—The "Watchman" is in receipt of the biennial report of the Huntingdon reformatory and in it we find that during the year 1921 Centre county is credited with having had two inmates at the institution for a total of 502 days at a cost of $225.90. During 1922 there were eight inmates from the county, for a total of 1967 days at a cost of $826.14.

—J. W. Yisley, for a number of years an organizer for the P. O. S. of A., and who has done some good work in Bellefonte and Centre county, has been chosen as organization manager of the State Camp of the order in Pennsylvania. During the past four years he has been engaged in newspaper and Chautauqua work but his entire time in the future will be given to the P. O. S. of A.

—March may not make its official exit tomorrow exactly like a lion but there has been enough of roarin' around all week to resemble a cage full of the wild beasts, while for pure, unadulterated arctic weather the week has been about on a plane with mid-winter, thermometers in Bellefonte registering as low as six degrees above zero yesterday morning. Fortunately not even the earliest of fruit trees have made a showing of buds so that the hard freeze has hardly resulted in any damage to the fruit crop.

—Mrs. James Toner, who occupies apartments in the Snyder building on Bishop street, met with a very serious accident on Wednesday that might easily have been fatal. Descending the back stairway she slipped on a lump of coal that turned and threw her down the long flight to the bottom where she struck her head and shoulders against the door. While no bones were broken she was so painfully bruised and shocked that she was unable to get up and was not recovered sufficiently to sit up.

—Sunday will be Easter, and naturally about nine-tenths of the women are particularly concerned about their new spring hats and other finery. While it is yet a little early to tell what the weather will be like no unusual storms have so far been predicted and it is to be hoped the day will be warm and sunny. While Easter comes quite early this year it is not establishing a record by any means. Two years ago it fell on March 27th and later we had enough cold weather to freeze all the fruit. The earliest date on which Easter can fall is March 22nd, but that is a very rare occurrence.

—Trout fishing season will not open on April 15th this year, because of the fact that the 15th falls on Sunday, but it is highly probable that many fishermen will go to their favorite streams that night so as to be on the ground bright and early on Monday morning, the 16th. Inasmuch as the date is only a little over two weeks away fishermen are getting their rods and tackle in shape and doubtless wondering if luck will be with them on the opening day. Owing to the extremely low water in many of the trout streams last fall there is more or less speculation as to the trout surviving the hard winter, but it is quite probable that they sought protection in the deeper waters of the larger streams and will be about as plentiful as usual this year. The only question will be finding them, and then catching them after they are located.

—Wednesday's high wind was a little too much for successful aviation. The regular mail plane from Cleveland was forced to land in the western part of the State owing to the terrific gale and in doing so the machine was damaged, though the pilot escaped injury. Another plane was dispatched from the Cleveland field to fly light through to New York, with orders to stop in Bellefonte and take on the local mail, but when the plane reached here about 1:30 o'clock the wind was so high that the pilot could not make a landing. Twice he came down until the landing gear of his machine touched the ground but both times the wind caught him and he was compelled to go up. Finally he signaled that he had sufficient oil and gas to carry him through and a return signal was given to go ahead, which he did, reaching the New York field safely about half-past three o'clock.

Big Barn Burned.

The big barn in the farm of Delbert Confer, near Port Matilda, was burned to the ground on Monday morning, with several horses, cattle, pigs, some chickens, and a considerable quantity of wheat, oats, corn, hay, straw and many farming implements. Mrs. Confer was the only one at home when the fire broke out and by the time help was summoned the barn was enveloped in flames and it was impossible to save but a portion of the stock. In her efforts to release some of the animals Mrs. Confer was painfully burned on her face and arms. While the loss is considerable Mr. Confer had his property partially insured.

—A freight wreck between Milesburg and Curtin, last Friday afternoon, blocked the tracks for six or eight hours, the Lehigh-Pennsylvania train west being diverted from Sunbury to Lewistown and over the Middle division to Altoona.

—The "mess at Harrisburg" seems to have developed into a "confusion worse confounded."

Bellefonte Troops Commended.

Major H. L. Curtin, commanding officer of the 52nd Machine Gun squadron, troops composing which are: Headquarters and headquarters detachment and Troop B, Bellefonte; Troop A, Boalsburg; Troop C, Lewis-town, and medical detachment, Bellefonte and Lewistown, has received a letter of commendation for the squadron's high rating for the past year as given at the annual federal inspection.

General Muir, commanding general, Third corps area, in a letter to the Adjutant General, Pennsylvania National Guard, stated in part as follows: "Pleased to note the following satisfactory conditions existing in the organization: That the morale of the organization is very high. That the squadron shows marked improvement in almost every detail over last year's inspection report."

General Price, commanding officer of the 28th Division, in a letter to Major Curtin said in part: "These headquarters concur in the remarks of the commanding general, Third Corps Area. The reports for 1923 show four organizations rated as 'very good,' three organizations rated as 'good.' This is a very gratifying report."

Ratings were given by the corps area commander.

It is of interest to know that these ratings are given, taking the regular army as a standard and rating the National Guard, which drills but once a week, in comparing it with the regular army.

Boosting Horseshoe Trail.

Eighteen local enthusiasts attended a meeting at the Bush house, last Friday evening, for the purpose of boosting the Horseshoe trail. Every man present signified his intention of becoming a member of the organization and a move was inaugurated to increase the membership in Centre county. The membership fee is five dollars and it is the aim of the local committee to secure at least fifty members in this section. Inasmuch as the trail will pass through Bellefonte and State College, with Bellefonte one of the pivotal points, motor enthusiasts should not hesitate in enrolling as members.

A meeting of the association will be held in Bellefonte on Friday, April 13th, when the visitors will be the guests of landlord Lewis Daggett, for lunch at the Bush house. The members will likely motor to Bellefonte in the morning and return home in the afternoon.

The Boy Scouts.

Rehearsals for the Boy Scout minstrels are now being held weekly, with a view of giving the performance the third week in April. Don't forget the time. The troop meeting last Friday was largely attended, some of the members passing tests.

Mr. Walter Cohen has presented the troop with five dozen scout handkerchiefs, for which the members express their appreciation.

The basket ball team played the Spring Mills five, last Saturday, losing the game by the close score of 13 to 14.

The Scouts are now starting their campaign to raise money for uniforms and camping equipment. Any person wishing odd jobs done should apply to the scout master.

More Entertainment Needed.

The committees waiting on the good people of Bellefonte to open their homes for the entertainment of the delegates to the State Sunday school young people's conference and institute to be held here next week are being well received. On account of some homes having sickness it will be necessary to have a larger list of homes than was anticipated, and friends of the work are asked to volunteer to take care of delegates for lodging Thursday and Friday nights and for lunch on Friday and Saturday. Two hundred and fifty delegates are expected and registration will be conducted through the Y. M. C. A. secretary. Please respond to this appeal by call or post card, notifying of the number you will accommodate.

—We have just received a very attractive little brochure, illustrative of "Camp Penacook," a summer camp for boys located in the Sunapee region of New Hampshire. Aside from the unusually picturesque surroundings and equipment of the camp it has interest to Centre countians because it is owned and conducted by R. B. Matern, M. S., who was born and raised in Milesburg; having been a son of the late Dr. Frank Matern, of that place. Ever since his graduation from State, in 1893, Roy, as we knew him, has been in educational work and is now of Scarborough school, Scarborough-on-Hudson, N. Y. "Camp Penacook" is limited to forty boys, is open from July 3rd to August 28th and is governed by a staff of ten specialists in the line of boys recreation.

Early Friday morning the smoke house at the home of Charles Witmer, on the Branch, caught fire and the flames communicated to the washhouse and also the barn. Neighbors with buckets kept the fire in check until the arrival of the fire company from State College, when the flames were soon extinguished. The damage was not very great, but Mr. Witmer lost most of the meat in his smoke house.

The A. S. Walker sale last Thursday was only fairly well attended. The high price for horses was $180 and cows $102. The sale amounted to $4800. The James Searson sale on Saturday was the best held in this section this spring. Enforcement Bill Passed and Signed by Governor.

Harrisburg, March 27.—Under the pressure of threats, promises and intimidations, reinforced by substantial support from Democratic members, the House this afternoon passed Governor Pinchot's Prohibition Enforcement bill by a scant majority. The final vote was 107 to 100, the affirmative ballots being two more than the required constitutional majority.

The new era of prohibition in Pennsylvania, which "dry" cohorts believe the measure guarantees, became operative at 9:15 tonight, when the Governor signed the bill. After signing it he presented the pen to Mrs. Leah Cobb Marion, who, as the dupe of Mrs. Pinchot, sent out the list of "pledges" for the misnamed "dry" bill. Mrs. Marion opposed the late United States Senator Penrose in his last campaign, a fact which would indicate Republicanism throughout the State will deeply appreciate the presentation by the Governor.

Adoption of the measure automatically abolished all licenses in the State and removed all restrictions on the sale of beverages containing less than one-half of 1 per cent, of alcohol. Unless subsequent legislation is enacted, near beer may be sold in any establishment on any day of the week and next door to a church or a schoolhouse if a dispenser selects a location of that character.

When the vote was announced and it was found the Governor had recruited a sufficient number to put the measure over, several hundred "drys" congregated in the aisles and in the galleries started an impromptu demonstration that lasted for several minutes. Men and women, chiefly the latter, joined in shouting for this new victory for the Anti-Saloon League, which backed the Governor to the limit.
