

PINE GROVE MENTION.

Four degrees below zero in this section on Monday morning.

John W. Miller is suffering with two badly infected fingers on his right hand.

Will Kuhn is now snugly set up in housekeeping on the Samuel Everhart farm on the Branch.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Irvin spent the first day of the week at the John Bell home at Tyrone.

Samuel Markle, of State College, spent the Sabbath with his son, W. S. Markle, in the Glades.

A. C. Kepler and Fay Randolph motored to Reedsville on Tuesday to look up some more blooded hogs.

The Witmer brothers are getting out lumber for the erection of a new garage on their farm on the hill.

The Louck brothers have dissolved partnership and George W. Louck will conduct the garage here in the future.

Harry Thompson, of Charter Oak, is helping Raymond Rudy get out lumber for his new home at State College.

Miss Nannie Bailey returned home on Friday from a two week's visit among friends in the western part of the State.

The many friends of Levi Bathurst will be glad to learn that he was discharged from the Altoona hospital on Tuesday.

Mrs. Margaret Robinson, of Tyrone, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Johnson, on east Main street.

J. A. Fortney went to Bellwood on Monday morning where he went to work as a carpenter for the Pennsylvania railroad.

Brooks Cori, teacher of the Clark school on Buffalo Run, is laid up with bronchial trouble, but hopes to be at his desk next week.

Mrs. Maude Fry and son Hugh, of Rock Springs, spent the latter end of the week with her mother, Mrs. Etta Cori, at White Hall.

Hon. J. W. Kepler, of Johnstown, spent several days among old friends here last week, while looking after his property interests.

Chester A. Johnson and wife enjoyed the sleighing on Sunday and came up from Glendonburg, spending the day at Mr. Johnson's parental home.

After a month's visit with his sister, Mrs. Alice Buchwalter, of Lancaster, Mr. Henry McWilliams returned home on Tuesday. Mr. Buchwalter is much improved in health.

Ex-sheriff W. Miles Walker, of Bellefonte, was here on a business trip last week. His farmer, Price Johnstonbaugh, will fit to the Humes farm, near Bellefonte, in the spring.

J. R. Smith celebrated his birthday anniversary on groundhog day at his cozy home on Main street. He received a number of very acceptable gifts and many good wishes from his host of friends.

The boys' Sunday school class at Gatesburg held a chicken and waffle supper at the home of Mrs. Laura Gates, last Thursday evening, at which they netted $45.00 to be applied to foreign missions.

A sled load of young people from the Branch had an enjoyable time at the D. W. Thomas home on Thursday evening. The party took with them their own refreshments, which were not only abundant but delicious.

Confined to their homes with illness, were Miss Emma Johnson, D. H. Krebs, William Houtz, Samuel Rudy, Andrew J. Lytle and Sydney Neidigh. Joe Johnson, J. W. Sunday and Mrs. Lizzie McWilliams are also on the sick list.

The Ferguson township Citizens band will hold a festival in the I. O. O. F. hall on Friday evening, February 16th. Oysters will be served. The following evening a chicken and waffle supper will be served from 6 to 9 o'clock p. m. Everybody is invited to attend.

Getting up an hour earlier than usual, one morning recently, Harry Musser found that fire from an open hearth had communicated to the flooring and had already made some headway. By quick work he managed to extinguish the flames but had he slept a little longer his home would likely have gone up in smoke.

An old-time quilting party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Sunday, on Fairbrook, one day last week, among those present being Mrs. Lydia Sunday, Mrs. Martin Harpster, Mrs. Maggie Sunday, Mrs. James Harpster, Mrs. Paul Sunday and daughter Pauline, Mrs. Marshall Harpster and Mrs. Sarah Everts. Mrs. Maggie Sunday won the prize for the best quilt. A sumptuous dinner was served.

"Constructive Thought."

From E. W. Howe's Monthly.

I have never tried it, but assassination in connection with reform movements must be disapproved. However much a man wrongs me, I do not believe I should care to murder him, and carry off his property. Therefore there is a movement among the revolutionists for more agreeable methods. Instead of rioting, reform is to be brought about by law. It is proposed in England that 25 per cent. of all fortunes above a certain amount be confiscated for the benefit of the government; and the English government is greatly in need of assistance, because of bonuses to the unemployed, providing homes for the homeless, and subsidies for reducing the price of food. The old way was for a mob to appear in front of a rich man's house, set it on fire, and shoot him as he ran out. Then the rioters looted the place, and carried off such of the rich man's property as was not burned. The new way—known as Constructive Thought—is very much better. It is being used in the United States in robbing the railroads. The tracks are not blown up, bridges burned, etc., but legislation adopted to strip them. Labor bills are increased; thousands of petty officials are paid salaries to manage railroad affairs. Thus railroad income is widely distributed, and the railroads kept in operation. The same plan is also applied to general industry, by means of providing not only a living wage, but surplus for savings. Finally the well-to-do will be stripped without mussy bloodshed.

PLEASANT GAP.

Mr. Hugh Cromlish has been confined to his home with la-grippe.

Miss Pauline Noll has been afflicted with tonsillitis, but is improving.

Miss Betty Griffith has been housed in for almost a week with a stubborn case of flu.

Samuel Noll Jr. started to wear a smile last Friday, that being the day designated to lift the quarantine.

Paul Keller, of Philadelphia, visited his parents over Sunday, returning home on Monday morning. Paul's mother has been seriously ill but is now recuperating.

Mrs. C. E. Gheen entertained two tables of cards last Friday night. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Noll and Samuel Jr., Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Melroy, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bilger.

Wealth comes in proportion to our industry, prudence and economy. Let the poor emulate the rich in these qualities, with due indulgence, and they can stand before the kings—they shall not stand before mean men.

Mrs. Henry T. Noll entertained a party of ladies at her home on Tuesday evening. Five hundred was in play. A very enjoyable evening was spent and delicious refreshments were served.

The government guarantees its citizens life, liberty employment and pursuit of happiness and comes about as near it in one instance as another. Like individuals, the government occasionally bites off more than it can chew.

It is the very life of some people to talk, and when you encounter such, it is best to let them rattle away and permit them thus to entertain themselves; for if you undertake to talk yourself, you destroy their pleasure, and add none to your own.

Heaven regards not so much our successes or failures as she does the condition of our hearts; and as success has more of a tendency to generate pride than humility, you can take consolation, therefore, that failure fits you the better for heaven.

Mr. Leonard L. Brooks is seriously ill at the home of his father in this place. A heavy cold contracted while working in the mines at Snow Shoe almost resulted in pneumonia, but under the care of Dr. J. R. Bartlett he is now on the road to recovery.

A car load of our jolly town people attended the five hundred party at the I. O. O. F. hall in Bellefonte, given by the Eastern Star, for the benefit of the hospital. The following were present from here: Prof. Roscoe Treaster, Mrs. T. E. Jodon, Misses Anna Rimey and Helen Gettig, Earl Lego and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Noll. All report having had a most royal time.

Miss Mary Twintmie purchased a new granafola last week, and our friend Sam Noll has also ordered one; Twintmie, a Columbia; Griffith, Edison; Noll, a Columbia. The competition is great. The circus will open about the time the blue birds come again. When in full operation, dear city neighbors and we might add, "God save the Commonwealth."

On a Sabbath evening recently two young men from our neighboring town, Centre Hall, drove into our unusually peaceful village, intent on calling on two of our popular society girls. All went well until arriving at one of the homes the visitors were informed by a gang of roughts that their presence was not desired, and if they did not at once leave the town their horse would be turned loose and they compelled to walk home. The boys were willing to comply with the demand, but two friends arrived upon the scene, and prevented the would-be pugilistic boys from molesting the Centre Hall visitors. Boys, no matter what Centre Hall may have done to you in the past, be gentlemen and do not attempt to lower the people's opinion of you by making yourselves ridiculous in the eyes of the public who advocate fair play.

BAD BOY ON OCEAN'S CHART

Geographers Tired of Misbehavior of Falcon Island, Located in the South Pacific.

Falcon island, in the South Pacific, is the most restive and changeable piece of land in the world. It has a knack of disappearing below the waves and then suddenly bobbing up again.

It was first seen and charted by H. M. S. Falcon in 1865. But in 1877 another ship found that the island disappeared, though smoke was issuing from the sea. The charts were altered accordingly.

Then, in 1885, the island returned quite jauntily, and remained so long that the steamer Egeria, in October, 1889, chartered it again, showing it to be just over a mile long, a mile broad, and 153 feet above sea level at its highest point. Early in 1894, however, a survey ship found that the island consisted of only a low stretch of narrow rock, less than 1,000 feet in length.

By December of the same year the island had bobbed up again, and was over three miles long and nearly two broad. As if exhausted by such an effort to increase in area, it vanished once more in 1898.

No further signs of ambition were noted until 1900, when the island again began to grow. Since then it has undergone many changes. Today it is covered with palm trees and vegetation, but its reputation for misbehavior is such that no one will visit upon it.—London Tit-Bits.

HAS BEEN UNDER SIX FLAGS

Five Emblems Waved Over Texas Before the Permanency of the Stars and Stripes.

Six flags have been flown over Texas. The first was that of France, brought by the explorer LaSalle. He came down the Mississippi river to the Gulf of Mexico. On New Year's day, 1685, he sailed into Matagorda bay, and there established a short-lived colony. A quarter of a century later the Spaniards planted a mission at San Antonio. Twenty-five presidios or forts, with their accompanying missions, were founded on Texas soil during the hundred years of Spanish occupation, but they did not thrive.

Next, Mexican rule was substituted with little better results, and at the end of 15 years the Texans revolted, and established a republic with the lone star flag for their emblem. The flag gave Texas its popular name of the "Lone Star State." The republic lasted nearly ten years, and then, in 1845, it became one of the United States. Another change of flags occurred when, in the Civil war, Texas joined the Confederacy.

When a person pays marked attention to another he is said to be "dancing attendance." This phrase comes from the Middle Ages. It was a generally observed wedding custom that the bride must dance with all who asked her. In Christen's "State of Maryland," a book published in 1543, is found this record:

"Then must the poor bryde keep foote with all dancers, and refuse none, how scabbed, foule, drunken, rude and shameles soever he be."

That it was not long before the expression came to be used figuratively in the way it is used today is evidenced by Shakespeare's use of it in Henry VIII:

"I had thought they had parted so much honestly among them (at least good manners) as not thus to suffer a man of his place and so near our favor, to dance attendance on their lordship's pleasure."

Indian Mode of Travel.

Throughout early history the Indian is characterized by his mode of travel. Explorers who first pushed up the great rivers found the Indian navigating the water with his canoe. In the northern part the canoes were of birch bark, and of elm bark farther south. The typical boat as shown is the dugout wooden canoe, shaped from a single large log, an excellent example of which was found in the river and mud near Hackensack, N. J. Travel over land required the use of the burden basket. A specimen of this was collected from the remnant of the Mashpee Indians, still living in Massachusetts. The baskets were carried on the back by means of a pack strap across the forehead or chest.

Power of Expectancy.

It was said of a great man, years ago: "He was prudent, he was patient, and he persevered"; but even so he would have missed his way had he not had the vision before him of what he intended to be. "The power of any life lies in its expectancy," says Phillips Brooks. "What do you hope for? What do you expect? The answer to these questions is the measure of the degree in which any man is living." What we hope for is shaping us day by day, till our hope becomes part of ourselves.

George Frederick Handel.

On a visit to the Bodleian library in Oxford, England, the guardian pointed out various objects of interest one after the other, writes William C. Carl. Presently he said: "As you are an organist, look at this?" Lifting from the shelves a rare old book, he pointed to the following notice: "Last evening a concert was given in this hall by a man named Handel. We are sorry, however, to say that it didn't amount to much!"

Arctic Dog Travels 22,000 Miles.

The noted Arctic explorer, Alexander M. Smith, who is visiting in Seatle, is justly proud of his dog "Slim," and his pride is justifiable, for Slim helped pull his master over 22,000 miles of Arctic ice fields and frozen tundra in the past five years, according to the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. Slim, however, is good for considerable mileage yet, his master says. The dog is enjoying his first visit to civilization.

Slim is apparently lonesome for companionship with breed of his sort, says Smith. He seems to have a contempt for the city-bred dogs, less than half his size, that wouldn't know a cache from a caribou.

Slim has spent all of his six years of canine existence within the Arctic circle.—Our Dumb Animals.
