

Democratic Watchman

Bellefonte, Pa., January 12, 1923.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

—Dr. Melvin J. Locke was last week appointed county physician for 1923.

—Twin girls were born to Mr. and Mrs. George Teaman, at the Bellefonte hospital, on Tuesday morning.

—Coach Hugo Bezdek on Wednesday announced the appointment of Glenn Killinger, the 1921 football star, as assistant coach in athletics at State College.

—Home-made doughnuts will be offered for sale by the Y. W. C. A. girls at the City Cash grocery, on Allegheny street, on Thursday, January 18th, at twelve o'clock noon.

—The Ladies Aid society of the United Evangelical church will hold a chicken and waffle supper at the church on Thursday evening, January 25th. The public is invited.

—Up to this writing there does not seem to be any great agitation among Bellefonte Republicans over attending the inauguration of Governor Gifford Pinchot, at Harrisburg, next Tuesday.

—St. John's Lutheran Brotherhood will entertain the Presbyterian Brotherhood Friday evening, January 19th, beginning with supper at 6:45. Dr. A. B. VanOrmer, of Huntingdon, will be the speaker.

—Mr. and Mrs. Strunk, who have been occupying a part of the Bush home, on Spring street, since fall, have bought the Florey property adjoining the Methodist church in Pleasant Gap, and will take possession of their new home the first of April.

—Sunday's papers carried items about various signs for a mild winter and Monday morning the ground was covered with six inches of snow. Of course the temperature has not been below normal but with snow falling most every day there is no argument as to the weather being of the genuine winter type.

—Miss Bertha M. Wagner, teacher of home economics in the Bellefonte High school, is suffering with a broken bone in her left wrist, the result of a fall on the icy pavement in front of Schaeffer's hardware store, last Saturday afternoon. She had gone into the store to purchase a pie at the food sale being held there and fell just as she was leaving the store.

—Carpenters began work on Monday morning remodeling the Harter building on High street, lately vacated by the First National bank, to put it in shape for general offices for the Keystone Power company. An entire glass front will be put in and a new porch erected which will change the appearance of the building very much. The company has taken a four year lease on the rooms.

—The members of the Bellefonte lodge Knights of the Golden Eagle have moved their equipment from their hall in the Eagle block to the I. O. O. F. hall, where they will hold regular meetings until they can secure a suitable hall of their own. The move was made necessary because of the fact that the owner of the Eagle block expects to make the upper stories into apartments.

—The attention of prospective automobile buyers is called to the advertisement of the Ford Motor company on the sixth page of today's paper. Henry Ford has always had faith in the car he manufactures and he also has faith in the liberal use of printer's ink to tell the people about it. Read the advertisement then consult the Beatty Motor company, of Bellefonte, local distributor.

—At the annual congregational meeting of the Presbyterian church, on Tuesday evening, Horatio S. Moore and Charles Hughes were elected members of the board of trustees to take the place of John S. Walker and John McCoy, whose terms expired, and W. B. Rankin was chosen to fill out the unexpired term of James W. Herron, resigned, owing to his anticipated departure from Bellefonte for Huntingdon.

—This must be a bad season for traveling theatrical companies, as up to this time only three shows have been given in the opera house, by far the smallest number in any season in the history of the town. The result is that the only amusement and entertainment open to the people of Bellefonte are the motion picture shows. The scenic is, of course, open every evening, and continues to show the usual class of pictures.

—The public is cordially invited to attend the sacred recital at the Presbyterian church, next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The recital will be given by Mrs. Morris Krader, her pupils, and joint choir, and promises to be a very delightful and inspiring affair. A silver offering will be taken for the benefit of the Near East relief. Mrs. Charles Heilhecker and Miss Rachael Shuey will be the accompanists for the occasion.

—Most every street in Bellefonte now offers fine coasting for the kiddies and young people and while the authorities cannot forbid their coasting on any street, they are running great risks in pursuing their sport on the streets where traffic is heavy. Burgess Walker, however, authorizes the statement that Howard street has been set aside as the best place for coasting and police protection will be given on that street between the hours of four and ten o'clock p. m.

DEMOCRATIC BANQUET BIG SUCCESS.

Large Crowd Attend Jackson Day Gathering at Bush House Monday Evening.

One hundred and fifty representative Democrats, men and women, from various portions of the county attended the second annual Jackson day banquet held at the Bush house, Bellefonte, on Monday evening. The spacious dining room was appropriately and patriotically decorated and every available place was taken. The Odd Fellows orchestra discoursed delightful music while the many guests discussed the bountiful menu of appetizing dishes presented by Mine Host Lewis Daggett.

When the inner man and woman had been thoroughly satisfied Col. J. L. Spangler, who presided as toastmaster, made a happy little speech in which he stated that while the object of the gathering was primarily to celebrate the anniversary of the birth of that staunch old Democrat, Andrew Jackson, in reality it meant the strengthening and solidifying of the present day ranks of the party. In concluding he introduced as the first speaker of the evening Charles J. Reilly Esq., of Williamsport. That gentleman spoke briefly of the many perplexing situations facing the party and the country today and closed by lauding ex-President Wilson, the man who steered the ship of State through the most troublous sea in all its history to the end that his health broke under the terrible strain, but due to the prolonged rest he has taken he is now able to walk and by 1924 will most surely be in shape to run again.

The next speaker introduced was Hon. Roland S. Morris, of Philadelphia, former Ambassador to Japan. Mr. Morris stated that he always had an intensely interesting feeling for Bellefonte because of the fact that his grandmother, Mary Burnside Morris, was born here, being a daughter of the elder Judge Burnside, one of the prominent figures in the early history of the town, and in her extensive travels in various countries she never lost an opportunity to advertise Bellefonte. Mr. Morris spoke of the significance of celebrating Jackson day, a custom established many years ago, then discussed the various questions of foreign relations which today are agitating the greatest leaders in this country and throughout Europe. He emphasized the fact that it is just as essential for the United States to be on friendly relations with every country in Europe as it is for those countries to be at peace, if commerce is to be stabilized and prosperity again become general. But the chaotic condition now prevailing is anything but encouraging and the speaker expressed the fear that another war might be the outcome. Mr. Morris also paid a glowing tribute to ex-President Wilson, whom he characterized as a master statesman and at one time leader of the world.

The last speaker of the evening was Hon. William I. Betts, of Clearfield, the new State Senator for this district. Mr. Betts displayed far more optimism than the two speakers who preceded him. He emphasized the fact that while the world-wide political horizon did not present a very hopeful situation at the present time he had hopes to believe that somehow in God's own good time the skies will be cleared and the sunshine of happiness and prosperity will again blazon forth to the relief and enjoyment of all the peoples of the earth.

Eastern Penitentiary Officials Want New Institution.

An effort will be made at the forthcoming session of the Legislature to pass a bill providing for the purchase of farm land and the erection of a new eastern penitentiary near Philadelphia along the lines of the new western penitentiary at Rockview, this county. The board of inspectors of the eastern penitentiary have completed a report to this effect including recommendations for the enactment of such a law, which will be presented to the Governor and the Legislature in due time. In discussing the action of the board E. J. Lafferty, the chairman said:

"This action has been found necessary by all the inspectors, who have joined in recommending to the Governor and the Legislature the necessary legislation for the establishment of a new eastern State penitentiary. "The act of 1911 and the act of 1915 provided that, upon the completion of the new penitentiary in Centre county, all inmates of the western penitentiary at Pittsburgh and the eastern penitentiary at Philadelphia, should be transferred to the new institution. It is manifest to all interested in penal institutions that the necessity exists for the Centre county penitentiary, but as well the maintenance of one in the eastern and one in the western portion of the State.

"To construct the necessary buildings in Centre county to provide for all inmates now in the eastern and western penitentiaries would mean accommodation, looking to the future, for at least 6000 persons. The completion of the new penitentiary at Centre county for such purpose is a matter very far in the distance, and those interested in the penal institutions consider that a penitentiary should be maintained in the western portion of the State and one in the eastern portion, and the Centre county penitentiary limited to accommodating about 1500 persons.

—The business lethargy that always follows in the wake of the holiday season is about over and trade will soon be back to normalcy.

—The Nyphen Club basket ball team, of Lock Haven, will be the Bellefonte Academy's opponents on the armory floor tomorrow (Saturday) evening, at 8:30 o'clock. An exciting contest is assured all who attend.

—Postmaster John L. Knisely reports that during the month of December there were sold ten $1000.00; seventy $100.00 and fifteen $25.00 treasury certificates, having a maturity value of $17,375.00; also that exchanges were made of the 1918 series of war savings stamps for twelve $1000.00, one hundred and fifty-nine $100.00 and one hundred and seven $25.00 treasury savings certificates, having a maturity value of $30,575.00, or a total of sales and exchanges during the past month of $47,950.00.

—Last Wednesday morning Joseph DeVoor, a McKean county inmate at the Rockview penitentiary, where he was employed as a teamster, drove his team out onto the state highway, left it stand and made his escape. On Thursday afternoon he was caught over at McAlevy's Fort by J. E. Irvin, being brought to the Centre county jail the same evening. DeVoor had but two months to serve of a sentence of from two to four years for felonious entry and larceny and now he will have to stay for another term of equal length.

—Thomas C. Harbeson has been appointed district forester of the Penn State forest, with headquarters at Milroy, according to an announcement by the Pennsylvania Department of Forestry. He succeeds W. J. Bartschat, who has been transferred to Greenwood Furnace, where he will supervise the department's forest tree nursery. District forester Harbeson, who is a graduate of the Mont Alto State forest academy, has recently been an assistant in the office of research, with headquarters at Harrisburg.

—At the January meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Bellefonte hospital, held Wednesday afternoon, in Petrikin hall, the following officers were elected: Mrs. Blanche Faible Schloss, president; Mrs. Joseph Massey, first vice president; Mrs. W. J. Emerick, second vice president; Mrs. Odillie Mott, secretary; Mrs. Frank Crawford, assistant secretary, and Mrs. William Katz, treasurer. The outgoing president, Mrs. Brouse, has served the hospital and auxiliary so faithfully for the past ten years that her resignation is a distinct loss to both. So dependable and tireless in all her work, Mrs. Brouse is a difficult person to follow in any office.

—In January, 1922, Judge Singleton Bell, of Clearfield, sitting in criminal court in Philadelphia, sentenced Lucius Ross, a negro, to death by electrocution after he had pleaded guilty to killing his wife. Ross was not given even the formality of a jury trial and his attorneys managed to secure several respite, the last one after Ross had been brought to the death house at Rockview. Finally the department of pardons, at its December meeting, commuted Ross' sentence to imprisonment for life and on Saturday the sheriff of Philadelphia county, accompanied by a deputy, came to Rockview and took Ross back to that city for incarceration in the eastern penitentiary.

—Miss Cornelia Walter Happersett, who the past eighteen years has been the efficient superintendent at the Lock Haven hospital, dropped dead of heart failure at 1:20 o'clock last Saturday afternoon just as she was leaving the hospital to go to the nurses' home. She was the daughter of an army surgeon and was born at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., and was a graduate of the Presbyterian hospital, Philadelphia. Her only survivor is one sister, living at Mount Holly, California. Miss Eckert, superintendent of the Bellefonte hospital, trained under Miss Happersett and they have been intimate friends for a number of years. Funeral services will be held at the nurses' home in Lock Haven at 7:30 o'clock this (Friday) evening, after which the remains will be taken to Washington, D. C., where burial will be made in the Arlington cemetery at eleven o'clock on Saturday morning.

—Rev. Wilson P. Ard, the beloved pastor of St. John's Lutheran church in Bellefonte, is, literally speaking, "between the devil and the deep sea." He has received a very flattering call to become pastor of the First Lutheran church in Norfolk, Va., a city of 150,000 inhabitants and which in the past few years has shown remarkable progress not only in many lines of business and industrial activity but in educational and church work. The acceptance of the call would mean a handsome increase in salary but we sincerely believe that the money will figure only as a secondary consideration in influencing Rev. Ard's decision. Born and raised in Centre county, he was educated for the ministry at Susquehanna University and came to Bellefonte immediately following his ordination. The success which has attended his work here has been remarkable and he has endeared himself not only to every member of his congregation but to the public in general in Bellefonte. While Rev. Ard has not yet announced his decision in the matter we feel confident that if he should decide to go it will be because he conscientiously believes that Norfolk will present a greater field for his usefulness than his present pastorate in Bellefonte.

COAST WEATHER IN ALASKA.

Dr. Eloise Meek Writes of the Cost of Living in Alaska.

Anchorage, Alaska, December 17th, 1922.

Just one week until Christmas and the second I have spent in Alaska! The temperature is so mild today that, although there is about two inches of snow on the ground, three of us women took a long walk and I scarcely wanted my hands inside my pockets. The inlet is full of ice chunks but each tide washes them onto the beach and, again, they float off leaving this harbor fairly clear; telling you this that you may know this part of the Alaskan coast is always open and only the narrow opening below here makes this harbor unusued during the winter months.

One is always wanting the unusual and consequently I will be tired of Anchorage soon. It is said to be merely a suburb of Seattle with which I quite agree, although the merchants charge enough for their wares to remind us that some few miles of freight must be paid for in addition to the actual cost of the article. You spoke of being cold—that can never be said of an Alaskan house for ever since I came here the houses and cabins I have been in have been warm as the best steam-heated building in Pennsylvania. In other localities they burned wood but here many of the house-owners are burning coal—a soft kind that leaves a lot of ash. Of course, the most prominent article of furniture is the stove and somehow I am constantly reminded of "The Nuremberg Stove." No, these are not at all ornamental; far from it but, for efficiency, I can well recommend them. It is mighty good to go into a warm room from an outside of 2 degrees to 6 degrees below zero. There is no real fluctuation like you have for, since getting below freezing, the temperature has remained down, varying only about ten to fifteen degrees.

Thus one always knows how many coats to put on and never to forget galoshes. You even forget to dislike getting up in the cold for one does it daily and habits soon form. The stove is always in one's bedroom or where one sleeps; the kindling is laid beside the stove and it is the work of only a few minutes to start the fire. The rooms are small, with low ceilings, and are soon heated. I seldom get up before nine o'clock, or just as the sun is coming above the mountains to the southeast and, since it is then not dark, it doesn't seem so uncomfortable as when it is dark and cold. When I last wrote you, the frost on the bushes and wires was very beautiful but three days ago a chinook wind came and, in a few hours, all the frost had dropped off the bushes, making big, black patches where it fell and now it is once more just a dirty, snowy town.

Some one, in a letter, asked the cost of living in Alaska and, perhaps, it may also interest you to hear. To travel with a mail-carrier by dog-team will vary from ten to twenty dollars a day while a private team, hired for a trip, will vary from twelve to eighteen dollars, according to the number of dogs—fifty cents a day for a dog and ten dollars per day for the driver. Road-houses charge one dollar and twenty-five cents per night and one-twenty-five per meal or about five dollars a day. I have paid but four dollars a day at one or two places. The average run for a dog-team in early winter, when the trails are soft and the dogs not well conditioned, is twenty-eight to thirty miles, but, in the spring, when the days are long, trails smooth and hard, and dogs in good condition, forty to eighty miles a day is regular going. About a year ago, Mr. Moje and I, with seven dogs, made but two miles one day and were glad to stop at the end of those. Steam boat travel is not expensive, since one has meals and all other necessary accommodations on board. The portage I had early last spring is usually done with the mail carrier, Mr. Oscar Samuelson, who provides all meals and a tent. You carry only your own bedding and such toilet things as you deem necessary; and he charged the lump sum of twenty-five dollars per passenger with fifty dollars for moving a trunk. I think that was about the cheapest rate for the work done I have ever had any place.

Food stuffs are very high—twenty-five cents for a small loaf of bread; one-fifty per dozen for fresh eggs, seventy-five cents for cold storage ones; sixty-five cents per pound for butter shipped in brine from Seattle; oranges and bananas, one dollar per dozen. Meat does not seem to be as expensive in proportion. All magazines have ten cents added to their regular price and, although I have bought no dress materials, am told they are exceedingly high. Perhaps you will say that the fruit is just as expensive in Pennsylvania but the oranges offered here at one dollar per dozen are small, about one-half the size we usually see in the eastern markets and, when I remarked about the little, unattractive things, was told that, even in California, one seldom sees big, luscious-looking oranges at a reasonable price.

The box, with nuts and cake, sent in November carried without a jolt and the newspapers have all reached me at last. Don't think of sending anything in the line of food as there is everything here that one could ask for.

Wishing you all a very Happy New Year.

ELOISE MEEK.

NEWS PURELY PERSONAL.

—W. Harrison Walker Esq. left for Philadelphia last evening where he spent the night looking after some legal business.

—Mrs. J. M. Decker joined Mr. Decker in Lancaster the fore part of last week, expecting to live there at the Wheatland hotel for several months.

—Among the Bellefontes who were in Philadelphia for the big Mummer's parade last Saturday night were Miss Elizabeth Saylor and Harry Dunlap.

—Harry Dunlap returned the early part of the week from a trip to the eastern part of the State, where he spent his short vacation with overseas friends.

—John S. Rowe, of Centre Hall, was a "Watchman" office visitor on Tuesday, having come over to make his report as assessor of that town to the county commissioners.

—David A. Barlett, chief clerk at the Bellefonte freight station of the Pennsylvania railroad, went to Trenton, N. J., on Tuesday on a business trip, expecting to return today.

—Roy H. Grove, of the Bell Telephone company, of Bellefonte, is in Pittsburgh, where he will spend a part of the month of January, in one of the company's efficiency schools.

—Miss Josephine White went to Philadelphia yesterday, expecting to spend her winter vacation with her sister, Mrs. Hoopes, at West Chester, and with friends in Philadelphia.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Meek, of New York city, will sail on the "Samaria," January 24th, for a trip around the world, with plans for returning to their home on Riverside Drive in June.

—Mr. and Mrs. Orin Ishler, of Wilkesburg, were among the holiday guests to Bellefonte, having been here for a mid-winter visit with Mr. Ishler's sister, Mrs. Paul D. Forney and her family.

—Mrs. George Heckenberry, a former resident of Bellefonte, but now of State College, made one of her occasional visits to Bellefonte Saturday, spending the time while here with friends and in the shops.

—Mrs. Edward P. Irwin was taken to the Bellefonte hospital Monday morning, in what was thought to be a serious condition, but has improved so rapidly during the week that now a speedy recovery is looked for.

—Mrs. David K. Hughes and her small son returned to their home at Ligonier, a week ago, following a short visit here with Mrs. Hughes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Klingner. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes had been Christmas guests at Mr. Hughes' former home, at Wyoming, Pa.

—Mrs. E. B. Calloway will go to New York next week on business with Mr. Clark, pertaining to the Mediterranean cruise, which will leave New York early in February. During Mrs. Calloway's absence, her cousin, Mrs. Sides, of Jersey Shore, will visit in Bellefonte with Mrs. Bush.

—Miss Daise Kechline has been a guest during the week of her brother, Dr. John Kechline and his family, at Huntingdon. Miss Kechline went over Sunday, to be present at the Monday evening meeting of the Chautauqua club, before which Dr. Kechline gave his address on "Mahomet."

—Samuel M. Hess, one of the prominent young farmers of College township, was among the business visitors to Bellefonte Saturday, driving down to spend several hours in doing some buying and in looking after some little business matters, that would square him up to start clean the year 1923.

—Mrs. George T. Brew, who came to Bellefonte from Indiana, Saturday, with the body of her brother, the late Maurice A. Jackson, was accompanied by Miss Stewart, dean of women, of the Indiana Normal, of which Mrs. Brew is librarian. During their short stay here, both women were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Fenlon.

—Among the "Watchman" office callers on Monday was Mr. Jacob Meyer, of Boalsburg, who motored to Bellefonte for the big Democratic banquet held at the Bush house that evening. Mr. Meyer is one of the old reliables of Harris township and can always be counted among the dependable when there is anything big doing in the ranks of the unaffiliated.

—On Thursday of last week A. R. McNitt, of Bellefonte, accompanied E. M. Huyett, of Centre Hall, to Battle Creek, Mich., where the latter entered a sanatorium for treatment. Mr. Huyett has not been in good health for some time and he deemed it advisable to go to a sanatorium where he could get the proper care. Mr. McNitt returned home on Sunday evening.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. G. MacMillan, of Detroit, made their winter visit east during December, to be here with their small daughter and Mrs. MacMillan's mother, Mrs. Odillie Mott, for their Christmas celebration. Owing to her health the child had been with her grandmother since August, but went back to Michigan with her parents upon their return home during the holiday week.

—Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Rhinesmith, of Clearfield, have been in Centre county during the past week, visiting with relatives in Bellefonte and Spring township. A part of Mr. Rhinesmith's time has been spent in looking after some business matters pertaining to their farm just outside of town. While in Bellefonte they have been house guests of Mrs. Rhinesmith's sister, Mrs. M. A. Kirk.

—Miss Sarah Jane Steel, of "Hannastown Farm," near Greensburg, visited in Bellefonte and State College last week, having come in to confer with Mrs. Sparks with regard to some state work for the D. A. R. Miss Steel is the State corresponding secretary, and attended the meeting of the Bellefonte Chapter held at Mrs. Olewines, Thursday evening. It being her first visit here Miss Steel displayed the same great enthusiasm over our country, as is characteristic of all strangers upon coming to Centre county.

—The Firemen's Relief association held their annual banquet on Tuesday evening at the Undine building. Over two hundred firemen and their friends were present and toasts were responded to by Father Downes, John G. Love Esq., Roy Wilkinson, B. D. Tate and John J. Bower. Officers elected for the ensuing year included B. D. Tate, president; William Doll, vice president; H. J. Jackson, secretary, and Joseph Beezer, treasurer.

Sparks—Sparks.—The "Watchman"

last week inadvertently omitted the marriage of Miss Ethel Cotton Sparks, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Erle Sparks, of State College, to Carvel E. Sparks, of Pedricktown, N. J., the wedding having taken place in the Presbyterian church at the College at 6:30 o'clock on the evening of New Year's day. The marriage ceremony was performed by Dr. John M. Thomas, president of State College, assisted by Rev. Samuel Martin, pastor of the church.

Miss Sparks was given in marriage by her father and was attended by her mother as matron of honor and four bridesmaids, namely: Miss Mildred Sparks, of Pedricktown, N. J.; Miss Katherine Packer, of Germantown; Miss Margaret Kessler, of Galesburg, Ill., and Miss Mary Elizabeth Schwartz, of Portsmouth, Ohio. Sherman E. Langdon, of Washington, D. C., officiated as best man while the ushers were Guy W. Grove, of York; Seth W. Long, of Rochester N. Y.; Gordon Amend, of Pittsburgh; George Homer, of New York; William P. Schwartz, of Portsmouth, Ohio, and Raymond Tull, of Philadelphia.

Following the ceremony a bridal dinner was served at the University club. The young couple expect to leave in the near future on a motor wedding trip to Florida where they will be joined by Dr. and Mrs. Sparks, expecting to remain there until April when they will come north and make their home at Pedricktown, N. J., where the bridegroom is extensively engaged in fruit culture.

Taylor—Decker.—Rev. William Morgan Taylor, pastor of the Beaver Memorial church, at Lewisburg, and Miss Bernice Virginia Decker, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Decker, of Montgomery, Pa., were married at the home of the bride's parents on December 30th. Among the guests at the wedding were Mrs. Wilson P. Ard, of Bellefonte; Mr. and Mrs. Claude G. Aikens, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Leitzell and Miss Bernice Swartz, all of State College.

Y. M. C. A. Entertainment.

The second number of the entertainment course will be given at the "Little Theatre," at the Y., this (Friday) evening, at 8:15. The artists come highly recommended and a musical treat is in store for the patrons. Karl Stadel is a wonderful cello soloist and with Harry Kaseman, violinist, will render the first part of the program. The comedy "The House Across the Way," will be played by Linn C. Townsend and Miss Stopper of the Keystone Players, who appeared in the first number.

Course tickets for the balance of the course can be purchased at the reduced price of $1.25 for the four remaining numbers.

—A number of friends of Mrs. D. G. Bush were her guests Friday afternoon, at an informal tea given by her daughter and grand-daughter, Mrs. Callaway and Mrs. Thompson, at Mrs. Bush's apartments in the Arcade, in celebration of her eighty-sixth birthday. The sixty or more guests included men and women, old and young, who went to offer personally their congratulations to Mrs. Bush, who is one of Bellefonte's few remaining women left to represent a generation of unusual women.

—The fact that the Pennsylvania Match company is arranging to ship away six tons of old machinery has given cause for the rumor that the company has sold out. Such is absolutely not the case, however, as the company is simply getting rid of machinery that is now of no use to them in order to make more storage room for its finished product.

—A "Hit-and-Miss" party will be held in the community room at the Y. on Saturday afternoon, January 13th, at 2 o'clock. All members of the Auxiliary are invited. In the evening the annual meeting of the organization will be held, the election of officers will take place and plans for the new year of work discussed. Meeting will open at 7:30.

Harold Bauer Coming to Williamsport.

Harold Bauer, one of the world's three or four greatest pianists, will give a recital in the Majestic Theatre, Williamsport, Monday evening, January 22nd, at 8:15 o'clock. Tickets, including tax: First floor, 8 rows, $2.20; 6 rows $1.65; last 4 rows, $1.10. Balcony: Three rows $1.65; 7 rows $1.10; remainder unreserved, 80c.
