

Democratic Watchman

Bellefonte, Pa., July 14, 1922.

SHOULD I JOIN THE PENNSYLVANIA LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS? YES!

It is not enough that I have the right to vote. I will, by joining the League, learn how best to use my vote.

I will be supplied with information as to candidates, facts as to legislation, and data on all sorts of governmental activity, so that when I vote, I will know what I am voting for.

As a member of the League, I am enabled to "see at a glance" just what is going on in politics, government and legislation.

The League was a real and decisive factor in the most important primary in a decade.

This is what the League's June Bulletin said: "The extreme closeness of the vote between Mr. Pinchot and his unsuccessful opponent, Attorney General Alter, almost conclusively shows that but for the entrance of an entirely new factor, the old State organization, broken up as it was, would have brought about the nomination of Mr. Alter. The question may well be asked: 'Would the result have been what it was had not the League equipped, trained and organized a great army of independent, thinking women voters?'"

Women voters played a big part in the Republican primaries; they can play as big a part—in other issues—in the Democratic party—in the next Legislature—if they are forcefully trained along League lines.

They will be interested in the 1923 Legislature, no matter what their party, in the League's legislative program, which includes:

Proper recommendations by the commission for reorganization of the State government.

Passage of a county tax revision and assessment law.

A call for a constitutional convention.

Opposition to repeal or emasculating of the direct primary law.

A NOTE TO PARTY WOMEN.

Women voters do not function through the League only.

They will be trained in the League and act through the parties.

The League provides women with a common meeting ground for discussion.

As members of the League, women are stronger and more powerful Republicans or Democrats.

The League is the only all-partisan organization in existence for the political education of women.

MOUNTAINS FLOAT ON EARTH'S INTERIOR.

Mountains float. Cubic yard for cubic yard mountains weigh less, not more, than the valleys. The mountains are held up by the lighter material of the earth's crust flowing under them. This has been proved by researches conducted by the division of geodesy of the United States coast and geodetic survey, under the direction of Dr. William Bowie, chief of the division, and his predecessor, Prof. John F. Hayford now with the Northwestern University.

It has been found that the earth's crust is about 60 miles in thickness and near that depth, probably below the material is yielding to forces which act for long times.

The earth's crust floats on this yielding material. If the earth's crust were cut into blocks by vertical planes, with the base of each block at a depth of 60 miles below sea level, and the area of the bases of the blocks were the same and as large as 100 miles square, these blocks would have the same mass, that is they would weigh the same.

By means of the geodetic observations by the United States coast and geodetic survey, the weight of these blocks have been found to be approximately equal. This result had been suspected for decades, but Dr. Bowie and Dr. Hayford have proved it.

Geological science will be profoundly changed by this discovery, for now we know the mountain masses are due to the presence of lighter material in the earth's crust under them, and that the ocean bottoms are low because the material under them is denser or heavier than the average.

Dr. Bowie concludes that there is no tendency for mountain masses to break down through the earth's crust, as they are not extra loads. They are like the portions of icebergs projecting out of the water, which are held up by the ice which is below or in the water. The icebergs float and so does the mountain.—Ex.

Will Prevent Much Sickness.

These enervating days are fraught with danger to people whose systems are poorly sustained. This leads the makers of Hood's Sarsaparilla to say, in the interest of the less robust, that the full effect of this good old family medicine justifies calling it, not only a blood-purifier but also a tonic. It is sustaining. It gives strength, aids digestion, promotes refreshing sleep, and will prevent much sickness at this time of year.

Hood's Pills, which are gentle and thorough, may be taken with it, in cases where there is need of a cathartic or laxative.

The Man Who Built the Humes Mill.

Writing from Louisburg, Kan., Mr. O. P. Bell says:

"A friend of mine sent me a copy of your paper and in it I saw an account of the burning of the Humes grist mill. My father, William Bell, built it, and if I am not mistaken, quarried the stone on his own farm and dressed them himself. I was a boy about six years old when the mill was built and as I am now in my seventy-third year, it can be seen that the mill was built about sixty-seven years ago. My father also built the stone milk house and the wall around the spring.

"I hear that great changes have taken place in that section since I left. Mann's Axe factory is a thing of the past, the old Valentine furnace has been wiped out and the Curtin furnace closed. The picture of those old industries is as vivid in my mind today as it was in reality when, as a barefooted boy, I played about in that locality.

"The Fourth here was very quiet. Our band went to a neighboring town to furnish music for picnickers. We are having fine weather and the wheat has been cut and awaits stacking. Some growers claim it is not well filled and others are troubled with the chintz bug."

—The tree commission has taken the trouble to go over the principal streets of Bellefonte and make an inspection of the trees, as the result of a complaint made at a recent meeting of borough council as to the low limbs overhanging the streets. The members of the commission found many trees the limbs of which are too low, not only over the street but over the pavements, and property owners are hereby notified that such trees must be trimmed. If the owners fail to do so the commission has authority under the law to trim the trees at the owner's expense.

—Centre county's share of the gasoline tax for the month of May was $1410.47.
