And for the most of us who have work to do in the world, whether it is small or great, the supreme need of the hour is the duty of being true to ourselves and of facing without weak-ness the obligations of the task that has been given us to do.

The venerable Mrs. Lego, mother of Mrs. Frank Barnes, left Friday last for an indefinite visit to her other daughter, at Monument. It will no doubt prove a very invigorating trip for the good old lady as she has made her home here for over a year and in all that time was never out of the township. Her many new-made friends will miss her during her absence as she is a most agreeable and interesting old lady.

The Whiterock quarries now have a pay roll of one hundred and eighteen employees, and are adding men daily; they are negotiating for a bunch of men who are expected to report for duty the next ten days. To hold their orders in check they should have at least from 30 to 40 accessions. The recent advance of wages to their men is an incentive to bring outsiders here. We are a happy and prosperous com-munity now, but without Whiterock we would rank with the dead letter class. The firm is fair towards their men in every particular, hence it is that their employees are beginning to appreciate them—as they should.

To Mr. Roush, the writer would say, that in your choice for a partner of life, you have given evidence of the possession of a sound judgment and much good taste. If our beneficent wishes were the only requisite to in-sure your happiness in the married state, you would never have occasion to regret the step you have recently taken. Everybody here desires you both to be surrounded with all the blessings of this life. May God bless you with His choicest blessings.

Adversity and sorrow may come with all their terrible force, but the motherly affection clings to its ideal closely. We never see a good old mother sitting in the arm chair that we do not think of the storms which have pelted in her cheerful face, without souring it. Her smile is a solace, her presence a benediction. We solace, her presence a benediction. We rarely find a frail mother whose spirit has been worn threadbare and un-

The annual gathering of Pennsylvania farmers at State College in June will be centered this year in one big day of activity on Thursday, June 14th, according to announcement recently made. This is a departure from the observance of Farmer's week at the College held in June for a number of years past, and is in keeping with the desire of thousands of farmers who now find it better to go to State College for a short automobile trip of one day's stay rather than for three or four days.

The annual gathering of Pennsylvania conditions is to feed corn silage generously with corn stover and cottonseed meal.

The sixty two-year old steers on the college test were divided into five lots of twelve animals each. They were fed various rations and watched closely for weight gain and effect on the separate kinds of feed.

The lot that made the most profitable gain received 46.6 pounds of corn silage, 2.87 pounds of corn stover and 2.1 pounds of cottonseed meal.
