

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

Seal your letters with Christmas seals and help the fight against tuberculosis.

The Bellefonte Academy football team defeated the University of West Virginia Freshmen, at Morgantown last Saturday, by the score of 12 to 0.

The show windows of the Blair jewelry store that every day would attract attention on Chestnut street or Fifth avenue, were unusually dressed for the Thanksgiving season.

December third will be tuberculosis day in the churches and December eighth in the schools. Special educational programs will be given on these days in many churches and schools.

The small game season, with the exception of rabbits, closed yesterday and the only kind of game that can be legally killed now are deer, bear and rabbits. The season for all game will close on December 15th.

The old St. James hotel property in Philipsburg has been purchased by the Moshannon National bank for $46,000. The bank made the purchase with the view of at some time in the future erecting thereon a modern bank building.

The "M. Elizabeth Olewine" Freshman scholarship of $100.00 at Penn State has been awarded to Miss Mary Barnhart, of Bellefonte. This scholarship is awarded each year, near the close of the first Semester, to a Centre county girl.

Cards have been received in Bellefonte announcing the marriage on November 5th, of Dr. Thomas J. Orbinson, of Los Angeles, Cal., and Miss Paula Poedder, of Riga, Russia. The wedding took place in Los Angeles and it is in that city they will make their home.

Bear in mind the sale by the Woman's Aid society of the Presbyterian church, to be held in the chapel, Thursday afternoon and evening, December 14th, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. There will be on sale aprons of all styles, fancy and plain; fancy articles, suitable for gifts. Also, home-made cakes, bread and candy.

When in doubt as to where to spend your evenings choose the Scenic. The room is comfortably warm at all times and the pictures are the best that manager T. Clayton Brown can secure, including comedy, drama, scenic and everything interesting and entertaining. Every evening's program is worth seeing, so be a regular.

The handsomely equipped aeroplane of the division superintendent of the government airmail service arrived at the Bellefonte aviation field yesterday morning on its way east and when the men at the field made an inspection of the ship they found one of the cylinders cracked. Because of this fact the ship may be held here for some days.

On Saturday afternoon when Dr. and Mrs. John Sebring were on their way home from State College their car skidded in the snow out at the Titan Metal plant and collided with a concrete pillar, smashing one front wheel and overturning the car. Mrs. Sebring sustained several minor cuts and suffered from shock but the doctor escaped injury.

The first attraction of the Keystone Players entertainment course will be held in the little theatre at the Y. M. C. A. this (Friday) evening at eight o'clock. The first part will include musical monologues, violin interpretations, dancing and select reading. The second part will be a rendition of the one act English comedy, "In Honor or Bound." All season ticket holders can get reserved seats by paying an additional ten cents. Single admission, 75 and 50 cents.

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the Centre county farm bureau it was decided to hold the annual meeting and farm products show at the court house, Bellefonte, Saturday, December 23rd. The show will consist of exhibits of corn, potatoes, apples, wheat, oats, barley, rye and eggs. Now is the time to start to select your exhibits. The best exhibits will be held over for the State farm products show to be held at Harrisburg January 22nd to 26th.

Dr. H. W. Reed is again making preparations for his long delayed western trip which will include a course at the Mayo sanatorium, at Rochester, Minn., and during his absence his Bellefonte practice will be in charge of Dr. H. M. James. The latter has been in Bellefonte for several weeks familiarizing himself with the work. He is a native of Wilkes-Barre but most of the time since his graduation has been connected with the army and for some years was stationed in California.

Up to the time of going to press Centre county authorities have not succeeded in capturing Thomas Wolford, the check forger, who reaped such a harvest in Bellefonte two weeks ago by passing forged checks. He has been trailed to Buffalo, N. Y., but the authorities there have been unable to locate him. Since the publication of the "Watchman" last week a number of other checks have turned up on which he secured the money, and the district attorney will have in the neighborhood of half a dozen indictments against him to present to the grand jury week after next.

ANOTHER FATAL GUNSHOT. Irvin Meiss, of Colyer, Killed by Gun in Hands of Companion.

Irvin Meiss, only son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Meiss, of Colyer, was almost instantly killed at one o'clock Wednesday afternoon as the result of a gunshot wound in the right groin. The young man, who assisted his father in the store, had gone out on the store porch to do some work and while there Charles Taylor, fifteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor, came along carrying a pump shotgun. He stopped to talk to young Meiss as they had always been good friends and quite intimate.

The boys were standing about six feet apart when suddenly the gun was discharged and Meiss fell mortally wounded. His father and others ran from the store and a hasty examination showed that the entire load of shot had passed through his hand and into his right groin, severing the superficial femoral artery at the point where it leads off from the common, or main artery. Dr. H. H. Longwell was promptly summoned but as the wound was at a place where it was impossible to staunch the flow of blood the young man bled to death in a few minutes.

Later in the afternoon an inquest was held by justice of the peace Frank A. Carson, of Potters Mills, and the following jury: Daniel Daup, A. B. Lee, William Reiber, James Spangler, Frank Treaster and William Nevil. There was no direct eye witness to the tragedy and all the evidence obtained was in confirmation of the above account of the shooting. So far as could be learned the boys had been talking in a friendly manner so that there was no reason to even suspect that the shooting was wilful. The jury, however, did find that the accident was the result of carelessness on the part of the Taylor boy, and so stated in their verdict. At this writing it has not been decided whether any legal action will be taken against him or not.

Irvin Meiss was going on nineteen years old and was born and raised at Colyer. In addition to his parents he is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Roy Martz, of Old Fort; Mrs. George Yarnell and Mrs. John Jordan, both of Colyer, and Miss Ellen, at home. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made at this writing.

The Panthers are on the Trail Again.

After lying dormant for several years the Panthers have again become active and are now running rampant in the fastnesses of the Allegheny mountains, their main object being deer, but until it becomes legal to kill those animals they will probably gobble up all the pheasants, wild turkeys, etc., that get within their reach. By "the Panthers" we mean the hunting club of that name composed of Bellefonte hunters, and including such nimrods as postmaster John L. Knisely, A. Linn McGinley, David Washburn, W. C. Cassidy, all of this place, and Thomas Moore, of Philadelphia. With their bag and baggage, provisions, etc., in a big truck they left on Saturday morning for the foothills of the Alleghenies back of Orviston where they will spend two weeks. There was a time when the Panthers came home loaded with glory and five deer, and naturally all their friends are hoping that they will have as good luck this year.

Postmaster Knisely returned home on Wednesday and among his stories of camp stated that they had shot a number of pheasants and rabbits and were anxiously waiting for the opening of the deer season. He also said that on Tuesday a big buck, with a splendid rack of horns came out of the woods within fifty feet of Dave Washburn, and was so astonished that he stopped and stood for a minute at least, looking at him, then continued on his trail.

On Wednesday morning a big buck and a doe came down off Bald Eagle mountain above Snow Shoe Intersection, ran to within two hundred feet of the railroad and watched the train go by, then turned and loped back to the mountain. They were probably looking to see if there were any hunters on the train.

Pennsylvania Railroad Buys Property in this Place.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company has purchased from George M. Gamble the house along the railroad below the freight depot occupied by H. F. Hartman and also the vacant plot of ground between the house and Lamb street. A corps of surveyors have been at work during the week making surveys in that locality but the purpose has not been made public. The old freight depot is too small for the amount of business done in Bellefonte and there is a possibility that plans may be made in the near future to enlarge the same and also increase shipping facilities by putting in an extra track, possibly on the west side of the depot. So far as could be learned, no definite plans have yet been made, but the purchase of the above named property gives the company opportunity to make any improvements deemed necessary in that locality.

Bellefonte had its first snow fall this year last Saturday, and according to the old saw that will mean twenty-five snows this winter. Not a very encouraging outlook, but if their average is no deeper than the snow we have had this week there will not be any great demand for snow shovellers.

"Orphans of the Storm," the famous picture of the year by D. W. Griffith, at opera house Friday and Saturday nights, December 8th and 9th. One show, 8:15. Reserved seats for nights at Motz's. Pittsburgh orchestra. Matinees at Scenic, 2 p. m. Prices all shows, children 25c., adults, 55c. A big show. Don't miss it. 47-2t

Bellefonte people are again reminded of the fact that the Thanksgiving donation for the Bellefonte hospital will be collected today (Friday). The hospital needs linens, provisions and cash, so that anything you can give will be acceptable. Everybody should join in making this the most bountiful donation ever made to this institution. Have your donations in readiness so that the collectors will not be delayed in making their rounds of the town.

Twelve cases of typhoid fever were registered in the Cottage State hospital, at Philipsburg, on Tuesday. Eleven of the cases are from Morrisdale and vicinity and one from Osceola Mills. The scarcity of pure water for drinking and cooking purposes is believed to be the cause of so many cases. An effort will doubtless be made to trace the source of the fever germs in the hope of preventing a general epidemic. In the meantime the afflicted ones will be carefully looked after by physicians and competent nurses.

Four members of the Bellefonte Academy football squad have a very lively feeling for a half dozen or more Bellefonte business men. Last week when arrangements were made for the trip to Morgantown, W. Va., the management decided that twenty men was the limit that could be taken. Four other young men were among the available substitutes but the expenses were limited and only twenty men were scheduled for the trip. In order that the other four young men might not be disappointed the business men chipped in and paid their expenses for the trip to Morgantown and back.

The big garage on the corner of Bishop and Allegheny streets, Bellefonte, was purchased last week by George N. Dunlap, and other interests, of Williamsport, for the purpose of establishing a Cadillac agency in Centre county. The garage was built several years ago by John P. Kelley, of Snow Shoe, at a cost of $110,000, or over, and has been occupied by Willis E. Wion, agent for the Nash and Franklin cars. Inasmuch as the sale was consummated while Mr. Wion was on a business trip east he has not yet made his plans for the future. The exact price paid by the Williamsport people for the garage has not been made public.

A minor auto accident occurred at the intersection of High and Spring streets, on Saturday afternoon. The Frank M. Mayer mill truck was going up High street and the driver attempted to cut in around a Ford car going north on Spring street, evidently under the impression that the Ford car, in which were two women, would come down High street. But the women were going through on Spring street and their car caught the rear end of the truck and was thrown around in a circle. The woman at the wheel did not faint or anything of the kind. She stuck to the wheel, righted her car and drove to the side of the street, stopped and got out to take stock of damage done. Fortunately, neither machine was greatly damaged.

The stub of a cigarette came very near causing a costly fire at the Imperial gasoline station, on south Potter street, Bellefonte, at noon on Tuesday. In transferring gasoline from the tank cars to the storage tank and also in filling up the delivery tank more or less gasoline is spilled with the result that the ground in that vicinity is generally pretty well soaked with gasoline. At noon on Tuesday, according to reports, the driver of the delivery tank threw away a burning stub of a cigarette and it fell on the gas soaked ground. The gas ignited and never anticipating any serious results the young man made no attempt to extinguish the small flame. But it rapidly grew bigger and in less than a minute the flames shot up in the air twenty feet. An alarm was sent in and the fire companies responded, being able to put out the fire before it reached the tank.

There is at least one man in Pennsylvania who had cause to give thanks today. He is Peter Christian, of Lawrence county, who was to have been electrocuted for murder at the Rockview penitentiary on Monday, but last week the Board of Pardons granted him an unconditional pardon and it was forwarded to the sheriff of Lawrence county in time to warrant Christian's discharge for Thanksgiving. On May 1st, 1918, a gang of bandits shot up the town of New Castle and when the smoke of battle cleared away policeman Cucia was lying dead in the street. The bandits escaped to Youngstown, Ohio, in a taxicab where they engaged in a battle with officers which resulted in the death of one of their number and the wounding of a Youngstown officer. Christian was arrested as one of the gang, convicted and sentenced to death. At the meeting of the Board of Pardons last week the condemned man's attorneys presented proof that his was a case of mistaken identity and he was pardoned.

Aviation Field Contributors May be Reimbursed.

A move has been started in the Postoffice Department at Washington to have Congress pass a $300,000 deficiency bill for the purpose of reimbursing all voluntary contributors to the establishment of aviation fields for airmail purposes throughout the country, and if this is done Bellefonters will probably be reimbursed for the money they put up when the field was established in this place.

The move, it is understood, is the result of claims being made by contributors to the establishment of some of the western fields, who aver that at the time they were solicited for aid representation was made by postoffice inspectors that they would be reimbursed for any money advanced. Postoffice inspectors visited Bellefonte recently for the purpose of ascertaining if such representations had been made here, and were promptly informed that such was not the case and that Bellefonters contributors have never expected their money back. But the department is evidently of the opinion that if contributors at some points are to be reimbursed it is only just and right that other places should be treated likewise, as last week they requested a statement of the amount of money advanced by Bellefonte people.

Consequently a meeting of a portion of the contributors was held at the Y. M. C. A. on Friday afternoon and a survey of the various subscription lists made. It showed that Bellefonte had contributed $2350 in cash, not counting the lumber and labor, which were not considered. It was the sense of the meeting that if by doing so the status of the future of the Bellefonte field was in nowise impaired Bellefonters people would accept the reimbursement, though such action is not to be considered a demand for the same.

Farmer's Week at State College, December 18th to 21st.

Taking advantage of the holiday vacation a series of farmer's meetings will be held at State College December 18th to 21st, and every farmer in the county who can do so should attend. The first session will be on Monday evening, the 18th, and the meetings will close on Thursday. Every effort will be made to make the time as profitable as possible to the farmers of the State.

One of the features will be the dairy feeders field day on Wednesday, the 20th, when the dairy cattle presented to the College by the dairy breeders throughout the State will be placed on exhibition and a formal presentation made. The display will include over twenty gift cows and heifers. Farm crops, livestock, dairying, fruit and vegetable growing, poultry and home economics will be discussed by able speakers.

A new section will be established for those who take an interest in subjects dealing with the conservation of Pennsylvania wild life and the State timberlands. Among those who will discuss these interests are N. R. Bulter, State commissioner of fisheries; Robert Y. Stuart, State commissioner of forestry; Seth E. Gordon, secretary of the State game commission, and Dean R. L. Watts, of State College. Programs for these meetings can be secured at the Centre county farm bureau.

Were You Thankful Yesterday?

That you have enough to eat, to wear, and a comfortable bed?

That you live in a land not governed by Lenines or Trotskys?

That christianity and education are open to all who seeketh?

That Bellefonters can always get all they want to drink—from the Big Spring?

That the deer season opens today and hunting stories are now in order?

That Pinchot will have eight Republican women in the Legislature?

That Christmas is less than four weeks away?

That you saved your summer's wages to buy your winter's coal, and now can't get the coal?

That the Bellefonte hospital drive won't take place until in February?

But what's the use? Of course you were thankful in a perfunctory way, but how many of us are ever really and truly thankful for all we have—be it ever so little, and all the blessings we enjoy, chief among which is good health.

Farmer a Victim of Corn Shredder.

John H. Morrow, a well known farmer of Sinking valley, died at the Altoona hospital last Friday morning as the result of injuries sustained on Thursday afternoon when his arm was caught in a corn shredder and badly mangled. Mr. Morrow was feeding the shredder when his hand was caught and almost his entire arm was drawn in before the machine could be stopped. The only persons there at the time were his wife and one son and they worked half an hour before they were able to release him, being compelled to take the machine partially apart. He was rushed to the Altoona hospital where the son submitted to a transfusion of a pint of blood in order to save his father, but the loss of blood and shock to his system was so great that he died on Friday morning. He was fifty-five years old and leaves a wife, six children, seven brothers and sisters, as well as many friends in Spruce Creek valley. Burial was made at Arch Springs on Monday afternoon.
