haifa was also to jump into boats and be towed to the landing, but the fat and lead did it. We are all having different experiences. Those who visited the River Jordan are carrying water home from there.

Well, after a day's delay we landed at Cadiz at 10 p. m., were put in busses and driven to hotels where we had dinner in our room—very poor Spanish cookery, worse bread, but delicious fruit—oranges, figs and dates in plenty.

One cannot conceive of the magnificence of the Alcazar, the home of the old dynasty Kings and Queens and at times still occupied by the present dynasty.

By a long, tedious ride we went up to Granada from Seville. Here, following the routine of all tourists we went to the Cathedral first and its size, marble columns and organ words cannot describe.

so of Philip, his wife and son. The Cathedral's architecture is Moorish, highly carved and gilded with gay coloring, Mosaic floors, a labyrinth of rooms, and marble columns. The court of Lyons has one hundred and thirty-two carved lions; these with water flowing from their mouths, compose the fountains. After two nights spent at Granada, we left there at 7 a. m., arriving at Algacivas at 5 p. m. and took the ferry to Gibraltar. A drive here had been arranged but it was late and we were tired, consequently were glad to go back to the ship.

Jerusalem, March 27th. We were to land at Jaffa in the morning, but on account of the roughness of the water and the danger of getting into small boats the Captain stayed off shore until 11:30 p. m. before venturing in. It was an experience jumping into the boats as they came level with the landing stage of the ship; then another thrill when the boats were carefully shot by the expert boatmen, between the rocks. Reaching Jerusalem near midnight over a hundred of us were quartered at the old monastery, called Notre Dame de Monast. In the morning we walked to the Mosque of Omar, which is builded on the site of King Solomon's Temple and in which are two of the original pillars of the Temple.

In the afternoon we drove to Bethlehem to the church of the Nativity, from where we could see the River Jordan and the Dead Sea, in the distance. This morning we are to visit the Garden of Gethsemane, the Tomb of the Virgin Mary and Joseph, the Mount of Olives and the Jews' Wailing Place, all so marvelous I can't realize it.

The country is generally barren, save for olive trees and the fields full of poppies, which they call lillies. The floors of the rooms are of stone and the beds coarse iron; queer washstands with a mirror above and always a cross on the wall. People are buying right and left. Some lovely things, and curious, too. Our guide this morning is a christian boy, an Episcopalian. We are still meeting people whom we had not seen on the boat.

Our landing at Haifa was also to jump into boats and be towed to the landing, but the fat and lead did it. We are all having different experiences. Those who visited the River Jordan are carrying water home from there. The Church of the Holy Sepulcher is certainly deified; such magnificent lamps and jewels. A party went last night to the quarries of Solomon, the entrance to which is outside the walls, but inside leads directly under the site of the Temple and from what is seen there, one can know the reason for silence in building the Temple, as the stone when first taken out is soft and easily cut with a knife, becoming hard on exposure to the air. It is a glistening stone and the ceiling was all evidently done under the Temple in the quarries, then hoisted into place. The stables of Solomon also nearly under the Temple site, are built with massive stone walls. While there we were shown the stone basin where the Crusaders were baptized. My book of post-cards will help illustrate all the wonderful things we are seeing. Will write you from Cairo next.

The great secret has been revealed at last. It was President Harding who put "fish" in efficiency.

GILLILAND.—Robert Cowden Gilliland, for years a well known resident of Snow Shoe, passed away last Friday evening as the result of an affection of the heart caused by a general breakdown several years ago.

He was a son of John and Lydia Smith Gilliland and was born at Centre Hill, Potter township, on May 1st, 1851, hence was almost seventy-one years old. When a small boy his parents moved to Karthaus township, Clearfield county, where he grew to manhood. He located in Snow Shoe in 1878 and for many years was engaged in the mercantile business. In 1915 he was appointed postmaster by President Wilson, a position he held until ill health compelled his retirement from business two years ago. During his long residence in Snow Shoe he was closely associated with both the civic and church activities of that community and was one of the town's most progressive and respected citizens.

He was for more than twenty-five years secretary of the Snow Shoe school board and was elected Snow Shoe's first burgess when that town was made a borough in 1908. For many years and up until his death he was an elder of the Presbyterian church. Descended from Scotch-Irish ancestry he was, during his entire life, deeply devoted to the church of his forebears. He was a staunch Democrat of the Jeffersonian type and was for years the district chairman of his party. He was a man of broad culture, a great reader and a charming conversationalist. His hospitality in his home and his sympathetic attitude toward his fellowmen made for him a host of friends. He was married to Miss Sarah B. Murray, of Clearfield county, who survives with the following children: Ray D. Gilliland, of State College; J. Murray, at home, and Leslie J., of Allentown. One son, Franklin, died in infancy. He also leaves two sisters, Hannah Catherine and Mary Ann, of Karthaus. Three elder brothers preceded him to the grave.

Funeral services were held in the Methodist Episcopal church at Snow Shoe on Tuesday afternoon. His pastor, Rev. S. R. Brown, of the Presbyterian church, officiated and was assisted by Rev. M. J. Runyan, of the Methodist church. Interment was made in the Askey cemetery.

JORDAN.—George Jordan, a retired farmer, died at his home at Shingletown at one o'clock last Saturday morning of hardening of the arteries and other complications the result of a stroke of paralysis sustained about two years ago.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jordan and was born in Clearfield county on April 18th, 1848, hence was almost seventy-four years old. His parents moved to Centre county when he was quite young so that most of his life was spent in Pennsylvania where he followed farming until his retirement some years ago. He was a member of the Lutheran church and an upright, conscientious citizen.

In 1870 he married Miss Emma Boal who survives with the following children: Mrs. Calvin Corl, of Bellefonte R. F. D.; Mrs. William Bloom and Charles Jordan, of State College; Willis, of Potters Mills; Boyd, of Hamill, South Dakota; Mrs. Alfred Garbrick and Mrs. Bruce Miller, of State College; Jesse, of Williamsport, and George, of Shingletown. He also leaves thirty-one grand-children and twelve great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at his late home at ten o'clock on Wednesday morning by Rev. Wagner, of the Lutheran church, after which burial was made in the Boalsburg cemetery.

HOMAN.—Samuel Homan, a native of Centre county, died at his home in Tyrone on Tuesday of last week following an illness of a year or more with a complication of diseases. He was a son of Samuel and Elizabeth Reeser Homan and was born in Centre county over sixty-five years ago. Mr. Homan was a lumberman by occupation and for years worked for the Nations on their lumbering operations on the Allegheny mountains. Twenty-five years ago he married Miss Meadie Moore, at Port Matilda, who died in 1920, but surviving him are six children. The remains were taken to Port Matilda where burial was made in the Black Oak cemetery on Thursday afternoon.

BARTHOLOMEW.—Ira C. Bartholomew died at his home at Jersey Shore last Saturday as the result of general debility. He was a son of Wendle and Elizabeth Walmer Bartholomew and was born in Walker township seventy-eight years ago. He was the last of a family of twelve children. He was a member of the United Evangelical church and a veteran of the Civil war, having served in Company F, 2nd Pennsylvania cavalry. He was a retired employee of the New York Central railroad, is survived by his wife, and a son and daughter by a former marriage. Burial was made in the Youngdale cemetery on Tuesday.

MYERS.—Mrs. William Myers, of Nant-y-Glo, died at the Johnstown hospital on Sunday morning, following a brief illness. Her maiden name was Miss Ella Sheets and she was born on Dix Run, Centre county, forty-eight years ago. Some twenty-five years ago she married Mr. Myers, at Philipsburg, and he survives with a number of brothers and sisters. The remains were taken to Philipsburg where burial was made on Wednesday.

WALLACE.—Mrs. Lorena M. Wallace, wife of William F. Wallace, died at her home in Tyrone on Saturday morning following a brief illness with uraemic poisoning. She was a daughter of Michael and Catharine McLaughlin and was born at Milesburg on March 14th, 1866. In 1885 she married William Wallace, of Milesburg, and their early married life was spent in that place. In 1891 they moved to Tyrone and had lived there ever since. She was a member of the Presbyterian church and a devoted wife and mother. In addition to her husband, she is survived by one son, Marlin H. Wallace, of Tyrone; also one brother and two sisters, L. B. McLaughlin, of Berwick; Mrs. Lillian Dern, of Williamsport, and Mrs. Annie Watson, of Snow Shoe.

Rev. C. R. Scaife had charge of the funeral services which were held at her late home at two o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, burial being made in the Grandview cemetery, Tyrone.

CRAMER.—Mrs. Elizabeth Cramer, wife of Jacob Cramer, died at her home in Ferguson township at six o'clock on Tuesday morning following a long illness with heart trouble. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Reish and was born in Centre county fifty-eight years ago. She was married to Mr. Cramer when a young woman and most of their married life was spent on the farm in the western end of the county. On the first of this month they quit the farm and since then had been making their home with their only daughter, Mrs. Luther K. Strouse, at Pine Hall. In addition to her husband and daughter she leaves one sister, Mrs. Collins Baumgardner, of Pleasant Gap.

Mrs. Cramer was a lifelong member of the Lutheran church and Dr. C. T. Aikens, of Selingsgrove, will have charge of the funeral services which will be held at ten o'clock this (Friday) morning, burial to be made in the Pine Hall cemetery.

SWABB.—James Stephen Swabb died at his home at Potters Mills on Sunday evening following a short illness with a mastoid abscess. He was born in Pennsylvania and was 38 years, 6 months and 5 days old. He married Miss Pearl Fryor, of Coburn, who survives with five small children. He also leaves the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. E. J. Burd, of Millheim; Mrs. Eben Bower, of Bellefonte; Luke Swabb, of Freedom, Pa.; Matthew, of Johnstown, and Paul, of Farmers Mills. Burial was made at Potters Mills on Tuesday afternoon.

Four Hurt When Auto Rams Carriage. Last Saturday evening as Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Dorman, of Hubersburg, with Mr. Dorman's mother, Mrs. Ellen Dorman, and Eleanor Fravel, were driving from Hubersburg to Snyderstown in a two horse carriage their vehicle was rammed from the rear by an automobile driven by some unknown party. The occupants were all thrown out and injured, the carriage smashed and the horses ran away. The driver of the car was probably blinded by the headlights of a car going in the opposite direction and failed to see the carriage in time to stop. The accident, however, caused him to stop long enough to enable Mr. Dorman to get the license number. All the injured were taken home in a passing automobile and are now getting along all right.

Near East Relief in Centre County. The Near East relief has been obliged to cut its orphanage appropriations twenty-five per cent. because of lack of funds. This means that thousands of children must be driven from its doorsteps to die by the roadside, who three weeks ago hoped for their chance of life; for they love life as their children love it.

As reports now stand 13 of the 146 Armenian orphans looking to Centre county have looked in vain and will be turned out with the others. What can be done about it? Surely Centre county will fall to and raise the $780 needed to help those children in safety and comfort.

College Extension Courses For High School Graduates. Only one in every ten high school graduates continues his education to collegiate grade. Realizing this fact the engineering extension department of the Pennsylvania State College has brought to the attention of every High school student in the State, the college credit courses which it offers for home study. Messages from Dr. John M. Thomas, president of the college, and from Dr. Thomas E. Finegan, superintendent of public instruction, are included in the matter sent to High school students. Both emphasize the need for continued education after graduation from secondary schools.

"The new plan of college instruction such as instituted in credit courses by Penn State, should prove a God-send to a very large number of those who feel that a college education is beyond their means, or who at least must postpone their college training until a later opportunity," is the way in which President Thomas sizes up the situation. Superintendent Finegan says that while some will be obliged to leave school, all have opportunity to receive training in college extension courses that were not available a short time ago. This method literally carries the college class rooms to the homes of the people. The Pennsylvania State College has proved to its satisfaction that such courses can be given effectively.

CLARENCE.

Misses Velda and Elsie Etters spent Saturday in Bellefonte. Miss Lulu Watson is visiting her aunt, Mrs. R. H. Lucas, at Clearfield.

Miss Edna Walker has been off duty for several days suffering with a severe cold. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Berry have moved from Salona to No. 26 mines at Clarence.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Brungard are ill with the grip at their home in Shuttletstown. Andrew and William Luckasavage, of Shenandoah, are at home to spend Easter with their mother.

Joseph Kelley, of Fairview, has returned to his work at No. 26 mines, after being laid up a few weeks with a fractured ankle. Frank Brennan, who has been taking medical treatment from a specialist in Tamaqua, for several weeks, is at home to spend Easter with his family.

The miners of Snow Shoe and Clarence would like to correct a statement which has been published several times in our county papers, "that they have been striking for over a year." This is absolutely impossible. The miners are taking a vacation on their own accord.

Miss Elizabeth Palinkas, who has been a patient in the Cresson hospital for the past six months, passed away at that place Friday morning, April 7th. Miss Palinkas, who was 22 years of age, was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palinkas, of Clarence. Interment was made in the Roman Catholic cemetery at Clarence, Monday morning.

The Economic Conference.

From the Altoona Tribune. For the present the eyes of the world will be turned toward Genoa, the birth-place of Christopher Columbus, where the economic conference is now in session. Much depends upon the possible agreements to be entered into for the rehabilitation of the world, and the talent of the greatest geniuses of Europe may well be placed under requisition. One serious problem will be what to do with the stacks of worthless paper money now in circulation throughout Central Europe and other sections. The Russian situation is likewise attracting much attention. The general belief is that there is a serious disposition to recognize the legality of the government set up by the robbers and assassins under Lenine and Trotzky.

The Germans had more practical methods. When they levied tribute on Belgian cities they collected "on sight." POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS. FOR ASSEMBLY. We are authorized to announce the name of Zoe Meek, of Clarence, as a candidate for the nomination for the Legislature, subject to the decision of the Democratic voters at the primaries to be held May 16th, 1922.
