PINE GROVE MENTION.

J. N. Everts, who suffered a relapse, is again confined to his bed. The long hoped for rain came on Monday night, but there was not enough of it.

Mrs. S. E. Ward came over from State College and spent Sunday with the home folks.

Lester Tate, of Pittsburgh, and Charles Goss, of Harrisburg, are here for their annual hunt.

Miss Mary McKinney, of the Branch, spent Sunday with her parents, at Potters Mills.

Henry McWilliams, retired farmer, had charge of the S. M. Hess stables while the latter was out gunning.

George W. Ward, of Pittsburgh, is here looking after some business matters and doing a little hunting on the side.

John Oman and sister Mary, of Centre Hall, visited at the home of Fred Osman the latter part of the week.

Mrs. Lydia Fagan, of Altoona, was here on Monday for the big butchering at the home of her mother, Mrs. Saucerman.

Miss Edna Ward, teacher in the Altoona schools, and Miss Lucy Tanyer, of State College, spent Thanksgiving day here.

Robert Lucas, of Boalsburg, and his sister, of Washington, D. C., were Thanksgiving day guests of grandpa Samuel Grove.

Paul Ward, of Baileyville, has accepted the position of district manager for the Bair Bros., a wholesale firm in Tyrone.

Will Randolph, wife and son, with Mr. Yoder at the wheel, motored over Tussey mountain and spent Sunday at the St. Elmo.

A little girl arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Colpetzer, at Fairbrook, on Thanksgiving day, making the twelfth child in the family.

E. C. Musser, Mrs. Laura Krebs and Miss Mabel Musser spent Saturday at State College shopping and visiting their uncle, Philip Dale, an old Civil war veteran.

Samuel Hess Tate fitted from State College to Lewistown on Tuesday and going over the Seven mountains killed a nice buck that ran into the road ahead of the truck.

Randall Dunlap, of Cherrytree, reports another boy in his home, which makes a family of two boys and two girls. The new arrival has been christened Samuel Alexander Dunlap.

A good feather pillow, evidently lost from a fitting, was found on the state highway near Pine Hall recently. It can be recovered by calling Mrs. J. H. Strouse, State College R. F. D.

George Detters, a veteran of the Civil war, was run down by an automobile near his home at Graysville last Tuesday. He sustained a crushed hip and was taken to the Bellefonte hospital where he is getting along as well as can be expected. He is a survivor of Company E, 45th regiment. The accident was apparently one of those unfortunate "unavoidable" ones.

Our town came within an ace of having a fire on Monday afternoon. Some thoughtless individual threw a lighted match into a pile of dry leaves in an alley and a brisk blaze followed. Mrs. Nannie Bailey chanced to be nearby at the time and seeing the fire gave the alarm. By the time help had arrived on the scene the flames had communicated to the J. E. McWilliams barn and garage, in which were stored his King automobile and other valuable articles, but by hard work the bucket brigade managed to extinguish the fire.

PLEASANT GAP.

D. W. Keller and wife, accompanied by Mrs. Earl Keller, motored from Philadelphia to spend Thanksgiving with Mr. Keller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Keller.

Squire J. D. Herman and Ralph Noll each shot a wild turkey on Thanksgiving day. Strange as it may seem, the two turkeys weighed ten and a half pounds each.

Our good neighbor, Collins C. Baumgardner, had a very severe attack of indigestion Friday night, but has recovered sufficiently to enable him and his wife to motor to Tyrone to remain for a brief time with their daughter, in the hope of recuperating.

D. W. Keller and wife and Mrs. Earl Keller, who are visiting with friends here, were agreeably surprised on Saturday last when they were invited by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Noll to the rare feast of a wild turkey dinner. A very agreeable day was spent at the Noll home. Mr. Fred Witmer and wife, of Bellefonte, were also in evidence on the occasion.

Henry Noll, our Ford garage vender, has embarked in a new enterprise. He is now the happy possessor of an improved airplane. Henry has the reputation of being fearless. It is alleged that he don't fear the wrath of God, the face of man, or the indignation of woman, hence it is that many of his friends fear that he may lose his life, inasmuch as the airplane is a treacherous proposition.

A disastrous fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the barn of Joseph Zelesnick and wife on Monday evening, entailing a loss of over two thousand dollars, without any insurance. Out of a flock of 300 chickens one hundred perished. All the live stock excepting one pig was saved. Three horses, four cows, and small stock were saved on a very close call. All their grain, hay, straw and fodder went up in smoke. Inasmuch as these unfortunate people have no feed left to winter their stock they will be obliged to sell at private sale. Mrs. Zelesnick had just returned from the hospital a few days before the fire, and the shock of the disaster is affecting her seriously, so that she is in a very precarious condition.

CENTRE HALL.

Charles Arney killed a deer on Tuesday evening.

Mr. E. M. Huyett is again able to be out of the house.

L. J. Burris broke his leg above the ankle, when he jumped from a horse, on Monday evening.

John L. Runkle, of Tusseyville, was stricken with paralysis on Monday, this being the third stroke.

J. C. Brooks was admitted to the Bellefonte hospital for an operation on Wednesday of this week.

Rev. C. W. Rishel, of Liverpool, attended the funeral of Irvin Weiss, at Colyer, last Saturday forenoon.

Mrs. Virgie Durst Keller returned to her home last Saturday, much improved in appearance and health, we are glad to note.

The Bradford and the Slack hunting parties returned home the middle of the week, both parties having shot their limit of deer.

John Auman, the former miller for Bradford & Son, removed the balance of his household goods to Philadelphia this week. He has a fine position in a mill in West Philadelphia.

C. F. Emery's two married daughters were at home for several days recently. On Sunday one daughter, Mrs. Thomas Foss and husband went to Howard to visit "Tom's" parents, where they spent several days, returning here on Tuesday to help with the annual butchering.

BOALSBURG.

Mrs. R. B. Harrison, of State College, is visiting Mrs. Coxey.

Mrs. T. O. Glenn, of Braddock, visited her mother, Mrs. Woods, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ketchum and Ray Lucas motored from Washington, D. C., on Wednesday, for a few days' visit.

Farmers' Week Presents Wide Choice of Subjects.

Every member of the farm family will be able to make up a full schedule of meetings and demonstrations of interest to him during Farmers' week at State College, the latter part of this month. The opening meeting on Monday evening, December 18th, with Dean Watts to welcome the visitors to Penn State's campus, will launch one of the best educational programs that the school of agriculture has ever prepared for its guests. An attractive variety of subjects is offered for selection in every phase of the work. In addition to the customary branches in agriculture and home economics, a new division has been established for those who are lovers of birds, trees, flowers, and wild game and who are interested in the conservation of Pennsylvania's wild life. Speakers of State and national repute have been called in to assist the agricultural faculty and the forenoon of Thursday, December 21, should mark the close of an event that has been rich in benefits to the farm folks who attend.

STATE POLICEMEN ARE HEALTH OFFICERS.

"No," the state policeman's first aid kit doesn't contain whiskey," replied Major Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of State police, when asked about the first aid work of his force. "Aromatic spirits of ammonia is the best they can do for you," he continued.

"The State Department of Health in addition to appointing Dr. S. Leon Gans, liaison officer for the two departments, and lending us the service of Dr. Edgar S. Everhart, who gave the men at the Neville Training school a complete course in regular army first aid work, has furnished our men with first aid kits containing bandages, gauze, sutures, scissors, equipment for stopping hemorrhages and dressing wounds."

That the general public does not recognize the state cop as a humane agent first and a policeman second, is shown by a story Major Adams told of a woman who came to his office, very angry because a policeman in rushing an injured woman to the nearest hospital was compelled to swerve from the road by another machine, and thereby broke her favorite hydrangea bush. When told that the sick woman lived far back in the mountains, that her husband showed his affection by daily beatings and had finally cut her throat, and that the state policeman was taking her to a hospital instead of merely hustling a law-breaker into jail, the irate one relented enough to say,

"Well, I didn't know state cops did anything but arrest people and I couldn't see any sense in tearin' along like mad to put some one in the lock-up. Anyway I always voted right and it wot hurt the State any to buy me another hydrangea."

Both Major Adams and Doctor Martin stated that this couldn't be done out of their Department funds.

Hundreds of accidents occur on lonely roads and the other fellow drives on leaving the hurt ones to die, as would often be the case except for the patrolling state cop. He applies first aid, gets them to the nearest hospital, and—nine times out of ten—ferrets out the driver who kept on going. Such an accident occurred recently on the Lancaster pike.

A high powered car knocked a motorcycle from the road and drove rapidly away. A state policeman found one man dead, and the other terribly injured. He dressed his wounds and commandeered a passing automobile which took the victim to the Lancaster hospital. Meanwhile the cop pursued the high powered car, caught up with it and arrested the driver.

Their first aid equipment does not include splints, but Major Adams says that is a small matter for when splints are needed a nearby fence loses a paling or two, and fence rails serve as stretchers.

The Physicians' Motor Club of Philadelphia, with a membership of 1300, has commended Major Adams and Dr. Martin for their concerted action, and have offered to help anywhere, at any time, in giving aid treatment.

In further co-operation with State Health Department activities, state policemen have been commissioned as health officers. When raids are made, or quarantine broke, or a public health law ignored, the State policeman immediately takes the necessary action.

The State Health Commissioner says this is but the first step in a broad campaign to line up all forces for a better public health.

"The splendid co-operation and interest shown by the state policeman in the matter of public health, proves that it is a subject of interest to any wide-awake group," said Doctor Martin.

"The public health problem is one too large to be solved by the medical profession alone. It requires the enrollment of a large body of intelligent people, not specially trained in health work but willing to help themselves and others to that degree of health and happiness which is their just due. The church, school, capital, labor, fraternal organizations, all are needed. Major Adams and his force of 423 men, are showing how it can be done."

The medical personnel of the State Department of Health has been instructed to work with the state police whenever their activities require such assistance as doctors and nurses can give.—State Health Department, Harrisburg, Pa.

LOOKS LIKE GEORGE.

Mrs. R. M. B. writes: "Last Sunday afternoon I told my little girl that her father was asleep and that I wanted her and her brother to be as silent as the Sphinx. A moment later I heard her repeat my warning to her brother, aged seven, and inquire what a 'Sphinx' was."

"Why, don't you know?" answered Robert, who is quite a student for his age. 'A Sphinx is a big thing that grows in Egypt and looks like George Washington.'"—Los Angeles Times.

WAISTCOAT ADDS TO SUIT

Accessories Are Used Alike on Formal and Informal Costumes—Cotton Homespun Neckwear.

Spring is to see the waistcoat or gilet established as an essential accessory to the smart suit costume. This is the only conclusion one can reach after viewing a number of spring neckwear lines, which are now opening fast, and which are of exceptional interest.

The neckwear trade is talking sport neckwear strongly, and consequently is showing fabrics of appropriate weave and in exceedingly smart color effects.

What promises to be one of the successful fabrics of the season for this purpose is "cotton homespun," which comes in plain colors and in good looking stripes, and is smartest when severely mannish, or decorated with hand drawn work.

Some embroidery in colors is used as well. New models in this material have been brought out. One has a characteristic roll sport collar and pockets in the turned up bottom.

A collarless model, with hand drawn revers at the front, is effectively worn with a coat having a black collar.

There are mannish waistcoats in this same material, collarless and pocketed, in narrowly striped homespun.

There are many Puritan collared gilets in the spring collection, and the materials and colors in which they, as well as other models, are being shown are innumerable.

Movie Musician.

A motion picture actor, one of the best horseback riders in the movies, holding championship belts won at several rodeos, recently, to demonstrate his equestrian skill, essayed to catch a string of trout on horseback.

He got his bite all right and hooked his fish, but at this precise moment the old cowboy instinct got the best of him, and as the line straightened out, he forgot it wasn't his trusty riata, and through force of habit twisted it round theommel of his saddle and galloped madly out of the stream, dangling the fish behind him.

"Whatcha tryin' to do," demanded a friend as the crowd caught up to him. "Well," said the actor, "I guess you might say I was runnin' over the scales."

For Your Goldfish Bowl.

Here is a helpful hint for better success in keeping your piscatorial pets: On the outside of your goldfish bowl, or globe, paint the bottom and about two inches above the bottom with dark green paint.

This adds greatly to the comfort of your water pets. They will not swim so wildly, but seek the bottom and rest. Pretty castles can be built of rough pebbles and cement by choosing a cement that will not be affected by water, and also tunnels, projections and nooks, which will be appreciated by the fish.

Besides, the rest and comfort this paint gives to the fish adds to their longevity and growth.

H. C. Young, S. Water St., Bellefonte, says: "Some time ago I was in a bad condition with kidney trouble. My back ached and gave out so I couldn't do a day's work. I was a constant sufferer. When I stooped I had dizzy spells and a swimming sensation in my head. My kidneys acted irregularly. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and used them, getting my supply at the Parrish Pharmacy. They fixed me up in good shape. The aches and pains left. The dizziness didn't trouble me and my kidneys were regulated."

The BLIND MAN'S EYES

WILLIAM MACHARG EDWIN BALMER

ONE of the strangest and most interesting mysteries ever encountered in fiction—or in real life. The story has an ingenious and thrilling plot, full of extraordinary people in extraordinary situations.

The dominating personality throughout the remarkable story is the blind lawyer, Basil Saintoine, who sees the world through the eyes of his daughter and Avery, his secretary. With their help he has developed a most uncanny knowledge of those with whom he comes in contact and their motives.

An amazing tale which you can read as a serial in

The "Democratic Watchman," beginning next week.
