While the children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Beatty were at play in the living room of their home on Curtin street, last Saturday evening, the big brick fire place tumbled down, some of the brick just missing one of the children. What caused the fire place to fall is an unsolved problem, as it had shown no indication of wear and tear since its construction less than twenty years ago.

Several years ago a pair of beavers were put in Cox's valley stream, near Walter Gherrity's place in the Seven mountains and for a time they appeared contented and went to work building a dam. About a year ago they disappeared and all trace of them was lost until last week when they were discovered near Grove's Meadows, on the Haveric valley stream on the southern side of the Seven mountains, where they are hard at work building a dam.

A baseball team and various athletics are also on the proposed schedule.

Miss Johnson's many friends in Bellefonte and elsewhere will be glad to hear of her wonderful success, both in her class at the Seminary and in her selection as an instructor in the State College schools.

LARGE CLASS OF GRADUATES.

Bellefonte High School Commencement Draws Large Crowds.

The largest class ever turned out at the Bellefonte High school was graduated this week at the fifty-third annual commencement. The exercises in connection therewith began on Sunday evening with the baccalaureate sermon in the Presbyterian church. That edifice was crowded to the doors with friends of the young graduates and members of all the protestant denominations in Bellefonte, whose churches were closed and the pastors present at the baccalaureate services. The musical part of the program was in charge of Mrs. Krader and was beautiful and appropriate.

The sermon was by Rev. W. P. Ard, of the Lutheran church, who took for his subject "Be strong; quit ye like men." His discourse was naturally directed to the young graduates and was epitomized under four headings: Confidence, loyalty, eyesight and sense of service. In going out into the world, he told the young men and women, they must have confidence in themselves and their ability to perform the part in whatever path of life they may elect to travel. They must be loyal to themselves, loyal to their friends, loyal to their country and their Master. Discouraging on eyesight, he said that many people in traveling along a highway see only the dust on the road and bushes, the dead grass by the roadside, the withered flower and the bare spots in the grainfield, while others glory in the green grass in the distance, the blossom-laden fruit trees, the promising crops and everything beautiful in nature. He adjured the young students to use their eyes in seeing only the good and beautiful and their happiness and success will be more complete. Under the head of sense of service he advised them to be earnest and sincere in everything they undertake to do, always willing to give their best service and in that way only can they expect to win out in the great battle of life.

The second event in the commencement exercises was the declamatory contest in the High school auditorium, on Monday evening, for the Col. W. F. Reynolds prizes. The contestants and their subjects were as follows:

"Jean Val Jean, the Count" Victor Hugo
Kathryn Johnson
"Mrs. Mavo's Story" Ralph Connor
Helen Brown
"The Scholar of Ben Korat" Willis
Elizabeth Hunter
"The Last Word" Henry VanDyke
Mildred Brown
"The Black Horse and His Rider" Shepard
Mahlon Robb
"The Storming of Mission Ridge" Taylor
Thurston Smith
"The Death of Arthur" Tennyson
Clair Parsons
"The Flight with the Anoucks" Sklenkiewicz
Jack Yeager
"Fort Wagner" Dickinson
Phil Ray

The judges for the contest were Col. J. L. Spangler, Rev. W. P. Ard and James R. Hughes, and after mature deliberation they awarded the prizes to Helen Brown and Phil Ray, with honorable mention for Elizabeth Hunter and Thurston Smith.

On Tuesday morning the grade pupils in the Allegheny street building gave a delightful little play as their contribution to the closing exercises and on Tuesday evening the dramatic and glee clubs, under the direction of Mrs. Krader gave a pleasing entertainment in the auditorium, which was greatly enjoyed by all present. On Wednesday morning the grade schools in the Bishop street building had their closing exercises, which were featured by a play in which the children showed up splendidly.

One feature of the week which attracted considerable attention from visitors was the display of the handicraft of the students in the domestic science and manual training departments. In the latter the boys displayed considerable skill in woodcraft. Included in the display were three complete victrolas and three victrola cabinets, all of which would compare very favorably with most any make of machine on the market. Tables, floor lamps and various other articles were mute evidence of the earnest application of the students in this course.

The final commencement exercises on Wednesday evening drew a large crowd, friends of the members of the graduating class. The commencement address of Dr. Robert Ellwood, of Atlantic City, was a masterly effort and listened to with close attention by the young graduates. Following the address Dr. M. J. Locke, president of the Bellefonte school board, awarded the diplomas and announced the various prize winners. The complete list of graduates was published in last week's "Watchman," but the list of prize winners is as follows:

A Delightful Concert for a Good Cause.

The concert given in the Presbyterian chapel last Friday evening, by purely local talent, was a most flattering success. Each one of the entertainers was in a happy mood and performed accordingly. The only regret of the evening was that owing to another engagement the Academy orchestra was compelled to leave before the audience got a sufficiency of their good music.

Miss Sunday, accompanied by Mrs. Schad, rendered her violin selections with ease and in an artistic manner. Mr. Parrish, with his fine voice, delighted the audience. Miss Shuey and Mrs. Maybe were charming in every way, and Miss Sarah Smith showed splendid execution as a pianist.

Two performers, new to Bellefonte audiences, were Irvin Fletcher, of Howard, studying under Mrs. Krader, who won praise and appreciation from everybody because of his remarkable voice and the way in which he uses it; and Miss Bullock, of Unionville, also studying under Mrs. Krader whose impersonations won much applause. She displayed remarkable ability as a reader, her interpretation of her selections and her wholesome understanding of what was expected of her delighted her hearers.

It was the consensus of opinion that Mrs. Krader displayed her histrionic talent to a very high degree. The closing number, "Home, Sweet Home," sung by the audience, was most apropos in the suggestion of memories.

The audience, though small because of several other good entertainments, was paraphrased as "select and appreciative." Rev. Evans, in a few complimentary remarks, made an earnest appeal for the support of the recently resurrected institution, the Y. M. C. A., which, under the untiring energy of Secretary Applin, is doing so much from an economical viewpoint for the girls and boys of the town.

The Woman's Auxiliary therefore desires to express its gratitude to the board of trustees of the Presbyterian church for the use of the chapel, and also its appreciation to the many friends who so generously contributed their share towards a highly enjoyable evening and made it possible for the Auxiliary to cancel its debt of $1000.

Mrs. Bruin and Her Child Quite Friendly.

For some time past trainmen on the Snow Shoe railroad have watched with considerable interest the antics of a she bear and her cub that evidently have taken up their abode on the point of the mountain in the vicinity of Runville. Several times a week Mrs. Bruin and her kid come down off the mountain and disport in the fields and along the little stream that flows down through the gap. Several attempts have been made to catch the cub just to see what the mother bear would do, but the chubby little creature is both wary and agile and has so far proven perfectly able to take care of itself.

Just about twilight one evening last week the bear were seen only a short distance in the rear of the Dim Lantern, the tea house recently opened near Runville by Miss Ruth Garman and Mrs. Clara Iddings, but they failed to venture close enough to afford a good view of them. And now we venture to suggest to the above ladies the advisability of cultivating the acquaintance of Mrs. Bruin and her child as they may come in good some day as wild life advertising features for their tea room.

Construction Work Temporarily Stopped at Penitentiary.

Because of the delay in passing appropriation bills by the present Legislature all construction work at the Rockview penitentiary ceased last Thursday evening and seventy or more men were thrown out of work. The fiscal year for all State appropriations begins on June 1st and ends on May 31st, and the appropriation granted the penitentiary in 1921 having been exhausted it was necessary to discontinue all new work until some definite action on the appropriation bill is taken by the Legislature. Whether the agitation now going on in Philadelphia over the scandal in the eastern penitentiary will have any effect on the appropriation for continued construction work at the Rockview institution remains to be seen, but until the appropriation question is settled all construction work will be hung up.

Won't You Help?

Give your old clothing to ragged children. There are thousands of them in the Near East suffering from exposure. Many are naked. Others are clothed only in rags.

Thousands of men and women are in the same destitute condition. That old suit or dress; the under-clothing, stockings or shoes you find in closets at house cleaning time. Don't give them to the moth! Send them to the Episcopal parish house, the Evangelical Sunday school room or the Undine fire house on Monday, June 11th.

The carnival is over and nothing unusual being in prospect the Scenic offers the only reliable, steady amusement and entertainment to the people of Bellefonte and vicinity. Open every evening during the week except Sunday and always with a big program of the best pictures obtainable. See them at the Scenic should be your slogan.

Wilbur Tibbens, with his little son, was in town Monday morning and we were surprised to discover that he isn't half as "cocky" as he might be over having two fields of about the finest wheat we have seen in Centre county this spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Case and their two children, who had been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keichline for several days early in the week, left Wednesday for the drive back to Kirksville, N. R. of Pa., as freight agent, was in town Saturday on his way to Unionville for the Brugger-Waite wedding. He had just come in from a short visit with his kid brother Sam, out at Pleasant Gap. If you've noticed the size Sam has grown into you'd laugh at our calling him John's kid brother, but he is that in years, at least. John is now with Miles and Co., wholesale grocers at DuBois and is so much in demand there that he had great difficulty in getting off for the week, the greater part of which was spent with his venerable father and the other home folks up about Unionville.
