

Church Services Next Sunday.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
"We Aim to Serve."

Lord's day services—9:45 Bible-school with classes for all ages and a special invitation for YOU. 10:45 morning worship with sermon for the Junior congregation. Sermon theme, "The Presbyterian Church and Her Lord." This is the concluding sermon of the series of messages on the Presbyterian church. 7 to 7:45 open-air service on the chapel lawn. In case of rain or unfavorable weather conditions the service will be held in the church auditorium.

Special Note—The pastor leaves on Monday for the Saltsburg Young Peoples' conference where he will have charge of two classes (July 31-August 6). Services will be held every Sunday during August in the Bellefonte Presbyterian church. Rev. Orwig will occupy the pulpit the first part of the month and Dr. E. Flack will preach the third Sunday.

The mid-week services will be under the direction of elder Gilmour.

David R. Evans, M. A., Minister.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY.

Christian Science Society, Furst building, High street, Sunday service 11 a. m. Wednesday evening meeting at 8 o'clock. To these meetings all are welcome. A free reading room is open to the public every Thursday afternoon, from 2 to 4. Here the Bible and Christian Science literature may be read, borrowed or purchased.

CENTRE HALL.

Mrs. Lola Person, of Trenton, N. J., visited her mother, Mrs. M. E. Stroh.

Mrs. Eva Simkins, of Philadelphia, spent more than a week with friends in and about Centre Hall.

Mrs. Ammon Burkholder, daughter and little friend are visiting Mrs. Burkholder's mother, Mrs. M. E. Stroh.

Some of our former young ladies are, or have been, visiting in Centre Hall. Among them are Catherine Rube and Adaline McClenahan.

Mr. and Mrs. William Keller went to Philadelphia on Thursday where Mrs. Keller will take treatment for her nerves, and be under the care of a most excellent nerve specialist.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Witmer McCormick, of Columbia, S. C., came to the home of Mrs. McCormick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Meyer, on Saturday, having made the trip by automobile.

Two Jordan families from Tusseyville, and Thomas Hosterman and wife, of this place, started for the middle west on Monday morning. They are traveling in three automobiles.

M. D. Fleming, of Spokane, Wash., circulated among his old friends on Saturday, Sunday and Monday. He is on a business trip to New York city. In that city he will visit his brother, Earl Fleming.

A party of ladies from Centre Hall and Boalsburg spent last Saturday very pleasantly at the Methodist Home in Tyrone, as guests of Mrs. M. E. Shoop, more familiarly known as "Auntie" Shoop.

J. D. Meyer, of Tyrone, was a visitor at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Meyer, on Sunday. He brought with him Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bayard and little guest, who spent the day at the home of Mrs. Margaret Smith.

An auto trip of 317 miles, through eleven counties, was made by Miss Helen Bartholomew and Mrs. C. D. Bartholomew, and four girls who left their home on Monday morning of last week and returned on Wednesday evening. Many stops were made for the purpose of visiting friends.

Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Rishel and daughter, Miss Lois, of Liverpool, spent several days at the home of C. D. Bartholomew. They came by automobile and brought with them Mrs. Rebecca Romig, sister of W. H. Bartholomew, who will spend a week or more at the Bartholomew home.

Dr. G. W. Hosterman, formerly of our town, but now living in Berkeley, California, is visiting in the east at present. He spent last Thursday circulating among friends in Centre Hall.

His son, Sumner V. Hosterman, of Lancaster, also spent the day in Centre Hall, having come up from Rebersburg by automobile.

Virtue Matter of Locality.

In the great open spaces virtue is more or less of a local issue. The man who gets drunk on a mountain top offends nobody but himself. Here in New York the neighbors hear about it.

All the tests of virtue are rigorous for folk who live elbow to elbow with nothing between them but partitions of little old last year's wallpaper and a thin dab of plaster. If the man in the flat next door, or the one underneath, ever spoke of us as a good man it would mean something. As a matter of fact, he is not likely to do so, because he thinks twelve o'clock is late, and often annoys our guests by rapping on the steampipes. However, all this is irrelevant. If he gave us a character it would be won in spite of the closest possible scrutiny. The things which the neighbors think about Farmer Jones are not half so important. He lives ten miles up the road around the bend. At that distance almost anybody might look good.

Perhaps he seems less amiable to Mrs. Jones, but nobody would think of asking a farmer's wife for an opinion about anything. Farmer Jones is under no necessity of cultivating manners, because he can be as rude as he pleases, and it will pass for downright native frankness. To his horses he is privileged to talk even more freely. And, speaking of horses, according to our city standards, Farmer Jones would very probably be set down, or set up, as a swindler. In his community they merely laugh and call him a shrewd man for horse trading.—Heywood Brown, in Judge.

Where Becky Sharp Lived.

Careful students of Thackeray have been amused at the identification of the house of Becky Sharp with a little house near Shepherd's market, a little house, with only one window on the ground floor and an area. This is contrary to the generally accepted house in Curzon street. It measures four stories and a bit, and while it is very narrow, as compared with its height, it has a certain distinction, especially about the front door, which would, no doubt, appeal to Becky. "A very small, comfortable house in Curzon street" was Thackeray's description, and after that your true lover of Thackeray will refuse to surrender to anything near Shepherd's market—Christian Science Monitor.

Even a Donkey will Listen to Good Advice Yet May Not Heed.

Some say, "The road to hell is paved with good intentions." Not having made the trip, I don't know but I do know that thousands suffering from eye strain, having been advised by their physicians and friends to consult a reliable optometrist and get correctly fitted glasses if so advised. Many failed to heed the advice of their physicians until an operation was necessary.

Dr. Eva B. Roan, Optometrist. Licensed by the State Board.
