

Church Services Next Sunday.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.
"We aim to serve."
Every Wednesday at 7:30 mid-week service of bible study and prayer. Read and study the 7th chapter of Acts for February 28th.

Lord's day services—9:45 bible school with classes for all ages and a welcome in every class. Brotherhood bible class taught by Rev. D. R. Evans and Col. J. L. Spangler. Miss Gates' class will meet in the missionary exhibit room for the lesson Sunday.
10:45 morning worship; sermon theme, "America the Glorious." Also a message for the junior congregation. 7:30 evening worship; sermon theme, "A Test and a Decision." Seats are all free. All are welcome.

Every member canvass for pledges for the current expense and benevolent needs of the church Sunday afternoon, March 11th, from 2 o'clock until 6.

The boilers of the church are being repaired this week and all the services of the church should run under "full steam" Sunday. Come, and enjoy the services "in comfort."

The record of all contributions for current expenses and benevolences, together with the names of all contributors, will be published about the first of April. February and March are "pay-up-months." If in doubt about your account see or telephone Miss Olive Mitchell.

AUSTRALIAN HOME PICTURED

Really Fine Word Painting That Brings the Scene Perfectly Before the Reader's Eyes.

Through some paddocks and a belt of trees you come first to the wool shed, quiet now, for the time of shearing is past. You pass through a white gate and as you descend the steep drive you see the house at the bottom of the hill—a long low bungalow, gayly painted in two shades of apple green, with a dull red roof. By it runs a little creek, which widens into a dam at the foot of the garden. The hill above the house is golden with wattle, the scent, too heavy indoors but delicious in the open, fills the air. In the garden beside a tall clump of bamboo, a black wattle with feathery leaves and pale yellow blossoms hangs over the water. There are great bunches of freesias, antirrhinums tall as bushes, double pink peach blossoms and scarlet carnations.

A black swan swims up and down the water; he stretches out his long neck and utters his queer guttural cry. From the veranda you can see on the skyline a long low hill, bare of trees, out green in the distance.

There are no mists; all the outlines are sharply defined against the blue sky. The frogs keep up a continuous drowsy murmur not much louder than a cricket, but with an occasional deep note as though a harp string had been struck.

Later the moon will rise and the magpies delight your ear with their harmonious warble all the night long, and the trunks of the great gum trees stand out white in the moonlight, lending dignity to the scene. A calm is on the place, a deep quiet, broken only by the sounds of nature.—Christian Science Monitor.

SOME GOOD HEALTH ADVICE

Just as Valuable Today as When Put Forward by Wise Old Benjamin Franklin.

Eat and drink such an exact quantity as the constitution of thy body allows of, in reference to the services of thy mind.

They that study much ought not to eat as much as those that work hard, their digestion being not so good.

The exact quantity and quality being found out, is to be kept to constantly. Excess in all other things whatever, as well as in meat and drink, is also to be avoided.

Youth, age and sick require a different quantity.

And so do those of contrary complexions; for that which is too much for a phlegmatic man, is not sufficient for a choleric.

The measure of food ought to be (as much as possibly may be) exactly proportionable to the quality and condition of the stomach, because the stomach digests it.

That quantity that is sufficient, the stomach can perfectly concoct and digest, and it sufficeth the due nourishment of the body.

A greater quantity of some things may be eaten than others, some being of lighter digestion than others.

The difficulty lies in finding out an exact measure; but eat for necessity, not pleasure; for lust knows not where necessity ends.—Benjamin Franklin. In "Poor Richard's Almanack" (1742).

First Naval Disarmament.

The first naval disarmament on record was that of King Canute in 1018. He dispensed with the English fleet, sending it to Denmark. He did not do this, however, until England had been thoroughly pacified.

By nature Canute was cruel and violent, but he displayed talent as a ruler. He knew how to subordinate his passions to the interests of government. Although practically a heathen at the time of his accession to the English throne he succeeded in winning the favor of the church.

Having achieved naval disarmament Canute may have thought that the sea would become peaceful, too. But he did not succeed in his fabled attempt to make the tides obey him.

Romans in England.

All of the medieval styles of English architecture are found in the Canterbury cathedral. It is said to have its origin in an edifice which was built by Roman Christians. But its authentic history begins with the Norman conquest.

It has been built and rebuilt many times and has housed many relics. There was brought the body of the martyr, Blasius, from Rome; there were the relics of St. Wilfred, St. Dunstan and St. Elfege.

The northeast transept where Thomas a Becket was murdered is called the Martyrdom.

The city about the base of the great cathedral carries on a considerable trade in hops.—Exchange.

Slight Misunderstanding.

A new millionaire made a contract to have a fine home erected. The builder wanted to make a showing. On a corner of the lot he put up the usual frame structure from which operations are directed. Only he made it a neat two-story affair, reserving the lower floor for time sheets and office data, and the upper floor for blue prints. The outside was nicely painted and the millonatre, having appeared on the scene, the builder waited for congratulations. None being forthcoming, he asked: "Well, what do you think of it?"

"I'll accept it," said the millonatre, without enthusiasm, "but it isn't what I expected for $60,000."

LEMONT.

The roads are rough and hard to travel over with the car.

Most of our people are housed up with the grip at this writing.

The United Brethren protracted meeting closed Sunday evening.

John R. Williams has been quite ill the past week but is slowly improving.

Mr. William Rishel had the misfortune to fall and hurt herself so that she is unable to walk.

Harry Benner's youngest son, Harold, died very suddenly on Sunday evening from an attack of flu.

The week of cold, windy weather was the coldest that we have had this winter, and Spring creek is frozen from bank to bank.

The Evangelical minister preached his last sermon for the year, at this place, Sunday forenoon, and will go to conference the first of March.

Thomas Fishel moved from the C. D. Houtz home along Nittany mountain, and James Elliott and family moved in, where they will work for Prof. Dressler.

For Sale—A three piece bed-room suite of bird's eye maple; in very good condition. Inquire at this office.
