A little daughter born to Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Newcomb, of Pittsburgh, on Monday last week, has been named Cyrene Newcomb. Mrs. Newcomb, before her marriage, was Miss Edna Mallory, of Bellefonte.

A freight wreck on the Bald Eagle railroad, about two miles above Unionville on Sunday evening, blocked the tracks and held up traffic several hours. Three box cars in the middle of a train left the track and were piled up rather indiscriminately.

Mrs. Joseph L. Montgomery gave a stag dinner of thirty-five covers, at the Country club, Tuesday evening, at which Isaac Lobe Straus, of Baltimore, was the honor guest. Judge Henry C. Quigley assisted Mrs. Montgomery's son Gordon, as acting host.

There will be a meeting of the Executive committee of the Red Cross next Tuesday afternoon, September 4th, at 4 o'clock, in the W. C. T. U. room. A full attendance is desired that plans for the annual drive may be discussed and other important business disposed of.

The furniture and household equipment of Rev. David R. Evans was shipped on Wednesday to the pastor's new appointment at Kearny, N. J. Rev. Evans, wife and two children, David and Mary, left by automobile early the same morning, expecting to make brief visits with friends in the northern part of the State on their way to their New Jersey home.

The world is full of absent minded people but one of the most pronounced cases heard of lately in this vicinity is that of a traveling man who stopped at one of the Bellefonte hotels, one night last week, and on going away the next day left his false teeth lying on the bureau in his room. As he could not come back for his teeth the hotel proprietor sent them to him by mail.

Mrs. Benjamin Bradley was dismissed from the Bellefonte hospital ten days ago, and is now rapidly convalescing at her home on Curtin street. While under observation for more than two months at the hospital, Mrs. Bradley's condition at times was regarded as critical, so that in order to insure a complete recovery she will be taken to Buffalo to be under the care of specialists, just as soon as it is deemed advisable.

Charles Sandstrom, of Arnot, Tioga county, an employee of the new Blanchard-Moshannon Coal company, opening up operations near Karthaus, was badly injured on Saturday when a heavy chain on the mine machinery broke, throwing him some distance. He was hurriedly taken to the Cottage State hospital, Philipsburg, where it was found that the man was suffering with a punctured lung, five fractured ribs and other injuries.

The twenty-eight hour trans-continental airmail test was in effect but four days last week, instead of five, as originally planned. The test proved conclusively that a twenty-eight hour schedule between New York and San Francisco can be maintained under proper weather conditions. The only thing that may enter into the consideration is the endurance of the pilots, whether they will be able to stand up under such long flights.

Four cases of "Four Roses," real genuine Kentucky whiskey, distilled in 1913 and guaranteed one hundred proof, stood on an express truck at the Bellefonte depot for four hours on Saturday without attracting any special attention. Of course the whiskey, twelve gallons in all, was in transit under government permit and was plainly marked "for medicinal use only." Its destination was not Bellefonte but another town less than twenty miles away.

The farewell reception given to Dean and Mrs. W. R. North, in the Methodist church, Tuesday evening, was one of the enjoyable affairs of the week. The interesting speaking program, in which Mr. and Mrs. North, Rev. McKelvey and C. C. Shuey each had a part, followed by a delightful social evening will be one of the pleasant remembrances of Bellefonte the Norths will take with them into interior China; and the purse of fifty-six dollars presented them by a few of their friends, will possibly be a suggestion to those interested in the missions of China, that a direct contribution to these good people will be very effective in its results.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKernon, of Pittsfield, Mass., announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice Grace, to Philip Slayman Barnhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Barnhart, of this place. Miss McKernon is a graduate of the Emma Willard school of Troy, N. Y., class of 1917, and the Russell Sage College of Troy, class of 1921. Mr. Barnhart is a graduate of The Pennsylvania State College, class of 1920, and is now employed as a chemist by the General Electric Co. The announcement was made this week at a luncheon given for a few of Miss McKernon's friends by her sister, Mrs. E. Brith Myrick, of Pineville, Kentucky. The wedding will take place in the spring.

ESCAPED PRISONERS DRAW SALTY SENTENCE.

Men Who Attempted Jail Delivery Taken Back to Pen on Saturday.

Two weeks in solitary confinement in the concrete cells of the death house at Rockview broke the turbulent spirits of two of the prisoners who four weeks ago pulled off a desperate attempt at jail delivery in Bellefonte, and on Saturday morning they came into open court, meek as lambs and plead guilty to the several charges presented against them, received their sentences and the same day were landed in the old Riverside penitentiary in Allegheny.

The two men are Arthur Price and Clair Jamison, who escaped from the western penitentiary at Rockview in June, and who were in the Centre county jail pending disposition of their cases. On Thursday, August 2nd, the above two men and Edward Fiddell, also an escaped prisoner from the penitentiary, made a desperate attempt to escape from the Centre county jail. Jamison succeeded in getting out into the corridor but was prevented from escaping through the bravery of the sheriff's daughter, Miss Marion Dukeman, and her mother. Miss Dukeman clutched the desperate man by the coat and clung with determined tenacity until her father appeared upon the scene. Mrs. Dukeman, with rare presence of mind, locked the jail door then got into the scuffle with time to grab an iron bar with which Jamison was belaboring her husband. In the meantime Price had beaten up Timpeo Carpella, the trusty turnkey, so badly that he is still suffering quite severely. Not content with being frustrated in their first attempt at escape the men tried it again the following night and had almost dug out of their steel cell when discovered. It was then that they were sent to solitary confinement in the death house at Rockview.

Knowing the dangerous character of the two men, when they signified their willingness to plead guilty to the charges against them, the court decided to impose sentence early Saturday morning so that the trip to Pittsburgh could be made entirely during daylight. Consequently it was just 8:30 o'clock when they were brought before Judge Quigley.

Arthur Price was the first man to face the court. He is twenty-three years old and is from Oklahoma. In April, 1921, he was in Philadelphia, having just been discharged from the U. S. navy, and as a means of getting easy money held up a taxicab. He was caught in the act, was convicted and sent up for from three to five years. He had just nine months to serve when he escaped from the penitentiary in June. When he faced the court on Saturday he faced three charges, breaking and escaping from the penitentiary, attempted escape from the Centre county jail, and aggravated assault and battery. On the first two charges he was given from two to four years each and on the last charge one to two years, the sentences to run consecutively, which would have given him from five to ten years, but after further consideration of his case Judge Quigley on Wednesday afternoon remitted the sentence on the last two charges so that he will only have to serve from two to four years for breaking and escaping from the penitentiary, in addition to the nine months yet to serve on his old sentence.

When Clair Jamison faced the court he stated to the judge's inquiry that he had twenty-three months yet to serve of a sentence of from three and a half to five years imposed upon him at New Castle for breaking and entering. Jamison denied that he meant to injure the sheriff seriously when he hit him with an iron bar, but admitted that Miss Dukeman and her mother "helped some" in preventing his escape. The first two charges against him were the same as those against Price, and the sentence imposed the same, but the third charge against him was felonious assault and battery and on that count he was given from three to five years, making his total seven to thirteen years.

Sheriff Dukeman, accompanied by constable Howard Smead and Lester Wyland, of Howard, took the two men to Pittsburgh on Saturday and delivered them to the officials of the western penitentiary. The men went along without a protest of any kind. Edward Fiddell, the third man implicated, has so far steadfastly refused to plead guilty and is still confined in the death house at Rockview. He maintains that he will stand trial at the September term of court and it is known that he has been in communication with at least two attorneys away from Bellefonte. Fiddell was sent up from Cambria county for robbery but his real home is Chicago, Ill., where he is reputed to have been a member of the stockyards gunmen. It is further reported that Fiddell's criminal ancestry dates back a century or more and that he has spent twenty-four out of thirty-eight years of life behind the bars. He is now in good shape to considerably increase this record.

Walter S. Jackson, of State College, has secured a position with the state highway department in Bellefonte. For the time being he will be located in the local office. He was formerly employed by The Pennsylvania State College, in the bacteriological division of the dairy department.

The banks, the postoffice and most of the business places in Bellefonte will be closed next Monday, Labor day.

Reichert Drew the Ford Car Then Sold It.

Ticket No. 252 drew the Ford touring car that was given away at the festival of Wetzler's band at Milesburg last Saturday night. It was held by Robert Reichert who works at the Titan Metal plant and lives on Logan street, Bellefonte.

The festival was an afternoon and evening affair and the amusement offering of the afternoon was the ball game between Port Matilda and Milesburg. Port won by the score of 11 to 9.

The evening entertainment was more or less curtailed by the breakdown of the lighting service and necessarily the receipts from the stands were much reduced. With it all, however, the band realized exactly $984 on the undertaking.

The drawing for the automobile occurred at 11 o'clock at night. Stubs of every ticket held were placed in a box, then it was announced that the fifth one drawn out would contain the name of the person to whom the car would be given. The four first ones drawn were replaced in the box so that they would have a chance to be fifth and then out came the fifth bearing the name and number of Mr. Reichert.

About 2500 tickets had been distributed for the drawing. Monday morning the winner went to the Beatty Motor Co., and sold the car back to them and the same afternoon they turned it over to a customer who had been clamoring weeks for a delivery.

Burned Out Transformers Put Bellefonte in Darkness.

The burning out of two big governing transformers at the Milesburg plant of the Keystone Power corporation, on Saturday night, plunged all of Bellefonte in darkness and, in fact, cut off the service of their entire circuit. The first transformer burned out shortly after seven o'clock and it took probably half an hour to make repairs. At 8:15 o'clock the second transformer burned out and it was 9:30 o'clock before repairs could be made and the light again turned on.

The burning out of the transformers naturally compelled the closing down of the plant and Bellefonte and every community depending upon the company for light was plunged into darkness. In fact it was a case of the much despised tallow candle again coming into its own. Most of the stores in Bellefonte kept open and did a little business with the aid of candles and lamps but several business places closed when it became known that it was uncertain how long the light would be off.

The scenic, naturally, was compelled to close down and when the lights finally did come on most everybody had gone home. The absence of light played havoc with the big festival of the Wetzler band, at Milesburg, which naturally failed to make near the amount of money they anticipated.

On Monday afternoon trouble developed on the supply line which furnishes juice to people and industries in the western section of town with the result that all the machinery was at a standstill for an hour and a half.

Old Wall on New Parrish Building Collapsed.

An accident that cannot be regarded in any other light than that of a Providential nature occurred about ten o'clock on Monday night, when the old wall of what is to be the Parrish building, Allegheny street and Pike alley, collapsed.

The wall was left standing when the old building was demolished. It seemed in good condition and Mr. Parrish was advised that it could be used as part of the new structure he is building.

All day Monday workmen were busy right under it laying joists for the first floor and had it fallen while they were there probably many of them would have been crushed under the tons of brick. As it was the heavy joists of the first floor were snappy off like match sticks, the centre foundation wall pushed out of alignment and the corner column carrying the steel beam that is to support the second story was bent so that it will have to be rebuilt.

The collapse of the wall occurred right in the midst of the hard rain Monday night and may have been caused by it or it might have been due to the fact that the new basement was dug some depth below the footings of the old wall. Whatever the cause it is very fortunately occurred just at a time when no human lives were endangered.

Osceola Boy Candidate for Carnegie Medal.

James W. Carroll, fourteen year old son of William P. Carroll, a P. R. freight conductor of Osceola Mills, is a candidate for a Carnegie medal of honor because of his heroic rescue of a young companion.

Carroll was a member of a band of Boy Scouts camping between Philipsburg and Clearfield. George Lingle, another member of the party, went down into an old well to clean it out. He was overcome by gas and Carroll quickly tied his handkerchief over his nose and mouth and went into the well to rescue young Lingle. He fastened the rope around Lingle's body and other Boy Scouts pulled the two boys out of the well. Carroll collapsed on reaching the top but soon revived. Lingle was rushed to the Clearfield hospital where he was finally brought back to consciousness and his life saved.

Are You Interested in the Bellefonte Hospital.

Every one interested in the future of the Bellefonte hospital is urged to attend the corporation meeting tonight. In order that the people of Centre county, especially those living in Bellefonte might more conveniently attend the annual meeting its place has been changed from the hospital to the arbitration room in the court house and the time will be 8 o'clock.

While only such persons as have contributed to the support of the hospital during the current year are eligible to vote at this meeting its board of management is very desirous that every one should attend and very probably will move to suspend for tonight the constitutional restriction on voting.

It is not the intention to make an appeal for money. It is the wish, however, that enough interested persons will be in attendance to secure a fair impression as to what the public thinks as to the conduct and future support of the institution.

The time is approaching, January 1st next, when a new program of financing will have to be put into practice. As is well known the aid at present received from the State has been cut, effective January 1st, 1924, to $5,000 per year. This will be $4,000 per year less than the hospital is now receiving. As it has been running behind, for the past two years, from $1500 to $2000, it will be apparent that Centre county will have to give at least $6000 more per year towards its support hereafter than it has ever done before.

A very careful survey of the operating costs reveals no means of curtailment in expenses to meet this deficit. The only saving that could be effected by admitting fewer patients would be in food stuffs and that would be inconsequential, since professional supervision, light, heat and other fixed overhead costs would have to go on materially the same.

Certainly there must be unanimity in the thought that we need the hospital and believing that such is the case its Board would like to have the benefit of your counsel and co-operation in solving the problem of its future.

Won't you come to the meeting tonight and lend what assistance you can by way of suggesting a practical plan for the support of the institution. It is a great burden for a few and many hands would make light work of it.

GEO. R. MEEK, President of the Board.

American Legion to Conduct Most Popular Working Girl Contest.

The working girl is coming into her own at last. The Brooks-Doll Post of the American Legion will shortly put on a most popular working girl voting contest, to include Bellefonte and vicinity, the winner to get a free trip, with all expenses paid, to San Francisco at the time of the national convention of the American Legion in October.

The Legion boys expect to have their plans mapped out so that complete details can be given next week. It is understood, however, that the various industrial concerns and business places in Bellefonte will be invited to nominate one of their employees as a candidate in the voting contest. This, however, will not prevent any working girl from entering. A free trip to San Francisco and return will doubtless be very enticing to most any working girl, and the Legion boys will furnish the opportunity.

Similar contests will be conducted all over the State so that there will be plenty of company for the successful contestant. The start for San Francisco will be made October 8th, and the trip last until November 18th, so that the girls will have at least ten days to take in the sights of the Golden State.

While working girls are naturally busy girls, any one who is anxious to take this trip should make her preparations to put on a big fight to prove her popularity.
