NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

The Auxiliary of the American Legion will hold a bake sale at Spigelmyer's store Saturday, April 28th.

Special musical service will be held Sunday evening at 7:30 in St. John's Lutheran church. George A. Johnston will play a group of organ numbers, while the anthems, duets and solos will be under the direction of J. A. Fitzpatrick, choir leader.

If at any time you are reading of legislation being enacted at Harrisburg and note its application to counties by classes you should remember that Centre is in the Seventh class. That includes all counties with populations of from 20,000 to 50,000. It is next to the lowest class in the Commonwealth.

Troop B, 52nd machine gun squadron, of Bellefonte, needs five additional members and the officers are anxious to have the recruits as soon as possible. Young men eighteen years of age and older are eligible. Recruiting officers will be at the Bellefonte armory next Monday evening, from 7:30 to 10 o'clock, to consider applications.

The Junior League of the Methodist church at Pleasant Gap will hold a social in the parsonage on the evening of May 1st. Ice cream, cake and candy a plenty will be in evidence. The youngsters are very energetic and take this means of increasing their finances. All good people should respond generously and help along the deserving cause.

On a recent drive on the state highway from Bellefonte to Pennsylvania Furnace we noticed only one field of wheat that looked really promising and that was on the old Patton farm just at the east end of Pine Grove Mills. Generally speaking the wheat fields look very spotted and far worse than they did just after they came out from under their winter blanket of snow.

Fire on Saturday night burned the old station building of the Bellefonte Central railroad company at Hunter's park, as well as a shed and a number of ties belonging to the railroad company. The fire occurred about twelve o'clock and its origin is unknown. The Bellefonte fire department sent up a pumper but most of the damage was done when the firemen reached there.

In their opening game on Hughes field, last Saturday afternoon, the Bellefonte Academy baseball team went down in defeat at the hands of that more seasoned aggregation, the St. Francis College nine, but the contest was a good one, nevertheless, as the score was 3 to 2. Bellefonte Academy's next home game will be with the Bucknell Freshmen on Saturday afternoon, May 4th.

Have you made a collection of clothing, etc., for the rummage sale to be held at the Undine fire company building on May first for the benefit of the Bellefonte hospital? If you have not already done so don't put it off until the last minute. Remember the sale is next Tuesday. Get your contribution in shape and send it to the Undine building, so it can be arranged in time for the sale.

Mr. James H. Potter, who for a number of years has been greatly interested in welfare work among the inmates of Rockview, has made arrangements with the management of Main's circus to send a number of clowns and acrobats to the institution on the day they show here to give an exhibition for the prisoners. The actors will go to Rockview immediately after the afternoon performance here. Some animal acts would also be sent were the distance not so great.

From the Dallas, (Texas) Morning News we learn that H. S. Cooper, a consulting engineer of that city, has been appointed city manager of Highland Park, effective April 15th. Highland Park is in reality a suburb of Dallas and the city council have in contemplation the expenditure this year of $350,000 in improvements. Mr. Cooper is quite well known by many people in Bellefonte as the husband of Miss Mary Morris, who spent her girlhood with the Misses Benner.

Tickets are now on sale for the third annual minstrel show of St. John's boys' club, to be given in the parish house, west Lamb street, Thursday and Friday evenings, May 3rd and 4th, at 8 o'clock. The show promises to be better than ever, and those who have enjoyed former performances will not have to be urged to secure their tickets early so as to be sure of securing seats. There will undoubtedly be crowded houses both nights. The proceeds will go towards the Boy Scouts' camping fund.

Any person wanting to leave Bellefonte by train naturally goes to the Pennsylvania railroad station, as that is the only one in Bellefonte, and everybody wishing to see the best motion pictures just as naturally goes to the Scenic, and their wishes are always gratified. In the ten or a dozen years he has had charge of the Scenic manager T. Clayton Brown has always given the people of Bellefonte the best pictures obtainable, thus establishing a reputation for the Scenic that extends throughout the county.

COUNTY BOYS' CONFERENCE.

Interesting Meeting Held at State College Last Week.

The second annual older boys' conference of Centre county was held at State College, April 20-22, under the auspices of the extension department of the Penn State Y. M. C. A., co-operating with the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A. Eighty-nine boys, representing forty-five churches, and twenty-one communities of Centre county, were present. The program was attractive and beneficial and the conference was voted a success by all.

The delegates registered Friday afternoon. The opening banquet was held at 6 o'clock in the social room of the Presbyterian church. A. R. Warnock, dean of men at the college, gave the opening address which was responded to by Greeley Reese, of Sandy Ridge, president of the boys' conference for 1923. Ross Aplin, of Bellefonte, favored the boys with a reading. At eight o'clock Prof. W. V. Dennis opened the conference with a talk on "The Boys' Opportunity for Service." He presented the whole field of service and laid a foundation for what was to come. Later Prof. R. G. Bressler talked on "The Boy and Rural Institutions," in which he brought out the home, the church, and the school as the three greatest rural institutions.

Saturday morning opened with Bible study and discussion. At 9:30 Dean R. L. Watts, of the school of agriculture, spoke on "The Boy and His Father." Mr. S. S. Aplin, secretary of the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A., gave a talk on "The Future of the Centre County Boy." The afternoon was given over to the baseball game and a trip about the campus. In the evening Hugo Bezdek spoke on "Playing the Game," saying that he would much rather coach the fellow with christian principles. Later R. C. Shoemaker, rural field secretary of the Y. M. C. A., in New Jersey, spoke on "How to Prepare for Service."

Sunday morning R. S. Adams, chairman of last year's conference, and now rural field worker of the Reformed church of the U. S., talked on "Why the Church Needs Boy Service." A discussion on community problems and ways in which the boys could help followed. Rev. H. F. Babcock, student pastor of the Methodist church of State College, gave the closing address of the conference, speaking on "Service, Why Christian?"

An interesting meeting of Sunday school workers of the West Susquehanna Classis of the Reformed church was held in the Faith Reformed church, at State College, on Monday afternoon and evening. The Women's Missionary society of the Classis will hold their twenty-second annual convention in the Reformed church at Tylersville on May 1st and 2nd.

Those "Snow Birds" and "Polar Bears" who disport themselves in the snow and waters of the sea shore during the winter months and get themselves pictured in the newspapers because of their chilly divertisement have little on a lot of boys we saw on Sunday. Away up in College township, somewhere between Slab Cabin and the Branch school house, we saw a party of boys, probably ten to fourteen years of age, in swimming. They were having a grand time, the icy water notwithstanding. We'll bet there wasn't a sneeze or a "runnin' nose" as a result of it. Only six days before we shipped one boot full of water while fishing and have been gargling and spraying ever since.

The Sutton-Abramsen Co. Enlarging.

On Tuesday morning workmen began moving the office building of the Sutton-Abramsen Engineering Co., from its present location to a new one. The removal has been necessitated by plans for enlarging the machine shops with an addition of 44x17 feet. Lately the company has installed $20,000 worth of new machinery, a new drill press and the last thing in fine lathes and a few other new machines so that its shop equipment is now well nigh complete.

January, February and March were the largest production months in the company history and orders on the books are so plentiful that they will keep the plant running night and day for months.

A New Oil Enterprise for Bellefonte.

On Monday ground was broken for the building of a new oil supply establishment in Bellefonte. It is located on part of the old car works property, just north of the plant of the Sutton-Abramsen Engineering Co.

Frank M. Crawford, of the Potter-Hoy Hardware Co., is to be head of the new concern, we understand, but his son-in-law, Horace J. Hartranft, and his son Francis are to be the active partners in the enterprise. They expect to handle all grades of commercial oil and will be ready for business just as soon as the tanks can be installed.

Mr. Hartranft has been in the oil business in Tulsa, Oklahoma, for some years and has had considerable experience, both in the producing and selling ends of the business. He is a son of H. J. Hartranft, of this place, and will return to Bellefonte just as soon as he can sell his home in Tulsa.

Order of DeMolay to be Instituted Next Month.

The Penn-Centre Chapter of the Order of DeMolay is the name of the new organization being sponsored by Constans Commandery No. 33 Knights Templar, and which will be instituted at a meeting in the opera house some time during the month of May, the exact date depending on the Grand Commander of the Knights Templar, whose presence is desired on that occasion.

The application for letters temporary for a charter has been accepted and fifty-one petitions for membership have already been passed, with a probability that the number will reach one hundred by the date of institution. The board of advisors is composed of the following Knights Templar: William I. Fleming, chairman; Dr. S. M. Nissley, Nelson E. Robb, Myron M. Cobb, George T. Bush and Harry Menold, all of Bellefonte; Frank L. Wetzel, of Milesburg; Eugene Weik and Donald M. Cochrane, of State College.

Membership in the new order is open to any boy between the ages of 16 and 20 years who meet the approval of the board of advisors. Membership automatically ceases at the age of 21. A campaign is now being conducted to raise a fund sufficient to properly equip the new organization.

J. H. & C. K. Eagle Co. Announces Increase in Wages.

The board of governors of the J. H. & C. K. Eagle company, incorporated, on Tuesday morning announced to their employees a voluntary increase in wages in every department, and at all their plants, effective as of April 9th. This announcement is most commendable and illustrates the company's attitude of fairness towards its co-workers, and also the efficient management which has made this action possible. This announcement on the part of the company has not only brought rejoicing to thousands in their employ but also to the communities in which their plants are located. The magnitude of this general increase can be visualized only by a realization of the fact that it will approximate one-half million dollars a year, a substantial part of which will be distributed in Bellefonte and vicinity, indicating that the J. H. & C. K. Eagle Co. Inc., is a big factor in the life and prosperity of this community.

In addition to the general increase, the company has established a very satisfactory starting weekly wage for girls and boys who have no knowledge of, or experience in, the silk industry. This action on the part of the company affords the young girls and boys desirous of employment an unusual opportunity to learn silk manufacturing at relatively higher starting wages paid for learners. Furthermore, the company has established an unusual high wage scale for night shift workers, which should be attractive to the young men of the community who have had previous experience at the silk mill.

The Umholtz Brothers Deny the Charge of Unsportsmanship.

The sensation in Bellefonte last week was the fishing excursion of the Umholtz brothers, Roy and Elmer, of Tyrone, which came here on the opening day of the season and caught thirty-nine—it is said—of the large trout in the Bush house dam, or, in other words, the open part of Spring creek immediately below the High street bridge. With their creels overflowing they went back home and won all the prizes offered by John D. Cox, of that place, for catches of trout on the opening day.

Two days later the brothers appeared here again and undertook to repeat their big day's catch on the 16th. They were stopped, however, after an hour or so by Warden Mosier because Fish Commissioner Buller had ordered that part of Spring creek closed, by persons interested in preserving the trout that have afforded so much interest to travelers from all parts of the county.

The action was quick and drastic and some of the Bellefonte papers played it up rather strong. Before us is a copy of the Tyrone Herald, under date of April 21st, in which the Umholtz brothers express their regret at being classed as poor sports and denying some of the acts with which they were charged.

Being somewhat of a fisherman ourselves probably it were better that we should not pass judgment on them. Be that as it may we saw them doing on the second trip what leads us to believe that what they were accused of on the first is true.

The portion of the stream in which they fished was open. They had a perfect right to be there, even though most of the Bellefonte fishermen had gone miles away rather than take trout that afford so much pleasure to others throughout the year. It wasn't the fact that they took the trout. It was the manner.

On Wednesday we saw the two brothers with a fat man, who smoked a pipe and had a fishing license on his hat, immediately above the bridge, the closed portion of the stream, the fat man leaned over the walk railing and threw hamburger steak into a school of fish. Then he leaned far over the rail and by throwing the meat under the bridge undertook to entice the fish to the lower or open side of it. Immediately the Umholtz brothers went to the lower side, produced a rope ladder, fastened it to the rail and let themselves down into the stream. One of them, with hamburger steak on his hook began casting up under the bridge right over the spot where he could see an eighteen inch trout lying. We stood right over him. We saw his line go under the bridge and WE called his attention to the fact that that was prohibited. After another cast or so he moved down to the position the Herald says he was in, but his intent was clearly to take fish in what he knew was preserved area.

It requires no skill to take those fish, equipped as the Umholtz brothers were. They had steel rods, heavy lines and were using as bait the food that is fed to them every day, almost, in the year by residents or strangers who love to watch them strike at the ground meat.

As a purely sporting proposition the trout had no chance. With a hook as big as a ship's anchor away down in their belly and a steel rod behind it he would be a poor fisherman who couldn't land all he wanted of them. And had the Tyrone prize winners used a 14 or 16 fly on a 5 oz. rod in that clear water and fought a fair fight with the tame trout we would have had much admiration for them had they creeled as many as they did.

As we said last week: They might just as well, when next hunting season comes in, get out their guns and shoot some boy's pet rabbits then parade around and claim prizes for the biggest bags of game.

A Disastrous Fire.

The big barn on the B. F. Homan farm, probably better known as the Belle Lytle farm, about a mile south of State College, was entirely destroyed by fire on Sunday morning together with three horses, four cows, all of last year's crops of wheat, corn, oats, hay, etc., and all the farming implements except one wagon, a plow and a harrow.

The farm is occupied by Merrill Homan and family. Mr. Homan was not at home, the only person there being his wife. The fire broke out about nine o'clock and was discovered by Col. Theodore Davis Boal, who was on his way to State College. He and his chauffeur assisted Mrs. Homan in saving a portion of the stock but they were unable to get all the horses and cows out of the building owing to the rapid spread of the flames. As it was Mrs. Homan was badly scorched about the hands and face while Col. Boal and his chauffeur were also slightly burned.

The barn was one of the best in College township and had only recently been improved by the erection of a large straw shed. The State College fire company responded to an appeal for help and while they were unable to save the barn they rendered good service in preventing the spread of the flames. Mr. Homan estimates his loss at $9,000, on which he had only a partial insurance, and as he is just a beginner on the farm he feels the loss most keenly. The origin of the fire is a mystery.
