

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

The Parent-Teacher's association of College township held its regular monthly meeting in the Oak Hall school house last evening.

Shannon Boozer, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Boozer, of Centre Hall, fell on an icy pavement on Saturday evening and broke a bone in his ankle.

There are forty-six patients in the Bellefonte hospital which, we believe, is the highest number that the institution has ever reported at one time.

The Thimble Bee of the ladies of the Reformed church will be entertained this (Friday) afternoon, by Mrs. Nelson E. Robb, at her home on east Curtin street.

The Junior prom, the big mid-winter social attraction at State College, was attended by young ladies from all over the State. The music was furnished by a New York orchestra.

Those members of the Woman's club who are interested in the plays of George Bernard Shaw are invited to meet at the home of Mrs. Beach this (Friday) evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

Miss Helen A. Gephart, stenographer in the office of the Beatty Motor company, is recovering very nicely from an operation for appendicitis, performed at the Bellefonte hospital last Wednesday.

Much of the snow has already disappeared and the streams give no evidence whatever that any of the water is reaching them. There is so little frost in the ground that all it must be soaking in.

A union Missionary meeting is called for Sunday, March 4th, at 3 o'clock, in the lecture room of the Methodist church in this place. The purpose is to organize a union of all women interested in Missionary endeavor and if you are, you are urged to attend.

The Keystone Power company offices are now pleasantly located in their new quarters, the Harter building, just opposite the court house. Both officials and employees of the company are very proud of the new location and extend an invitation to all to call and inspect it.

Dr. Eva E. Roan, the optometrist, who has been meeting with such success in her practice here and at State College, has so far recovered from her recent attack of muscular rheumatism that she has been discharged from the Bellefonte hospital and is again fitting "specs."

Mrs. John Harnish fell on the slippery pavement in front of Willard's store on High street, Saturday evening, fracturing her left shoulder and left arm above the wrist. She was taken to the Bellefonte hospital where the fractures were reduced and she is now undergoing treatment.

Postmaster John L. Knisley yesterday authorized the statement that the time limit for putting up mail boxes or having a slot put in your door to facilitate the delivery of your mail has been extended to March 5th, which will be next Monday. Any person who has not met the requirements by that time may be obliged to go to the postoffice for their mail.

Another meeting of the Horse-shoe Trail association will be held at Bedford this (Friday) evening. Since the last meeting seven new members have been added to the board of directors, as follows: John F. Letton, of Williamsport; A. J. McIsaacs, of Lock Haven; Robert F. Hunter, of Bellefonte; James P. Aikens, of State College; John D. Meyer, of Tyrone; W. C. Westfall, of Altoona, and Fred S. Samuels, of Bedford.

A very effective and rather novel plan of church lighting is now being used at the evening service at the Lutheran church. Five large lights with reflectors are arranged on a frame outside the stained glass window on Allegheny street, and while the closing hymn of the vesper service is being sung the inside lights are turned off and the exterior lights shining through the art glass cast a fine, mellow light through the church room, and also show the beauty of the large memorial window. The small candle lights on the altar also make prominent that part of the interior. The effect is beautifully impressive.

Plans are being made for a dinner and get-together meeting for all men of the town, to be held in the Y. M. C. A., Tuesday evening, March 13th, at 7 o'clock, under the direction of the ministerium. There will be good eats, fine music, plenty of fun and fellowship, and then a stirring address by Dr. A. B. Van Ormer, of Huntingdon, on "A Challenge to Manly Men." Some weeks ago Dr. Van Ormer addressed the combined Presbyterian and Lutheran Brotherhoods at the Lutheran church, and he made such a great hit with the men who heard him that this meeting on March 13th is being arranged so that all men interested will have the opportunity of listening to this virile and soul-grasping message delivered by a man of great eloquence and striking personality. Dr. Van Ormer has been on the lecture and Chautauqua platform for years and is an orator of great ability. If you miss the meeting on March 13th you will miss something exceptionally fine.

THE WEEK IN QUARTER SESSIONS COURT.

Many Cases Continued and Few Tried of More Than Trivial Character.

The regular February term of quarter sessions court convened here Monday morning with Judge Henry C. Quigley presiding.

The usual preliminaries, such as reports from constables, presentation of petitions, etc., occupied attention until the grand jury, of which A. C. Mingle was made foreman, presented a bill for action. That was a case for damages for injuries sustained by Mrs. Mary Kupkoe, of Snow Shoe township, the injury having been inflicted by John Pinchok who ran her down on a public highway by careless driving of an automobile. It took up the time of court until Tuesday afternoon when the second case was called and it required a night session Tuesday before the witnesses in it had been examined.

The grand jury completed its work Tuesday afternoon and was discharged. In its report the grand inquest recommended repairs to the pavements about the court house and jail and suggested the cutting of another doorway in the south side of the sheriff's residence.

The cases disposed of up to the time of our going to press were as follows: Atlantic Fruit Co. vs. Frank Balistere, action on promise to pay. Continued.

J. Fred Herman vs. Theodore D. Boal, an appeal from decision of Justice of the Peace. Case discontinued because it should have been brought in court and not originally before a justice.

Demi and Goss, of Philipsburg vs. Frank Balistere and Jesse Balistere. Appeal from a decision of a Justice of the Peace. Continued.

J. Irvin Wagner, of Liberty township, vs. James Leathers, of Howard township. An action for cutting timber on lands of plaintiff. Continued on account of the death of a brother of the defendant.

Dr. L. E. Kidder, of State College, vs. George M. Raines; action on promise to pay. Continued.

Mary H. Miller, of Spring township, vs. J. C. Johnstonbaugh, appeal. Continued on account of illness of the defendant.

Wm. P. Bell Jr., vs. D. R. Wilson, trespass. Continued.

W. H. Sortman, Patton township, vs. Charles O. Walters, Marion township. Appeal from judgment of Justice of the Peace in a matter of trespass of cattle on land of plaintiff. Continued.

William Krouse vs. John Bigler, both of Rush township. Case arising out of a tax sale and judgment. Continued.

Joe Kupkoe and Mary Kupkoe, of Snow Shoe township, vs. George Pinchok, of same place. Pinchok's car driven by his son John struck Mrs. Kupkoe, on the road between Clarence and Snow Shoe. Case on trial Monday and Tuesday and verdict of $120.00 damages rendered for plaintiff on Tuesday afternoon. It was shown by the evidence that Pinchok was driving recklessly and caused Mrs. Kupkoe severe injury.

Commonwealth vs. William and Elizabeth Clark, charged with converting money and timber to their own use. The real prosecutor being John C. Coleman, a lumber operator of Williamsport. Case continued.

THE SANKEYS CONVICTED. One of the really interesting cases of the week was that of the Commonwealth vs. William, Guy and Sherrill Sankey, charged with assault and battery and wantonly pointing firearms.

The action grew out of a clash between members of an Osceola Mills hunting party and Ralph C. English, of Port Matilda, and Charles K. Nichols, of Tarentum. It appears that Nichols is one of a party of men who have leased the lands of the late Christ Sharer, in Taylor and Rush townships. They have been trying to propagate game there, having planted many ring-necked pheasants and some deer at their own expense. Ralph English, a son-in-law of Sharer, is the caretaker for them. During the hunting season last fall, on or about December 9th, the prosecutors met up with the Osceola party on the Tyrone pike near the top of the mountain. The Osceola party had shot a deer and were carrying it to their camp when they met English, Nichols and another man. An altercation started which resulted in a fist fight in which English and Nichols were beaten up. They accused William, Guy and Sherrill Sankey of having threatened at the muzzle of loaded guns after they had been beaten to the ground. There were about fifteen in the Osceola party and they all went on the stand and swore that it was the prosecutors who pointed the loaded guns not the Sankeys.

Sherrill Sankey, the youngest of the three was able to establish an alibi though corroborated denial that he was with the hunting party on the day of the fight. He swore that he had gone to Osceola the night before and did not return to camp next morning until after the others had started on the day's hunt.

On Wednesday morning the jury returned a verdict of guilty of assault and battery as to William and Guy Sankey. Not guilty of wantonly pointing loaded guns, and Sherrill Sankey not guilty of either.

The court was plainly displeased with the verdict. He called the defendants to the bar at once and cutting off their attorney, S. D. Gettig, Esq., in a plea for leniency, started right in to giving the convicted men and all the others of their party a scourging for ruffianism. He made it very clear to them that the Centre county court stands for four-square sportsmanship in the woods and those who can't hunt on that basis had better stay out of the county entirely. The most of the Osceola crowd were from Clearfield county. He then fined Guy and William Sankey each $500 and sentenced them to nine months in the county jail, practically expressing regret that they hadn't been convicted on the other charges so he could have given them more.

It wasn't five minutes afterwards until they were on their way to jail in the custody of the sheriff. The dispatch and severity of it had a telling effect on the faces of their hunting companions who were all seated in a group in the audience. Up to that moment they had been viewing the proceedings rather lightly, but their expressions as they saw their leaders disappearing through the rear door told all too plainly that a lesson had been learned in a very few moments.

AMATEUR DISTILLER CONVICTED.

The next case called was that of the Commonwealth vs. Andrew Letchius charged with illegally manufacturing and selling whiskey. This case was from Philipsburg and was part of Burgess Harry Todd's efforts to clean up that town. Letchius had been under suspicion for some time and finally officer Brink, of Philipsburg, marked two one dollar bills and sent a boy named Kothner to buy a quart of whiskey. On the first visit the boy said Letchius was out of the stuff but was told to come back again. The second time he got it, then Letchius was arrested and searched and the marked bills found on his person. The bills and the quart of hooch were offered in evidence but attorney Spangler, for the defendant, objected to the "hooch" for the reason that it had passed through so many hands, and not being sealed there was no evidence to show that it might not have been changed. This was because the district attorney wanted to demonstrate that it was real fire water by burning it in the presence of the jury. The court ruled that mere burning would not be proof that it was whiskey, but he helped the prosecutor out of the hole by stating that he intended to send the quart into the jury room with the jurors and they could there satisfy themselves as to whether it would burn. Then we noticed lots of fellows sitting in the audience sighing because they had not been drawn on that jury. Letchius was convicted and sentenced to 6 months in jail and to pay a fine of $500. His attorney immediately moved for a new trial and pending argument on the motion the court suspended sentence and Letchius gave bond for his appearance in court when wanted.

Commonwealth vs. R. E. Patterson and Sara Laird, alias Sara Flasher. This was a case arising out of the finding of two stills on the Fowler farm in the upper Bald Eagle. State policeman Joseph Rhine made the investigation but found no liquor. The court granted a nolle pro, as the federal authorities did not care to proceed further with it. The other case against above defendants was a charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods. A gasoline engine and some bedding constituted the property in question. H. E. Washburn was the real prosecutor. In this case a verdict was found for the defendants.

Commonwealth vs. Tom Zozada, charged with illegal manufacture of whiskey. His house is near Penn 4 mine, near Osceola Mills and officer B. F. Gill, of Philipsburg, made the seizure, having taken the still of boiling mash off the cook stove. A verdict of guilty was returned yesterday morning and defendant was fined $500 and sentenced to three months in jail.

Commonwealth vs. Ray Quick, charged with skipping a board bill in Philipsburg. Defendant plead guilty.

Floyd Smith Refused Commutation.

Unless Governor Pinchot again intervenes by granting a respite Floyd E. Smith, of Bradford county, will go to the death chair at the western penitentiary next Monday morning for the murder of the alleged illegitimate child of his wife, the board of pardons having again refused commutation of the death sentence. Smith's case has attracted State-wide attention, principally through the notoriety given it by a Philadelphia newspaper and the additional fact that George Wharton Pepper, now United States Senator, had been retained on the case.

The crime for which Smith was convicted was committed in April, 1920, and his trial did not take place until the 1921 February court in Bradford county, when he was convicted. He was later sentenced to electrocution and the week of October 3rd, 1921, set as the date. Smith was brought to the death house on October 1st, 1921, and since that time has been granted seven respites and his case has been before the board of pardons four times and once or twice before the Supreme court. As it looks now the last avenue of escape for Smith has been closed. He has occupied a cell in the death house a year and five months.

March came in lamb-like enough. Let us hope it don't go out lion-like enough.

enforcement Officers Confiscate Car in Which Booze was Found.

At the request of the Academy management state policeman H. A. Clark was sent here from Greensburg last Friday to see that order was maintained at the Academy annual football dance. It so happened that on the same day S. H. Rankin and N. M. Crease, members of G. H. Bollinger's enforcement squad at Punxsutawney, came to Bellefonte from Lock Haven on the hunt of evidence of bootlegging. Learning that the Academy dance was to be held that evening they requested permission to be present, which permission was accordingly granted.

They went to the armory and put up in the office and it was while there they noticed frequent excursions of dancers to one of the cars parked at the curb. This aroused their suspicions to the point where they made an investigation and found two bottles containing gin. One was about empty, the other partially filled. The officers then took Arnot Woodson, the colored chauffeur, into custody and found out that the car belonged to Gordon L. Montgomery. It was confiscated and Woodson taken to jail. Mr. Montgomery was on the dance floor at the time and when he learned of the seizure made protest at once. The officers were obdurate, however, and would not release the car. Montgomery then made information against them and sheriff Dukeman was routed out of bed to arrest the federal officers. He found one of them in bed at the Garman house, state policeman Clark at the Brockerhoff house but missed the second federal officer who was in bed at the Bush house because he had not registered and it could not be discovered what room he was in without rousing the whole hotel. The other two were taken before Justice Keichline, who had been gotten out of bed and after he heard the case, they were released on their own recognizance.

Woodson was released next morning pending a hearing before United States Commissioner J. P. O'Laughlin which was held in Clearfield Tuesday afternoon. Woodson was there for the hearing, so was Montgomery. They were represented by attorney John G. Love Jr. At the hearing it was discovered that the seizure had been made in a district over which Commissioner Crocker, of Williamsport, presides so Commissioner O'Laughlin merely accepted renewal of the bond of Woodson for $1000.00, and directed that he present himself to Commissioner Crocker, in Williamsport, today at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Montgomery then offered the required bond of one and one-half times the value of the seized car, and asked for its release. Commissioner O'Laughlin refused to release it, however, and it is still under federal seal in the garage of Routh and Swartzel in Clearfield. This refusal was because the commissioner did not care to pass on the question, preferring that it should be decided by the chief of that division whose office is in Punxsutawney.

Up to this moment no action has been brought against Mr. Montgomery personally. The federal officers were of the opinion that they would await the outcome of the hearing of Woodson's case today before proceeding further in the matter. It is not generally known, but it is the fact that officers Rankin and Crease did not come to Bellefonte to spy on the Academy dance. With a number of other plain clothes men they have been working in Clearfield, Clinton and Centre counties for several weeks gathering evidence for a later big clean-up in this section. Their visit to Bellefonte was purely accidental, so far as Friday night's affair was concerned and we have very good reason to believe they searched every other car in the vicinity of the armory without finding any evidence.

State policeman Clark was here on request of the head-master of the Academy. He came not to do anything more than suppress conduct that has been distasteful to many at a number of dances given here before and from all reports there may not have been any need of his services, for they do say that the conduct was splendid and the only regrettable incident was the unpleasant injection of the car seizure sensation into an otherwise delightful party.

Radio concerts, band concerts and quartette music will feature the big auto show to be held in the armory next week. Remember, the show will open at ten o'clock on Wednesday morning and will continue daily until 10:30 o'clock Saturday night. Whether you want to buy a car or not, you will be welcome at the show. Refreshments will be served at the office at the close of last year after eleven years' service and when we tell you that he has already settled all of his duplicates but that of school you will agree with us that he must have been a wonderfully capable official. In a township like Rush, where there is such a large foreign and floating population it is not play to gather the taxes. The case he came over on was postponed so that he tarried here only until an evening train.

William Wood, of Osceola Mills, was in town Monday, having come over for the trial of a case in court in which he became interested while tax collector of Rush township. The first robin of the season was seen in Bellefonte on Tuesday.

NEWS PURELY PERSONAL.

Horatio S. Moore spent the fore part of the week at St. Marys, looking after some business interests.

Miss Ruth Derner was called to her home in Doalsburg recently on account of the death of her grandfather, Mathias Derner.

Mrs. John N. Lane and her son Elliott will leave today for California, for a visit with Mrs. Lane's daughter, Mrs. Robert H. Fay, at Santa Monica.

William T. Hubler, assessor for Miles township, and one of the foremost business men of that section of the county, was in Bellefonte Tuesday, making his official returns.

The Rev. Dr. David R. Evans has been spending the week in Philipsburg where he is conducting a series of evangelistic services in the Presbyterian church of that place.

Mrs. Hiram Fetterhoff went to Howard Friday for a visit with relatives, but was obliged to return to Pleasant Gap Monday, on account of the illness of her sister, Mrs. Rachel Noll.

Philip D. Waddle, who has been head clerk at the Bush house since leaving Brownsville, has resigned his position and is at present visiting with relatives up Buffalo Run.

Rev. Louis V. Barber, of Mill Hall, was in Bellefonte Tuesday between trains on his way to Lemont for a short visit with some of his former parishioners, and to spend a short time with Mrs. Barber's mother and sister.

Mrs. Helen Thompson Sellers, of Williamsport, one of the State's industrial inspectors, came over to Bellefonte Sunday to attend the services for the late Mrs. J. Y. Dale, held at four o'clock at the home of Dr. David Dale.

Dr. J. K. Kilpatrick left Monday afternoon to spend the week in attendance at the Central Pennsylvania dental convention which is now in session at Johnstown. Mrs. Kilpatrick joined him there Tuesday. They will return today.

J. R. Storch went out to Pittsburgh on Sunday and early in the week drove to Bellefonte one of the newest models White trucks which will be a feature of the Emmer Motor Bus company exhibit at the big auto show next week.

Mrs. P. A. Sellers, of Buffalo Run, and her daughters, are making their annual winter visit in Johnstown, it having been their custom for several years to close their house on the farm and spend the winter months with Mrs. Sellers' sons, both of whom are employed in Johnstown.

Miss Pearl S. Evey has been entertaining Miss Ada Van Camp, of Pittsburgh, during the week, at the home of her parents on Bishop street. Miss Van Camp, whose brother is a student at the Bellefonte Academy, came in Thursday for the football game in the armory Friday night.

Miss Nellie Smith, instructor of nurses in the training school of the Columbia hospital, of Wilkesburg, spent several days in Bellefonte the after part of last week. Her visit home at this time was made on account of the illness of her brother Swengel, who is now recovering from a two week's sickness.

Miss Ferna Hoover, of Altoona, stopped over in Bellefonte for several hours Wednesday, with Miss Helen Schaeffer, on her way home from Centre Hall. Miss Hoover had been visiting for a part of the week with the James W. Runkle family, at the hotel, having gone over to see Mr. Runkle, who is now recovering from his recent serious illness.

A very great stranger in Bellefonte, on Tuesday, was William Rodgers, of Pittsburgh. He was in town only between trains as his mission was the sad one of bringing his dear old mother here for burial. We hadn't seen him since we were boys together and regretted much the lack of time for a longer chat with him. He is now machinist in charge of the National Biscuit Co. plant, in Pittsburgh, and is doing well, very well indeed.

Arthur H. Sloop, superintendent of the schools of Bellefonte, has been in Cleveland this week for the annual convention of the department of superintendence of the National Education association, at which it is estimated 10,000 of the foremost educators of the United States are in attendance, including in the ranks, State and city school superintendents, college presidents and professors and school principals, representing every State in the Union.

Mrs. W. W. Bible has had as house guest during the past week her sisters, Mrs. Harter, of Centre Hall, and Mrs. C. E. Saunders, of Juniata; Mrs. Christy Smith being the fourth sister. Mrs. Bible and Mrs. Smith both entertained with quilting parties in celebration of their being together the first time in twenty-one years. Mrs. Harter returned home yesterday, after a week's visit in Bellefonte, while Mrs. Saunders came down for an over night visit only.

Miss Sara Woods, of New York, whose engagement to Gordon Montgomery was recently announced, was a house guest of Mrs. Joseph L. Montgomery during her week-end visit in Bellefonte, and among the out of town guests here for the Academy football dance Friday night in the armory. At Mrs. Montgomery's dinner given in compliment to Miss Woods the night of the dance, the dinner guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. Hassel Montgomery, Mrs. Betty Orris Harvey and John G. Love.

Harry J. Cohen, of Brooklyn, with his four and a half year old daughter were Bellefonte visitors the past week, having come to Bellefonte on Friday on the hunt of a house-maid for their home in Brooklyn. While a few years older than when he lived in Bellefonte Harry looks little different from the days in 1916, when, as Corp. Harry J. Cohen, he wrote those interesting letters for the "Watchman" from the Mexican border. Of course he looks the picture of prosperity and is no doubt as successful as he looks.

William Wood, of Osceola Mills, was in town Monday, having come over for the trial of a case in court in which he became interested while tax collector of Rush township. Mr. Wood retired from office at the close of last year after eleven years' service and when we tell you that he has already settled all of his duplicates but that of school you will agree with us that he must have been a wonderfully capable official. In a township like Rush, where there is such a large foreign and floating population it is not play to gather the taxes. The case he came over on was postponed so that he tarried here only until an evening train.

M. I. Gardner, of Johnstown, spent several days last week in Bellefonte attending to some business matters and looking up old friends.

W. Miles Walker, of Bellefonte, and A. Stine Walker, of Ferguson township, attended the funeral of their brother, Levi W. Walker, in Williamsport, Wednesday.

John Heckman and Mrs. David Keller, of Centre Hall, left yesterday for Freeport, Ill., to attend the funeral of their brother-in-law, Dr. George Smith, a former resident of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Wetmore, of Florence, S. C.; Mrs. Crossman, of Norristown, and Col. Dale, of Brooklyn, N. Y., were all in Bellefonte during the week, called here by the death of their mother, Mrs. J. Y. Dale.

Miss Elsie Rankin Hellwell returned home Monday from a week's visit with her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rankin, in Harrisburg, which included a shopping trip to Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gardner, who had been in Bellefonte for the winter, with Mrs. Gardner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Irwin, returned to their home in Mackeysville, Wednesday, to spend the spring and summer on their farm.

Charles L. Gates and his son Charles, and Miss Ella Gates, of this place, were at Warriorsmark the early part of the week, called there by the death of Mr. Gates and Miss Ella Gates' mother, Mrs. Mary M. Gates, who was buried from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Kustaborder, Tuesday Morning.

Arthur T. Ward, superintendent of the Union Carbide company's interests at Havana, Cuba, who is now in New York City attending a director's conference, was in Bellefonte for an over Sunday visit with his mother, Mrs. J. E. Ward. Mrs. Ward and Mrs. John I. Olevine are contemplating returning to Cuba with Mr. Ward, who will leave for Havana some time next week.

Calve to Sing in Altoona.

Central Pennsylvania's most distinctive musical engagement will occur at the Mishler theatre, Altoona, on Friday evening, March 9th in the appearance and recital, in costume of Mme. Emma Calve, who is today, the glorious example of perfect voice production.

Mme. Calve was a sensation in New York on her several appearances this season. And her coming to the Mishler theatre, Altoona, is unquestionably a musical event extraordinary.

The magic of Calve's voice is still as potent as in the days, when, as the "world's greatest Carmen," she reigned supreme at the Metropolitan opera house in New York. Reservations for seats can be made by mail or telephone.

John Leathers, of this place, had a narrow escape from death through an accident that happened at the new hydrating plant of the American Lime and Stone Co., on Monday. He was cleaning mud from a belt when his glove caught on it and he was jerked from his perch and drawn against the pulley and around it. While hanging there suspended by the injured arm he took a knife from his pocket and cut the belt. Meanwhile other employees heard his screams and stopped the machinery. He was then released and taken to his home on Beaver street where it was found he had suffered several mashed fingers, bad cuts on the arm and body bruises.
