On Monday evening John Dubbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Dubbs, drove his father's automobile down in front of Keichline's store and in attempting to make a turn the knuckle on the steering rod caught and he came within an ace of driving into the race alongside of the Keichline store. In fact he would have gone in but for the guard railing, which caught on the side of the store and held the machine until it could be pushed back out of danger.

Charles F. Beatty, of the Beatty Motor company, Bellefonte, went out to Detroit, Michigan, last week and drove back in a new Lincoln demonstrating car. The car is an eight cylinder, seven passenger machine, and is a beauty in every respect. Mr. Beatty ordered the car ten weeks ago and had some difficulty getting at this time owing to the great demand for it. Of course the manufacture of the Lincoln is not on the elaborate scale as some of the cheaper cars but has been speeded up some since the plant passed into the ownership of Henry Ford and by next year it is likely that the capacity of the plant will be greatly increased. Some few changes have been made in the design of the body of the car and it is now so complete in workmanship and detail that it combines about everything desirable in a high-class automobile.

CENTRE CO. BANK CLOSED.

Experts Figuring on Bank's Resources and Liabilities.

Unable to meet the heavy demand made upon it by its depositors for cash to meet pay rolls last Saturday morning the Centre County Bank of Bellefonte, was forced to suspend business and close its doors. Had a thunderbolt fallen from a clear sky in the centre of the Diamond it would hardly have occasioned more surprise than the announcement of the bank's failure. So far as known the general public had no intimation of the bank's precarious condition. Very few people failed to grasp the gravity of the situation when they first heard the news. Many entertained the hope that it would prove only a temporary difficulty that would be overcome in a few days but it soon became evident that such was not the case, and up to the time this article was written no definite statement could be made as to the bank's resources or liabilities.

The bank opened at nine o'clock on Saturday morning and did business as usual up until in the neighborhood of ten o'clock. The bank expected aid from other banks on Saturday morning but failed to receive it and at ten o'clock the officials had no other recourse but to close the doors. A brief notice on the doors that the bank had been closed and liquidation would follow at once is all the information made public. Ordinarily the closing of a bank under such circumstances would bring a crowd of frenzied depositors but such was not the case in this instance. Not a single individual of the hundreds of depositors of the bank made any effort to precipitate trouble.

Mr. John M. Shugert, president of the bank, has been confined to his home with illness since the closing of the institution but at a conference on Monday which was attended by John Curtin, cashier of the bank, and John Blanchard Esq., who represents one of the largest stockholders, Mr. Charles McCurdy, president of the First National bank, consented to take charge of the affairs of the suspended bank and he and a corps of efficient clerks have been working on the books since Monday in an endeavor to prepare a correct statement of the bank's resources and liabilities. Inasmuch as they have not completed their work and have no facts to make public the "Watchman" is unable to give any figures. Any statement that might be made now would be simply guess work as it would be necessary to balance the pass book of every customer of the institution before a statement such as we believe Chas. M. McCurdy will want to make can be issued. If all depositors would hurry their pass books in for balancing the time necessary for such a statement would be greatly reduced.

We understand that the clerks are calling them in from all quarters and that those who have security boxes in the bank's vaults are urged to call and get them.

Many business firms and individuals of Bellefonte, as well as people throughout the country, are numbered among the bank's depositors, some having almost their last dollar in the institution. But the majority of them are exercising wonderful control and seem disposed to await the statement of the men who are now engaged on the bank's books. In fact the general sentiment is one of leniency and a willingness to give the officials every opportunity to conserve all the interests of the bank in the hope that it will eventually be able to pay every dollar of its obligations.

The failure of the Centre County bank must not be considered by the public as evidence of any money stringency in Bellefonte. The town still has two good banks, absolutely safe and sound, and both institutions are going the limit to relieve any temporary inconvenience occasioned business men or individuals whose accounts are tied up in the closed bank.

A very destructive forest fire burned over some two thousand acres of land on the Allegheny mountains last Friday. The burned area extended from the road leading from Port Matilda to Phillipsburg almost to Cold Stream, east of Glass City. Three fire wardens, state police and boy scouts from Phillipsburg fought the flames for hours. The origin of the fire is ascribed to a party of fishermen who built a fire to prepare a lunch without taking due precautions.

Bundle Day in Bellefonte.

Friday, May 26th, has been named as the Near East relief bundle day in Bellefonte. The receiving stations will be the Episcopal parish house, the United Evangelical Sunday school room and the Undine Fire company building.

Nothing will be too bizarre or old-fashioned if capable of giving warmth. A relief worker tells of an Armenian woman of high degree proudly and gratefully in possession of the cherry-colored swallow-tail of a minstrel interloper, which was held in place by a girdle marked "fire-man."

Shingletown Woman a Suicide.

Mrs. Margaret M. Osman, wife of John Osman, of Shingletown, committed suicide on Wednesday afternoon about 3:15 o'clock by shooting herself in the left breast with her husband's 32-20 revolver. The cause leading up to the suicide is undetermined. Mrs. Osman was but thirty-five years old and so far as known enjoyed reasonably good health. According to her husband there were days when she seemed despondent for no apparent reason, but Wednesday morning when he left home to go to work on a farm some distance away she accompanied him as far as the gate and kissed him good-bye. She was apparently cheerful and contented.

About mid-afternoon W. E. Martz, who has a store in Shingletown, heard a shot in the Osman home. He called W. A. Leech and the two men went to investigate. Failing to get any response to their knock on the door they went inside and found Mrs. Leech lying on the floor in the dining room, with her clothing on fire. They promptly extinguished the blaze and a hasty examination disclosed the fact that the woman was dead, as a result of a shot in the left breast. She had evidently held the muzzle of the revolver against her clothing which accounted for the fire.

Dr. Kidder was hastily summoned and he in turn notified Squire I. J. Dreese, who held an inquest, the jury finding in their verdict that the woman met her death as the result of a shot self-inflicted. Mrs. Osman's maiden name was Albert and her only brother, Ray Albert, was killed in an automobile accident in Ferguson township several years ago. She had no children and her only survivor is her husband. The time of the funeral could not be learned up to the time the "Watchman" went to press.

"SEVEN SINGING SEAMEN."

Pageant, Unusual in Interpretation, to be Presented at State College.

This week has seen the completion of many scenic details for the production of "The Seven Singing Seamen," a fantasy in four acts, written and directed by Miss Ethel Sparks, which will be presented at State College this (Friday) evening and tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock standard time, in the auditorium. There is little doubt but that this presentation will eclipse all others of the dramatic season.

Miss Sparks is presenting the fantasy under the auspices of the Alumnae Club for the benefit of the girls' gymnasium fund. For some years there has been a crying need at the College for a gymnasium for the girls, and by their own initiation the co-eds of the institution have started such a fund.

One special feature of the spectacle will be the dancing. The play is a color mood from the opening curtain to the final drop, and the dancing has all been arranged to further the expression. The costumes vary from the brilliant shadings of pink in the poppy dance to the less vivacious dance of the ships bells, where a sombre green bedecked with sea shells is used, and finally into the gorgeous phoenix dance interpretation by Miss Sparks herself.

Making Young America Physically Fit.

The experience of the medical examiners in connection with the selective draft in the late war revealed a percentage of those physically unfit, that was alarming. If we believe that America's greatest asset is her boys and girls; then common sense would indicate that any amount of money that is expended, within reason, in improving the physical condition of the boy and the girl, is a wise investment. Bellefonte believes in the best along all lines and is seriously facing the problem of its youth.

It is learned on good authority, that plans are already well under way to provide a recreational center at the High school for the vacation months. The school board has already granted the use of the school grounds for this purpose. An organization will be formed and will be known as "The Bellefonte Playground Association."

The board of directors of this organization will formulate definite plans for financing the work and perfecting the organization, as well as securing a supervisor for the summer season. It is hoped that enough interest will be revealed in the project to make a creditable showing this season so that the work may be projected on a bigger scale another year. Swings of a durable character both for babies and children will be erected, sliding boards, see-saws and sand piles will be provided, and spaces will be marked out for various games.

When we realize that in a few weeks a young army of children will be released from the schools to find recreation, mostly on our streets, and then bear in mind the peril of the streets, under present conditions of traffic, the public playgrounds will prove a real godsend. The sacrifice of the life of two children within the past week or so, in this community, while the little ones were seeking expression for the play-instinct of childhood, is another forcible reminder of the need for a recreation center away from the places of danger.

Those who have the best interests of the childhood of Bellefonte at heart will rejoice in seeing this worthy enterprise succeed and will be ready when called upon to make a worthy contribution toward this purpose. If the funds collected will warrant it, some playground equipment will also be placed on Bishop street and in Bush Addition. Rev. D. R. Evans and Mr. Aplin, the secretary of the "Y," both of whom have had wide experience in work among children, are getting the work under way as a community proposition and will be glad to furnish further information to any who may be interested.

May Term of Court.

The May term of court convened on Monday morning and considerable routine business was disposed of. The first case called for trial was that of the Commonwealth vs. Fred Garbrick, indicted for aggravated assault and battery. This case is the outcome of the automobile accident last October along the state road to Milesburg in which Miss Mary Cooney was so seriously injured. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty but defendant to pay the costs.

Commonwealth vs. Charles Houser, selling liquor without a license. Defendant entered a plea of technical guilt after which the court told him that in the future he should be more careful about breaking laws, suspended sentence and placed him upon parole for one year upon payment of costs.

Commonwealth vs. Andy Lesko, indicted for murder. This is the case from Snow Shoe township which caused considerable discussion several weeks ago because of sensational articles published in reference thereto. The case was on trial all day Wednesday but the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

St. John's Guild of the Episcopal church will hold a card party in the parish house, Monday evening, May 22nd, at 8 o'clock. Admission 50 cents. Refreshments. Everybody welcome.

Many Savings Certificates Purchased in Centre County.

Bellefonte has made a great hit in the sales of treasury savings certificates during the first four months of 1922, according to notices received from the U. S. Treasury savings division of the Third Federal Reserve district.

From January 1st to April 30th, the demand for these certificates through the local postoffice amounted to $30,780.00, representing a maturity value of $38,475.00.

"It is very gratifying that the citizen-savers of Bellefonte and Centre county realize the unusual advantage offered by the Treasury Department in connection with these securities," writes Director Lloyd W. Harrison Walker, in charge of the work for the Central Pennsylvania counties. "It shows that our good people are beginning to appreciate the fact that absolute safety in investment is the first consideration; this lesson has been driven home by the recent failures of many of the so-called 'bucket-shops' through which men and women lost millions of dollars. For a person of moderate income, nothing can beat the new issue of treasury savings certificates."

These certificates are offered to the public in denominations of $1,000.00, $100.00 and $25.00, sold on a discount basis at the flat price of $800.00, $80.00 and $20.00 respectively. They may be obtained from the local postoffice, Federal Reserve Bank, Philadelphia, or through the offices of Mr. Walker.

"Any prudent saver so putting in his money will earn 25 per cent. in five years" states W. Harrison Walker, assistant savings director for Central Pennsylvania, when asked about the features of the certificates. "They offer an ideal investment security; they pay interest on interest, returning the entire accumulated amount in one lump sum with the principal at maturity, in five years from date of purchase; they are redeemable in cash on demand and they are free from market changes. Automatic registration protects the owner against loss or theft, and they may be registered in one or two names, or in the name of the beneficiary. They are exempt from all State, county and local taxes (except estate and inheritance taxes) and from normal federal income tax. Any individual, firm, corporation or association may own up to $5,000.00 maturity value, during one calendar year. The money is absolutely safe; never depreciates but always grows." These stamps may also be purchased through the Bellefonte postmaster.
