If all reports coming out of Clinton county are correct that section of the State promises to spring into prominence in the near future. At a hearing before Squire Keichline no evidence was presented showing that the gypsies had stolen Mr. Laughlin's watch but as they could not produce a license they were fined ten dollars and warned to leave the county, which they did.

WARDEN FRANCIES RESIGNS.

Quits as Warden but will Continue as Superintendent of Construction.

Bellefonte friends of Warden John Francies were not only surprised but mystified when they learned last Thursday morning that he had resigned as warden of the western penitentiary, his resignation had been promptly accepted by the prison board and chief parole officer John M. Eagan had been named as his successor. Naturally many of the warden's intimate friends wondered if there was any political significance attached to his resignation, but such is not the case.

Mr. Francies was appointed warden over thirteen years ago and he very soon reached the conclusion that the old-style penitentiaries were all right as places of punishment but they were not the right kind of institutions in which to reform men and women and turn them out as better citizens. The more he pondered the situation the more thoroughly he became imbued with the idea of a model institution with the honor system as the best means of reform. His ideas were finally embodied in a report to the prison board and a recommendation to the Legislature for the purchase of sufficient ground on which to build such a penitentiary as he had in mind. The Legislature accepted the recommendation in good faith and passed a law providing for the purchase of the necessary land. Months were spent by the prison board visiting various sites offered in the central and western sections of the State and finally the Rockview site was selected. In 1911 Mr. Francies was appointed by Governor Tener superintendent of construction of the new institution and this work in connection with his arduous duties as warden has made him a very busy man.

When he took charge as warden of the penitentiary a little over thirteen years ago there were less than eleven hundred inmates. Today the average number approximates nineteen hundred. This vast increase naturally greatly enlarged the responsibility of the warden and for several years Mr. Francies has been considering relinquishing the work. In fact his resignation might have been tendered a year ago had it not been for the uprising of the prisoners in the Pittsburgh institution last summer and the destruction by fire of a number of the prison buildings. The destroyed buildings have all been rebuilt and the physical condition of the Pittsburgh institution is now in better shape than it has ever been before so that Mr. Francies in resigning as warden at this time leaves no uncompleted responsibilities for his successor.

As superintendent of construction and manager of the prison farms at Rockview he will be able to devote all his time to the perfecting of his dream in the building of a penal institution superior to that of any other State in the union. His resignation of the position of warden will naturally mean that Mr. Francies will be able to spend more time in Centre county than he has heretofore been able to do. It is understood on fairly good authority, however, that he is now negotiating for the purchase of a farm in close proximity to the Rockview prison farms, which will give him additional interest in Centre county affairs.

Mr. Francies' successor, John M. Eagan, was a member of the prison board which selected the Rockview site for the new penitentiary. In 1910, when the new parole system became operative in this State Mr. Eagan was elected chief parole officer and has filled that position ever since. Through the combined efforts of Mr. Eagan and Mr. Francies the parole department of the western penitentiary is now regarded by experts as a model of efficiency. In 1914 Mr. Eagan was elected clerk, assuming the management of the clerical work, book-keeping and record keeping of the institution. He performed this work in addition to his duties as parole officer. During the last three years he has also filled the position of assistant warden.

With such a record to stand on Mr. Eagan will enter upon the duties of his new appointment thoroughly familiar with the work and fully equipped in every detail. So far as now known no change will be made in the personnel of the various officers in charge at the Rockview institution.

Rattlesnake Bite Proves Serious.

Mario J. Midolo, a young Italian of Philadelphia who is a senior in the civil engineering course at State College, is in a serious condition as the result of being bitten by a rattlesnake. Midolo has been spending the summer at the College in order to continue his studies. On Sunday he took a stroll into Shingletown gap in the Seven mountains and while walking along an old road his attention was attracted by a peculiar looking berry. Without a thought of danger he reached down to pick the berry and was bitten on the right hand by a large rattler.

Realizing his danger he promptly started out of the mountains but it was three quarters of an hour before he reached a habitation. A physician was promptly sent for but by the time he reached the young man the poison had impregnated his system and his hand and arm were badly swollen. Every known antidote has been administered, incisions have been made in every finger and at several places on the arm to drain out the poison but Midolo's condition continues very serious.

The State Dental Car to be Brought Into Centre County.

Dr. C. J. Hollister, chief of the dental division of the State Department of Health, was in Bellefonte recently to complete arrangements for dental clinics to be held in Centre county in the early autumn. A year ago a request was sent him to have the state dental car brought into the county and it is now an assured fact. About the middle of September, Dr. Hollister will spend a week in Bellefonte, one in Phillipsburg, and one in State College with the dental car and his demonstrations will be followed by the work of a dental hygienist in the schools of each place for a period of probably two months.

While the dental car is part of the equipment of the State Health Department and its use, as well as Dr. Hollister's services, given free to the community, the salary of the dental hygienist must be financed locally and this the Tuberculosis committee of the three towns have arranged to do out of their Christmas Seal sale funds. A preventive educational program has been the chief feature of the work of the Tuberculosis society the past four years and the demonstrations by Dr. Hollister are expected to awaken interest in parents and children in the care of the teeth.

Playground Children Preparing for Closing Carnival.

The playgrounds on the High school commons will close for the season on Friday, September 1st. If the weather is wet the exercises will be held on Saturday afternoon. Over three hundred children have been registered during the summer, and it is expected that the most of them will participate in the closing festivities.

Mrs. Krader and her faithful girl assistants will devote the intervening time to preparation for the event. Folk dances will be taught in the afternoons by Mrs. Krader and play songs for the little tots. The industrial work which has been so attractive to many, as both boys and girls have learned to make fancy baskets and raffia work, will be finished up and prepared for exhibition at that time.

Mr. Aplin, who has spent a great deal of time on the playground, erecting the apparatus and keeping things in shape, also directing the activities for the boys, will train them in an Indian stunt and some surprises may be looked for in this line. The boys are going to try to beat the Red Men in paint and make up. The finals in the horse shoe pitching contest will be held and athletic events with badge prizes for the winners, will be run off. A special treat will be given the boys and girls who participate in the festivities of the afternoon. The parents and friends of the children are asked to attend and enjoy the closing day with the children.

Each ex-service man will be asked to give one dollar as his share of the gift. A member of the committee will call on the ex-soldiers in the near future.
