

Need Title Certificate to Operate Motorcar.

Harrisburg, Pa.—After November 24, 1923, it will be illegal in Pennsylvania to own or operate a motor car without a certificate of title. It will not be possible to secure 1924 license tags until a certificate of title for the automobile has been recorded with the Department of Highways.

The title law, signed by Governor Pinchot, May 24, 1923, provides that every motor vehicle, whether passenger or commercial; every motorcycle and motor bicycle in Pennsylvania must be titled prior to November 25, 1923. In other words, owners of such vehicles must possess a legal title, somewhat similar to the title for real estate.

Within a short while the Department of Highways will mail a specific notice to all owners, together with an application for a certificate of title. These owners will also receive a copy of the title law and information telling them the exact location of the engine and manufacturer numbers on their cars. Special stress will be placed on these engine and manufacturer numbers. If the numbers shown on the application for certificate of title are inconsistent with the year shown on the application, or should the number of any particular part of the motor or vehicle be listed instead of the engine or manufacturer number, the application will be returned for correction. Under the title law, the engine number file will be the predominating file. The duplications of engine or manufacturer numbers will be cancelled when carelessness is shown in setting forth these numbers.

Although the new law will not prevent the stealing of motor vehicles, it will, Secretary Paul D. Wright declares, prevent the sale of stolen motor vehicles in Pennsylvania. Other States have found an admirable check on stolen cars. No car may be transferred in any way unless there is a clear title for it.

An illustration of the operation of the title law is as follows:

A manufacturer delivers a new car to a dealer. The dealer immediately makes application for a certificate of title on a blank (especially prepared) form for his use (in case of a new car) and receives from the Department certificate of title for this car at a fee of 50 cents. The dealer then sells the car to a purchaser and assigns title to the purchaser by indorsing the assignment on the reverse side of the certificate of title. The purchaser, to secure a certificate of title, merely answers a few questions on the assigned title, signs his name in the space provided and forwards it to the Department with a fee of $2 at which time the Department issues a new certificate of title to him and retains the assigned title. Pennsylvania has gone a step farther than other States by allowing purchasers of cars to apply for certificate of title and license tags on the same blank under one notarial seal. Should the purchaser subsequently desire to sell or trade his car, he follows the procedure outlined above. One car receives but one title number and transfers from time to time are designated by letter A, B, C, D, etc., preceding the title number. This is another step in advance of the majority of States. Maryland issues a new certificate of title each time the same car changes hands. For example, should Ford car No. 500 change hands five times in one year it would probably receive the following title numbers in Maryland: 12550, 55098, 101-022 and 205000. To check title on this car five records would be traced. In Pennsylvania should Ford car No. 500 receive title No. 1, subsequent titles would be numbered A-1, B-1, C-1 and D-1, the record being kept intact in one file. This serves as an immediate check and eliminates endless research and filing work.

Certificate of title is good for the life of the car, so long as the same is owned by the original owner of such certificate of title, and need not be renewed annually. Application for certificate of title shows the kind of encumbrance of lien, the date, the amount and in whose favor it is drawn. When the certificate of title is issued the amount of the encumbrance, as well as in whose favor it is drawn, are listed thereon. Any person purchasing or acquiring a motor vehicle with a lien or encumbrance thereon does so at his own risk. He should examine the title that is being assigned to him before accepting the motor vehicle. Encumbrances will be removed from the certificate of title when it is satisfactorily proven to the Department that they have been paid, and all purchasers of motor vehicles are urged to examine the title and exercise the same caution as they do when they procure a piece of property.

Early Potato Crop is Failure, Says Specialist.

The early potato crop of Pennsylvania is practically a failure. This is especially true of the Candler varieties in the eastern section where heavy losses resulted from a lack of moisture. The late crop of tubers shows promise and is a good stand in most sections.

These are the observations of E. L. Nixon, potato specialist at The Pennsylvania State College. That farmers should prepare for regular spraying with 4-4-50 Bordeaux mixture to control late blight is the opinion of Nixon. He predicts a wet spell which is ideal for the development of the late blight.

Reports made to borough council on Monday evening would indicate that certain streets in Bellefonte are overgrown with weeds. This does not mean that the driveways are overgrown or that the people living on the streets in question are asleep, but that the weeds are allowed to grow where pavements and gutters should be provided by lax property owners. There are also many vacant lots within the borough limits that are overgrown with weeds and owners of same should see that the weeds are cut before they go to seed, as the law provides a penalty for failure to do so.

The noblest of all animals, the horse, will have to hustle to keep ahead of the milk cows, since the advent of the automobiles. Not long since I saw a one month's milk check amounting to $172.00. More than half of our progressive farmers now pay their total taxes with milk checks.

The public schools of Spring township will open on September 10th, instead of September 1st, and the Grange picnic will open on September first; and probably one-half of the parents of our school district will patronize the picnic, and they are usually accompanied by their children. Hence it was that our school board very wisely made the change at their last week's meeting.

"Squire J. D. Herman and wife, with a view of making the visit of Rev. J. H. McKechnie and wife more interesting, motored to Spring Creek on Friday evening for the purpose of landing a mess of trout, and at the same time enjoy a family basket picnic. The party consisted of Rev. and Mrs. McKechnie, Mrs. J. H. Herman and Miss Mildred Herman, and J. D. Herman and wife. A most enjoyable lunch was the first thing on the program, after which J. D. and wife and Miss Mildred proceeded to fish. The result was the Squire landed three trout, his estimable wife caught two, and seven year old Mildred caught two. The day following our correspondent asked Mildred if she relished her trout supper and she replied, "they were bully; you know my grandma Herman know how."

Will power is a good thing when all the blood vessels in one's brain are distended to almost bursting. Pluck is a great thing too, but there is a time when battles must end, when human nature must give up. Turn away you will something unfortunate turns up; Fate seems to have a hand in it all. Starting out in life full of enthusiasm, generosity, affection and kindness, sensitive to a fault, and the soul of honor, what are your chances of success as compared with those possessed of a mean and politic nature? In the end they will roll around in a carriage or automobile, while the virtuous will go to the grave with the life crushed out before time. It has been said that it is suicidal to strangle one's aspirations. I believe it is true. Pills and patent potions, by whatever name they may be called, will not give the rest so much desired. A large majority of our women, young and old, are suffering from a discontented mind. Their sight is so perverted that virtue changes place with vice, and pleasure gives way to discomfort.

Our enterprising neighbor, Henry Noll, the up-to-date Ford garage man, gave our community a most thrilling entertainment on Friday last. Henry was up in the air about three hours in his Canadian Curtis air ship. Father, mother, and the children were all out watching his thrilling exploits between heaven and earth. To say that everybody enjoyed the wonderful gyrations would be putting it mildly. Henry was at his best. He has the air, look and carriage of a gentleman; he is possessed of the self-poise and steadiness of nerve which arise, not from self-esteem, but from calm courage and well-merited experience. He seems to have a thorough knowledge of the perilous exhibitions. His ability to handle the proposition is unquestioned. He has apparently the strength of a giant, and he does not hesitate to use it for what he considers the benefit of mankind. Henry is not of a selfish disposition, in other words, he is not one of the kind who thinks "he knows it all." Before embarking in the garage enterprise he took lessons in four States, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, with a view of obtaining efficiency, hence it is that he has all the work he can handle; and again, as soon as he had his air ship fully equipped, he proceeded to New York city, took a ten day course in one of the leading aviation schools of the country, which was a wise course to pursue and fitted him to perfection for the future in his air flights. We predict that Henry's future success is assured in a business way. He has a very interesting family and innumerable friends for miles around. There are plenty of facts to prove his tenderness, his sympathy, his benevolence, as well as his great will power and obstinate firmness. Miss Bertha Rimney and Mrs. Ray Melroy were his first two lady passengers. There were 26 packed automobiles awaiting Henry's second air ship exhibition on Friday evening, down at his aviation field on the Roy Swartz farm. This shows the great interest manifested in this new departure.

Grange "Dollar Day" to Help Erect Memorial.

The Granges of Pennsylvania are becoming active in support of the State Grange movement to provide a $250,000 fund for the erection of a memorial residence hall for girls at The Pennsylvania State College. Twenty-five different Granges in sixteen counties have already supported the project with pledges that vary in amounts up to $1000.

The first State Grange meeting was held in Reading fifty years ago next September 18th, and since the organization has never undertaken the erection of a memorial, it is making an effort to have 100 per cent. participation in the State College fund. It is the desire of P. H. Dewey, who is lecturer of the State Grange and chairman of the memorial committee, to make it possible to celebrate the semi-centennial with success in the movement.

A "Dollar day" has been suggested for Grangers by Mr. Dewey, to be observed

Helping the Farmer

THE FARMER should pray to be delivered from his political friends. In the last Congress the Farm Bloc put through certain legislation on the plea that it would help the farmer. The Grain Futures Act was part of this legislation. When it was enacted wheat was selling at $1.27. The price is now less than one dollar.

The Emergency Tariff and Fordney Bill—other measures—have increased the cost of everything the farmer buys, closed his foreign markets and advanced the cost of labor.

Farming conditions will not improve until the questions at issue between Germany and the Allies are settled, and until there is a market here for foreign goods taken in exchange for our surplus produce.

But the next Congress will see the quacks again at work trying to fool the farmer with silly legislation.
