"The government must be brought closer to the people themselves. Their will should be reflected in every operation." The people generally are dissatisfied with the burden of taxation and the fact that this taxation "is without representation." That is to say, the political bosses and the contractor combine at Capitol Hill, disregard the will and the rights of the people of this Commonwealth. The people are demanding relief from the burden of taxation and also demand that the government of Pennsylvania should be brought up to date. Invisibly government of the affairs of State must cease. The public has the power to end its control. The political bosses have used patronage in order that a great political machine could be built up and maintained for the exclusive benefit of themselves, disregarding the rights of the women, men and children comprising the citizenship of our State. The burden of taxation has added mill upon mill until it has become a "millstone around the necks of the people." Every department of the State government should be administered solely for the benefit of the people.

At a meeting of the allied commanderies of the P. O. S. of A. of central and western Pennsylvania held in Huntingdon last Saturday evening, many prominent state officers of Pennsylvania and Maryland were present. A large class of candidates, including Judge Bailey, of the Blair and Huntingdon district, received the highest degree of the Order, which was given by the efficient Alexandria degree team of Altoona. The following members of Beaver Commandery, No. 68, of Bellefonte, were present and witnessed one of their number, "Billy" Sager "ride the goat," Clement Dale Esq., E. F. Young, Harry B. Johnson, C. R. Florey and V. E. Von Gunden. C. R. Florey, of Pleasant Gap, at this meeting received the appointment of district commander of the Central Pennsylvania district.

While helping to do the threshing at the Curt Yarnell home on the John Garbrick farm, last Friday, Harry Garbrick fell from the thresher and cut a long gash in his right arm by coming in contact with the brake lever. He was brought to the Bellefonte hospital where the injured arm was given proper attention. As no bones are broken no serious results are anticipated.

The Potter-Hoy Hardware company on Tuesday night installed a new range in the kitchen of the Bush house. Some idea of the size of the big stove may be had from the fact that it weighs 2650 pounds.

Gold Star Mothers Who Unveiled the Monument at Milesburg

MILESBURG MONUMENT SUCCESSFULLY DEDICATED.

Monster Crowd Witnessed Unveiling Ceremonies Last Friday Afternoon.

The weather man smiled propitiously last Friday and Milesburg proved the mecca for thousands of Centre countyans who journeyed there to witness the unveiling and dedication of the first monument erected within the county in honor of the world war soldiers.

When the United States declared war upon Germany and President Wilson issued orders for the recruiting of the National Guard to war strength for the purpose of mustering the troops into the service of the United States Milesburg responded with a good quota to fill up Troop B, of Bellefonte. Other young men enlisted elsewhere and she gave her full quota in calls for the national army.

Milesburg and Boggs township went over the top in every Liberty loan and Red Cross drive and the people of those localities are entitled to a great deal of credit for their enterprise and patriotism in erecting a monument to their dead heroes and gallant survivors of not only the world war, but former wars in which they were so fully represented. And the beautiful monument dedicated last Friday will stand for generations as a splendid tribute to the dead and the living.

The big parade or preliminary feature of the ceremonies, was scheduled to move at 1:30 p. m., but it was almost two o'clock when it swung into line. Major H. Laird Curtin was chief marshal and the parade included the I. O. O. F. band, of Bellefonte; Civil war veterans; American Legion in command of John B. Payne; a company of State College cadets; the Headquarters Troop and Troop A, of Boalsburg, and B, of Bellefonte, 52nd machine gun battalion, and Troop F, of Lock Haven, First Pennsylvania cavalry. The second division included Wetzler's band, of Milesburg, the Logan fire company apparatus, of Bellefonte, and the school children of Milesburg and vicinity. The parade formed on the state road beyond the bridge and after marching through Milesburg returned to the monument where the American Legion stood at attention during the ceremonies.

Judge Henry C. Quigley presided and told of the purpose of the gathering after which the band played "America." Rev. M. DePui Maynard offered prayer and Rev. J. Fred Andrews delivered the address of welcome. The dedicatory ceremonies were conducted by the Brooks-Doll Post of the American Legion, commander John B. Payne and chaplain Wilson P. Ard taking the leading parts. At the conclusion of the ceremony Wetzler's band played "The Star Spangled Banner" while five gold star mothers unveiled the monument. The mothers were Mrs. Celia Hull Barlett, Mrs. Jane Shultz Garman, Mrs. John A. Korman, Mrs. Annie Lucas Shope and Mrs. John Haines.

At the conclusion of the unveiling burgess W. Harrison Walker was introduced and made a brief address after which Col. H. S. Taylor gave a brief talk on the military history of Milesburg and Boggs township. He stated that during the Civil war every third man in that locality was a soldier and that in the world war Milesburg had exceeded its quota.

Following a selection by the band Judge Quigley introduced Major David A. Reed, of Pittsburgh, United States Senator for Pennsylvania, who complimented the people of Milesburg for having erected such an enduring monument in behalf of their soldier boys. He then stated that the American army which went across the seas to fight in the world war was unique in that it was different from any of the other armies. The soldiers went across to do certain things and they did them. It also was a laughing army, because the men laughed at danger and discomforts, but a finer body of young men never went to war in any country. They carried pure patriotism to a pitch never surpassed. There was no selfishness in their motive, no hanging back. It accomplished its task superbly and would have been equal to a far greater task. Major Reed predicted that the world war soldiers would be the guiding star in the destiny of this country during the next half century, under the proper leadership, but urged the soldier boys to beware of the leader who was in it for self-exploitation alone.

The closing address was made by Hon. Emerson Collins, deputy Attorney General, after which the assembly was dismissed with the benediction by Rev. Wilson P. Ard.

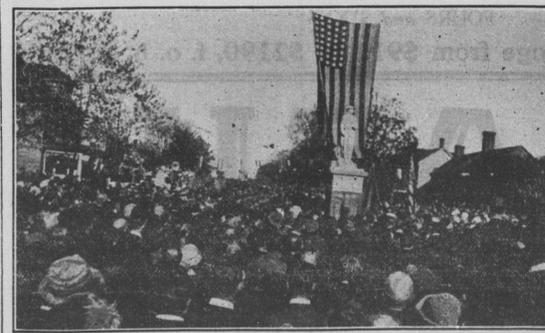

The monument stands in a triangle opposite the property of the Keystone Power company, and close to the main highway where it can be seen by every passer by. It stands sixteen feet high with a base of concrete, topped with brickwork for the panel supports, which is supported by a life-size statue of a soldier at attention. On the front of the monument is a bronze panel bearing the inscription and on the side panels with the names of the soldiers who served in the Spanish-American war, Philippine insurrection and world war. On the rear of the monument is a panel placed by the Bellefonte Chapter of the D. A. R. bearing the names of revolutionary soldiers from that locality. One of the contributors toward this panel was a former resident of Milesburg, Mr. James H. T. Ryman, of Missoula, Montana, who sent the D. A. R. his check for twenty-five dollars. The entire cost of the monument approximated fifteen hundred dollars, all raised through the persistent effort of the people of Milesburg and vicinity.

It was probably eighteen months ago when the people of Milesburg and Boggs township conceived the idea of erecting a monument to commemorate the heroism of their soldier boys. The question was duly considered and met with such universal approval that a public meeting was held which resulted in the selection of a general committee, as follows:

- Toner A. Hugg, chairman. Oscar E. Miles, treasurer. W. B. Miles Jr., Frank L. Wetzler, Frank Baird, Lloyd Smith, E. C. Miles, John Smith, Major H. Laird Curtin, Harry P. Austin, M. L. Miles, Charles Shreebler, Lester Campbell, Edward Quick and Howard Neff.

Various sub committees were named and while each and every one performed its duties faithfully the chairman of the general committee, Toner A. Hugg, is entitled to special commendation for his persistent and determined efforts in pushing the work to a successful conclusion.

And now that the monument has been dedicated as an enduring symbol of the patriotism of the residents of that section of Centre county the general committee wishes, through the columns of the "Watchman" to express its appreciation of the loyal support it received, both morally and financially, from the citizens in general of Milesburg and Boggs township, to the people of Bellefonte and surrounding vicinity for their substantial encouragement, and to every person who in any way contributed to the erection of the monument.

Big Football Game This Afternoon.

The Academy football management having scheduled two of its hardest games on Hughes field for Friday afternoons, has done so to give those a chance to see just as good games as they will see on college fields who in past years have complained because they could not get to the games on Saturdays. The Academy eleven this year is a powerful team and has scored in the first four games 80 points to their opponents 6. They have won three out of the four games played, and are protesting one game because it was played without a neutral and unprejudiced referee, as had been promised.

This (Friday) afternoon, at 2:30, go to Hughes field and see the Academy team take the scalp of the St. Francis College boys. When you have witnessed this game, you will be able to realize what a wonderful game the "boys from the hill" are putting up this year. Their victory last Saturday at Pittsburgh over the Carnegie team was the scalp of the Carnegie boys on the map, so go out and help them realize what a wonderful game they are putting up this year. This game will produce real college football, served up in every form of modern football plays.

A Loving Tribute.

To the memory of L. Olin Meek, who died at his home in Bellefonte, Pa., September 24th, 1922.

The Centre County Association of Philadelphia, wishes to pay its tribute of love and respect to one who, until his physical disability prevented, was a faithful member and a bright and cheerful spirit among us. He was a loyal supporter of our beloved organization, and his cheerful manner, with pleasant smiles, added life to our meetings and made those occasions both helpful and enjoyable for all. And his social visits among some of the members at their homes will be long remembered as bright spots along the highway of life.

While he lived far beyond the average age allotted to man, he yet possessed that youthful spirit which was a part of his social life and nature.

It is with feelings of sadness that we realize that he will be with us no more, but we are thankful for the pleasant memories that will linger with us in the days and years to come, as well as for the faith and trust we have that as a cheerful helper to his fellow travelers in this life so will it be in that life beyond the veil in the service of the One who said "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these ye did it unto Me."

Squinting eyes are not only unbecoming, and the cause of wrinkles, but they make you appear aged long before your time and sometimes place one in an embarrassing position.

If you only knew the comfort gained by wearing properly fitted glasses and how quickly the squint disappears, you wouldn't hesitate a minute, but would consult a thorough optometrist at once.
