Many Marital Trouble Cases Aired in Court Last Friday.

Never before in the history of Centre county has there been so many desertion and non-support cases heard before the county court as there was at a special session held last Friday, and naturally there arose the ques-tion as to the cause thereof. The shortage of houses is one reason assigned by a member of the bar, while another was of the opinion that too many young people get married without the means of going to housekeeping, even if there were houses, and the result is they take up their residence with the parents of one of the contracting parties and it isn't long until dissatisfaction begins and the young people just naturally gravitate apart and desertion is the inevitable result. Then comes an action for desertion and non-support, and in most of the cases the wife is probably as much to blame as the husband, while too much mother-in-law is also an outstanding feature. Following is the list of cases disposed of on Tuesday.

Mrs. Lawrence Marshall asked for support for her two children and was awarded $20 a month.

Mrs. Howard Wells, of State College, asked for better support from her husband but according to her own testimony she has been receiving from $10 to $15 a week in cash while Mr. Wells paid most of the household bills. An action against Mr. Wells for threats was heard at the same time and the court disposed of the case by requiring him to sign a pledge to abstain from drinking for one year and to pay his wife $15 per week, as well as continue to contribute to the support of their home.

Mrs. Leonard Hollabaugh was awarded $30 a month for the support of herself and child and the husband was required to give bond for the payment thereof.

Mrs. Herbert Hollabaugh, of Coleville, expressed a willingness to live with her husband if he would supply a home for her, but refused to go to his home, and he averred that he couldn't live at her home. The court ordered him to pay his wife $10 a week until such time as he is able to provide a home and go to housekeeping.

Thomas Provance, one of the men who escaped from the western penitentiary in June and was captured two weeks ago at Mill Hall, was sentenced to serve out his original term and given from three to six years additional in the western penitentiary.

Mrs. Pearl Garbrick, of Bellefonte, brought action against her husband, J. Russell Garbrick, for desertion and non-support. Her maiden name was Pearl Aikey and she is only sixteen years old, while her husband is twenty. She testified that they were married at Cumberland, Md., on May 14th, and that her husband left her a month ago. The court granted the child-wife $10 a month but suggested a divorce procedure, as neither one was old enough to know what they were doing. John Watkins was brought before the court on the charge of making threats, James L. Leathers being the plaintiff. The defendant was ordered to give bond in the sum of $1,000 to keep the peace and pay the costs in the case.

band, Kermit Boyd Bowers. The erring spose was brought down from the county jail and happily reunited with his wife and blushing and stammering they both stood before the court and stated that they wanted another trial at living together, and the court smiled happily at this ending of a tiresome day and wished them success.
