Dr. Eloise Meek Further Describes Life in Alaska.

Akiak, Alaska, Feb. 1st, 1922.

Your lovely Christmas letters came in the January mail, only about six weeks getting here, a speedy coming, but were picked up by a special messenger and brought straight along so were not held up at some way-side postoffice.

The rest of this household have gone with a picnic party about eight miles away, twenty people on seven dog-teams. All were dressed in fur, mostly squirrel skins, from the top of the head to their toes, and sitting on the bottom of the sleds, were wrapped in fur robes so they could not get old. They expected to get into big timber, there will build a wind-brake, (little spruce trees or boughs stood along in a row) and behind that a big fire upon which they can cook bacon, coffee, and toast crullers while toasting their toes. The moonlight is very beautiful here just now and I know they will have a nice time.

Your September letter asked me about Nome. From what I saw Unionville is a large place and a ripping beauty as compared with it. The only things of interest I could see were the tall masts of the wireless. Gulls were in dozens about the boats looking for scraps of food; the day was raw and cold with a wind blowing directly into shore, hence we could not get close nor were allowed to go ashore as our boat would have been pounded to pieces on the beach. The million-dollar pier was cut off several years ago by the Arctic ice moving in shore and there is now no pier.

You could have had a reindeer today had you been here as a herd of twelve hundred going north to a new feeding ground went up the trail, but driving-deer are scarce and, as yet, I have not copied Santa Claus, but am hoping to have that thrill in the near future.

You want to know about the native. Would to goodness they were prettier to look at! Maybe they would attract me more! Imagine a very flat, broad faced Indian with the eyes of the Jap, color so dark that one thinks of them as black, hair straight and, by no chance, ever in order. This is accounted for by the fact that they wear their parka all the time, putting the hood up when they go out, and, pulling the parka off like "skinning the cat," it leaves them looking rather tousel. Then only a chance one will be clean and without cooties and most have a disagreeable odor, due to the use of seal oil. They are like children, easily pleased and always smiling. But such curiosity! Should anything happen in the village such hordes and hordes suddenly appear that one thinks they must spring from the earth, but they are so like little gnomes, I am always interested in watching them.

The other night there was a dance across the river, being a beautiful night, we all walked across. The phonograph of one of the natives was grinding out "Delilah" but there were six men there so the three of us—Miss Conley, nurse, Mrs. Bird, young, pretty and twenty-four, and "yours truly" took off our parkas and, although we all wore mukluks (skin boots), went to dancing. It was then nine o'clock and, about ten, a few more wandered in; later some very pretty half-breeds, girls and some white men came. These "breed" girls dance well and some have been educated in the "States" but all revert when they get back up here; as for morals—"hain't no such things." The cabin in which the dance was given, was tiny but had a good floor and it was soon crowded, hence we left soon. The rest would attend morning.

The men in the North country are different from these. The races there are very distinct and one never meets, when out for an evening, a native man or woman.

My gift for writing seems to have left me as, upon re-reading this seems a most uninteresting epistle so, with many wishes for a happy birthday, I am going to sleep to the accompaniment of the Malumite chorus that is just now going on.

ELOISE.

In the days when "Talk to Ruger" was the slogan in Bellefonte the motion picture industry was still in swaddling clothes and the scenic was an experiment. But it has long ago passed into the class of well established picture shows and the public is always assured of seeing the best there is in movie land. If you're not a scenic regular, get the habit.

BURNSIDE.—William Burnside, a representative of one of the oldest families in Bellefonte, passed away shortly after eleven o'clock on Saturday night at the home of his sister, Mrs. H. C. Valentine, on west Curtin street. He had not been in good health for some time and during the past year had lived at the Brockerhoff house. Last Thursday he complained of not feeling as well as usual and went out to his sister's home to spend a few days. About five o'clock on Saturday evening he was suddenly taken worse and sank rapidly until the end. Angina pectoris was assigned as the cause of death.

Mr. Burnside was a son of Thomas and Rebecca Thomas Burnside and was born in what was known as the old Charles Houston home located where the Edward Richard residence now stands, on February 1st, 1859, hence was 63 years, 3 months and 5 days old. He was educated in the public schools of Bellefonte and at the private school of Miss Petrikin. While a youth the family moved to Ironton, Wis., where they lived several years then returned to Bellefonte. In 1883 Mr. Burnside accepted a position in the office of the Fairbanks Scale company, at Pittsburgh, where he remained some eight or ten years. It was while working there that he and several other of the Fairbanks employees decided to start a scale company of their own and organized a company under the name of the Standard Scale and Supply company. They started operations in a small building in Pittsburgh where their first scales were built. Through the intervention of Mr. Burnside negotiations were made with the old Valentine Iron company for the lease of their machine shop at the old furnace plant south of Bellefonte and the equipment was moved here. The company built quite a plant at the Bellefonte location and while their business increased every year they encountered various financial difficulties until about 1902 when the Pittsburgh interests in the concern forced a reorganization and a removal of the plant from Bellefonte to Beaver Falls.

Mr. Burnside then went with his brother-in-law, the late Harry C. Valentine, to Scotia and for a number of years was engaged in the development of the ore mines at that place. When the Scotia mines were sold a few years ago he settled permanently in Bellefonte and engaged in the machinery brokerage business. He was a life-long member of St. John's Episcopal church, a member of the Bellefonte Lodge of Elks and an ardent Republican.

It might here be mentioned that Mr. Burnside probably more than any other one individual was responsible for the establishment of a Sunday train over the Bald Eagle Valley railroad by the Pennsylvania Railroad company. During the early years of the Scale and Supply company in Bellefonte the Pittsburgh members of the company became dissatisfied because of the fact that they couldn't come to Bellefonte for a week-end and get home before Monday evening. Mr. Burnside got busy and through his own personal efforts was able to interest such influences as to eventually have a Sunday train put on the Bald Eagle road, and it has been running ever since.

He never married and his only immediate survivors are his sister, Mrs. H. C. Valentine, and one brother, Edgar T. Burnside. Funeral services were held at the Valentine home at four o'clock on Tuesday afternoon by Rev. M. DeFui Maynard, and interment was made in the Union cemetery.

KELLY.—Rev. Joseph Clark Kelly, a retired minister of the Presbyterian church, died on Friday at the home of his nephew, Dr. W. T. Graham, at Sunbury as the result of general debility, aged 84 years, 1 month and 5 days. He was a native of Juniata county, and his early education was received at Tuscarora Academy and Jefferson college, at Canonsburg. Later he studied at the Western Theological Seminary, at Allegheny, and at Princeton, graduating in 1864. He was licensed to preach the gospel by the Huntingdon Presbytery in 1863 and was ordained in 1865. His pastoral charges were at Cambria and Neevah, Wis.; Spruce Creek and Williamsburg, Pa. During the many years he preached on the Spruce Creek charge he lived at Baileyville and frequently visited in Bellefonte and preached in the Presbyterian church here. From Spruce Creek he went to Williamsburg, Blair county, where he preached until his retirement a number of years ago. His wife preceded him to the grave. Burial was made at Williamsburg on Monday afternoon.

McMONIGAL.—James S. McMonigal, one of the oldest residents of Bald Eagle valley, died at his home at Hannah Furnace last Friday morning, aged 91 years, 4 months and 17 days. He had been quite feeble all winter but his death was hastened by a fall sustained two weeks ago. He was born within two miles of the place he died and his entire life was spent in that locality. He was a member of the United Brethren church for seventy-two years. Surviving him are his wife, one son and four daughters, namely: Harry S. McMonigal, of Branchville, S. C.; Mrs. Mary Swires, of Bellwood; Mrs. G. W. Miller, of Grazierville; Mrs. Gertrude Waite, of Altoona, and Miss Allie, at home. He also leaves one step-son, Amos Coppenhaver, of Hannah. Burial was made in the Mount Pleasant cemetery on Monday.

ROTE.—Miss Lulu May Rote, daughter of Clayton and Ida May Justice Rote, passed away at the family home at Coleville last Saturday, following an illness of several years with primary anemia. She was born at Coleville on May 25th, 1904, hence was 17 years, 11 months and 11 days old. She had been a member of the United Brethren church for a number of years. In addition to her parents she is survived by one brother and five sisters, namely: Arthur Rote, of Coleville; Mrs. Helen Geisinger, Margaret, Mary, Hazel and Louise, all at home.

The funeral was held at two o'clock on Monday afternoon. Rev. Reed O. Stealy, of the United Evangelical church, had charge of the services owing to the illness of Rev. George E. Smith, pastor of the United Brethren church, and burial was made in the Union cemetery.

DERSTINE.—William H. Derstine, a life-long resident of Bellefonte, passed away at his home on Bishop street at six o'clock on Wednesday evening. He had not enjoyed good health for several years and about five weeks ago suffered a stroke of paralysis from which he never recovered.

Mr. Derstine was a son of Michael and Margaret Derstine and was born in Bellefonte on July 4th, 1843, hence was 78 years, 10 months and 6 days old. As a young man he learned the tailoring trade, an occupation he followed all his life until compelled to retire a few years ago on account of his health. While never essaying to leadership in the civic affairs of his home town Mr. Derstine always lived the part of a good and dependable citizen. He was a charter member of the old Logan Hose company and was on the active roll for many years. He was also a member of the old Bellefonte band which upwards of fifty years ago was considered one of the best musical organizations in the central part of the State. He was also a member of the Bellefonte Lodge of Odd Fellows for fifty-one years. In politics he was a Republican and a number of years ago served two terms in borough council. He was a life-long member of the Reformed church and for many years was active in all lines of church work.

In June, 1875, he married Miss Mary Klingler, who survives with two sons, Frank, of Juniata, and Jesse, of Ambridge, Pa. One son, Walter, preceded his father to the grave. He was one of a family of six children and the last to pass away.

Funeral services will be held at his late home at two o'clock tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon by Rev. Dr. Schmidt, and burial will be made in the Union cemetery.

ASHBAUGH.—Charles C. Ashbaugh, of Detroit, Mich., a traveling salesman for the Newton Annis fur house, died at the Bellefonte hospital at two o'clock on Wednesday morning of peritonitis. Mr. Ashbaugh has been coming to Bellefonte for years and came here on a regular trip on Friday, April 21st, stopping at the Brockerhoff house. He was taken sick the following Sunday but did not consider his illness serious as he claimed he was subject to such attacks. A physician was called at once but he failed to improve. His wife was notified and she arrived in Bellefonte the Saturday following. Dr. M. J. Locke and Dr. David Dale had charge of the case and did everything possible but he continued to grow worse and last week his children were summoned, who arrived in Bellefonte on Friday. On Sunday Mr. Ashbaugh was taken to the Bellefonte hospital but his condition was such that an operation would have been futile and he died on Wednesday morning. He was a member of the Elks in his home city.

In addition to his wife he is survived by two children, Chase, an expert accountant with the telephone company in Detroit and a 32nd degree Mason, and Katherine, a Senior in the schools at Detroit. The remains were taken on Wednesday afternoon to the former home of Mrs. Ashbaugh at Newark, Ohio, for burial.

Before leaving Bellefonte Mrs. Ashbaugh expressed her appreciation of the kindness displayed by the people of Bellefonte toward her husband during his illness and herself and children in their bereavement.

SHOWERS.—William Showers, for years a well known resident of Bellefonte, died quite suddenly at his home at Hecla last Friday as the result of a lesion of the heart. He had been in comparatively good health up until a few minutes before his death.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Showers and was born at Laurelton, Union county, on September 26th, 1844, hence was in his seventy-eighth year. Early in life he learned the trade of a carpenter and mill-wright and while yet a young man came to Centre county and built the house at Hecla in which he passed away. He lived there a number of years then came to Bellefonte and went to work at the planing mill of the Bellefonte Lumber company. He worked there until twelve years ago when he sold his property in Bellefonte and returned to his old home at Hecla.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, Cyrus W. Showers, of Bellefonte, and Alfred, of Unionville. He also leaves one brother, Jackson C. Showers, of Bellefonte, and a sister, Mrs. Ellen Garbrick, of Marion township. Funeral services were held at his late home on Monday afternoon, burial being made in the Zion cemetery.

ROTE.—Miss Lulu May Rote, daughter of Clayton and Ida May Justice Rote, passed away at the family home at Coleville last Saturday, following an illness of several years with primary anemia. She was born at Coleville on May 25th, 1904, hence was 17 years, 11 months and 11 days old. She had been a member of the United Brethren church for a number of years. In addition to her parents she is survived by one brother and five sisters, namely: Arthur Rote, of Coleville; Mrs. Helen Geisinger, Margaret, Mary, Hazel and Louise, all at home.

The funeral was held at two o'clock on Monday afternoon. Rev. Reed O. Stealy, of the United Evangelical church, had charge of the services owing to the illness of Rev. George E. Smith, pastor of the United Brethren church, and burial was made in the Union cemetery.

MITCHELL.—Mrs. Jane Baldrige Mitchell, widow of James H. Mitchell, passed peacefully away at her home on south Spring street at two o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. She had been an invalid for thirteen years and her death was the result of a general breakdown.

She was a daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth Nicolls Baldrige and was born in Unity township, Westmoreland county, on October 25th, 1835, hence had reached the good old age of 86 years, 6 months and 14 days. When a girl she frequently visited friends in Ferguson township, this county, and it was there she met James H. Mitchell to whom she was married on February 7th, 1866, the wedding taking place at her father's home in Latrobe. The early years of their married life were spent on a farm in Ferguson township but forty-nine years ago they came to Bellefonte and this had been her home ever since. She was a life-long member of the Presbyterian church, having joined while a student at Blairsville seminary, and one of the oldest members on the roll of the Bellefonte church.

Her husband died twenty-five years ago and her only survivor is her daughter, Miss Olive Mitchell, at home. Funeral services will be held at the home at 10:30 o'clock this (Friday) morning by Rev. David R. Evans, and burial made in the Union cemetery.

Seelye-Bathgate.—The home of Mrs. Emma C. Bathgate, at Lemont, was the scene of a pretty wedding at noon on April 29th when her daughter, Miss Stella Pearl Bathgate, was united in marriage to Ora W. Seelye, of Philadelphia. A few intimate friends were present to witness the ceremony which was performed by Rev. J. Max Kirkpatrick, of the Presbyterian church. The attendants were Miss Helen Bathgate and Wayne Lowder. Both the bride and bridesmaid wore gowns of white organdie and carried bouquets of American beauty roses. A wedding breakfast was served at the conclusion of the ceremony and at 2:01 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Seelye departed on the train for their already furnished home in Philadelphia.

THE OLD WAY ON THE FARM.

Contributed by J. M. Moore, of Pine Grove Mills.

Because my calf became his cow.
I left my dad, I was wrong, of course
But my pet colt became his horse.
I left my dad to sow and reap
Because my lamb became his sheep.
I dropped my hoe and hit New York
Because my pig became his pork.
The garden truck I made to grow
Was his to sell and mine to hoe.
Believe me, too, I had to hoe,
There was no riding down the row.

THE NEW WAY.

With dad and me it's half and half
The cow I own was once his calf.
I'm going to stick right where I am
Because my sheep was once his lamb.
I'll stay with dad. He gets my vote
Because my hog was once his shoat.
No town for me. I'll stick right here
For I'm the tractor engineer.
It's even split with dad and me
In a profit sharing company.
We work together from day to day
Believe me, boys, it's the only way.

Penn State to Observe 50th Oratorical Contest.

The fiftieth anniversary of the Junior Oratorical contests at The Pennsylvania State College will be observed on May 26. Forty-one of the forty-nine winners of this annual feature of the college life are still living and all have been invited to attend the semi-centennial celebration. Judge Ellis L. Orvis, of Bellefonte, who was graduated from Penn State in 1876, is the oldest living winner of the contest, and will preside at the anniversary exercises.

The Junior Oratorical Contest is the oldest continuous institution at Penn State with the exception of the college itself. The first class was graduated in 1861 and the contests were started in 1874. Under the direction of Professor Fred Lewis Pattee, head of the English department, the contests have thrived for more than a quarter century, and it is due to his efforts that the anniversary plans are being formulated. All former winners of the contests who attend the celebration will be asked to act as judges for this year's contest in which seven members of the present Junior class are entered. Milton W. Lowry, of Scranton, and M. S. McDowell, director of the college agricultural extension service, are former winners of this traditional event.

It Takes a Judge to Point Out the Shortcomings of an Attorney.

A certain attorney had a case in court which required the reading of considerable manuscript. He kept holding it farther and farther away. The Judge, noticing his effort to get the proper focus said, "Mr. Attorney, if you can't afford glasses get a pair of tongs. They'll help some."

I fit the attorney now he can see clearly at any distance.
