SMULLTON.

The Winkleblech saw mill was closed down over hay making time.

Rebersburg now has a doctor, and what this town needs is a lawyer.

Howard Orndorf and wife, of Woodward, were over Sunday guests at the home of W. M. Bierly.

Mrs. P. D. Winters was in State College over Sunday to help attend her son Edwin, who has been sick for some time.

Hay making in this section is in full bloom. We know that years ago no one ever thought of cutting grass until about the Saturday before the 4th of July.

It seems that seasons are shorter, or the people get in more of a hurry in this work.

Edgar A. Davis, a confessed bootlegger, was appointed a prohibition agent and said officials knew it when he was appointed.

The "Record" states that he was recommended by a minister of the gospel. The federal government, it is said, will not interfere in this appointment. We will not comment, but let the reader judge for himself.

The extended article appearing in several papers under the heading of Smullton, last week, was the talk of the neighborhood and met with the approval of people who know that the conditions really exist as explained.

It goes against our grain to thus portray the condition of things in our town, but we quit lying several years ago and will not get back into the old rut again under any consideration.

The sermon delivered by one of the Chautauqua men on Sunday evening, at Rebersburg, was very well rendered and instructive.

His subject was, "Great Men, or How to Become Great." Some people think they are great when they wear better clothes than others.

Some because they have held good positions. But the sermon of the evening was to the effect that greatness consists of serving and not being served.

This example was manifested in the washing of the disciples feet by our Lord and Master. He has commanded us to do likewise.

The speaker of the evening emphasized the necessity of taking care of the children and we think in this matter so many people take pride. Children are looked upon with pride and as they grow older in years less attention is paid them and about the time they come to the point in their lives where they look for their hopes and ambitions to bear fruit and bring them the joy that they need, some dirty, low-lived scoundrel will bring his satanic majesty into play and blight and darken their path.

Jesus said that "it were better that a millstone were hanged about his neck and he had been drowned in the midst of the sea."

How many homes are made cheerless and unhappy because of some of these conditions. Henry Ford on commenting on this subject is said to have made the following statement: "Many a person has become an outlaw and a criminal because he was given no chance in life."

He further stated that "if he were given the men in Sing Sing prison, he would take them into his factory, treat them right, show them that he was interested in them and he would make men out of them."

PLEASANT GAP.

There are some people, who like wine, grow sour with age, but do not improve with it.

"Love is said to be the greatest thing in the world." And its one grand product is peace.

If the quantity of money matters regulates the price, now that it is so scarce, why is fresh meat not cheaper?

Mrs. Harry Grove and family, of Bellefonte, spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. John Herman, mother of Mrs. Grove.

The children's festival of the Methodist church held last Saturday night in Noll's grove, was very liberally patronized. The total receipts aggregated $222.90.

The same will be applied to the renovating of the old cemetery, which is in a rather dilapidated condition.

The name or reputation of being a funny fellow amounts to almost a calamity. Everybody laughs at him; not in derision, of course, but at his remarks. His smile sets a parlor full of young folks to giggling, and a glance from his eye will cause the average seminary girl to just die a laughing.

Berries grow and ripen on thorny bushes, which people avoid except at gathering time, so if people are shy of you, you should know that you have more thorns about you than fruit, or that the fruit is not of a merchantable character; for humanity will find out your excellencies though they be set about by thorns.

America is great and grand, but the youthful of all creation is tender in tissue and immature in judgment—factual and infatigable. While she partook of the matured intellect of the father country, she was sober, steadfast and reliable, but her recent progeny evidently lack the firmness and wisdom that adorned their ancient progenitors.

The aged oak and the tender sapling can both endure the storm, but the permanence of the one is far more inviting as a refuge than the yielding vibration of the other.

Text: 'PROBABLY you know at least one car-owner who is always on the look-out for the cheapest tires he can find. He likes to get them by mail or at a sale or at some place where they have big red bargain signs over the door. It would be fine if he could get "the edge" in every tire trade. But the dealer can't afford to let him have it. Even if a man saw any slight percentage in tire shopping at all—it disappeared when the "Usco" brought the price down.
